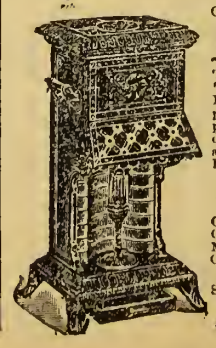
BRAINTREE.



This popular Essex fixture was held in the Corn Exchange, a most suitable building, on Nov. 6th. A capital entry had been received, and the quality generally was splendid, especially so in Crests, the two 1909 classes, and the British and Foreign sections. The special for the best bird in the show was taken by Mr. Broad's very handsome even-marked Crest, whilst the members' challenge cup fell to the same gentleman's variegated Crest in the radius section. The birds were nicely staged, and all their needs attended to by a capital set of stewards. Mr. Hannable, the Hon. Sec., is a most indefatigable worker, and he had everything in good order, and the show worked without a hitch of any kind. The day was fine, and there was a capital attendance of the public, so we hope to hear that the fixture was a financial success. Mr. C. A. House judged.

BRADFORD WEST.

Bradford West C.B.A. annual open show took place in the Whetley Lane Schools, Girlington, Bradford, on November 6th, under the rules of the Yorkshire Union, and the patronages of the Y.C.C., C.M.Y.C.C., O.N.P.C., N.O.M.Y.C.C. and the leading gentry of the district. Mr. W. Mundell was the official judge of the Y.U., and placed all the awards in open Yorkshires and the Yorkshire classes of the Y.U. novice section, Mr. Beswick, of Stockport, assisting by taking all the open Norwich classes, novice Norwich classes, the C.M.Y.C.C. novice classes, selling and stock bird classes. The awards of both gentlemen met with general approval. A liberal classification had been provided, also a good list of specials, and the 30 classes attracted an entry of 500 birds from 173 exhibitors, an average of nearly 17 per class throughout. The management is in good hands, Mr. J. W. Telford, the secretary, being in charge, with Mr. S. Lister as assistant, and Messrs. Mail, Cowgill, Greaves, Crabtree, and Hammond amongst the committee of management. All birds were packed up and away in time to reach home on the Saturday night; this feat at a one day show, with 600 entries, reflects great credit on the management. Messrs. Ogden Bros put down a strong team, and secured special for most points throughout show, also that for most points in Yorkshire section. Messrs. Hartley and Grey were placed 2nd and 3rd respectively, and Messrs. J. Bailey and A. Cooper tied for fourth place. Messrs. Grey and Snowden each put down strong teams in the Norwich section, and secured a fair share of the spoil, being closely followed by Messrs. Waters and Haigh and Son. In Cinnamon marked novice classes Mr. Richmond scored very heavy, securing just half of the prizes, truly a remarkable performance for a recruit to the fancy. Special for most points in Y.U. novice classes was secured by Mr. J. Naylor, who put down some good Norwich, the second and third place to be divided between Messrs. Craven, Greenwood and Dinsdale. As usual, there was a large crowd at the show during the afternoon, the room being taxed to its utmost capacity.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

The Stockton-on-Tees and Dis. C.B.S. held their 5th annual open show in the Temperance Hall, Dovecot Street, on November 6th. The entries totalled to close upon 500, a record for this society. Yorkshires, Norwich and Crests were the chief features of the Canary section, and here a magnificent lot of Yorkshires did duty for their respective owners. The Norwich were good, though not quite so numerous as the Yorkshires. Crests and C. B.'s were not over numerous, but were of good merit. The two classes for Hybrids contained very smart birds, the winning Goldfinch-Bullfinch being a very fine L.I.d, which secured special for best bird in show. The dark Canary Hybrid class was led by a magnificently conditioned yellow Greenfinch-Canary, which was quickly claimed at the catalogue price of two guineas. The British birds were very fine both in quantity and quality. The Softbills especially were magnificent, and the winning Thrush is one of the most stylish and perfect of specimens. The Foreigners also were in splendid trim. The members' open and members' novice classes contained some very good quality exhibits, and many appeared good enough for the open. No doubt, judging by the crowds which streamed in all the afternoon, the success of the show was assured. And success was quite deserved, for besides four money prizes (for a 1/- entry fee), specials in every class, and valuable extra specials over sections and through the show, were given. The management is in capable hands, with Mr. A. Barton, chairman, Mr. E. Freeman, vice chairman; committee:—Messrs. Nicholson (the old-time well-known hon. sec of Gateshead-on-Tyne), Yeates, Ducas, Marwood, Acheson, Angel, Johnson, Ingram, Bean, Elgey, Walker, Grigg, Calpin, Dawson, Saunders, Broadhead, Nelson, Winn, Shepherd, Tait, Summerhill, Peacock, Sowerby, Briscoe, and Coverdale, with Mr. J. W. Lowes as the indefatigable hon. sec and treasurer. We cannot omit to give especial praise to Mrs. Lowes, the wife of the hon. sec., who was by his side assisting him most assiduously. And he looked quite happy in the midst of his hard day's work. Mr. W. Nicholson also takes a great interest in this society. Messrs. H. W. Battye and Chas. Houlton judged, and their awards were on the whole very kindly received.

CITY OF BELFAST O.S.

What is generally known as "The Old Club" held their 41st annual show of young birds in the Lecture Hall, York Street, on November 6th. The number of birds was well up to that of former years, though some members, owing to want of success during the breeding season, were not represented. Better luck next year, we hope. The quality was good, while there were birds of exceptional merit. Mr. Robert Trimble won the cup for best bird in hall, while Mr. J. Mills was runner-up. Mr. John Rock (Belfast), formerly of Govan, acted as judge, and his awards were well received. Mr. Wm. Gilbert (hon. secretary), Mr. James Ronaldson (hon. treasurer), Mr. Robert Trimble (president), assisted by Messrs. J. Neill, R. Tedford, and the committeemen, did all that was possible to make the show a success.

ROCHDALE (Good Intent).

Rochdale Good Intent C.B.S. held their 13th annual exhibition in the Parish Church Schools, Rochdale, on November 6th. The room is close to the station, and is in every way very suitable for a cage bird show. The entries came up grandly, totalling practically 500 in 35 classes, thus averaging nearly 15 per class, and competition was very keen throughout the show. The Lancashire and Lizards both made grand sections, and contained no doubt the cream of these varieties, as they are "at home" in Rochdale. Yorkshires were a wonderful collection, too, and seldom have we seen such numbers or such quality all round at any one show. The Norwich only came up in moderate strength, although in two of the classes there was some very good competition. The selling classes were very strong, and some real bargains were to be found in them. Sandiford's special was won by Mr. J. Lees; Hyde's special by Messrs. Baker and Holdsworth; special for most points throughout show, by Mr. R. Schofield. The president, Mr. T. H. Collinge, the vice-presidents, Messrs. Lord, Adams, Gaskill, Battye, and Brown, the committee, Messrs. Lees, Holt, Faulkner, Leach, Dearden, Lord, Banks, Porter, and Mittall, the treasurer, Mr. E. Hartley, the financial secretary, Mr. S. Holden, and that excellent secretary, Mr. W. Adams, all carried out their respective duties in a very efficient, satisfactory, and obliging manner, and they are to be congratulated on the success they undoubtedly attained. Messrs. R. Barrass and J. H. Roe judged, and their awards were well received.

The Lancashires and Lizards.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

SHEFFIELD.

The Sheffield and Dist. C.B.S. held their annual show on November 5th and 6th. The Temperance Hall, in which the exhibits were staged, has a good light, is of nice size, free from draughts, and centrally situated. The schedule issued deserved far better support than was obtained, viz., 409 entries, in the 36 classes provided. The Yorkshire section was by far the best in the show, many very taking specimens being on view. The clear yellow owned by Mr. C. Stebbings, and the clear buff shown by Mr. J. Richardson, were both very meritorious. Mr. H. Lindsay, the worthy secretary, won well with a very smartly drawn variegated buff. Mr. W. Bingham (joint secretary) stood 1st and 2nd in the Novice Buffs, with a brace of typical specimens. Norwich were not big classes, but contained a few grand ones. The marked yellow staged by Mr. E. Fox was voted a topper, and rightly deserved the Sandiford's colour special. Amongst the Novices, Dr. McMillan and Mr. J. Thorpe took the "plums" with a brace of very bonny exhibits. Crests and C.B.'s contained one or two birds far above the ordinary, Mr. T. Taylor (Gateshead) gaining three 1sts and other mentions, while Mr. G. C. Ley (Nottingham) also had on view some of the right sort, capturing the special for best C. or C.B. Mr. J. W. Crookes (local) staged a magnificent buff, clear body grizzle Crest, 1909 bred, which gained for him special for best young Crest; with luck this bird has a future. Mules and Hybrids made a nice collection, while the British everyone admired. Mr. J. Milne's blue-throated Warbler gained him highest honours in the Softbill class, and Mr. P. Walsh had on view a grand Greenfinch, also a very bonny Bullfinch. The President is Mr. A. Bradshaw; hon. treasurer, Mr. W. Oxley. The committee consists of a band of willing workers. The officials are to be congratulated upon the management, which was of a high-class character. The stewards were Messrs. J. Woolhouse and W. T. Furness. Secretaries, Messrs. Lindsay and Bingham, both capital workers, courteous and obliging, and the right men in the right place. Judges, Messrs. J. Broadley and W. Vardy, whose awards appeared to be well received, on the whole. Ramsden's colour-food specials fell into the hands of Messrs. J. G. Cowley, and C. Stebbings. Other special winners were Messrs. Colton and Dawn, Lawrence, Somerfield, Naylor, Walsh, Milne, Robson, Hodgson, Wharncliffe Aviaries, Bennett, Chadwick, Spencer, and Dean.

MARKINCH.

The 30th annual show of the Markinch O.S. was held in the Masonic Hall on Nov. 6th, in bright weather. The hall is an ideal one for a show, being lofty and well lighted from the roof; and the birds seemed to enjoy their comfortable quarters. The entry all over was better than last year. The Scotch Fancy section was a heavy one. Norwich were also good, although some of the classes were poorly filled. Borders were a nice lot, each winner being of the first water. British came next, and the Mules, Foreign, etc., and all were good. The society is well managed by a host of true fanciers, who left nothing undone to bring the show to a successful finish. Mr. Mitchell, the secretary, had everything well in hand, and we did not in the least see anything at fault. The hall at night was packed by visitors. Judges, Mr. McLennan (Edinburgh), Scotch Fancies; Mr. J. Patterson (Chirnside) all other Canaries; and Mr. A. W. Watson (Leith), British, etc.; and their awards were well received.

DARVEL.

Darvel O.S. held their second annual show on Nov. 6th, in the Town Hall. The cage birds were staged in the small hall upstairs, and this was much appreciated by the cage bird exhibitors; it is a nice hall and well lighted. The day was fine, and this brought out a large number of visitors. It is rather a pity the Darvel fanciers cannot see their way to alter their date, as being so near Kilmarnock Club show it tells on the entries (very few entries came from Kilmarnock). The exhibits were down in numbers from last year, all the Scotch Fancy classes having to be cancelled. Mr. Jas. Johnston (Kilmarnock) placed the cards in the Canary section, and his awards were well received. The British and Foreigners were judged by Mr. J. H. Adams (Glasgow), whose awards met with but little adverse criticism. The secretary is Mr. J. Robertson, junr., who had everything in apple pie order, and is to be congratulated upon his tact and ability.

LEICESTER (Hand-in-Hand)

The tenth annual show of the Leicester and Leicestershire Hand in Hand C.B.S. was held on Nov. 6th and 8th. The venue was again the large room of the White Swan Hotel, a capital place for a bird show, being entirely free from any draughts and well lighted. This year the modern staging was used for the first time, and this was a great improvement, as it gave much more room for the many visitors who thronged the show. The entries in Canaries came up splendidly, but there was a falling off in the British, a cause for surprise, as the committee had engaged the services of a well-known specimist. The quality all round was capital, and, as is usually the case at this fixture, the Norwich Plainheads were very warm in more ways than one, and they made a grand display. We need hardly say the exhibits received the very best of attention from a committee composed of hard-working and thorough fanciers. The genial president, Mr. W. A. Gibbins, was here, there and everywhere, and seemed quite in his element, as were the vice-presidents, Messrs. Hale, Hulse and Needham. Mr. John Allen acted as show manager, and performed his duties in a most admirable manner. The hon. sec., Mr. J. E. Wood, although new to the work, got through his task splendidly, and makes an ideal officer, as, in addition to having a thorough method with his work, he is the embodiment of tact and geniality. The excellent committee comprised Messrs. A. Boulter, A. Freestone, F. Gamble, D. Lea, S. Mothersole, and W. Pole. Mr. J. H. Payne judged Canaries and Mules, and Mr. R. J. Howe British and Foreign.

CANNOT BE WON

YOU CAN WIN

If you have this knowledge, and the best and cheapest way for all Norwich Canary Fanciers to obtain this most valuable information is to purchase at once a copy of "Cage Birds" latest handbook, entitled:

NORWICH CANARIES

How to Breed, Manage and Exhibit.

By C. A. HOUSE.

Price - - 1s. 1d. post free.

This Handbook, complete and comprehensive in every detail, supplies in a concise manner all the information that it is necessary to know to become a successful breeder and exhibitor of Norwich Canaries.

FROM THE EGG TO THE SHOW BENCH.

It explains fully the best methods of pairing up the stock birds; how to feed and treat when the young are hatched; the art of colour feeding, and the best methods of washing and preparing for show. It contains a coloured plate and numerous illustrations of the different varieties, and is a veritable encyclopædia on the Norwich Canary, which no breeder, whether novice or old hand, can afford to be without.

"SALE AND EXCHANGE" ADVERTISEMENTS FOR READERS WHO DISTRIBUTE ONE COPY OF "CAGE BIRDS" GRAND DOUBLE No.

Novel Scheme to Benefit Our Readers and Ourselves.

Everyone at some time or another wants to sell some article for which he has no further use, or to exchange it for something he wants. Amongst the 50,000 other readers of "CAGE BIRDS" there must be some who are ready to buy from, or exchange with you.

To enable our readers to dispose of, purchase, or exchange various articles, we have decided to insert private advertisements free of charge for those who are willing to promote the circulation of "CAGE BIRDS." All you have to do is to get one extra copy of this week's issue, and give it to a friend who you know would be interested, tell him what your opinion of the paper is, and how much he too can benefit by the articles and advice contained in each issue. Send the coupon which appears on this page, from the one extra copy and your own—two coupons in all—together with the advertisement you want inserted. For two coupons sent bearing the same date, we will insert twelve words free of charge. Every additional word will be charged at ½d. per word. Not more than two coupons can be accepted for any single advertisement.

This plan benefits you by finding a market for anything you wish to dispose of, at a cost of only threepence, including postage, and benefits us by bringing "CAGE BIRDS" before new readers. We are helping you in return for your help towards the increase of our circulation.

If you have anything to Sell or Exchange fill in and post this Form, sending two coupons of the same date, for free insertion of twelve words, and stamps to cover additional words (½d. per word).

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

Coupon advertisers must have replies addressed direct to them and not to a box number at this office. Two coupons of the same date pay for twelve words. One halfpenny is charged for each additional word.

Not more than two coupons may be used for any single advertisement. Coupons cannot be accepted for Trade advertisements, the charge for these being 20 words for 1/-. The proprietor reserves the right to decline any advertisement that seems to him undesirable.

ALWAYS USE OUR

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers in all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or, if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—Three Words a Penny up to eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. MINIMUM, 12 words, 4d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Fourpence.

Headlines or Footlines 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6 according to size.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the Advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

THE MEREST NOVICE

can catch birds equally as well as the expert catcher providing he has the proper appliances, but let me tell you that nets which are only 3 feet deep are practically useless, as birds have time to fly out before you can pull nets over. All my clap nets are guaranteed 5½ feet deep, and to fly 4 feet high, this allows 18 inches of "kill," which is most essential part of nets, as all experienced catchers will tell you. This fact alone is sufficient to provo that my nets are by far the best on the market, but as they are the only nets on the market which are properly "geared," or "armed" all round, it naturally follows that for practical use they stand supreme. Clap nets, made from real thread netting, ¾ inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/-, 4 yards 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards, 11/- per pair; all guaranteed full measurement, and to be 5½ feet deep and 4 feet fly. Clap nets consist of 2 nets to the pair, and are fitted complete, with hemp lines, ash pegs, beech poles, and everything ready for immediate use. Hundreds of other sizes in stock. Send stamp for full list. Self-acting spring net traps, 18 inches long, 9d. each; ditto 24 inches long, 18 inches wide, 1/- each. These net traps are by far the largest and most effective traps on the market. Will catch and hold any bird, from Wren to Rook; are entirely different to any others on the market, can be baited for Hard or Softbills at same time, and call-bird can be used inside them, if required. (See testimonials below.) Bat folding Sparrow nets, fitted on 15 feet bamboo poles, 5/6 pair; ditto, on 17 feet poles, 6/- pair; ditto, on 19 feet poles, 6/6 pair, complete. Single trap cages, 6d. each; double ditto, 1/- each; treble ditto, 1/3 each; patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, guaranteed to automatically reset immediately each bird is caught, requiring no attention whatever, 1/6 each; round-topped call cages, 3d. each, 2/6 dozen; ditto, square-topped, 4d. each, 3/- dozen; all wire tops and wood bottoms. Real Japanese bird-lime, ¼ lb. 6d., ½ lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/6; sample, 3d., all post free. This lime is the original Japanese lime, guaranteed the strongest lime made, and will hold any Hawk or Rook that flies. It will leave birds' feathers clean, and will stand any quantity of frost and rain. Real Italian hemp pull-lines, specially spun, without snarl or back twist, 68 yards long, 1/4 each, post free; Russian hemp lines, 80 yards long, 1/- each, post free, but not recommended for hard wear. Loose netting, specially knitted from fine thread, for bird netting, ¾ inch mesh, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard; ditto, 9 feet deep, 4d. yard; ditto, 12 feet deep, 5d. yard. Lark netting, 1½ inch mesh, 10 feet deep, 4d. yard, carriage paid. Full printed lists of all catching appliances and hints on net making, send one stamp. See following letters, which prove my statements for me:—Gillyburn Cottage, Banff, November 13th. Sir,—Received trap cage and net trap safely, and am highly delighted with them both. Please send following. Yours, T. Raffan." "303, Grosvenor Road, Belfast, November 10th. Sir,—Please send clap nets as follows. I had some nets, etc., from you last year which pleased me, and all who saw them. Yours, S. Hill." "17, Grove Street, Norton Malton, November 9th. Sir,—Please send ¾ lb. lime. I have tried all the other dealers, and I fail to find the right lime like I had from Mr. Markham two years ago. I had it set 14 days in frost and snow, and then I caught two Hawfinches with it. He told me to-day that he got that lime from you, so I am sending for some. Yours, M. Burgess." "Windmill Row, Carlton, November 4th. Sir,—I am very pleased with the netting. Please send another 8 yards. Yours, S. Armstrong." "Meal Bank, Kendal, October 26th. Sir,—I duly received net trap, and am delighted with results. It is a marvel, every time I or my boys have set it we have made a capture, and have already caught two birds which we had previously tried to catch by various means many times. Wishing you a large sale for your marvellous spring net traps. Yours, Thos. Crossley." "9, Harbour-rd., Larne Harbour, Ireland, October 29th. Sir,—Have tried clap nets this morning, and they work all right. Yours, J. Harte." "30, Cambridge Street, Doncaster, October 29th. Sir, I am delighted with spring net trap, it is a marvel, cheap at double the price. Thanks for straightforward manner you despatched it. Yours, F. Rimington." Please note, I do not talk of thousands of testimonials and never publish one as proof. I publish more testimonials than all others together. Everything is sent on approval at my risk, on receipt of cash, or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and I ask all intending purchasers to try my appliances against those from elsewhere at higher prices, and keep those that suit the best. All my men are bird catchers as well as net makers, and so know exactly what is required for successful catching. All the leading professional catchers throughout the world are using nets, etc., supplied by me, so if I can suit them, I know I can suit you. HARRY ALLEN.

LONDON, LANCASHIRE AND SCOTLAND.

I sold five quality singing Linnets to two well-known gentlemen in Lancashire for £20 10s. There was also a very large sum of money deposited with the Editor of this paper for one quality singing Linnet, which a London gentleman bought; and also a large sum of money for two time singing Linnets. These two birds ran away with the scores, that were sent to me. My birds have travelled hundreds and thousands of miles, and in all parts of the world; and for over 16 months not one single bird has been returned to me. For proof, the Editor of this paper, which I claim as a sound record. Ladies and gentlemen, I have the following for sale: Three good quality singing Linnets, two good time singing Linnets, that can beat three score in two minutes in any window in England. Please note I am the only dealer in England that can supply this class of bird; write for particulars. Linnets, singing grand, with a beautiful polished contest cage, fit for any room, and my new book of secrets and a packet of my special mixture, 3/-, worth double. Look, fierce singing cock Linnets, with blood-red breasts and extra loud voices, with cage and my book of secrets, right for catching or contest singing, only 2/-; Linnets, taught by the world's champion, will sing anywhere, only 1/6; a few specials, 2/-. These are wonderful value, and in the pink of condition. Goldfinches, Goldfinches; real English Peartree cock Goldfinches, the largest in England, with grand broad heads and beautiful square-cut scarlet blaze, with splendid wing bars and richly tanned on breasts and beautifully buttoned, these prize winners 4/6; other grand Goldfinches, same size, beautiful colour, 3/6; very large Greypates, will make sure winners, 2/6 each; a few large Goldfinches, being used for catching, 2/6 each. I have over 200 of the nicest and largest cock Bullfinches in England, with a beautiful black cap and bib, with double rich colour on breasts, ready at once for the show bench, these prize winners 3/6 each; other grand Bullfinches, 2/6 and 3/-; beautiful hen Bullfinches, 1/6 and 2/-; they are in good condition; beautiful Greenfinches, the nicest I have seen this season, like paint, and in show condition, 1/- each; red-breasted Redpolls, 1/-; cock Chaffinches, 1/-. My A1 special Linnets can beat the world for steadiness, size, colour, and markings; these birds are winning all over. Larks. I have the finest cock Larks in England, singing daylight and gaslight, and as straight as arrows and as steady as rocks, and in show condition, 1/- and 1/6; a few specials, 2/6. The Lark I sold got 2nd prize at Rotherham Show; splendid British show cages, 2/- each; my book of secrets, 9d.; one stone of my best special Linnet mixture, 4/-; quarter of a stone, 1/-. This is the same kind of mixture as the champion Linnet won all his contests on. Deposit your money with the Editor of this paper for honest stuff. All on seven days approval. For proof of the above, read what others say:—"G.W. Railway Station, Brixham.—Dear Sir,—Goldfinch arrived safe, and is a splendid bird. Thanks very much, and shall be sending shortly for Linnet.—Yours truly, J. Lardon to H. Allen." "16, Forest Houses, Blaenclydach, Rhondd, S. Wales.—Dear Sir,—I am very pleased with the Linnet and Finch; they are both doing well. They are as good as ever I got from you. Wishing you every success.—W. Morris to H. Allen." I have thousands of testimonials open for inspection. Please state wants, and write to the old original. Only honest dealing with me; so send at once to the largest British bird dealer in the world.—Harry Allen, Bird Specialist and Judge, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett-st., Leeds.

Siberian Goldfinches,

To arrive, Tuesday, Nov. 23rd, a large consignment of Siberian Goldfinches, prices 5/6, 6/6, and 7/6 each; dealers supplied; stamped envelope for reply.—Smith, German House, Tib-st., Manchester.

LET ME ASK

you this. Are you satisfied with the man you are at present dealing with, is price right, quality everything to be desired, and, above all, do you have birds on approval, with the alternative of getting the whole of your money back if not thoroughly satisfied? If you cannot answer all the above questions satisfactorily to yourself, then you have cause to change your dealer. I ask all dissatisfied persons to just give me one trial. I care not how hard a man is to please, or how small the order, I guarantee to give entire satisfaction, or refund money in full. My terms are these: Everything I sell is sent on approval on receipt of cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, on the distinct understanding that if anything fails to give every satisfaction, it only has to be returned, and back comes the whole of your money. No underhand dodging or quibbling about me, my only terms stated above. I make no idle boasts or false statements when I say that at present time I have more British birds on my premises than all other dealers in Midland Counties together, and have more Worcestershire birds through my hands in one season than all other dealers in United Kingdom. (Copyists please note.) I have grand lot of Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, in perfect health and feather, all netted birds, properly on hard seed at 1/6 each, three 4/-, six 7/-, twelve 12/-; specially selected, large cocks, in full colour, guaranteed in song, 2/- and 2/6 each; few specially selected cocks, very large, fit for keenest competition, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; Hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-, twenty-four 12/-; twenty grand cage-moulted cock Goldfinches, all large, picked birds, and guaranteed full song, day and gaslight, 5/- each; these are finger-tame, and will make ideal mulers. Splendid lot cock Bullfinches, in perfect health and feather, 1/6 and 2/-; each. Specially selected cocks, fit for keenest competition, 2/6 and 3/- each. Splendid lot of hen Bullfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/6, twelve 8/-; few very large, rich-coloured hens for hybridising, 1/6 each; fifty aviary-moulted hen Bullfinches, in perfect trim, all picked, large birds, been flying in aviary with Goldfinches and Canaries since first week in September, 2/6 each; these hens will be worth treble in the spring for breeding. Grand lot cock brown Linnets, in pink of health and condition, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially selected larger cocks, for muling and contest singing, guaranteed now in song, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 3/6, twelve 6/-; few large, well-pencilled cocks, with the nutty-brown chests so hard to get, fit for keenest competition, 2/- each, three 5/-. Cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each.—Cock Siskins, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-; exhibition yellow cocks, with clear-cut caps, full bibs, and correctly laced thighs, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; hen Siskins, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-. Yellowhammers, 1/- pair. Very handsome Cinnamon House Sparrow (male), probably best Cinnamon ever caught, caged one month, and every feather perfect, highest offer accepted. Cock Woodlarks, coming in song, 2/6 each; hens, 9d. each. Splendid talking Amazon Parrot, four years old, talks, whistles, sings, laughs, cries, etc., 50/-; another ditto, but freer talker, 70/-, cages included. Goldfinch, Linnet and Bullfinch cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen; Lark cages, 6d., 8d., 10d. and 1/- each; singing box cages, 1/-, 1/2, 1/4, 1/9 and 2/- each. Dealers please send stamp for wholesale cage list. Please note following letters:—"3, Damers Road, Dorchester, November 15th. Sir,—Thanks for so promptly sending another bird (free of cost) to replace the one which died. That is what I like with your dealings, there is no quibble about such accidents. Yours, H. Batchelor." "466, Knutsford road, Warrington, October 28th. Sir,—Thanks for Siskin, safely to hand. This is first time I have ever had a bird replaced. Yours, S. Nelson." "Golden Cross, Cirencester, November 11th. Sir,—I beg to thank you for the Siskin which you kindly sent to replace the one I lost. It arrived quite safe. Yours, A. Ireland." "Pool Carn Brae, November 1st. Sir,—Bird safely arrived on Saturday. I feel I cannot thank you enough for sending this one free of charge, in place of the one which died. I think it most generous of you. This bird seems in good health. I shall feel it a great pleasure to recommend you at all times. Yours, J. Cudlip." (I have published above letters to show that I really do carry out my advertisements, and I can safely say that the only similar letters ever seen in CAGE BIRDS are these I have myself published. To those who can put two and two together, this fact should speak volumes.—W. Gore.) "Victoria Avenue, Draycott, November 12th. Sir,—Received Goldfinches safe, and am quite satisfied with them, and the prompt manner of dispatch. Yours, E. Statham." "28, Newbridge Street, Old Whittington, November 12th. Sir,—Bird and cage arrived in splendid condition, and I am also pleased with prompt dispatch. I have been dealing with others, but from now all orders are yours, as some of them have not dealt fair with me. Yours, W. Riggott." "Meadowbank Lodge, Dumbarton, November 11th. Sir,—Birds arrived all safe, many thanks for prompt dispatch. Yours, J. Pearson." "21, Pearson Street, Workington, November 11th, Sir.—Received bird, and as very pleased with it. Thanks for prompt dispatch. It arrived in good condition. I like the way you pack them. Yours, S. Butcher." Thousands more letters similar to above, but lack of space prevents me publishing them. Have you ever noticed that nearly all letters mention "prompt dispatch" of orders. This means that I have the birds actually in stock, ready for dispatch, not having to wait until I get purchasers' cash before I myself can purchase them. As several advertisers are copying the wording of my advertisements, I beg to say that I have no connection whatever with any other persons in the trade, and that the only name and address of "money back" man is as under. See Appliances and also Roller Canary columns for undisputed facts which "touch the spot."

IS IT A

Bullfinch, Goldfinch, Siskin, or Linnet you are wanting? I have some of the best seen this season, and respectfully ask you to allow me to submit you my illustrated price list; but, if you want fresh caught rubbish at absurd prices, do not waste your time and mine, by sending to me.

Following merely given as examples: —

West View, Lower Clatford, Hants, November 11th, 1909. Received the Siskins, and am very pleased with them, and thank you for your prompt attention.—H. Dawling to W. Rudd.

Never had so good at the price.

13, High-street, Abingdon-on-Thames. November 14th, 1909. Goldfinch arrived safely, in grand trim. I thank you very much for sending me such a beauty. I am quite sure I have never had one so good at the price before. Although having had a good many Goldfinches from different parts. C. Pearce to W. Rudd.

Nottingham Road, Giltbrook, Notts. November 8th, 1909. Received birds on Saturday. Thanking you for the same. A very nice Finch. J. Smedley to W. Rudd.

W. RUDD, THE BIRD Specialist NORWICH.

Giant Siberian Hen Bullfinches.

These birds are entirely different to those offered by foreign dealers and others, as being Siberian birds. The birds imported by me are privately brought over by a friend, and can only be obtained by me. They are three times the size of any other foreign Bullfinches (and brighter in colour, offered which are Russians or Germans, and are not to be compared with these of mine.

I am receiving large consignments every fortnight. I sent over 600 into Scotland last year, and many of my customers have had splendid results, and are repeating orders.

Compare the Prices.

But what I strongly want you to do is: not only at my prices, but even at higher. Imitation I well know is the essence of flattery; but any simpleton can follow a "trail" or wear another man's hat, but such cannot make themselves that person, nor obscure the imitation from intelligent readers.

Compare the Quality,

Visit what stock you like, then visit me; and you will be like all others—astounded! for "surprise" is not the word.

Now note a few prices:—

are this season better than ever, which is saying a great deal, seeing the large number of prizes these Rollers have won of late years, and the hundreds of testimonials we have received for their excellence of song. Many and varied changes with their long runs, and real musical notes. The price is still the same to all, 15/- each, and they cannot be beat at double the money.

We send them on 14 day's trial at Our Risk.

DEPOSIT YOUR MONEY WITH EDITOR,

and don't buy Rollers on any other terms from anyone, then you can't be imposed on. Real St. Andresberg Schoolmasters are only 10/6 and 12/6 each; Hartz Mountain cock Canaries, in full song, 4/6 and 5/6 each, all on approval. Send for catalogue, post free. We have been patronised by Royalty.

Northern Aviaries, Ormskirk Road, Preston.

IMPORTER OF Hartz Mountain Rollers.

To arrive on November 23rd, a large consignment of Hartz Mountain Rollers, price 5/6, 7/6, and 10/6 each, schoolmasters 12/6 and 15/-; hens, 2/6 a couple. Dealers send for price list; stamped envelope for reply.—Smith, German House, Tib-st., Manchester.

H. HEIDELBURG,

having now just returned from Leipzig, Gohlis, with the finest collection of pure Seifert Roller cocks ever imported into England; all wear German Club rings and are guaranteed thoroughly trained pure hollow rollers, not common choppers, but guaranteed winners of contests in Deutchland, or bred from winners. These birds need no puff, and are in the pink of condition and song, and must be sold in 14 days, as in that time I am returning to Leipzig for the second consignment. Prices, while they last, 7/6 and 8/6 each, or 78/- per dozen; all on seven days approval on receipt of cash, or CAGE BIRDS' deposit system; inspection invited.—Heidleberg, Langley, nr. Birmingham.

£10 FOR YOU

or anyone else that can prove that the testimonials given below are not thoroughly genuine, and entirely unsolicited. These letters prove without shadow of doubt which is really the best singing Roller on the market. I have an enormous stock of pure Leipzig Rollers, direct from Hans Weber, of Leipzig, all in full song, day and gaslight, with long, hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water-bubble runs, soft roulades, piccalo trills, bell, harp, flute and gong notes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or chopping notes whatever, price 6/- and 7/- each. Special Schoolmasters, which are very soft, melodious singers, and excel in the deep bass, and hollow bell rolls, 10/-, and 12/6 each. Leipzig Roller hens, 2/- each, 3/6 couple; also a few genuine Seifert contest masters, fit to win contests immediately, 15/-, 17/6, and 21/- each; pure Seifert hens, 2/6 each, two 4/6; these contest birds are guaranteed of the original Seifert blood (not merely Seifert in name only), and among them are birds which have actually won contests in Germany. I also have an enormous collection of loud, free singing Hartz cocks, all in full, free vigorous song, price 4/6 each, seven for 28/-; Hartz hens, 2/6 couple. These Hartz cocks are real ceiling-lifters, and just the thing where plenty of noisy song is required. Roller box cages, 1/-, 1/2, 1/4, 1/9, and 2/- each; special Roller cabinet cages, with folding doors, 2/6 each. Please notice name and address, with date given with each letter below:—"10, Grayson Street, Bradford, Manchester, November 15th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller on Friday, and am proud of him, he is a splendid songster, with nice, soft rolls, etc. I have paid 20/- for one not half as good as him. Yours, W. Tovy." "11, Wade Avenue, Larklands, Ilkeston, November 9th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig Roller. The one I had from you two years ago is still singing as well as ever. He is one of the best I ever heard or had, and I have had a few from different firms. The Hartz cock I had few weeks ago is turning out a champion. Yours, E. Aldred." On November 12th Mr. Aldred again writes: "Sir, Leipzig Roller to hand. Thanks kindly for prompt attention, and also for selection. He is a grand bird, and sings most beautifully. I shall do my best to recommend you." "52, Skipton Road, Earby, via Colne, November 12th. Sir,—Leipzig Roller is a splendid bird, it commenced singing directly I unpacked it. I have several other birds here which cost much more money, but I wouldn't exchange him for the lot of them. Yours, P. Watson." "106, West Street, Glasgow, November 15th. Sir, Roller arrived in very pink of condition, and gives entire satisfaction in every way. Thanks for prompt attention. Yours, W. Collins." "35, Orford Street, Buttermarket Street, Warrington, November 13th. Sir,—Many thanks for bird. It is a good one. It is singing all day, and as soon as gas is lighted it starts again, and is doing splendid. I also thank you for prompt dispatch and cheapness of bird. It is a beauty at price. Yours, T. Miller." "Globe Hotel, Blaina, Mon., November 12th. Sir,—Roller arrived safe, and started singing as soon as unpacked. Yours, J. Jones." "2, London Road, Tooting Junction, November 11th. Sir,—Roller to hand. It has been singing all day. I am thoroughly satisfied and must compliment you on the clean way you send birds out. Some send them with feet all clogged with excrement. I must admit I have paid more for inferior birds. Yours, A. Sammons." "Broomhill, Honiton, Devon, November 11th. Sir,—I am most pleased with Leipzig Roller cock. He is a real marvel, singing morning till night; I shall be most pleased to recommend anyone wanting a good Roller to you. I must thank you for prompt dispatch. Yours W. Criddeford." "The Station, Fordingbridge, Hants, November 5th. Sir,—Leipzig Roller received safe, and singing beautifully. Many thanks for manner you treated me. Please send following. Yours, P. Bartlett." "44, Loughboro' Park, Brixton, November 8th. Sir,—Have decided to keep bird you kindly sent for trial. I am very pleased with it, and shall certainly order again shortly. Yours, W. Greenwood." "Cwmgarw Road, Brynamman, November 8th. Sir,—Rollers to hand. Thanks for your selection and proper packing. They give me very great satisfaction. I shall send for more shortly. Yours, Johnny Evans." "242, Price Street, Birkenhead, November 6th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller in best of condition. It is a marvellous singer; you cannot get such value round here for 9/-, let alone 6/-. Thanking you very much. Yours, C. Ellis." "53, Scolefield Lane, Wigan, November 4th. Sir,—Many thanks for sending such nice bird. The cock sings nicely. I should think you are the man everyone is looking for who wants a bird good and cheap. It is not the first time I have proved your offers to be genuine. Thanking you for favours past and present. Yours J. Simms." "Bermuda Cottage, Warren Road, Guildford, November 3rd. Sir,—Seven Hartz cocks received safely, and am very pleased with them, they sing lovely. Many thanks for sending such good songsters. Yours, T. Moore." I could fill this page with similar letters to above, and all unsolicited. I only ask all intending purchasers to have a Leipzig Roller from me, and a Roller from elsewhere, at any higher price, test them side by side for a week, and keep one which suits the best. I am the sole importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, and no other dealer can sell you one feather of this strain unless he has purchased it from me. All are stamped on wing "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and are safely and warmly packed, with seed and water to last 48 hours, free of extra charge, and sent on full week's trial, entirely at my own risk during whole time, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money freely and fully refunded if entire satisfaction not given. Remember this, when dealing with me you are dealing with a man that has been a continuous advertiser for past 18 years, with a reputation second to none for straightforward and honest transactions. No connection whatever with any other advertiser. See British Bird and Appliance Columns for further interesting items.

SEE AND HEAR.

You must see the quality and style of my birds and hear the pure, high quality of their song, if you would really know the class of birds it is possible to get at low prices. I have bred, trained, and imported Rollers continually this last sixteen years, and supplied thousands of high-class songsters, and contest winning songsters, yet in all my experience I have never possessed better quality. Their soft, sweet rolls, trills, and water-bubble runs, combined with their hollow rolls and bass hollow rolls, are really marvellous to hear. If you require a high-class songster allow me to send you one or more of these birds, carriage paid to your door, on seven days' approval, at my sole risk. You can then compare the quality of their song, although I offer none but genuine high-class birds. My prices are within the reach of all. My genuine trained St. Andreasberg Rollers defy competition for purity and clearness of song by day and artificial light, free from all harsh or choppy notes. Cocks in full song, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each; hens to match, 2/6, 3/- each. My Hartz cocks are a marvel of cheapness. The real working-man's friend, the best and cheapest, lond, free songsters in the world. Cocks in full song, by day and gaslight, 5/3, 5/9, 6/3 each; matched pairs, 7/6, 8/6. I could fill the whole of this paper with unsolicited testimonials received from delighted customers. The following is a sample taken from the 30 received this week:—" Whitehaven, 1/11/09.—Received bird in first-class condition. It gives every satisfaction. Yours are the best I have ever had." I shall therefore in future send all my orders to you. Again thanking you for such good value.—R. Huggins, to Miss Storey." "Southport, 2/11/09.—Pleased to say Roller you sent me is quite satisfactory.—N. Hackett, to Miss Storey." If you require Roller, Yorkshire, or Norwich Canaries, cocks or hens, allow me to send you them on approval, carriage paid, for I guarantee to give every customer satisfaction. Send stamp for illustrated price-list and testimonials, and don't forget I pay carriage to your door, and send all birds on seven clear days' approval at my sole risk. Best quality birds; lowest possible prices.—Miss E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

Seifert Rollers  Trute Rollers

Read these testimonials, from: "Denham Fishery, November 8th, 1909,—The Yorkshire show bird won 1st and special at Bristol, in a class of 36. Please send another for enclosed amount. G. Alford to L. Dykes."

Another from "Elliott St., Glasgow, November 5th, 1909, —Thanks very much for Yorkshire hen, which arrived in grand condition. I am also pleased to inform you that the two Yorkshire cocks I had from you got 1st and 2nd, both in one class, at Dysart, on Saturday last. Thanking you very much for your kind treatment, prompt attention, and straightforward dealings. Robt. Heggie to L. Dykes."

Still another, from "Church Street, Shildon, November 5, The buff cock, I am pleased to inform you, won 1st and special at Hartlepool in open class. He looks extra now. Will write you again later for some good ones. J. H. Elwell to L. Dykes."

If you want to procure a show bird, or stock birds to breed own winners, or a good songster, then all I ask for is a fair trial. Deposit your money with Editor, and have them sent on approval, and try some from elsewhere, and compare them together. You will then be able to test the various statements made by certain other advertisers, whose advertisements are full of empty bounce, and copied matter.

DO YOU WANT TO BREED FOR SHOW?
DO YOU WANT TO BREED FOR PROFIT?
DO YOU WANT TO BREED AS A HOBBY?
DO YOU WANT A BIRD TO SHOW NOW?

I can supply you, and you can see them, just as the best-known Judges, reporting critics have done, not any mysterious "He's" or their shadows, the substance of which has, I venture to assert, never been seen. I bring to your notice such honourable and important names in the bird World as Messrs. House, Robson, Weston, &c., &c., &c. I also to expose me in the same public manner as I make these statements, if the stock is not all, and even more, than I represent it to be. Wire or write appointment, for that upsets all excuses for being out, &c. You will find no locked doors at any reasonable hour; in fact, I will send for you to be met, to save you trouble. I may say here, that one of Scotland's best-known journalist's, judge, and reporter has been invited to come, as I know he is in England this week. He will also, I know, call if he has time, and these responsible and fearless people are the ones I invite, so as to test the truth, or otherwise, of my statements. If you cannot call, and you want quality, or quantity, and best value, send for full list and have on approval.

Neither is this a mystery:—

"WE HAVE JUST TO SEND TO RUDD."

Trinity, Luncarty, Near Perth, November 8th, 1909.—Hen arrived all safe. I am highly pleased with it. We have just to send to Rudd and everything is right. I must thank you for your promptness with my order.—J. McGregor to W. Rudd.

THIS IS NOT A FAIRY TALE!!!

Any more than other statements made publicly by me, hence I send to Editor for inspection:—

27, Claremont Road, Seaforth, Liverpool, November 12th, 1909.—My son, in Rosario, South America, wishes me to tell you his Canaries you sent are doing splendidly. They had young ones on arrival, and several since. He wants you to send to my address the enclosed list. . . . —Mrs. S. Gomez de Cadiz to W. Rudd.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

A. BOTTOMLEY

Has some grand Yorkshires for exhibition or stock, fanciers requiring good birds at reasonable prices should call and see these, or write stating wants; satisfaction guaranteed, at 65, Wilberforce-st., Laisterdyke, Bradford.

E. FAULKNER

has one of the finest strains in the Fancy, winner at all leading shows, see report Rochdale Good Intent, last week, 1st in a class of 87. Have a few grand stock birds for sale, all my own breeding, cocks from 7/6, hens from 5/-; 4 days' approval.—82, Park-rd., Rochdale.

MY SYSTEM.

I send out all cock Canaries on receipt of 2/6 with order, and balance when singing; matched pairs, deposit 4/-, and balance in easy payments. Could you have anything fairer? Following varieties kept: Yorkshires, Norwich, Crests, Border Fancies, Rollers. Prices, cocks, full song, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6; hens, 2/6, 3/-, 5/6; pairs, 7/6, 9/-.—Broadbent, Decorator, 57, Limes-st., Sheffield, Yorkshire.

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES.

My new season's stock (about 250) high-class Yorkshires in every variety now ready and fit; my 30 years' practical experience in keeping and breeding Yorkshire varieties only enables me to again offer specimens for show or stock, purely bred, up-to-date style and quality, and real sterling value compared with regular professional exhibitors or general dealers in all and every kind of cage birds purchased for re-sale. Not exhibiting. Every bird is for sale, excepting own breeders. All cold-room bred, reared and kept; all approval, three clear days after receipt; cash or deposit; suitably matched unrelated pairs, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- upwards; single birds proportionately; few exhibition specimens, cocks and hens, 20/- upwards; season's price list free on receipt stamp for reply. Old 50 years' address, Jonas Knight, Copy-st., Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire.

J. WILCOCK.

Yorkshires and Norwich Plainheads.—I have some real toppers for sale.—14, Chapel-st., Eccleshill, near Bradford, Yorkshire.

CLEAR, ticked, variegated, foul or Green Yorkshires; cocks from 5/-; hens from 4/6 upwards; some splendid birds in stock; seven days' approval.—6, Ash-mount, Great Horton, Bradford, Yorkshire.

SAMUEL DEAN.

CHAMPION WINNING YORKSHIRES.

As I am not competing for the Yorkshire Challenge Cup this season, I have for sale some real clinkers, none reserved except those required solely for stock. My strain needs no puff, and this is undoubtedly the chance of a lifetime to secure the cream of the Fancy. Properly matched pairs from 15/- per pair upwards; winners in keenest competition at prices according to quality; stamp for particulars.—W. H. Shackleton, Melrose House, Lytton-rd., Girlington, Bradford.

CHAMPION WINNING YORKSHIRES.

Direct from "Mr. Bates, Stoke," strain, which won for him thousands of prizes. I have sold from this strain to Mr. Blackhurst some toppers, and he won 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 1908, Crystal Palace; also 1sts, 2nds, 3rds at Bolton, Morecambe, etc., this season; also Mr. Banks, Cardiff, won 1sts, 2nds, etc., with this strain supplied by me. Some grand youngsters, same strain and models; cocks, Yellows or Buffs, from 6/-, 7s., 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-; hens, Yellows or Buffs, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/-; matched pairs, to breed winners, 12/-, 14/-, 16/-, 18/-, 20/- pair. Any I send on approval and guaranteed to please you, as I don't exhibit these myself. Order at once; breeder 25 years.—Sandiford, Canary Breeder and Judge, Preston, Lancashire.

JUBILEE CRYSTAL PALACE STRAIN

Those requiring the right stuff, write us, or come and select for yourself, as we have undoubtedly the finest stock that was ever in one room, real clinkers, for sale. This year, Crystal Palace, more firsts than any other exhibitor, including championship diploma for best bird; special for most points in show, City of Bradford, Shipley, Laisterdyke, Bradford West. Note.—These are all Yorkshire Union shows, where the keenest competition is; not these small shows away where there is no competition. See this week's issue; birds direct from the above, from 15/- to 60s. per pair, sure to breed winners. All birds sent on approval; deposit with editor.—Dudley Hill, Bradford.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH

2 Birds.
2 Firsts.
2 Specials.

This is what another customer says: "Burnopfield, Co. Durham, November 6th, 1909. Dear Sir,—Just a few lines to let you know that I like the yellow Yorkshire cock all right. I got 1st and special with him at Stanley Show, and also v.h.c. at Blaydon, Newcastle-on-Tyne. I also got 1st and special at Stanley for the Goldfinch you sent me. I also got 3rd with the buff cock I got from you before. You can use this for what you like. Thanking you very much for the way you have dealt with me.—Yours truly, George Pryde."

This is only one. I have many others filed, awaiting your inspection at any time.

The above needs no comment. If you want good birds, the right man to send to is Thomas, who makes a point of personally selecting each bird, and of sending the highest possible quality at very reasonable rates. (Seeswimmings week by week.) Grand exhibition specimens, ready for the bench, now in stock. Write, stating wants. Grand birds, that can win at members' shows, both Yorkshires and Norwich, at 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 17,6, and 20/-. An exceptionally choice selection of Stock Birds, from noted strains, ready for immediate despatch, in Clears, Ticked, Cinnamons, Greens, or Marked, Yorkshire cocks, well on leg and full of quality, 6/-, 7/- 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-. Yorkshire hens, long, leggy, racy birds, in sound health and tight feather, 2/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 15/- each.

If you want to breed your own winners, send for one of my Specially Matched Pairs, at 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- per pair. Every bird guaranteed unrelated and bred from winning stock.

LARGE COBBY NORWICH,

both show and stock birds, in beautiful feather, including some real gems, now ready for sale, at same price as Yorkshires.

Easy payments arranged with bona-fide fanciers, and every bird sent on 7 days' approval at my risk. COME AND SEE the birds for yourself on any day but Sunday, and if you cannot come, send a P.C. for my free illustrated catalogue of ALL VARIETIES.

Birds in stock at present include some champion Yorkshire-Greens; guaranteed bred from birds that have won at leading shows this season, also some smart, stylish Border Fancies, also Lancashires, Lizards, Belgians, Scotch Fancies, Crests and Crested-bred, grand Sib hens for Muling, etc., etc.

SONGSTERS.

Some grand songsters, to please every taste, including Yorkshires, Norwich, Borders, pure Rollers, Goldfinch Mules, etc., etc., at 6/-, 7/-, 8/-, 9/-, 10/- upwards. Try one, and you will be convinced that no man gives better value.

Cages of all descriptions in stock. Yorks. show cages, three for 5/-; Norwich cages, 2/- each; others quoted for. Established over 30 years.

JOE THOMAS, Breeder & Exhibitor, Ambler Thorn, Halifax.

H. CHARLESWORTH. CHAMPION YORKS

Buy from the breeder; I have for disposal some grand birds, cocks or hens, show or stock, see show reports; pairs or singles, at reasonable prices; stamp for particulars; inspection invited; approval, deposit.—Meiley, Honley, Huddersfield.

J. ROBERTSHAW

does not profess to have the best Yorkshires living, but what he contends is, that when he shows, he troubles the best of them, as the following will prove: With 13 entries at 4 shows (Accrington, Dulwich, Clapham, and Rochdale), he won 7 firsts, 5 specials (two for best Yorkshires), one second, two thirds, one fourth, and has now a few to dispose of; hens from 5/-, cocks from 7/6.—27, Ryburn Building, Sowerby Bridge, Yorks.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Important Notice.—If you want long, slim, straight, upstanding Yorkshires, with feather like silk and in the prime of condition, write or call and see the finest and largest stock in London; every cock bird in full song, and on six days' approval. I have them in all colours. Yellow cocks, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/6; buff cocks, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6; Yellow hens, 4/6, 5/-, 5/6, 6/-; buff hens, 4/-, 4/6, 5/-, 5/6.—Note the address, Wm. Shaw, 97, Essex-rd., Islington, London, N. Five doors from Cross-street. All cars stop at Cross-street.

AMBLERS CHAMPION

Yorkshires are again bang at the top. For 30 years we have bred, sold, and exhibited some of the biggest champions that have ever graced the show bench; the most reliable strain in the world for length, type, quality, and that bit of breed so much admired in a Yorkshire; see reports Dulwich, Newcastle, and Gloucester, where we won special for best Yorkshire in show. We offer for sale a few clinkers, just the sort to breed champions, long racy cocks, straight as a rush, grand feather and position; slim, stylish hens, perfect type and feathered like wax; also a few real toppers than can win in any company; approval; satisfaction guaranteed.—Messrs. Amblers, late of Bradford, 138, Westminster-rd., Morecambe.

WHAT HE THOUGHT

What he thought about other people's birds I could not tell you, but he had to openly confess that although he had in his travels at various places seen many large and varied stocks, the stock I possess is of such superior quality that it stands second to none. You see, I do not buy any wasters; all my birds are of the correct type and full of quality, birds that will bear examination, and defy criticism, and the prices are so low. Therefore, you will readily understand why my birds are the cheapest and best value obtainable. Let me send whatever you require, carriage paid to your door, on seven days' approval, at my sole risk. You will then be convinced that it is impossible to get such superior quality at anything like the prices elsewhere. WALTHAMSTOW.

Annual members' show, held in St. James's Parish Hall, on November 4th. This was one of the best shows of cage birds the society has ever held, and the quality was worthy of keen open competition. The arrangements were under the control of Mr. A. J. Marley, who had worked hard to get an entry together, and had succeeded beyond the most sanguine expectations. It was a really fine display, well staged, and well cared for. The president is Mr. J. A. Simon, M.P. Mr. C. Bertal is chairman Mr. A. V. Lane is energetic and courteous in his fulfilment of the duties of hon. secretary. The committee had the advantage of the services of that old and astute secretary, Mr. C. Mead, who did yeoman work. The cage bird stewards are all good fanciers, and looked well after the exhibits. They are Messrs. A. J. Marley, Billingsley, Hellens, Rolph, and Williams. Cup for the best Canary fell to a novice exhibit, Mr. Billingsley winning it with a rattling buff Nor., full of quality and splendid type. Mr. Marley won the British bird cup with a magnificent hen Linnet, shown in the cleverest form; and the Mule cup fell to a very fine lightly ticked yellow Greenfinch-Canary Mule, shown by a novice, Mr. Leighton. British were a grand lot, and in foreign Mr. Puck won with a magnificent Indian Shama, in beautiful feather. The hall was warm and cosy, free from draught, and well lighted. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

Singing Contests.

LEEDS.

Usual contest held at King's Head, Shannon-street, November 13th. Judges, A. Jennings and W. Naylor. 1st, Hardcastle; 2nd, Stead. Also on November 14th; 15 birds sang. 1st, Hardcastle; 2nd, Stead; 3rd, Johnson. Judges, A. Jennings and W. Naylor. —WILSON NAYLOR, Hon. Sec.

A LEEDS CHALLENGE.

Seeing Mr. S. Hardcastle's challenge in last week's CAGE BIRDS—writes Mr. Arthur Kendall (per pro. Mr. Soloman)—I contradict his statements, and have witnesses to prove that he wanted his own time and to pick his own judges, and sing in a private house. I have put £1 down, witnessed by Joe Hargreaves, sec. Newtown Linnet and C.C., and Wilson Naylor, sec. Leeds Linnet F.C., to sing Mr. S. Hardcastle match time, in any window that's recognised, any judges (cage bird judges preferred), loser to pay their expenses. I will even go as far as sending the birds away to sing in any other town, from £5 to £20. I hope these terms suit, and if no match, please close this correspondence.

WIGAN.

Usual contest held on Nov. 14th, when 17 birds sang for three good prizes. 1, E. Wood; 2, J. Sellers; 3, divided between J. Harold and J. Chippindale. Judges, Messrs. J. Smith and W. Hinceson; timekeeper, Mr. J. Robinson.

NEWTOWN (Leeds).

Usual quality Linnet singing contest, held at Plasterers' Arms, Skinner Lane, Nov. 13th. Result: 1, 2, divided between N. Solomian and D. Madden; 3, A. Butler. Judges, S. T. Johnson and Joe Hargreaves. Contest, Nov. 14th, brought a good audience of well-known fanciers, N. Soloman gaining 1st, 2nd and sharing 3rd with T. Summers. Judges, P. Mc[illegible]en and A. Lorriman.—JOE HARGREAVES.

No. 362.

Sent by Mr. W. H. Allkins, 20, Bethune Road, Stoke Newington, London, N.

I trust the enclosed idea will prove useful to fanciers who have outside or inside aviaries. The sketch shows a self-supplying seed-hopper, which is easily and quickly made, and at a very low cost. To make, get a tin about four inches high and three inches wide (I find the small round tins which contain 50 cigarettes answer the purpose well), and a lid of a larger tin, about five inches in diameter. First remove the bottom of the complete tin by holding same over a gas flame, when it will drop out. Then cut three strips off the piece about 1¼ins. long by ¾in. wide, and bend into L shape from the centre, to form "feet." Now solder these "feet" on to the bottom of the tin, allowing the tin, when stood in the inverted large lid, to be ¼in. from the base, as at A. The other ends of L shape pieces should, of course, be soldered to the inverted lid. To fill the hopper simply remove the lid. You will find this very strong, and with careful usage will never wear out; and, of course, the more birds you have to feed the larger you can make the hopper. I have a large cage in my bird room with eight birds in it, and when I want to go away for three or four days and leave them, I find this a great boon.—W. H. ALLKINS.

No. 363.

Sent by Mr. W. Brooksbank, 18, Vermuyden Terrace, Goole, Yorks.

I enclose a sketch of an apple or watercress holder, which I hope will prove a great help to fanciers, who, I think, will find it the cheapest and one of the neatest holders. I have this for my own use. If done as I suggest, anyone who is handy in working a bit of tin can make a dozen for less than the cost of one halfpenny.

A Fruit, etc., Holder.

The largest expense is in purchasing 6½ft. of wire for the dozen. First get some clean empty tins and cut them open and lay them out flat. Then cut a pattern (as shown in sketch No. 1). To do this, cut A 5 inches; then cut B 3 inches, tapering to C (leave C ½ inch square). Now you will have my pattern. Take this and bend it ¼ inch over at the wide end (A); cut a piece of wire 6½ inches long, and fit it in the groove made by the bending; then knock tight down with a hammer to jam the wire in tight. Take care to leave both ends even, so as to make the small hooks like D in sketch 2. Then bend the pattern half way round, as shown in this sketch, and make the said small hooks D. Bend C up, half round to form hook E. This completes a tit-bit rack, which will be about two inches across the top and three inches high. Hook D goes on the cage wires, and hook E clasps the punch bar at the end of perch.—W. BROOKSBANK.

SHEFFIELD.

Opening Linnet contest for the season held at Fitzwilliam Hotel, Milford Street, Carbrook, on Nov. 7th, when 16 birds entered. There was a large attendance, and some good singing was heard. Winners: 1, Wilson, 104; 2, Palfreman, 61; 3, Williamson, 43. Also at same hotel on Nov. 14th, when 11 birds faced the judges. Winners: 1, Cole, 82; 2, Brown, 41; 3, Cole, 37. There will be a contest on Nov. 21, open to all England, first pair up 1 o'clock. —BROWN, Sec.

Notes from Erin.

LIMAVADY held a very successful show on November 10th, there being some 800 entries. This is indeed very creditable, and the workers deserve every praise for their untiring efforts to make their event this season a success. In our section there were about 122 entries in 14 classes. Three of the Yorkshire classes had to be cancelled owing to insufficient support, but this was to be expected seeing that the following day another club in the north was holding its annual show under the rules of the specialists' clubs, with the various cups for competition. It is to be hoped that next year will see Limavady having the patronage of the specialists' clubs, and thereby bring the cream of the Irish Fancy to Derry.

I MET several of the Co. Derry men, and a right good lot of fanciers they are. The secretary, Mr. Wilson (from Limavady), is a fancier of the right brand, determined to push the hobby. The Hall is one of the best, free from draughts, well lighted, and comfortable. I would suggest that next season our Derry friends have their show in CAGE BIRDS' column for show dates fixed, as this is a great aid. It is a pity that the City of Derry men do not organise a society there. Hurry up, Derry, and come to the front!

BANBRIDGE held their annual show on November 11th and 12th. Mr. H. W. Battye judged, and a busy time he had. The entries were well in advance of last year. The secretary, Mr. Hamilton, and his committee, are hard workers, and it is pleasing to see that their labours have been rewarded with a record entry.

THE Challenge Cup for best bird in show was won by a Scotch Fancy, the property of Mr. Neill, of Belfast. His bird is a gem. The British bird cup was won hands down by a Goldfinch, the property of Mr. Barclay; this bird is a picture to look at. The third cup for best Mule or Hybrid bred by a local exhibitor was won by the second prize winner in its class, the property of Mr. Fry, of Banbridge.

DUNDALK held their event this week, and I am pleased to see that this society so far holds the record for number of entries. I am informed that we have two of our esteemed champions back, who exhibited for the first time this season at this fixture, one from Wexford and the other from Carrick.

FRIENDS of Mr. T. F. O'Reilly will be pleased to find him recovered from recent illness, and once again amongst us.

A White Linnet.

SIR,—Re G. Smith's white Linnet. I had a cock Linnet that was bought for 8d., and was brown for four years. He then moulted out white, and remained white at any rate until I sold him. He was eight years old then.

G. WILCOCK.

Goldfinch with a Pure White Head.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. E. Ellis re Goldfinch with white head, I may say I have one now that was caught five weeks ago; it has a pure yellow blaze instead of crimson and pure white wing bars instead of yellow. All other markings are the same as Goldfinches should be. I should like to know if it is of any value.

A Drying Case for which High Claims are Made.

SIR,—I have to thank you on behalf of myself, also Mr. J. E. Reeves (who is leaving us for a time for the other side of the world), for the reproduction of photos, etc., on Nov. 6th of our method of drying birds after being washed for the show bench. I also wish to have it stated that the description was not a trade advertisement, but simply an idea detailed for the Fancy's benefit (which is our principle as true fanciers), after finding it a success with us. Why I mention this is because Mr. Reeves has had letters of enquiries, also orders to make (if price suited), one coming from as far north as Edinburgh, and we have not been able to answer all, as stamps were not enclosed. I wish to thank all fanciers who wrote, and to understand by this that it is not our intention to make for anyone, but for them to follow the dimensions given and make for themselves.

SIR,—Could any of your readers who go in for time singing let me know if 104 marks is a record for a four minutes' sing at this time of the year? A. BROWN.

The Scottish National Derby O.A.

SIR,—Allow me to urge upon the members of the above society to turn out in full force at the first meeting, which takes place at the end of this month. The above society has done much through its energetic secretary, Mr. Thos. Smith, in the past to keep the Scotch Fancy Canary well to the front, and he deserves all the support that can be given him at our forthcoming meeting. He has laboured unremittingly to make the National Derby one of the best shows in Scotland, and every one must know the influence it exerts on the other shows, that are held afterwards, to sustain the interest in our birds of outstanding stylo and position—the Scotch Fancy Canary. Let us rally around him in numbers sufficient at our first meeting to show we appreciate his services to the Fancy, and that we wish him to remain at the helm to guide and direct our best interests.

MEMBER.

Rare Mules and Hybrids.

SIR,—I have been very much interested in the Hybrid breeding hobby for a number of years. Last year I had two of the Redpoll and Bullie cross hatched out, but failed to rear them. Also I had one from the Siberian Goldie Linnet, and also the Goldie fed and reared it. I showed it at the City of Glasgow open show, 1908, and got a ticket for it. It was a very nice cock bird, and only about three months old, and not properly through the moult before it died a fortnight later. So this year I have been successful in rearing three young ones—two cocks and one hen off a Siberian Goldfinch, and a Linnet hen; the Goldie and the Linnet both fed all the time. They are almost through the moult now, and the two cocks are singing well. I don't intend to show them this year. I might give them a run next season if all goes well. I might mention for the benefit of Hybrid breeders, I only boiled one egg this season for nine pairs of Hybrids, and three pairs of Canaries, and this has been the most successful year I have had since I started Hybrid breeding. I feed only on Canary, hemp, rape, lint, and a good supply of teazle, and also niger, but I give lots of wild seeds of all kinds. I can see, however, that it is a big mistake to put up too many pairs for Hybrids, as they need a lot more attention than Canaries. I intend to have about half the number next season, and intend to be even more successful.

D. RANKIN.

The Modern Norwich Plainhead

SIR,—I am really sorry to read the attack of Mr. Worthington on Mr. J. Bertie's Plainheads at Accrington Show. As I stated a few weeks ago, I have been fairly amazed at the different items week after week on these lovely birds. I have bred a good many this season, and at the close of the season I did not feel any desire to colour feed, nor to ever waste time and money at shows, for the simple reason I thought it rather too risky, and that perhaps I might avoid disappointments. On the other hand I do not feel discouraged in any way, but I feel anxious to know when we shall be on the right track with them. I expect to furnish our editor with a photograph (actual) of two of my 1909 birds that I have bred, and if illustrated in our CAGE BIRDS, then perhaps Mr. Worthington and Mr. Watson will kindly give their opinion, which I shall accept with the best feeling, whether it may be good or indifferent. JOHN H. JOWETT.

SIR,—On looking through my CAGE BIRDS of November 13th, I notice a Mr. Worthington, instead of answering my letter of the previous week in a gentlemanly and fancier-like way, starts to criticise my exhibits at Accrington. Now, Mr. W., I consider your conduct anything but fancier-like. I am the same Mr. Bertie, and am not ashamed of my birds. Now, Mr. W., the birds which I exhibited at Accrington were an almost yellow-green, two buff hens, and a yellow hen, four birds in all. The yellow-green took 4th prize, shown to disadvantage, of course, being shown among yellow-ticked, etc. In the same class were Mr. T. Seed's champion also Mr. S. Cook's well-known winner, which, of course, stood in front of mine. If my bird was such an "awful specimen," what about the others behind him? At the time of writing these lines the same bird stands 2nd in a class of eight at our great Nottingham Show. My buff hen hc, Accrington, also stands vhc at same show, in stock pairs, sixteen in class. My yellow hen, not mentioned at Accrington, I have sold to a well-known Lancashire exhibitor of Norwich. The other buff hen not mentioned at Accrington, I'll admit was a bit off in feather at time of exhibition. I might mention that I have a letter in my possession received this week from a well-known Blackburn fancier asking me the price of 4th prize bird at Accrington. Now, Mr. W., I don't think those birds of mine so "awful" as you say, and instead of my not knowing what a Norwich Plainhead is, it is yourself. Mr. W., you are talking through your hat. I have this week received a letter from Mr. W. Burdett, Wingate, Co. Durham, who says: The unflighted yellow I got from you last year has won for me this year 1st prize Middlesbrough, and 1st prize Hartlepool. Two other unflighted birds I sent the same gentleman last year also won 1st and 2nd and special, Stockton. And a great many other winners I have supplied. So, Mr. W., I must again tell you that you are talking through your hat, and that it is yourself who does not yet know a Norwich Plainhead when you see one. J. BERTIE.

Some Questions for Catchers and Net Makers.

SIR,—Your columns are always freely thrown open to the humblest of your readers, and I can say that the articles by Mr. Hawes and others relating to the fascinating hobby of keeping and trapping wild birds have been read and appreciated by a large number of people who never write to your paper, but who nevertheless take it weekly for its practical worth. I have just completed a pair of square-meshed bird nets, but I cannot arm them, that is, I do not know how to knit a border to them with thread or string of a stouter kind than that which has been used in making the net proper. My mesh is three-quarters of an inch. If I take up four of these, would the mesh I should use for the border be a three-inch one? I would be so glad to receive directions on this point from some reader who is a practical netter, as books contain no hint of any value. Full directions for arming would be much appreciated. I was much interested in Mr. Hawes' device (hiding all lines in furrows) to outwit "sharped" Brown Linnets, but what suggestion can he make for catching a flock of Goldfinches that flee at the song of a call bird, and take a "header" in an opposite direction when they see a brace-bird? They refuse to come within gun-shot of the catcher. The sight of a bird in a cage is enough, yet they seem to be feeding tamely enough in the same thistle field day after day. I may add they are bird-lime shy, as well as net shy. I thank you in anticipation, and wish your paper a still wider circulation.

The Edinburgh N. and M.B. Society's Handsome Cup.

SIR,—I have much pleasure in submitting for your approval as to reproduction in your valuable paper a photograph of a handsome cup presented by Councillor W. Bruce Lindsay, of Edinburgh, to be competed for at the annual show of the Edinburgh, Norwich and Mule Breeders' Society (which is held this year on November 20th), and to be awarded to the best young bird in the hall. The cup becomes the property of the exhibitor winning it three times. S. BUGLASS.

The "Wrong Classed" Yorkie at Hucknall Show.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. Sharp, I beg to say the bird was not a good coloured one at all. Mr. Vardy and myself looked at it many times, and he came to the conclusion it was a buff. I called it a mealy yellow. There was no doubt it would have won in the buff class that day. YOUR REPORTER.

How to Make a Noiseless Wire Cutter.

SIR,—I enclose a sketch showing amateur cage-makers how a pair of pliars and a vice when combined and fastened to a table or bench, with an ordinary builder's brick, become an inexpensive wire cropper. Secure tightly in the vice one side of the handle portion of the pliars, leaving the other side to open and shut by hand. The length of wire may be determined by placing a brick at the distance required, as shown in sketch. I use a brick, but anything weighty will do so long as it does not move when once set. In this way wire may be cut quickly and not varying in length one hair's breadth; and to have no noise is alone worth something, at our house at any rate.

E. CHRISTOPHERSON.

What is the Legal Aspect?

SIR,—I would like to know the opinion of your readers on the following case. I started the season 1909 with 15 pairs of birds comprising Belgians, Norwich Plainheads, Cinnamons, Crests; many of them valuable. Now comes in my tale of woe; the landlord set some men to work and they tore out the drains, sinks, water-pipes and partitions, etc., of six houses, this work going on from the middle of April until the 23rd of June, when it partly ceased—to be renewed in the adjoining six houses. Finally the men finished up on the second of September, with the consequence that my whole season has been ruined. The proprietor refuses compensation, saying that he was not aware that I kept birds. His manager (of the property) not only knew of but actually inspected my birdroom and was perfectly well aware that I kept birds for profit. My letters to him during the alterations were ignored. I am inclined to push the matter in court, and would like to know if any brother fancier has been in a like situation, and the result. I contend that I am entitled to be compensated. I estimate my loss at 60 young birds, which is very low for 15 hens compared with past years.

The Welsh C.B.C. Patronage and Swansea Show.

SIR,—May I through the medium of our valuable weekly CAGE BIRDS extend an apology to all exhibitors who competed at our recent show for point specials. Although I beg to tender them my sincerest regrets, nevertheless I appeal to their consideration and fair-mindedness when I claim exemption from any personal blame, at the same time desiring to impress the fact that they have to thank their officials solely for their high-handed action (originating from an act of negligence on their own part) in withdrawing their patronage practically at the last moment. This action in itself is in direct opposition to what should be the primary motto of all cage-bird exhibitors, "The extension and welfare of the Fancy," and when carefully scrutinised amounts simply to misplaced officiousness or self-aggrandisement. I firmly believe that the W.C.B.C. is labouring under the erroneous impression of supposing that the patronage of their society is indispensable towards the success of cage-bird shows in Wales, and that by withdrawing same as was previously mentioned the Swansea Show would be materially affected as regards entries. I consequently beg to enlighten them that our recent show was an undeniable success financially, notwithstanding the absence of what is very lightly esteemed here, i.e., the patronage of the W.C.B.C. The attainment or withdrawal of their support would be a matter of complete indifference to me, were it not for exhibitors who competed for point specials. For the enlightenment of those who are ignorant of the precise facts of the case, I beg to briefly outline the circumstances. I applied in the usual manner for the W.C.B.C.'s patronage for the Swansea Show, which was eventually granted. Copy of rules was forwarded to me, which I inserted in our schedules as requested. After despatching same I received a communication from their secretary enquiring the reason of my non-compliance with their classification in omitting to give classes for Scotch Fancy, Crest, Crest-bred, and Cinnamons. Upon pleading my ignorance that their society required this special classification, I was curtly informed that I "ought to have known." As a result they withdrew their support, although it was granted us three years previously when we had only two classes for Scotch Fancies. That a specialist club should stipulate for 7 or 8 classes, I was fully aware of, but the actual classification is usually left to the discretion and judgment of the favoured society's committee; therefore my great astonishment at their want of judgment in demanding special classes which could only be entered by about two exhibitors in Wales of each variety. Finally, I beg to warn all brother secretaries who obtain the W.C.B.C.'s patronage to regard their classification as a sine qua non to the success of their annual shows, and furthermore suggest that it would be advisable for them to swallow their rules and classification and a few stray encyclopædias, so as to give entire satisfaction. Will the members of the W.C.B.C. note whether their rules and classification are complied with by other societies in Wales? I, personally, do not think so.

A. HITCHINGS, Hon. Sec. Swansea C.B.A.

Alleged Unfair Treatment at Shows.

SIR,—As an old and experienced fancier for many years, and well-known to the Fancy, I am very reluctant in writing to the Press in complaint, but my experience of to-day tells me that the Fancy is not what it was as regards the exhibiting of birds. My complaint is the treatment meted out by show officials cancelling classes and keeping just what suits them. For instance, at Manchester, I made four entries, three in Scotch and one in British; Scotch returned and British kept. Wigan, the week after, same as above, Scotch returned, two British kept. Whitehaven, three Scotch amalgamated in one class, where two classes were given. I dispatched my birds on Thursday, and asked the secretary to send them off early on the Saturday night, but no birds arrived, and I had to go six miles to Warrington on Sunday in search of them. I think the Fancy might be purified if show officials would get birds home instead of fanciers having to roam the country on Sundays, when they should be at a place of worship. I think the Fancy gets a bad name when fanciers have to lug their travelling case about on Sundays. If show officials would pay a little attention to this, I am sure shows would pay better. What is the use of advertising surplus stock when you cannot get classes for your birds? If the officials would try to uplift the Fancy, I am sure there would be more fanciers and better shows.

Proposed New Society for Falkirk and District.

SIR,—A number of bird fanciers in the Falkirk District are desirous of forming a new society, and a meeting will be held in the Oddfellows Hall on Saturday, November 27th, at 7.30 p.m., for the purpose of naming the society and making the rules for same. The following are the committee, who have undertaken to arrange matters: Messrs. M. Baird, J. Binnie, J. Marshall, J. Hunter, F. Jarvie, J. Muir, D. Smart, H. Taylor, J. Johnstone, and J. Penman.

A Creditable Outdoor Aviary Breeding Experience.

SIR,—When removing the nesting logs from my aviaries in September, I found a Yellow Budgerigar with eggs. As this pair had only had one nest previously, I decided to let them remain. The hen hatched five youngsters (three yellow and two green), which have turned out quite strong and perfectly feathered. These late-hatched birds usually turn out very weakly, and often have French moult. This makes about fifty Budgerigars, fifteen Canaries, twelve Cutthroats (which all died), ten Cockatiels, four Greenfinches, and three Zebra Finches—all bred in my outdoor aviaries this year. A good many of my young Budgerigars were taken in hand when quite young and trained to walk all over my hands. I have disposed of most of these pet birds through advertising in CAGE BIRDS.

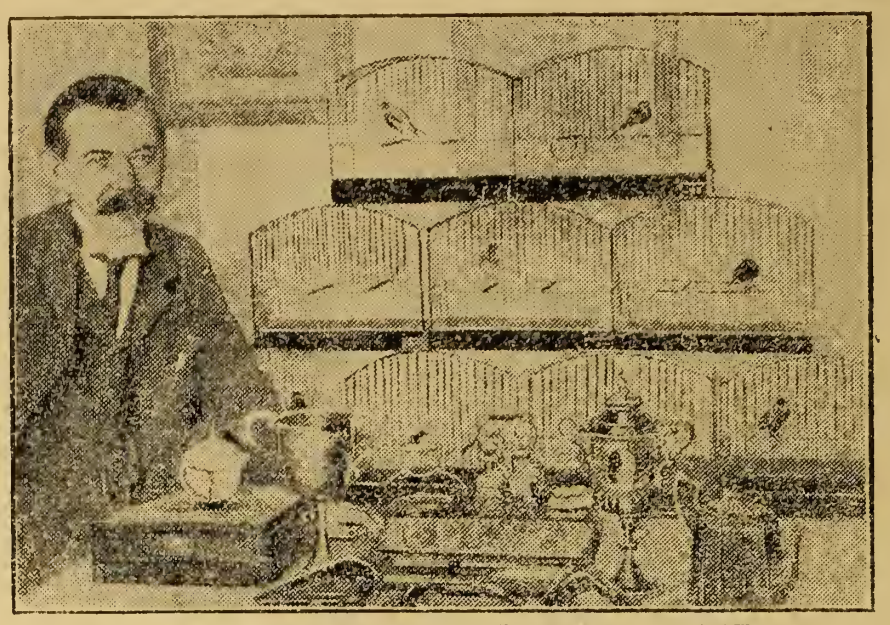
The Late Despatch of Exhibits from Shows.



SIR,—My friend, Mr. Kerr, in his letter of November 13th, was rather sharp, and I am obliged to you, Mr. Editor, for your timely foot-note. I did not refer to the delay at Perth. Had the show I had in view sent off the exhibits by 7.30 a.m. on the Monday, there would not have been the cause there was for complaint. No; that hour was too early, and the committee waited till they wakened up, far on in the afternoon! This question of the late return of exhibits is very serious, and unless a remedy is applied, and that very soon, the shows will find entries going down. The executive in question have not explained how the birds were not put into the railway companies' possession earlier than 4 p.m. on the Monday after the show. Give exhibitors fair treatment, and they will support shows, but they will not submit to dispatch at 4 p.m. on Monday from a show which closes on the Saturday.

A WILD BIRD LOVER.

The C.B.U. and the Bristol F.A. Show.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. G. T. H. Maggs' letter in your last issue, I am sorry he still persists that the Bristol F.A. was licensed to be held under C.B.U. rules. I would like to point out to Mr. Maggs that, although their subscription was paid and accepted probably early in the year, that does not entitle the B.F.A. to fix their show on any date they like and to clash with other shows in the same district. I don't quite understand what Mr. Maggs means when he says that "the only objection against us under the new rule giving first choice of dates to purely cage-bird societies was withdrawn some time ago;" who does he mean has withdrawn it? I would point out to him that one of the chief objects of the formation of the C.B.U. was to stop the clashing of show dates in the same district, and, as I stated in my previous letter, Gloucester having held the same date for four seasons, should have preference over the B.F.A. However, if Mr. Maggs still persists that they were licensed to hold their show under C.B.U. rules (which I have it on good authority they were not), perhaps the C.B.U. secretary will enlighten us on the subject. In the meantime, perhaps Mr. Maggs will explain why the asterisk was not in front of the Bristol F.A. fixture in "C.B.'s" guide to the shows, also why it was taken away from the front of their fixture in the guaranteed column the week their entries finally closed, the asterisk being to distinguish those shows that were affiliated from those that were not. Also, in his last advertisement the Friday before the show, he omitted to advertise the words, "affiliated to the C.B.U." although previous to that he had advertised that they were affiliated. And last, but not least, why was the Bristol F.A. Show not included in the C.B.U. advertised list of shows, where it distinctly states members are warned that they are prohibited from exhibiting at any show "not appearing in this list which is published monthly or at any show which has not the Union show rules appearing in schedule"? Perhaps Mr. Maggs will inform us if the rules were in their schedule? The latter part of Mr. Maggs' letter is really too ridiculous, being right away from the point at issue, although I must thank him for the complimentary manner he writes of my good taste. I may say the B.F.A. have not a superabundance of it, or they would not have taken Gloucester's date without even advising them of their intentions. One would have thought that out of common courtesy they would have done this. What, Mr. Maggs, do you call this? Good taste? I am sorry Mr. Maggs has seen fit to misconstrue my remarks (that their show was a mixed one, poultry, etc.), as an appeal to prejudice. I merely mentioned this so that readers could see that the C.B.U. rule, that purely cage birds societies should have first choice, was not strictly carried out. This, I take it, is an argument to suit his own ends? I may say that Mr. Maggs condemns himself when he says I was an exhibitor at the 1906 and 1907 shows. Should I, if I were prejudiced against his show, exhibit at the same? By the way, Mr. Maggs, why do you omit that I was an exhibitor in 1908? Was it because you had not the courtesy to send me a schedule for your 1909 show, or, in fact, any of the Gloucester cage bird fanciers? I always understood that the previous year exhibitors always had a schedule sent them. Surely you had some good reason for this? Now, what was it? Also when and where in my letter did I say I had not received my prize money? Neither have I expressed any doubt as to the Bristol fanciers being a generous lot of fellows? This, I take it, must be another of Mr. Maggs' cheap advertisements, but not as a fanciers' association, but it seems as a charitable institution who merely meet their liabilities. I may say the Gloucester C.B.S. will have to be just as charitable this year. Speaking for myself, I have never received or expected anything more than was due to me from the Bristol F.A. In conclusion, I would respectfully ask Mr. Maggs to confine his remarks to the point at issue.

My Singing Skylark.

An Inexpensive Food.

SIR,—Several letters have appeared of late concerning the Skylark, and I was surprised at the expensive food advised—all right for the millionaire, but I write for the benefit of my fellow humble labourers, if you will give my letter place in your valuable paper. My Lark is seven years old and sings every day and every night, and if I come down stairs in the middle of the night with a lighted candle, I can hear him singing away. The only food I use is pea meal, oat meal, dripping, and the maggots from old fat as live food. Oatmeal is the most insectivorous food obtainable; get a magnifying glass and see for yourselves. I give my Lark a bath every week, and occasionally a dew-bath for an hour or two on summer evenings. He is a fine, big, strong, robust, and healthy bird, and as fat as a landlord, thanks to the dripping. He has never yet tasted ants' eggs, mealworms, dried flies, etc. My lark-cage is an ingenious one designed and made by myself.

Lost, Stolen, or Strayed?

Two Birds Missing.

SIR,—On October 28th I sent two Norwich Plainheads to Hucknall Torkard Show, and have not heard or seen anything of them up to the time of writing. One was a clear buff (Class 6, No. 257), the other a heavy variegated buff (Class 11, No. 258). If any fanciers have got the two birds by mistake, will they kindly let me know.

The Breeding of Even-marked Mules.

Some Interesting Views.

SIR,—A few notes on the breeding of even-marked Mules, by one who has given it great study, may be of some interest to those whose objects lie in that direction. In the first place many a good Mule has been bred by chance, and will be again. Chance has a great deal to do with many successes. I once received a piece of advice, which was subject up of hybridising, not only in birds, but in the vegetable line and flowers, I shall never forget one piece of advice, which was, "never try to improve upon Nature; follow her and let her be your guide. Nature will sport in many ways which will appear to you unaccountable." These words I have found true in every detail, no matter what subjects I have taken up to try experiments with. My great ambition when I first took up with birds was to get clear Mules, and then to get the even-marked or four-pointed bird; one not heavily marked, but graceful and beautiful. Before I started I got the opinions of many old fanciers, who, I must confess, generally differed from others; and by that way I gained much knowledge, or rather theory I should call it. The majority of my counsellors said that all light and evenly-marked Mules were bred by chance, and that nothing in the way of breeding would alter that. I could not swallow that statement, but I have found out since that chance plays a very important part in all trials of hybridising, and will also exert itself in a state of Nature when least expected. After working out many suggestions and theories, I wrote to the late Mr. Blakston, stating my theories and views on Mule breeding, and asking his opinion. My own theory of producing light and even-marked Mules was that by continually in-breeding the Canaries, it could be done. His reply was, that there was much in my suggestion, and he advised me to carry them out; but I should get a pair of Canaries from some well known even-marked strain to start with. He said that some of his even-marked strain had produced some really grand four-pointed birds, but they were only unevenly marked; one had nearly even marks on the wings and one eye, another even eyes and one wing. I had these two, which were a pair, and were related to each other. They were what we should call at the present day poor Norwich, and not large at that. He stated that the blood was well set, and gave me instructions how to improve the size and colour, which advice was very beneficial to me in later years. I then set to work to establish a breed of Sib. hens from this pair. It took me some years to get a good four-pointed bird. When the opportunity occurred in either sex of improving my strain each year, I did so. I wanted to get some good four-pointed Norwich, but they were very small, more like the Borders of to-day. I had the blood, so I expected I could improve the size in time by judicially crossing. I was then strongly advised by some to use the largest Crestbred birds, to get the size more quickly. I did not approve of that suggestion, however, so did not carry it out. I was quite sure the crest or frill might come in where I did not want it. I did increase the size after some years, however, by using the largest and strongest Norwich I could get; and I was well rewarded in the end by having a good strain of even-marked birds, which it had taken me some years to get. Had my pocket been larger, they might have been got much quicker. I thought, however, I would work it out myself, and study the results to see if any good could result from in-breeding. I have since found from my trials that everything does depend on in-breeding, if judicially managed. These things I found out some 20 years ago, long before we had any papers to guide and help us, and when everything had to be found out, when secrets were most jealously guarded, dearly bought, and most eagerly sought after. My in-breeding experience was got from a poor shoemaker fancier, who could not improve his stock because he was not able to get about and procure better birds, and I believe his were the only birds in the village at that time, and no town was within miles. Here I got many a good hen, which I worked up into my strain, by generally exchanging with him and giving him my surplus birds. He told me his own view of "close breeding," as he called it—he used relations together of the strongest and largest birds. At first I felt afraid of so doing until he referred to the wild birds. In his garden a pair of Robins nested every year, and the birds generally ended in a battle—a fight, that is, to a finish, between the old cock and a young one, the latter winning. Many a time he asked me whether this young bird mated with its mother. At that time, I could not say, but I am now fully convinced such was the case. He also gave me his views, which I was most thankful for at that time concerning the pear tree Goldfinch, which, he said, was the one of all Goldfinches that was certain to breed a clear Mule. The Cheverel and Peathroat were not known at that time by either of us. I believed this theory for years, until I found that it was a mere fallacy, for any Goldfinch will do the same thing if he is in rank and breeding condition. Every Goldfinch will not breed I am well aware. Many a dozen birds have I used, only to be disappointed. The largest and finest birds have served me the worst, and from the smallest specimens I have had the best results. Another tip this old fancier gave me, which I have in later years thought out, was that to get the lightest Mule, one should use the weakest Goldfinch of the nest, and not the strongest. Now there was something in this, and well worth working up, especially so when one has good strain of Sib. hens by years of in-breeding. The weaker the Goldfinch the better chance one has of getting a light or even-marked Mule; but the chances are that it will be a small one. So the largest hens must be always used for this purpose, and that is where chance comes in—yellow ones for preference to get the colour in the Mules. I much prefer a yellow Mule to a buff, but I am quite thankful for a good one of either colour. Many a good four-pointed Mule have I got in this way. All might have been larger, to suit the present day judges, but I was thankful then for small mercies. I am quite aware all who are going in for Mule breeding cannot always get a nest of Goldfinches, either to cage themselves or to hand-rear, and so have not the chance of picking out the weakest; but those who do have the chance might give it a fair trial. I should certainly like to hear how all the best four-pointed Mules have been bred, for there have been some good ones about during the past ten years; although I think that the even-marked birds are not now bred so much as in days gone by. I know there are plenty of good even-marked Borders about, and have been for years. These are bred for, and still, I am pleased to see, much admired. And why should not classes be given yearly at the Crystal Palace for even-marked birds of all varieties, i.e., Norwich, Yorkshires and Borders? Then we should get a view of a good bird, for I am a great admirer of a fine four-pointed bird of either variety, particularly so a Mule. I once had a Canary which lived for 16 years, and many a hen Mule have I had which fed and brought up Canaries, also laid, sat and hatched, and would go on just as well as any Canary. Light Mule breeding is always best done in cages under close observation, as many a thing will often go wrong, and can be detected and put right without much trouble, if the birds are close at hand; besides giving the trier much to interest him.

How I Bred and Showed My Winning Yorkshires.

By T. C. CRAWHALL.

Told to the writer by a one-time successful exhibitor, now a prominent judge of the Yorkshire Canary.

The county of the broadacres has many successful breeders of the Yorkshire Canary who have become prominent through their successes on the show-bench, but none whose name commands more respect or whose judgment is more relied upon than a gentleman whom I will name Mr. Long Straightun. It was my pleasure recently to meet this gentleman and have a few hours in his company, and a most interesting and instructive time it proved. For the benefit of my readers I will attempt to write down the principal items of our conversation.

"It is some years, now, Mr. Straightun," I said, "since you showed Yorkshires?" "Yes," he answered, "it will soon be a dozen years since I had my last flutter on the bench, and that was at the Crystal Palace, when I brought home three firsts and special for best Yorkie. It was enough for me, and as my judging appointments were increasing year by year, I felt it my duty to retire as an exhibitor, and now I confine myself to breeding a few birds. I cannot get away from my old love; if I hadn't my birds I think I should soon be in my grave. Perhaps you would like to look at them?"

So we went upstairs to one of the neatest and cleanest bird-rooms it has been my lot to see, and saw one of the finest stocks of Yorkshires it is possible to find in any part of the country.

"You seem to be a great believer in cleanliness and order, Mr. Straightun?" I remarked. "I am," he said; "to that and to attending to details I attribute the greater part of my success in rearing so many youngsters each season. Another thing is the size of my cages; they are quite roomy, so that the birds can exercise themselves. I allow plenty of head room, for I don't want to see my Yorkshires stooping over their perches like Norwich Canaries, or dropping their heads like Belgians or Scotch Fancies. I think Yorkshires do not like to feel they have the top of their cage too near their heads.

The Uses of Duplicates.

"I have duplicates of everything in the way of seed vessels and water pots," he continued, "so that I can take them away and give them a good washing in hot water and get them thoroughly cleaned. The old saying, 'Cleanliness is next to godliness,' holds good as much in the bird-room as anywhere. Let me point out to you a small labour-saving contrivance which I have found very useful, and which I found out by accident a few years ago. I had an old cage which had got a piece knocked off the bottom at the back about half-an-inch deep. I noticed when cleaning my cages that this one was always clean and required very little attention. So when I had these new cages made, I had a strip of ½in. left off the bottom of each; it acts as a self-cleaner. My cages rest upon a locker, and once or twice a week I only need to lift the front of the locker and brush away the dirt which the birds themselves have caused to fall, and about once a month I take a metal scraper and go over the cage bottoms so as to remove any dirt which has caked on.

"Your birds seem in excellent health Mr. Long Straightun," I said. "Yes," he replied, "I have very few ailing birds. You see the place is well ventilated. I have placed up there an outlet for foul air, which goes into the chimney: then whenever the weather is at all favourable I have the window open from the bottom; the wire netting prevents a bird from escaping if it should get out of its cage. And as the room is over the kitchen, it never gets too cold, and is always quite dry."

"I am always very careful in the matter of food," continued the speaker. "My birds are fed on a very plain diet. I give them the very best Canary seed I can procure, and twice a week a teaspoonful per bird of a mixture of the following seeds:—Rape two parts, and inga, maw, linseed and hemp, one part of each. They enjoy this mixture, and it gives them a nice change from the Canary seed. Twice a week on the days I do not give the mixed seeds I supply a piece of sweet apple between the cage wires. As spring advances, in place of the apple I give watercress, lettuce or dandelion, and about the beginning of March I give them half a teaspoonful of egg-food once a week, so as to have them ready for the breeding season at the beginning of April."

"Perhaps, Mr. Straightun," I ventured, "you will tell me a few of the secrets which have brought you so much success; as, for instance, stock versus show birds for breeding purposes, and your methods of steadying, training and exhibiting your show specimens?"

He replied, "Well, as to secrets, I really have none. I have always conveyed my methods to anyone who asked for them, and they are briefly these:—In pairing I always try to have size on the side of the male bird; it is so much easier to breed little ones than big ones, and as size is always looked upon with a certain amount of favour, I like to have one or both of the birds up to or even over the standard length; when I can, I always have the cock an ⅛th or ¼ inch above standard. The hen I like to be as perfect as possible in shape and position, and especially in quality and closeness of feather. In these respects you will find the young to a large degree will follow their mother. If the cock is inclined to frill at breast, as most large birds do, see that your hen is entirely free from frill. If you bear these points in your mind, and know anything of the breeding of your stock, you ought to tell almost what your young will be like, at least, the greater part of them, although occasionally you will have some youngsters take after their remote ancestors. I only breed from show birds when both birds are up to standard length; otherwise I should loose size."

"If you are fortunate to breed one or two really good birds," he continued, "devote your whole attention to them; get them steady before the moult; and run them into the show cage a little every day to keep them steady whilst they are moulting. Birds soon regain the nervousness which is natural to them, and they require constant handling to keep them steady. I've seen many really good birds spoiled by nervousness when I have been judging, and have had to put inferior specimens above them because they had not that steadiness which is necessary if a good bird is to show his good points."

An Opinion on a Vexed Question.

"Have you ever tried double-bulling or double-yellowing?" I asked. "Yes, I have once or twice done both, but it was done for a purpose. I do not believe in doing things for the mere sake of doing them. I found once that I was getting my birds a bit short on leg, so I looked through my stock and found two yellows which I thought I might safely put together; they were well feathered and good in every respect except that they did not show quite enough thigh. I bred some excellent birds from them, one of which won me a number of firsts. I did not push the double-yellowing any further; I had gained what I wanted. I paired the best of their progeny up to buff in the usual way. This improved my stock as regards leg properties. Then when the bulk of my birds were running a bit thin in neck, I put two extra tight feathered buffs up, but I chose two birds which had not too much meal on their feathers; in fact, they were almost yellows. This filled up the neck, and it is only for these reasons that I would either double-yellow or double-buff."

"Then have you ever used Lancashire or Belgian blood to improve your strain?" I queried. "Yes," he replied, "I have used both. I procured a yellow Lancashire cock bred from two yellows, and paired him with two of my Yorkshire hens, and I got a buff Belgian hen—one which was a bit thick in neck and not too long in neck, and also had closely packed feather—and paired her with a yell. Yorkshire cock. The produce of these I paired together and their young I introduced into my strain of Yorkshires, and so got increased length from the Lancashire, and nerve and position from the Belgian. Of course, I was particular to reject the coarser, rough feathered young, and to use only the best feathered birds to crossing into my strain."

"Well, Mr. Straightun," I said, "you have given me a lot of valuable information, for which I am most grateful; but there is one thing more I should like to ask you, and that is, what is your method of feeding the young after they are hatched?"

Ideas on Feeding the Young.

"Well," he replied, "I attach a lot of importance to my method. When the young birds are hatched the yolk of the egg is embedded in the stomach of the young bird, and serves as nourishment to it for the first 24 hours of its life, so that if they are strong when hatched they will take no harm even if you do not give extra food. The saliva with which the hen feeds them is really all that is necessary. But usually, as soon as I know a hen has hatched, I give a very small quantity of the yolk of egg (without any of the white) mixed with a very small quantity of powdered biscuit, slightly moistened. I do not give more than a quarter of a teaspoonful at a time for the first day, and half a teaspoonful at a time the second and third days. I find that if I give more the hen eats it all and the young cannot take much of it back from her, so that her system gets clogged up and she becomes lazy and neglects her brood or sweats them to death. I also give in a separate pot a few grains of hemp seed and a little rape.

"After the third day," he continued, "I give the white of eggs, as well as the yolk, mixed with biscuit or bread crumbs in the proportion of two of egg to one of biscuit; also at this time I give a little watercress or dandelion in the bars of the cage. All the foods I give sparingly at first, and increase as I find the young require more. Thus each season I have been able to rear five, six and seven per pair.

"When the young leave the parents," he added, "they are supplied with egg-food and crushed hemp seed for the first week, the same strength as I have been giving to the parents. Then I gradually weaken the egg-food, and drop the hemp also gradually. Young birds cannot do well with a sharp change from soft to hard food; you must do it by degrees. When they are on hard seed I have very little difficulty, but if I see one sitting puffy I put him in a cage by himself with a little milk sop—no seed—and put a little fluid magnesia or Epsom salts, and a few drops tincture of gentian in his drinking water. Such usually come alright under this treatment; then I gradually get them on to hard seed again."

A Final Poser.

"As a final question, may I ask what your opinion is regarding the standard length adopted by the specialist clubs? Ought it to be left as at present, or do you think it advisable to leave it open for the judge's decision as to what the length of an exhibition bird should be?"

"There now!" he said, "you have put me a poser. Just now there is a movement amongst exhibitors to obtain more length in their stock, but if you consider that 6¾ins. (the present standard length) means a fairly large bird, it would perhaps hardly be advisable to alter it at the present time. Birds are so different in their characteristics that a hard and fast line cannot be drawn. Some, according to their build and position, are just right at 6¾ins.; others require perhaps ¼th of an inch more to make them perfect; whilst another can be almost a perfect specimen if ⅛th or even ¼ inch less than the standard length. Very few, if any, of the present-day winning Yorkshires exceed 6¾ins., and very few of the birds bred above that size are good enough in all their properties to make a really first-class exhibition specimen; most of them fail either in feather or position."

"I am more than obliged to you for all your kindness to me," I concluded. "There is a lot more I would like to have asked you, but I hope I may have the pleasure of a chat with you at another time, then we can discuss these things again." So saying, I left this renowned fancier and judge, and his parting advice was, "patience and attention to detail, whether in breeding or showing, are the royal road to success."

Rare Insectivorous Birds of Norfolk.

By W. LOWNE.

A Lecture delivered before the members and friends of the London and Provincial O.S.

From comparatively early days Norfolk has been known pre-eminently for its richness in ornithology, and at the present time it fully keeps up its character. The East Coast of England and Norfolk in particular witnesses every autumn the arrival of many of the rare Warblers which are generally met with along the coast from Yarmouth to Cley and Blakeney, the grounds being suitable for them for shelter and the finding of food. About the middle of September each year these birds are reported as being on migration, and their stay with us is of but short duration.

In speaking of rare birds which have been met with in Norfolk, many of them for the first time, and also before they were obtained in any other county, it may occur to you that some I am about to name have no right to be included in the British list, but all I have enumerated here are well authenticated by experienced ornithologists. Where there is no proof of any birds having escaped from confinement, and reached our shores at their own free will, they are considered worthy of a place on our British list.

Where Migrants May Always be Seen.

If any ornithologist possessed of keen sight would go to sea in one of our Yarmouth fishing boats, or obtain the "Trinity Board's" permission for a week's sojourn on a floating lightship, such as the "Outer Dowsing,' or the "Leman and Ower" (these are the names of the lightships lying to the north of Yarmouth)—October would be a suitable time—he could not fail to identify a number of species in transit, especially if the wind was from the west—a wind in which the migrants are nearly always to be seen at Cromer arriving from the East.

A few weeks ago I was speaking to one of the men stationed on one of these lightships, and he assured me they picked up no less than 800 Skylarks on deck one morning, besides many others which did not alight in safety, and were therefore drowned.

A good specimen ought to be met with out of that number, and undoubtedly a rare bird too at times. Many of the birds are picked up dead and injured through coming in contact with the ship's lantern, but a good number of them find their way into the stew pan to make up a meal for the crew.

In the year 1903 Mr. W. Eagle Clarke made an experiment on a floating lightship which, although not on the Norfolk coast, is well worth calling attention to. Mr. Clarke remained on the Kentish Knock lightship off the Essex coast from September 19th till October 18th, and it is instructive to compare his observations with those made during the same period by observers on the coast of Norfolk. Mr. Clarke considered that the day migrants equalled those observed during the night, but in Norfolk they are far inferior, except in the case of the Corvidæ, which are day migrants. But Mr. Clarke's statement shows how much there is still to be learnt.

The Wind an Important Factor.

This observer is of opinion that immense numbers of birds are killed by coming into contact with light vessels which show a white light, and many of the migrants avoid the force of the wind by flying close to the surface of the sea. It really does seem that the direction of the wind is one important key to the right understanding of bird migration on the East Coast of England.

It is stated that many birds leave Norway and Denmark with a favourable wind, only to be overtaken en route by a wind more unfavourable as they approach our coast. To understand their movements one wants to know the wind on both sides of the North Sea.

The Keeping of Insectivorous Birds.

The keeping of delicate insectivorous birds has become quite a favourite hobby of fanciers in recent years, and much of this, no doubt, is due to the encouragement given to fanciers by the British Bird clubs that have been formed in recent years. I do not pretend to teach the members of this society anything as to the keeping and exhibiting of these delicate birds, as many of you are masters of the art but I may, perhaps, bring to your notice some interesting notes of the rarest of our birds which we do not meet with every day.

Keen interest is taken by some fanciers in procuring for exhibition on the show bench examples that are rare or unique in their way. Each season is looked forward to for something rare, but as most of the acknowledged British birds have appeared on the show bench from time to time, we must be content with a repetition of these, hoping to find them in the best possible condition. Although some exhibitors more fortunate than their fellows successfully exhibit the same birds for several seasons in succession, these birds look none the worse for their continued confinement.

Sources of Information.

I will now describe the various kinds I have enumerated, of which there are 44 species. In some cases but little can be said of them, they being so very rare to this country, and as they have appeared on but few occasions, not much is known of their habits. My own notes date back from the year 1879, since which time I have kept a record of rare birds taken in the county that have come to my knowledge. I have also records by many well-known Norfolk ornithologists, such as Mr. J. H. Gurney, Mr. T. Southwell, the late Mr. Stevenson, and many others whose records date back to a much earlier period.

Two Very Rare Visitors.

WHITE'S THRUSH: This is known also as the Ground Thrush, and is the rarest of our Thrush family. It is a handsome bird. The species is rather bigger than the Missel Thrush. It is an accidental straggler to our shores, and only one instance of its appearance in Norfolk has occurred, and this bird was taken at Hickling in October, 1871, and was in the possession of the Rev. Micklewaite, in whose collection, which was disposed of a few years ago, I saw it. The price realised was, I believe, fifteen pounds.

THE ROSE-COLOURED PASTOR: This beautiful species, as will be seen, has occurred in Norfolk on several occasions. It generally visits us in the autumn, the birds appearing singly, and in various stages of plumage conditon. But occasionally a straggler has been met with in the summer. An adult male was taken at Wymondham in August, 1853, and in the following year another was obtained at Sheringham. In September, 1856, one was taken at Yarmouth, and in October of the same year an adult male was shot at Hunstanton. Most of these specimens found their way into local collections of stuffed birds.

The American Starlings.

THE RED-WINGED STARLING: This has occurred once in Norfolk (on June 2nd, 1843, at Barton). Previous to that date there was no record of this American Starling having been met with in England. The bird in question is figured in Yarrell's British Birds, and was lent by the owner for that purpose. I have no note of any more of this species being seen since that date.

THE AMERICAN MEADOW STARLING: The first of this handsome species known to have been killed in the British Isles was one taken on the borders of Norfolk and Suffolk in 1854. Previous to the report of its capture some strange-looking birds were seen on a grass lawn at South Walsham by Major Jary, who afterwards heard of a pair being in the possession of the Rev. Frere, of Burston, near Diss.

The specimens were forwarded to Mr. Sclater for identification, who described the American Meadow Starling as a well-known bird in the United States of America and Canada, where it commonly goes by the name of the Meadow Lark. At the same time he stated that there were no specimens then or just previous in the aviaries of the Zoological Society of London. Being convinced, therefore, that the specimens were obtained in England, they might be regarded as a fresh addition to the already numerous list of "accidental visitors." Major Jary, who, though not a scientific ornithologist, had a very good knowledge of British birds, thought at first sight they were specimens of the Golden Oriole, which they resemble in colour. After a subsequent examination, however, of the Rev. Frere's specimens, the Major repeated his conviction concerning the birds observed by him.

I attended the sale of the Rev. Frere's collection of birds some 14 years ago, and on the invitation of the auctioneer for an offer for these rare specimens, the Major made the only bid of fifteen guineas, much to the astonishment of many present.

THE NUTCRACKER: This is another very rare visitor to this country, and is considered an accidental visitor. The first one obtained in Norfolk was at Rollesby, in October, 1844. The second is reported as being taken at Yarmouth, in October, 1853. Others were recorded about the same time as being taken in the adjoining county. The last example was shot in a garden at Gorleston, in October, 1864, and is now in the collection at Burgh House, near Great Yarmouth.

The Handsome but Persecuted Bullfinch.

By SOLOMON KENNEDY.

As there is no recreation more elevating than the study of Nature—especially that section of it which contains the most beautiful of God's creatures, the feathered songsters of the air—I feel that to that refined brotherhood of the human family, who are born with a love for the observation and companionship of these beautiful creatures, I need scarcely apologise for this humble attempt to plead the cause of that handsome, though much-persecuted bird, the Bullfinch.

Strong but Gentle.

The velvety black cap of this beautiful bird, his bright crimson cheeks and breast, his delicate blue grey back and snow-white rump spot, his glossy black wings and tail, all combine to make him a good specimen of British birds, not gaudy, but delicately handsome. Indeed, he is a handsome fellow in every sense of the word. Even if his colours were only of the plainest, the grand symmetry of his figure would still catch the eye; the strong, neat beak, head, neck and chest, show him to be built on fighting lines. Yet, compared with many of the strong-beaked finches, when taken in the hand he is a "perfect gentleman." I have caught and handled scores of Bullies, male and female, but I never remember one attempting to bite; which is more than I can say for any other Finch. The hen is generally as large as the cock, but plainer in colour, the crimson cheeks and breast being replaced by a dark purplish brown.

Bullfinches, unless where persecuted, are not naturally shy, and are easily caught; a call-bird and a trap-cage, or a few lime twigs, are sure to get them. I have even caught them with a long rod and a horse-hair snare on the top, or sometimes a little birdlime instead; so tame, in fact, have the birds been, that imitating their call note in a low tone, I have got very close, sliding the rod nearer inch by inch, and then gently turning the hair loop over the unwary bird's head, or suddenly shooting the limed point on to its wing with a twist against the grain, so as to take a firm grip of the feathers.

The Bullies' Home.

The birds are very prolific in their nesting and breeding—two or three times a year. The first nest may be found early in May. They generally select a nice, thick hedge or bush, a bunch of honeysuckle, or some such suitable place, about from four to seven feet off the ground. The nest is easily known, it being woven of little twigs lined with fine fibres and a few horse hairs. Often it looks so like part of a robbed nest that seen at a distance it is passed without further notice.

The eggs are mostly five or six in number, and are of a pale blue in colour, spotted with black; they hatch in thirteen or fourteen days, and the young are ready to fly in from sixteen to eighteen days. Up to the time of moulting they resemble their mother, with the exception that they have not the black cap.

Rearing from the Nest.

They are easily reared, easily tamed, and make the most affectionate of pets. But it is a great mistake to take them from the nest before they are well feathered. I have always reared the healthiest and strongest birds when they have been taken quite ready to fly, and have, besides, saved a great deal of time and trouble, as with a few days' carefnl feeding and attention they start to peck for themselves, and are not only tame but stronger and better than if they had been taken a week earlier. To rear such a nest, boil one large fresh country egg (for ten minutes), cut it in two (take only the yolk), beat it up fine with a fork in a tea cup, take four of Huntley and Palmer's Osborne biscuits (other varieties are too pasty), crush or grind them fine in a little coffee mill, and beat up this and the egg powder well together. Keep dry and then break pieces of loaf bread into a small saucepan, and add enough equal parts of milk and water, with a little sugar; boil for few minutes and squash the bread fine. A little of this mixed to the proper thickness with the egg and biscuit, makes a food on which any variety of bird will thrive. Taste it and you will think so too. Do not give it too sweet or too sloppy, and feed every two hours, never giving large mouthfuls, but rather small and often. This will keep the birds cleaner and healthy. Get a large goose or turkey quill and dress the point like a round, blunt-pointed pen; this is the best feeder; but a pen nib turned wrong side out, or even a flat pointed stick, will do.

Never over-feed or gorge your birds, for this is the Bullie's weak point. Crush or crack a few hemp, Canary and summer rape seeds, and put them in a little flat dish where the birds will see them, when they begin to peck. By this treatment you will have larger, hardier and much superior birds for showing, or for Mule or Hybrid breeding, to any that have been taken half fledged. A hen that I reared on these lines, built, laid and sat her full time on three nests of eggs. But all were, unfortunately, empty.

A Talented and Affectionate Pet.

The cock Bullie, though a most talented and affectionate pet, is rarely of any use in confinement as a breeder. Of two cocks taken from a nest near Redhill, one moulted out a magnificent bird in size, colour and shape; but my food was too good and too plenty—he gorged himself and died in a fit. The other then began to show his points, and my shoulder was his favourite resting spot when out for a fly. I taught him to whistle a tune—"tho sweet bye-and-bye"—and he learned it well; the tone, the time and the style were perfect.

I could scarcely keep this bird, so many offers came from friends and others who were delighted with his melody and his interesting and affectionate disposition. I got him a mate, a nice hand-reared hen, and gave them a room to themselves; but it was useless. As soon as I came into the room he would leave his mate to fly to my shoulder, and swinging himself in delight from side to side, would whistle the "sweet bye-and-bye" tune, and at the end of the last line would add an accompaniment, a variety of grunts and squeaks, resembling an ungreased wheelbarrow, with a couple of "chick-chicks" as a finish. He never bred, but two years after he fairly surprised me one day by pronouncing the word "What" with great emphasis, just as I had often said it to him. Needless to say, I encouraged this novel addition to his accomplishments, till it was as common as his other performances. But once more excessive kindness and good food upset him, and after one or two fits he never regained his usual health.

Now notice, the teaching of this bird did not begin till after the moult, and was neither long nor regular. I whistled the first three notes over several times, then the first line, as soon as he began to follow. I whistled the first line several times over; then the first and second, until he went through it all. This was only a few minutes' work two or three time a week, and I had no dark cage or other complications. Very often the bird was sitting on my finger close up to my face, though to teach several at once, I would have each in a small, separate cage, side by side, at least, during the lesson, so as to get their whole attention.

Bird Medicines:

.. Their Value and Proper Uses Explained. ..

By R. SMALLEY, M.P.S.

A Contribution which will be welcomed by all Bird-keepers.

A Disinfectant and Preservative.

Permangynate of potash dissolved in water forms a most useful disinfectant, which has the great advantage of being free from disagreeable smell. When made of such a strength that the colour resembles that of port wine, it is suitable for rinsing cages, loose sand trays, etc., after scrubbing, and as a general disinfectant.

A little of this solution added to the drinking water in just sufficient quantity to very slightly tint the same, acts as a valuable preservative. It is free from danger and does not appear to be objectionable to birds. Water so treated keeps sweet longer than ordinary tap water. The wrinkle may be of use to those fanciers who have occasion to leave birds unattended for two or three days, especially during hot weather. What is known as solution of permanganate of potash is a very cheap disinfectant, similar in appearance and properties to Condy's Fluid.

Epsom salts is a safe and effective purgative. It is more particularly useful for reducing excessive fatness. At least two ounces should be dissolved in a pint of the water used for drinking purposes. A weaker solution is considered to be of little use by some eminent medical authorities.

Glaubers (otherwise sulphate of soda) is a valuable purgative, somewhat milder than the last-named article, over which it is claimed to have several advantages. It may be used in larger or smaller doses, as may be desired. Being free from bitter taste, it is more readily taken by birds. It also stimulates the liver, on which organ Epsom salts is considered to have little or no effect. About two ounces to a pint of drinking water may be used as a rule.

Solution of coal tar is an antiseptic and a stimulant which has been highly recommended of late for asthma. Three drops mixed with two ounces of water are stated to give satisfactory results. It is known to chemists as solution of coal tar B.P.

Spirit of camphor is a solution of camphor in rectified spirit. It has been recommended in cases of persistent diarrhœa—one or two drops on a piece of lump sugar, which is then placed between the wires of the cage for the bird to peck at.

Bone-forming Phosphates.

Syrup of phosphates, compound: contains the phosphates of iron, lime, potash, and soda. It is an excellent tonic and contains the necessary material for enriching the blood and forming bone. For young stock in particular whether children, birds, or puppies, it thoroughly merits the popularity which it enjoys. The preparation is the outcome of a formula which was originally published by Mr. Edward Parrish, of Philadelphia, hence the name Parrish's chemical food. It is now manufactured on a large scale, but the formula has been modified somewhat, and the syrup as now sold is considered to be an improvement on the original. When required for birds, one teaspoonful mixed with two ounces of water should be given two or three times a week for one day each time.

Syrup of squills is made from the squill root, which, like the raw material used in the manufacture of many other botanical medicines, is obtained from Southern Europe. It possesses expectorant and duiretic properties, and the syrup is often employed in the treatment of lung troubles. Combined with ipecacuanha wine, it forms an excellent mixture for bronchitis. A preparation closely resembling the above is oxymel of squills, in the manufacture of which honey is used in place of the syrup. One teaspoonful of oxymel or syrup is to be mixed with two ounces of water.

Tincture of Aconite.

Tincture of Aconite is prepared from the root of monkshood, a garden plant by no means uncommon. This drug is a sedative and diaphoretic. It has a pronounced action on the heart. On account of its being a powerful poison, the salo is governed by legal restriction. As might be expected, the dose for birds is very small. Four to ten drops of the B.P. strength is the quantity recommended to be mixed with two ounces of water, and in such doses tincture of aconite is a most useful medicine for colds. Its potency demands that extreme caution should be exercised in keeping it out of the way of children.

In purchasing tincture of aconite it is recommended that B.P. strength be asked for, in order to avoid confusion. There are many different strengths, and to produce the desired effect with the more dilute tinctures, doses would need to be employed which, if used for the stronger tinctures, would be likely to produce dangerous, if not fatal, consequences. Another advantage in getting drugs of B.P. strength is that the article must comply with the standard demanded by the British Pharmacopœia, and consequently the article will be practically of the same strength and character in whatever part of the country the purchase is made.

More Useful Tinctures.

Tincture of catechu, being an astringent, is useful in treating cases of diarrhœa. Half a teaspoonful added to two ounces of water, is the strength to employ. Another method of using catechu is to brew half an ounce of the crushed gum catechu and a little cinnamon with a pint of boiling water for half an hour or longer. The liquid thus obtained is to be used in place of drinking water.

Tincture of gentian properties are similar to those described under infusion of gentian. It may be used in the same way as the concentrated infusion.

Tincture of lobelia (85 B.P.), an expectorant and anti-spasmodic, and therefore suitable for such affections as asthma and bronchitis. Ten drops with half a teaspoonful of glycerine in two ounces of water will be found a suitable method of administering. The present official tincture (98 B.P.) is a stronger preparation, and is made with spirit of ether, the sickly odour of which is repulsive to birds. For feathered patients, therefore, the older preparation is preferable to the more modern.

A Capital Medicine for Diarrhœa.

Tincture of opium, otherwise laudanum (an anodyne and hypnotic), is made from opium which is the dried juice of the poppy, and is obtained largely from India. Another poisonous drug in the use of which caution needs to be exercised. It is mainly employed for subduing pain, and in the treatment of persistent diarrhœa, for which it is a capital medicine when combined with catechu. Ten drops of laudanum and thirty of tincture of catechu may be given in two ounces of water.

Antimonial wine (emetic and expectorant) is prepared from tartarated antimony and sherry wine. It is a powerful drug and is poisonous. In doses of ten to fifteen drops in two ounces of water it has been recommended for bronchitis and also for inflammation of the lungs.

Ipecacuanha wine is a familiar remedy for coughs and colds. It is an ingredient of Mr. North's well-known mixture, which consists of equal parts of glycerino oxymel of squills and ipecacuanha wine. Undoubtedly it is one of the safest and best medicines for the above purposes. The wine is prepared from sherry and an extract made from the root of a plant, which grows in Brazil. Thirty drops of the wine or a teaspoonful of the above mixture should be given in two ounces of water.

ORNITHOLOGICAL ODDMENTS.

By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S.

Author of "The World's Birds."

Beauty in Brief.

Indian birds are coming to the front again just now, and I have of late seen in the hands of the trade several old Calcutta acquaintances. One of the best that can be got, either from the point of view of the exhibitor or the aviculturist pure and simple, who keeps birds simply for pleasure alone, is the Indian Pitta (Pitta brachyura), though, unfortunately, this pretty creature comes into the market but seldom. About the size of our Redwing, it has much the appearance of a rather long-legged Thrush, but its good looks are rather marred by its elegant and upstanding figure terminating in a little stumpy tail, that would disgrace a duck. Its colours, however, make ample amends, consisting chiefly of green and buff, but varied in places with black, white, drab, rose-red and turquoise-blue; in fact, its native name is "Nowrung," which means "nine colours."

A Simple Subject.

The Pitta resembles a Thrush in habits as well as in form; it is an insect-feeder, and spends most of its time on the ground, where it hops very quickly as well as gracefully, its movements being much like those of our Wheatear, which it resembles in shape even more than it does a Thrush. In captivity it is more important that its cage should be long than high, and two perches, placed on the same level, are sufficient. It is in an aviary, however, that this quaintly pretty bird may be seen to the best advantage; it can hold its own well with other birds, and displays its handsome plumage by the most amusing gestures, now drawing itself up bolt upright, now crouching down, while it often expands its wings. As a rule these birds are hand-reared, and so are very tame; they should be fed as one would feed such a bird as a Wheatear or a Wagtail, like food being of course given whenever this is convenient. They are rather coarse feeders, as one I had ate a small lizard when given to it. The older writers had a notion that these birds were allied to our Dipper or water-ouzel, presumably on account of the shape, and hence one sometimes sees them pictured in waterside surroundings as if they were partly aquatic in their habits; but this is not the case, for they are woodland birds, and have no special liking for water. I should not care to put more than a pair together, as these birds are naturally solitary; unfortunately, I can give no guide to the identification of the sexes, which are similar in plumage, and even the young differ but little from adults.

The Pitta.

An Unfamiliar Sugar Bird.

I was asked the other day as to the name and probable value of a small West Indian sugar-bird, which an aviculturist out there had an opportunity of procuring. It was described as smaller than a Violet Tanager, but similarly coloured, only with a grey throat and conspicuous white eyebrows, and a thin beak like the Blue Sugar-bird (Dacnis cayena). This would be one of the genus Orthiola, or Quits, a little group of Sugar-birds confined to the West Indies and the countries adjacent. They are all much alike, and so far as I know, only a single specimen of one species has ever reached England alive, and this was exhibited at the Zoological Gardens some years ago.

The Hen Shama.

When importations of Indian birds come in, it is always worth while to secure a hen Shama whenever possible, as these birds are not common, and are worth over here twice as much as the cocks. In India but little value is set on them—or used to be in my time—and this is why they are scarce, not being sought after in their own country. As all I came across were very tame, it seemed obvious that they were simply hand-reared birds, which had turned out, when moulted, to be of the female sex, "brancher" Shamas of both sexes being alike, and having a buff spotted plumage like the young of our Robin. The adult hen Shama is very different from the cock, being drab where he is glossy blue-black, with the chestnut colour of the abdomen far less rich and the tail shorter. The sexes do not agree except in the breeding season. The pair they have at the Zoo fought at first, even in their large aviary, and are now separated.

A Library For Bird-Lovers.

Brief particulars of some of "Cage Birds" SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS for keepers of birds, with post free prices.

THE HYGIENE OF BIRD-KEEPING, 1/1.—By W. Geo. Creswell, M.D. Thoroughly treats of modern hygiene (the science of health) in bird-keeping.

SEPTIC FEVER OR CANARY PLAGUE, 7d.—By R. H. Clarke, M.D. The only booklet published concerning this dread disease, which Dr. Clarke has given very special study.

THE NORWICH PLAINHEAD CANARY, 1½d.—By J. H. Payne. Pronounced by all experts to be a most valuable pamphlet concerning the breeding of the variety; written by one of our leading judges.

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

MEATING-OFF AND FEEDING SOFTBILLS, 6½d.—By John Frostick. No fancier of Insectivorous Birds who wishes to succeed in his hobby can afford to be without a copy. It also contains notes on Bird Trapping, Cages, etc.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2.—By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. P. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockateels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. This eminent authority gives very full details upon how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

PET RABBITS, CAVIES, AND MICE, 1/1½.—By George Gardner. Full information on housing, feeding, breeding, exhibiting, and keeping for profit. A complete practical guide, with illustrations from photographs.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds. Replete with useful hints.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL, 2/3 (cloth bound).—By H. Norman; or may be had in two parts. Part 1: "Hardbills," and Part 2: "Softbills." Either Part, price 1/1, post free. Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds; full of extremely valuable hints.

COLOUR FEEDING OF CANARIES AND OTHER BIRDS, 3½d.—By J. W. Ramsden. Tells you how to mix the colour-food, and how to moult the birds to get the richest possible colour.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages, and many invaluable "Hints for Emergencies."

AVIARIES, BIRD-ROOMS, AND CAGES, 2/3 (cloth gilt).—By H. Norman. Contains ten lovely full-page photographic plates. A practical guide which deals thoroughly with the proper Building, Fitting, and Management of Aviaries and Bird-rooms, and the making of Cages.

YORKSHIRE CANARIES, 1/1½.—By H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union). Absolutely the very best Handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instructions upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, and successful Exhibiting, also how to treat in both health and disease.

NORWICH CANARIES, 1/1.—By C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder, and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book many times over.

BIRDS OF THE COUNTRYSIDE, 5/4.—By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. A handbook to the wild life of all our familiar British birds; their appearance and habits accurately described. With 12 beautiful coloured plates, and 113 photographic illustrations. A charming gift book.

PETS, AND HOW TO KEEP THEM, 5/4.—By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. Gives the correct method of housing, feeding, and managing every kind of pet; all sorts of animals are dealt with—monkeys, dogs, cats, lizards, tortoises, also gold and other fancy fish, while there is a large section devoted to birds. Contains many coloured plates and illustrations from photographs. Another charming gift book.

The Autobiography of a Parrot.

By DAVID LEISTER.

I am not a Parrot, strictly speaking, being a Rose-breasted Cockatoo; but I am, nevertheless, a member of the scansori tribe. Anyway, I have most, if not all, of the attributes of the Parrot, being quite as mischievous—I delight in upsetting my fresh filled water-tin, and scattering the seeds all about—and I love to destroy anything that is destroyable; I can talk and imitate beautifully, and, last but not least, I can scream quite as ear-splittingly as the best Parrot going, and that's the chief thing, isn't it?

I don't remember much about my very early youth, but I was about five months old when I was captured in my beautiful forest home and bundled with a lot of others like myself into a dark box, in which a few air-holes had been drilled. We could just manage to see the food and dirty water which were thrust in for us once or twice a day by a big grimy hand. The next thing I remember was feeling awfully queer and unsteady about the feet, and, strangely enough, all the other birds seemed to become affected in the same way, and we kept rolling from one side to the other of the box, though there was not much room to roll about, there being such a crowd of us. The water used to get upset almost as soon as it was put in, so that the floor of the box used to get soaked, and our feet were continually wet, while half of us—especially the least strong—hardly got a drop to drink.

It was all very uncomfortable and, whenever I could, I used to get on to the back of one of the weakliest and sit there and dry my feet amongst its feathers. If it resisted being sat upon, I pulled its crest and made its life such a misery to it that it finally gave in quietly. However, the stupid thing languished and drooped and finally died, and I had to pass the remainder of the time upon the floor, for all the others were too nasty to let me sit on their backs. The dead bird was not discovered by the grimy hand until it had been there four days, and by that time the smell had caused two or three more of us to sicken and die, and our number was reduced to twelve, and we were certainly less crowded. Then came a day when we were able to stand quite steadily on our feet, and after a while the box was picked up and carried from the ship. I found out that it was a ship by applying my intelligent eye to one of the breathing holes—and then the box was put down and the door opened. I, being foremost, was roughly seized by another grimy hand—I knew it was not the same hand that had fed us en voyage by the feel of it—and I was brought out into the dim light of a live-stock shop. I blinked and lay quietly in the man's hand, while he examined me, pulling out my wings, feeling my body and feet, and turning me over.

"Seems a likely 'un," he muttered at last. And with that he thrust me into a badly cleaned Canary cage, in which, after breaking all my beautiful tail feathers, I could just turn round. It was awfully cramped, but still it was light, and I could see about me.

I thought I had come to a very queer place, as I gazed round the dirty shop and contrasted it with the pure beauty and freedom of my far-away native land. There were several Cockatoos of my own species, with rosy breasts, only most of them looked as if they had been in the wars, so draggled were they and melancholy; and there were others, much larger, of the Lemon-crested variety, big, stupid creatures, not a patch on us, though people say they can imitate better than we can, which is all stuff and rubbish.

There were a few pairs of those foolish Love-birds, who were perpetually billing and cooing. They irritated me, for I have no patience with that sort of thing; and next door to me was a fairly large cage containing three or four monkeys, one of which I am sure I recognised as having once tried to stealthily murder me by shying a cocoanut at me in my native forest, but one never can tell, these plebeian creatures are so much alike. Still, the little wretch winked very knowingly.

There were several dogs of various breeds, all more or less half-starved and in poor condition, and penned up in boxes or kennels much too small for them. One was a fox-terrier with a puppy.

The dealer used to let this puppy out sometimes to crawl about the shop for exercise, but he never let the poor mother out, and she used to get nearly frantic at not being able to reach her puppy. Oh, the cruelty and the misery of some of these live-stock shops, which the world wots not of, nor cares to investigate! Personally, I had nothing much to complain of in the way of treatment, and I had not been there very long before I was sold, changing hands for a few shillings.

In a long narrow box my new master took me home, when I was introduced to a large, brand-new Parrot cage, and was immediately surrounded by a crowd of admiring faces.

"Isn't he a beauty?" said one, a lad with a bright, good-looking face. "But isn't his plumage dirty and draggled?" said his sister, a conceited, fastidious little ass. "Oh, that's because he's only just come over from abroad with a lot of others," answered the boy wisely; "and you can't expect him to be spick-and-span all at once. Hasn't he got an intelligent eye, Dad?" Dad admitted that I had. I should think so, indeed.

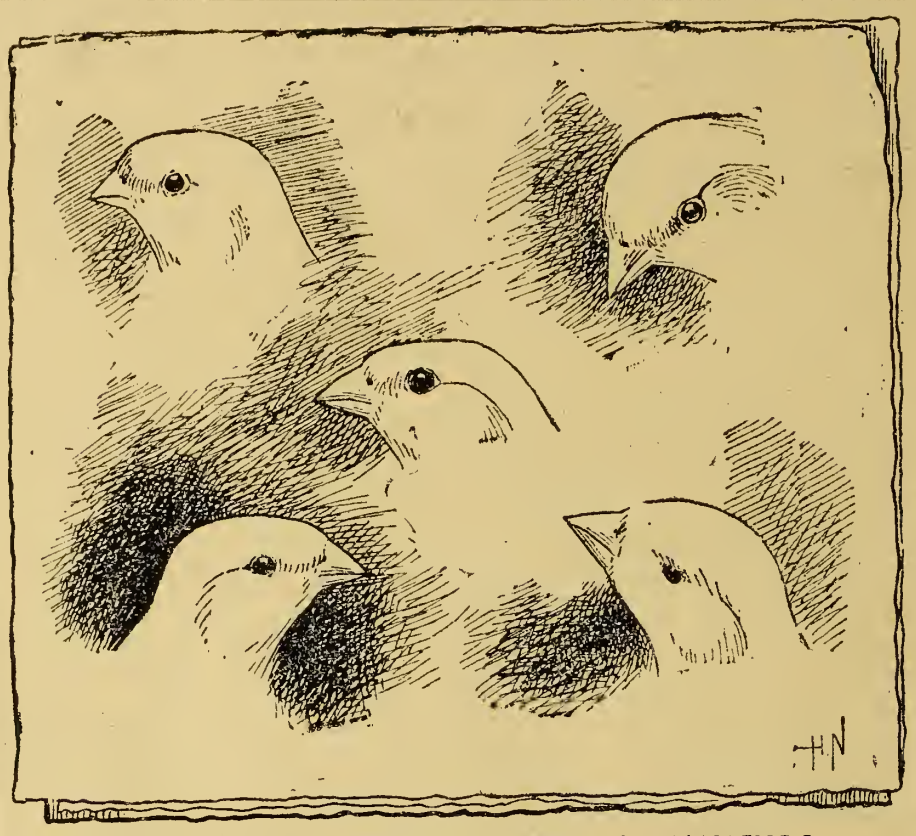
I was happy enough in my new quarters, and my plumage, to that fastidious little ass's satisfaction, grew smooth and spotless. I learnt a few words, and could soon bark like the dog, and mew like the family cat, a great, fat, overfed animal who never attempted to catch mice, but actually allowed them to get into his food dish in the kitchen and eat before his very eyes! I know this for a fact, having seen it myself.

Well, reverses came to the family, and I was sold—or rather "sacrificed," as my master put it—for 30s. to a couple of old maids—at least, they were not really old, only old enough to have been well married. The Misses Smith lived in the country on a hill, and it was all very pretty in the summer-time. They had a lot of animals and birds, for which I was very glad, as they were a great aid to my education, which improved very quickly in my new environment. I could sing, and crow, and howl, and yell like a dog does when it has been trodden on, and I could say several quite long sentences, and lastly, I could scream—my word, how I did used to scream! I used to live in the sitting-room—a most queer place, where the Misses Smith took their meals, and wrote literature, and quarrelled, and kept four or five dogs, and a mongoose, and a pair of tiny marmoset monkeys, and several birds.

There was a Starling, a good little fellow, who was a great help to my education; I learnt a great deal from him, including a gurgling in one's throat which sounded like running water, and which I loved to practise. In return I endeavoured to teach him to scream, but his pretty voice was too foolishly small to do it justice, and he turned it into a fantastic song instead.

There were also a large cage containing some little foreign birds; a Bullie, very fat and asthmatic; a couple of Canaries, whose song, bad notes and all, I faithfully reproduced; a pair of those sickly Love-birds, and a few others. I generally used to start screaming on a fine, warm day, while the two humans were having their dinner or tea. Very often it resulted in their putting me outside in the garden, which was just what I wanted; but nearly as often they considered it too cold for me, and varied the programme by throwing anything handy at my cage—books, crusts of bread and occasionally a spoon, which, however, partly owing to the gross indignity of such proceedings, never silenced me, but only made me scream the more, and they were glad to put me outside, cold or no.

One day, however, when I had been exercising my lungs pretty freely, they threw the green table cover over my cage. The sudden darkness overcame me, and I lost my voice for the time being. "At last we've found something that will keep that wretched bird quiet!" the younger Miss Smith congratulated herself. I chuckled. The next time I began to scream they threw the cloth over me, and I relapsed into silence as before. But I was not going to employ my time in idleness, so, with beak and claws, I worked holes in the cloth, and quite enjoyed myself.



"My word!" exclaimed the elder Miss Smith, in great dismay, surveying my artistic work. "Just look what this wretched bird has done!"

The best of being a bird is that you can't be punished, no matter what you do, like a silly animal can. So, as the cloth was good for nothing else, they kept it merely to throw over me whenever I was noisy, until I had so torn it that its purpose failed, and my old-time dignity was restored.

I lived there very happily for some time, and then by degrees the food that was meted out to us all began to get less in quantity. Sometimes I was left nearly a whole day without fresh seed and water, and my cage was not cleaned out quite so regularly as it had been. Then one of the marmosets died; it used to sit and eat its tail, nasty little thing, so perhaps that was why it went; but the humans said it was the cold, and certainly it did get very nippy, and I never screamed to go outside, but screamed for food instead, especially when the humans food-time came round. They used to give me all sorts of messes to keep me quiet, so that really I fared better than the rest of the birds, for they couldn't scream for what they couldn't eat, anyhow.

The foreign birds died very quickly, one after the other; the mongoose and the other marmoset departed, and at least one of the dogs died. It was awfully tragic. I could not understand it at all. The Misses Smith looked paler and thinner every day, and hardly ever spoke, but stared at each other in moody, worried silence. I was the only one who kept up my spirits; I screamed cheerfully, and talked and chuckled enough for a whole family. Finally, the poor Starling died, and I did not make a sound for a whole day.

Then the Misses Smith began to put all their personal belongings together, and one day all the furniture was sold, and after that I was packed on to a float, with a lot of other things and two of the dogs, and sent down to the village to be taken care of by an elderly person, who also kept a lot of rabbits, fowls and pigeons, and lived quite alone. The Misses Smith said they would send for us when they got settled again, but I am still here, and it is some years now since they ceased even to write. I am happy, for I am well-cared for; but still, I would rather be with the Misses Smith on the hill.

Washing Exhibition by Mr. J. Bailey.

A slight alteration was made in our winter syllabus, on October 20th, when Mr. J. Bailey was to have given us a lecture on "Preparing Birds for Show." As Mr. Bailey had already given this elsewhere, and the same had been excellently reported in your valuable paper, a fresh subject was deemed advisable, and so Mr. Bailey kindly promised to give a washing exhibition, which proved very interesting and instructive. Mr. Bailey does not believe in any of the fancy ways of washing and drying. The soap he uses is made by Oxteen and Tennant, of Aberdeen, but a soap known as Dr. Nicholl's Sanitary Soap, he strongly advised for novices, because it could be very easily removed from the feathers. Mr. Bailey uses three bowls, one for the soap, and the other two for removing the soap. A fine lather is made in the first bowl, the heat of which he tests with his elbow; the water in No. 2 bowl is slightly cooler, and that in the third is just about blood heat. Mr. Bailey remarked that the more quickly a bird was washed the better. Two birds were washed just to show those present how he handles the birds. The third bird was dealt with in what Mr. Bailey calls just ordinary time, which was well inside two minutes; this space of time includes the removal of the bird from its cage, and then rolling up in the drying cloth in front of the fire. The birds remained in the cloth for about half an hour. Mr. Bailey said that the slower the birds dried the better they were, so long as they did not shiver. A bird requires an hour or even longer to dry as it should do. On removing the birds from the cloth they were carefully dried on a soft cloth, and placed in front of the fire in a show cage, so that the upper part of the bird dried first; this method also keeps the show cages from being scorched. While the birds were drying, the opportunity was taken for asking questions, which Mr. Bailey answered to everyone's satisfaction. He then gave several valuable hints in cases of emergency, and I noticed the lead pencil was freely used by several of those present. After a good hour spent in this way Mr. Bailey announced the birds finished and ready for inspection. The result of this left nothing to be desired. I am afraid that if a novice had washed the same birds, he would have had to use the scissors very freely before he could have turned them out in the same way. Mr. Bailey always places the bath on to the cages the next morning, and the birds are not long then in putting the feathers into their proper place. He also impressed it on all present that the birds required to be put down at their best if we wished them to come out anything near the top of the prize list. The cages, too, required a lot of attention, because no judge liked to give a first prize to a badly-staged bird. If you cannot provide a real good bird, you can stage the bird in a good, clean, and bright show cage, which in many instances has gained an extra point or two for its owner.—F. GELDER, Sec.

The Shows.

CAMBRIDGE.

Eighth Annual Show of the Cambridge and Cambs. C.B.S. was held on November 11th and 12th, in the Corn Exchange. We have much pleasure in recording the fact that all previous records were broken, with over 700 entries. This, however, was only obtained after considerable labour on the part of the secretary, Mr. T. S. Moore, and his assistant, Mr. J. G. Gifford, who sent out no less than 675 special appeals, the result being that more than two thirds of the entries were received after the date of the closing of entries. Seeing that this is one of the best-managed shows in the provinces, with no less than 93 special prizes in the 70 classes, there surely ought to be no necessity for this extra labour. Mr. T. S. Moore is one of the most enthusiastic secretaries we have met, and great credit is due both to him, and Mr. J. J. Gifford for the result obtained. The committee also, consisting of Mr. A. E. Brooks (chairman), Mr. F. Doggett (vice-chairman), Messrs. Edwards, Rogers, Linsey, Gawthorp, Styles, Bye, King, Dean, Roff, Lambert and Linsey, jun., are to be congratulated upon the success of the show. The Norwich and Yorkshire classes were well filled, and were indeed a show in themselves, many choice specimens being present; the Crest and Crest-bred classes, which were under the patronage of the Crested Canary Club, were also well-filled classes. Mules and Brillishers were patronised by the National British Bird and Mule Club, and were present in good numbers, some of the very best being on view. The only disappointment were the Border classes, which were somewhat poorly patronised, although the committee gave the full club classification. The two classes for Foreigners were well supported, and several choice specimens put in an appearance. Messrs. Trower and Co. looked after the feeding of the exhibits, and gave every satisfaction. Mr. J. Robson judged the Canaries, and Mr. J. Frostick the remainder.

EDINBURGH NORTHERN

The thirty-second annual show of the Edinburgh Northern O.S. was held on 6th Nov., in the Broughton Halls, which are much better than the old one, being well lighted, and free from draughts; and the exhibits were staged to the best advantage. Entries, which totalled 100, were down on last year's, this being accounted for by the poor breeding season. The Scotch Fancies, although small in numbers, were a choice lot, the cup winner being a bird of great merit. Norwich and Borders were also a good all-round lot, Mr. A. C. Dandie succeeding in carrying off the cup for the first time presented by J. Avon Clyde, Esq., M.P., with a Clear Yellow Norwich, which ought to be heard of later on. The special prizes, tastefully laid out, made a fine display, and we understand the redoubtable special hunter, Mr. J. Stenhouse, vice-president, is on the track of another challenge cup, and we hope he will succeed. The Secretary, Mr. Thos. Purdie, is an old hand at the game, and being ably assisted by Mr. J. Robertson and the remainder of committee, everything worked off smoothly and well. Messrs. Muirhead (Bonnybridge), and Hope (Edinburgh) placed the cards in the Scotch Fancy Section, while Mr. J. Winter judged the remainder.

AIRDRIE & COATBRIDGE

Airdrie and Coatbridge O.S. (Amalgamated) Annual Show was held in the Traders' Hall, Airdrie, on November 6th, and was a success. Scotch Fancies were slightly down in number, but the Norwich Section showed a marked increase. The weather was bright, and everything passed off without a hitch under the able management of Mr. Fairley, the President, and Mr. Murdoch, the secretary, who were ably assisted by a hard working committee. The two silver cups in the Scotch Fancy department were both won by Mr. Wynes, of Airdrie. The Norwich have evidently caught on in the district. Judges for Scotch Fancies, Messrs. Menzies (Edinburgh), and Smith (Crossmyloof, Glasgow), and for Norwich, Mr. Watson (Kilmarnock).

PRESTON.

Annual show of the Preston O.S. was held on Nov. 12th and 13th, in the Public Hall, which is in every way an ideal room for a show. The entry was a record one, there being 300 birds more than last year, whilst the quality throughout was of an unusually high standard, and the judges had no easy task in selecting the winners; and in many classes another lot of winners could have been found. The Committee and stewards were indefatigable in their efforts for the welfare and comfort of the exhibits and exhibitors. The Chairman, Mr. Dent, and the secretaries, Messrs. Taylor and Cleminson, are all fanciers of very wide experience, and the management of the show is therefore all that can possibly be desired. Assisted by such a hard-working and assiduous show committee as Messrs. A. Burrows, J. P. Leeming, Swarbrick, Curwen, Anderton, Marsh, Issott, T. Leeming, T. H. Cooper, Lewis, and Parkinson, and the Rev. S. E. Collinson, everything went off well. Preston show was from the commencement bound to come out on top. Everyone, "up" to the catalogue boys connected with the show, was courteous and obliging. All birds, too, were despatched early on the Saturday night. Amongst those present we noticed Mr. W. Aitchison (Edinburgh), Mr. E. Baker (Cowes), Mr. W. Binns (Blackpool), Mr. James Smith (Bolton's popular president), Mr. J. M. Walsh (Blackburn), and other noted fanciers. The Lord Stanley Challenge Cup (for best Canary shown by a member) was won by Mr. Thomas Sandiford, with his champion variegated buff. The runner-up was the same owner's Crest. Sandiford's cup, for hottest fed yellow, was won by Mr. J. Smeaton's ticked yellow, and that for hottest fed buff by Mr. R. Seed's Clear Buff. Mr. T. H. Dent captured Ramsden's special with his Clear Buff, and Mr. Marsh Hyde's special. Mr. Marsh also captured both specials given by Mr. M. Hopkins, for hottest fed birds on his feeds. The contest between the N.P.C. and Scottish N.P.C. was held at this show, but although there were four grand teams from Scotland, the contest was, on the whole, somewhat flat. Mr. Aitchison's natural colour yellow again asserted his superiority, and rightly headed the class. He is a stormer. Mr. W. Binns had a field day with the Yorkshires, capturing 1st in every class, with some real classical specimens, a grand performance. Borders were a particularly strong section, and included many noted teams from the North. Messrs. Hopper Bros.' buff hen is, we think, about the best we have ever seen. Mules, British and Foreign, came up splendidly, and made a very interesting collection. The Amateur and Novice Classes, as usual, filled splendidly, and contained many birds well fitted for open competition. The judges were Dr. Herd, and Messrs. A. Wellings and Parker-Robinson, and, with a few exceptions, their awards gave general satisfaction.

SPRINGBURN (Glasgow).

The 36th annual show of Scotch Fancy Canaries was held in the Reid Hall on November 13th. Entries were down somewhat, but the quality of the birds was good, and the judges, Messrs. Clark (Rutherglen), and Nisbet (Galston), had no difficulty in placing them in order of merit. Mr. Knox, the well-known fancier, is president, and Mr. F. Waugh is an ideal secretary. Mr. Black, of Govan, won the cup and medal; the former is now his absolute property, having been won three times. This is the sixth cup won this year by his buff piebald, an unprecedented record.

WELSH CAGE BIRD CLUB

Annual members' show, held at Angel Hall, Merthyr, on November 3rd. It was a record one, nearly 200 entries facing the judge, Mr. T. H. Melhuish. The Norwich and Yorks were excellent classes. British were very scarce; why this should be so is a puzzle. With five cups and bowls, and a splendid array of specials, competition was keen. The local committee consists of Messrs. G. L. Harber, J. B. Rees, L. Lewis, and Ben Davies. The last-mentioned we were sorry to hear was undergoing an operation for his eyes, and a letter of sympathy was sent, hoping the operation would be successful. Mr. Bert Brown made an excellent secretary, having everything in his office working perfectly. Mr. J. H. Jones was show manager and had everything in order, every exhibit being accounted for. The show was visited by fanciers from all parts of Wales. Nearly fifty classes were provided, with as goodly an array of cups, bowls, prizes and specials, as any society going, and yet the society has barely sixty members yet. The members are, Celtic like, full of fire and enthusiasm. Judging began promptly, and the cards were up by dinner-time.

Critique.

NOR. CL. YELL.: 1, spl, Harber, old winner, grand body and quality; 2, Brown, nice body, clean waist, good wings and tail; 3, G. T. BLACKWOOD (Mon.)

A few classes were provided for cage birds at the show of the Blackwood Fur and Feather Society, which was held in the Drill Hall on November 11th, and some good quality exhibits put in an appearance. The arrangements were well carried out by Mr. Christmas and his committee, and the result was a most successful little show. Mr. C. A. House judged.

GLASGOW AND WEST OF SCOTLAND.

The annual show of the Glasgow and West of Scotland N.S.B. and F.B.A. was held on Nov. 12th and 13th, and, taken all over, the entries were good. Norwich Plainheads were a sweet collection, some good ones being staged, and the quality throughout was of a very high order. The Novice classes were especially good. Crests and Crest birds were a nice variety, and here the classes were very keenly contested. Borders, on the whole, were a disappointment in regard to entries, but the quality was A1. Yorkshires, too, were good classes, and competition was very keen, while the Cinnamon class contained some toppers. The Mules and Hybrids were, on the whole, a really grand lot. Another sensation in the shape of a Clear Linnet Mule was on view, some voting it a Canary and others a Mule. British were the feature of the show, some real stormers being on view. Goldfinches especially were a rare class, and the winner was greatly admired. The show was held in the Drill Hall, Stirling Road, a large roomy building, but on the Saturday morning many of the birds were feeling the keen frost. The management was all that could be desired. Mr. Bowman makes an ideal secretary, and he was ably assisted by an enthusiastic committee, consisting of Messrs. J. M'Lay, A. Sloan, W. Barrie, A. Henderson, M. Donaghy, E. Barron, D. S. Gowans, J. L. Burnett, A. Chalmers, G. Stewart, P. Easton, R. A. Brown, B. Jamieson, J. Crawford, J. M'Ewan, J. M'Leod, J. Ferguson, T. Erskine, D. Grnham, C. Martin, R. Watson, J. Campbell, G. Fyfe, R. Thomson, and the show manager, Mr. Frank Taylor. The judges were: Mr. Calderwood (Norwich Plainheads), Mr. C. Campbell (C. and C.-B. and Yorkshires), Mr. Smillie (Borders), and Messrs. Arrighi and S. Ward (British Mules and Foreign). The awards, on the whole, appeared to give every satisfaction.

ABINGDON (N. Berks).

The North Berks F.S. held their sixth annual open show on November 11th, in the Corn Exchange, Abingdon, a lofty room, and free from draughts. Considering the show was not held under C.B.U. rules our section received a very good entry. In Mr. T. Bowen the society have an ideal secretary, who was well supported by a committee of good workers, the cage birds being well looked after by two excellent stewards, in Messrs. Loader and Pearce. The quality of the birds was good throughout. Special for best bird in show was won by Mr. Lees, with the well-known wing-marked yellow Goldfinch Mule. Other specials were won by Messrs. Lewin, Poole, Pearce, and Fleetwood. Mr. F. C. Levett judged, and his awards appeared to give entire satisfaction.

WALLSEND-ON-TYNE.

Another record show, with an accompaniment of some sensational events.

The fifth annual show of the Wallsend and Mid. Tyne C.B.A. was held on November 12th and 13th, in the Co-operative Hall, and constituted a record for the society, both in numbers and the quality of the exhibits. The hall is a very suitable place, large and well lighted, and is kept at an equal temperature throughout; also it is in close proximity to the station, thus making the show easy of access. Entries came up splendidly, 660 in 56 open classes, and about 170 in members', total 830. Norwich averaged 12 per class, and the quality of the exhibits was up to the usual excellence of the Northern shows. Yorkshires also averaged about 12 per class, and here again some really grand birds were staged. Borders were the strongest section, however, averaging about 16 per class in 8 classes, and in this section we regret to say some unpleasant incidents occurred, the exhibits of two well-known fanciers being objected to on the ground that the cages had marked perches, the alleged distinguishing marks being said to be discernible on the under side of the perches close to the wires. We understand that all the cages in question have been kept back pending the decision of the district committee of the Cage Bird Union, all the necessary protests and deposits having been placed in the hands of the C.B.U. delegate at the show. We sincerely trust that the matter will be cleared up as speedily as possible, for it is very distressing that such an imputation as collusion should be placed upon the characters of both the exhibitors and the judge. The British section made a beautiful display, both in numbers and quality, and this section provided another sensation, the bird exhibited by Mr. G. W. McPartling, of Newcastle, as a clear Greenfinch-Canary Mule, winning first in its class, only to be protested against by other exhibitors on the ground of its being a pure Canary. The necessary protests and deposits were handed in as in the previous case. We might add that this is the same bird that Mr. J. Robson wrong-classed in the light mule class at the recent Newcastle show.

The management of the show was everything that could be desired, not the slightest detail being omitted. The society is certainly to be congratulated upon possessing two such capable secretaries as Messrs Greenwell and Richardson, both gentlemen being very hard-working, and most courteous and obliging to all. The manner in which they performed their duties merits the highest praise, everything running smoothly and without the slightest hitch. We wish them success in the future. As a show manager, the chairman of the society, Mr. J. M. McDonald will be very hard to beat, everything receiving the most careful attention at his hands. He was ably backed up by a most efficient body of fanciers, consisting of Messrs. J. L. Hyslop, W. Cockburn, Peter Dixon, J. Johnston, J. R. Evans, T. Haikney, W. Allison, W. Ronald, T. Hopkinson, N. Hymers, A. Montgomery, Evans, Appleby, H. McColl, J. McQuillan, J. Grainger, D. Heenbrough, and F. Reeves.

The Percy Hood silver challenge cup for most points in open classes was won by Mr. G. W. Cuthbertson, of Darlington, who was successful in winning 1 firsts, 1 second, 2 thirds, and a fourth in the Yorkshire classes. Special for best Norwich went to Mr. A. Hermiston's unflighted buff Nor., a really typical specimen. Special for best Cinnamon, to Mr. W. Dormer; while CAGE BIRDS special for best Yorkshire, was secured by Mr. G. W. Cuthbertson. The R. J. Dee's silver challenge cup for most points, with three nominated birds in the members' classes, went to Mr. Jas. Johnston. Other special prize-winners were:—N.Y.C.C. silver medal, Mr. Jas. Carr; N.Y.C.C. novice silver medal, Mr. W. Mather; gold medal, best bird bred by member, Mr. Jas. Johnston, who also secured special for best in members' classes. Mr. A. Hermiston won special for best members' Nor.; best Yorks., Mr. A. Montgomery; best Crest, Mr. J. G. Hutchinson; best British, Mr. C. Wilson. Grand weather favoured the show, which was well patronised by the public. The judges were:—Messrs. J. H. Roe, Nor., Crests, Cinn., and Liz.; J. Wilcock, Yorks., and Sell.; J. W. Bruce, Bord., Seots, Mules, Brit., and For.

Mr. Bruce's Classes.

Borders, taken all over, were a nice collection, some real hot ones being staged, many well-known birds doing battle for premier honours. All the classes were keenly contested. Mr. A. Gilchrist succeeded in capturing the medal for best. Mules were a good collection, and here a few strong remarks were passed regarding the judging of the clears, etc., class. Mr. McPartling won with the reputed clear yellow Greenfinch-Canary, and also the novice with a clear Twite, which was greatly commented on, some declaring them Canaries, and others that they were Mules; the judge seemingly gave them the benefit of the doubt. Both were staged in grand order, and their future will be eagerly looked forward to. The British birds were the feature, perhaps, of the show, such a collection having seldom been seen on the Tyne. All the classes contained hot ones, and the judge had a heavy task in allotting the winners. After carefully summing up their various points he left very little to be desired. The special for best in show was won by Mr. Ford's Bearded Tit, a splendidly-moulted exhibit. Foreigners, too, were a nice collection, and here Messrs. Nicholson and Son proved victors, winning with a tip-top glossy Starling in good form. Mr. J. W. Bruce judged the Mules, British, and Foreign, and his awards were, on the whole, well received.

EVESHAM.

The 21st annual show of cage birds, etc., was held in the Public Hall, on Nov. 12th. The hall is a capital place for the purpose. For cage birds there were but six classes. Norwich made a good display, and they were a nice lot; there were only four exhibits in the Yorkshire class, but the quality was good. Mr. G. H. Billett judged, and his awards were well received. The cages were nicely staged, free from draught, the room being kept at a nice even temperature. The secretarial duties were in the hands of Mr. G. Witts, who is to be congratulated on his able management of affairs.

WEST BROMWICH.

Third annual show held at the Dartmouth Hotel on November 17th and 18th. All the exhibits were nicely staged in the large room, a capital place, being free from draughts and well lighted. The quality all round was excellent. The Yorkshires made a capital display, many grand birds being staged, and the competition was keen in most of the classes. Some choice exhibits were staged in the British classes, the winning Waxwing of Mr. P. V. Williams being greatly admired, and it was put down in grand form. Special for best bird in show fell to Mr. Chilling-worth's Canary Bullfinch Mule, shown in the pink of condition. The members' classes contained several nice exhibits that no doubt would have stood well in the open. The exhibits received every attention from a good working committee of genuine fanciers. Mr. T. Duffield again held the secretarial ribbons, and did his work in a most admirable manner, and was most courteous and obliging. Mr. J. H. Payne judged Canaries, and Mr. W. C. Poole the Mules, British and Foreign.

READING.

Held November 17th. The pronounced success of last year's show here was quite enough from any fancier's point of view, to warrant me in saying that for this season an exhibition "open to the world" could have been arranged, with an expert judge for British birds, etc., and another for Canaries. Everyone knows that the chickens that are counted before the eggs are laid do not always get staged, and it has been very sadly brought home to the minds of many enthusiastic bird lovers that the cold and wet weather of this past summer time has been disastrous for rearing Canaries. The sunshine of prosperity, too, has not been shining on local industries, consequently the Reading Cage Bird Society's show this year had to be restricted to the exhibits of the members. We can only hope that things may improve, and the society have an increased measure of success in next season's work. Nineteen classes were provided, and only one or two failed to fill. Every first prize carried a useful special with it, and there were many other specials. Mr. J. Robson judged.

YELL. NOR.: Three money prizes taken by Mr. Lovegrove, but the winner was not thought by some to he such a good type as 2nd or 3rd; 1, 2, Dearlove, leader big bird, has stiff claw, and a rather crouching habit; 2nd, although not quite so big, was better in type; 3, Lawrence. NOR. HEN: 1, 2, Dearlove, winner well-chosen, typical yell.; 3, Lawrence, true to type. UNFLIG.: 1, Lawrence, excellent Nor. properties; 2, Lewin; 3, Lovegrove. YELL. YORKS.: 1, 2, 3, Masey, winner stylish bird. BUFF: 1, 3, Masey; 2, Pike, both of nice style. UNFLIG.: 1, 2, 3, Masey, promising youngsters. BORD. (8): All Mr. Hopgood's, and all in nice bloom. A.O.V.: 1st tkd. C.B.; 2nd, big variog. bird, with dark crest, expansive front, Pike, would make good stock birds if suitably matched. HYB. (6): 1, Acton, Twite-Can., in excellent plumage; 2, Pike, Goldfinch-Can., well up in col. and condition. GOLDFINCH (6): 1, 2, Acton, winner has it in col., while 2nd is nice size; 3, Primmer. LINNET (5): 1, Vince; 2, Primmer; 3, Acton, steady house-moulted birds of good col. and pencilling. A.O.S.: Mr. Acton showed a self black Bullfinch cock that had moulted this col. in captivity, being previously normal.

TREHARRIS (Glamorganshire).

Annual show held in the Public Hall, Treharris, on October 28th. The Yorkshires were the feature of the show. Mr. H. S. Davies' now well-known King Parrot won him the special for best bird in show. Special for best Norwich fell to Mr. Sheldon. Mr. W. J. Davies makes a capital secretary, and he is to be complimented on the good show. Mr. G. L. Harber judged, and his awards appeared to give every satisfaction.

DEAL.

Deal and Dist., held in the Drill Hall, on November 17th. This show was a great success all round, and the quality was quite up to the average of most of the Southern shows, although competition was confined to the County of Kent. Yorkshires and Norwich were a splendid lot, and the Mules and British were also good. Cup for best member's exhibit went to Mr. Thompson, for a very typical, grand feathered non-fed yellow Nor. There was a fine collection of Amazon Parrots, and not the least attractive feature of the show was Mr. Blathwayt's golden-crested Wren. The birds were staged in a separate room, and the temperature thereof was very comfortable. Mr. W. Wadhams, the hon. secretary, ably assisted by Mr. Thompson, and a willing band of committeemen, had arrangements well in hand, the cards were up early, and catalogues out promptly. The attendance of the public was cheering. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

PORTOBELLO.

Annual show held in the Masonic Hall, Lower-street, on Nov. 6th. In the 36 classes provided there was a record entry of 265, which is the largest in the history of the society. The quality was of a high order, and many of the birds could hold their own in the keenest competition. The pride of place must be given to a grand specimen of the Norwich Plainhead, belonging to Mr. Wm. R. Dunn; his magnificent Clear Yellow, third at Leith, carried all before it. It captured the cup (which now becomes his own property), for best Plainhead, also cup for best hird in hall. The same gentleman carried off the cup for best Yorkshire. The cup for most points was also awarded to Mr. Dunn. The Foul Buff Scotch Fancy, belonging to Mr. J. H. Buchan, secured cup for best in this section, being also runner-up to best bird. Cup for best Crest or C.-B. went to a fine specimen, belonging to Mr. A. Crearar. In the Border Section, Mr. Thos. Millar carried all before him, his Foul-marked Yellow securing cup for best Border and B.F.C.C. medal. For best Mule or Hybrid, a grand specimen of the Linnet-Bullfinch cross carried off premier honours for Mr. J. Wilson. Mr. W. Leckie was awarded medal for best British. The staging was nicely arranged, and was beautifully decorated with plants and flowers, which made everything look very attractive and pleasing. The genial president, Mr. Alex. Matthews, was wreathed in smiles at this grand display. The secretary, Mr. J. Hogg, worked like a Trojan, is the right man in the right place, and was ably assisted by Mr. Leckie and a hard-working committee. The judges were: For Scotch and Border fancies, Mr. T. M'Creadie, and for Norwich and British, Mr. A. Chalmers, whose awards gave entire satisfaction, as we heard no cause for grumbling. The show was well patronised by the public.

NATIONAL BRITISH BIRD & M.C.

Committee meeting held at headquarters, the Feathers Hotel, Great Chapel Street, Westminster, Nov. 4th. Present: Messrs. Trower (in the chair), Cooper, Maxwell, Askew, Newby, Thurling, Frostick, Vale, Dewhurst, Plumbridge and Carr. Minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. Letters were read from Messrs. Weston, Bell, Crane, Tighe, Chick Ramsden, and Winter. The committee granted medals to the following shows:—Sligo, a silver and bronze; Scottish National, gold and silver; Crystal Palace, gold silver and bronze. The following gentlemen were elected members: Mr. E. J. Tighe and Mr. C. J. Mulligan, Sligo. A hearty vote of thanks to the Chairman concluded the meeting.—PLUMBRIDGE AND CARR, Hon. Secs.

EDINBURGH SOUTHERN O.S.

Monthly meeting held on November 15th, in Buchanan's Hotel, High-street, Mr. Baxter (vice-president) in the chair. The balance-sheet was gone through, and showed a balance on the right side. The following office-bearers were then elected:—President, Mr. C. R. Drysdale; vice-president, Mr. J. Baxter; the secretary and treasurer, Mr. S. Hewit, being re-elected; Messrs. W. Thomson and R. Stirling were elected auditors. Mr. C. Drysdale moved that we have one or two classes for old birds at our show. Anyone wishing to become members should apply to me at 56, Prince Albert Buildings, or to our meeting at Buchanan's Hotel, High-street, every second Wednesday of month at 8 p.m. —S. HEWIT, Hon. Sec.

MORPETH AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held Nov. 12th. The balance-sheet was presented, and after all matters were settled up for the society's year (which ended Oct. 31st), it was decided to continue still as a society, and hope to hold our next exhibition in Oct., 1910. It was with regret that a letter was read from the Chairman, Mr. A. Grey, tendering his resignation. Mr. Grey is competing for O.N.P.C. specials, and in order to be able to exhibit at the necessary shows, he explained that he must free himself from the C.B.U. As our members decided to remain affiliated to that body, his resignation was accepted. We are hoping in the coming year to receive the wholehearted support of our local fanciers, and any wishing to join should send in their names, or attend our next meeting, which will be duly announced in CAGE BIRDS.—E. COWLING, Hon. Sec.

PLUMSTEAD & WOOLWICH C.B.S.

A concert was given on October 21st, at Trinity Schools, in aid of the Trophy Fund. An excellent programme of vocal and instrumental music was rendered under the musical direction of Mr. E. T. Hartland. The opening item was a fine pianoforte duet, "Tripping through the Meadows," by Misses Price and Tate. Miss P. Ives sang very sweetly, "The Wakening of Spring," Mr. E. Pye also being well received for his singing of "The River of Dart." Miss C. Green sang "The Green Isle of Erin." A violin fantasia, by Miss Rosina Hodge, was a treat; Miss Mildred Wood sang "Carmena" and Mr. Augustus Ayre "Love, could I only tell thee." A mandoline solo by Mr. A. D. Lord was deservedly encored. Mr. Colin Morgan sang "Hurrah, for a Country Life," and "Two Naughty Boys." During the interval Mr. Meades spoke on the aims and objects of the Society. The second part was contributed to by Miss Mildred Wood, Mr. Pye, Miss C. Green, Miss P. Hodge, Mr. A. D. Lord, Mr. A. Ayre, Mr. Colin Morgan, and Miss P. Ives. Miss L. M. Martin gave great satisfaction as accompanist. The singing of the National Anthem brought a pleasant evening to a close, and it is hoped the fund will benefit.—W. PAWLEY, Hon. Sec.

WEST LONDON F.A.

Monthly meeting, held Bush Hotel, Shepherd's Bush, Nov. 4. Various matters with regard to annual show and printing posters, schedules, catalogues, etc., were dealt with. Points specials of 5s., 3s., and 2s. were promised by Messrs. J. Bray and Son, to be competed for in the Bristol bird section. A most hearty vote of thanks was accorded them. The chairman then called on Mr. Attridge to give his promised washing display, which was given in a most able manner. His advice to all, in washing, was to have confidence, and to keep their nerves. Yet the tubbing should be got over as soon as possible. Two bowls only of water were used, and cucumber and glycerine toilet soap. Mr. Attridge believes in a very small piece of soda in the water, should the birds be very dirty, but never washes with the soda oftener than was necessary, as it had a bleaching effect otherwise on the colour of the birds. The way the birds were handled and the brush used was a treat to watch; and the washer, although explaining different points as he went along, succeeded in thoroughly washing the second bird, and having the same in the drying cloth, in the remarkable time of 2 minutes 17 seconds, and in another five had the bird on the perch of the drying cage, which, by the way, was a single breeder. The drying cloths were of surgical lint. The whole exhibition was closely followed by all present, novices and champions alike. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Attridge, and chairman brought a most enjoyable meeting to a close.—J. DEWHURST, Hon. Sec.

Birds of Burnham Beeches.

Burnham Beeches like Epping Forest is open to the public, and both places are equally interesting to the bird lover, for among the Beeches nearly every species frequenting the South of England may be met with. The Thrushes, Warblers, Doves, Hawks, Woodpeckers—all may be seen, and a more delightful place for an outing for bird lovers cannot be found

Twitterings.

I have removed to 24, Toulinson Road, Ashton, Preston, writes Mr. J. W. Cleminson (Cleminson and Taylor).

Whitehaven Drawing.—Winning numbers:—1,132, 1,981, 2,161, 1,749, 774, 1,628, 1,350, 1,823, 1,987, 1,966, 1,456.—(Advt.)

I won 1st and 2nd in the buff Yorkshire class at Bodmin. I note the report gives Collins as 1st.—James Thomas (Bugle).

Send along entries for Sale Show, November 26th and 27th. Splendid classification. J. Irlam, 97, Cross Street.—(Advt.)

Blackburn Show report credits Ashwell with winning 2nd prize in class 19; it should read Aspinall.—F. Aspinall (Blackburn).

I have executed all the orders for Siberian hen Bullfinches except five, and these I will send in a few days, writes Mr. B. Hollins (Hull).

There was an increase in all sections at our show, writes Mr. R. J. Hamilton, hon. secretary of Banbridge C.B. and F.A.—45 more cage birds, in fact.

Splendid classification and prizes at Inverness. Exhibitors should certainly see a schedule.—(Advt.)

Entries close for Dundee, November 26th. Send your entries on at once. See advertisement columns.—(Advt.)

The 1910 show of the Rochdale O.C. has been fixed for October 21st and 22nd, and Mr. C. A. Howse has again been elected one of the judges for the nineteenth time.

Classes 87 and 88 in our schedule, writes Mr. S. Limb, hon. secretary of the Cockermouth and Dis. F.S., should read "Any other variety," and not "any variety."

At the time of writing, entries for Bedale Show are very short, writes Mr. W. F. Merrin, the secretary. Entries will be extended to first post Saturday, November 20th.

Entries have been extended to last post, November 20th, writes Mr. G. A. Jefferys, hon. secretary of the South London Col. and F.A. We hope fanciers will assist us.

Cage bird entries are practically nil at time of writing. Will accept up to this Saturday's post. I will classify.—W. G. Inward, hon. secretary of the Cirencester F.S.

Will Mr. A. E. Parker kindly forward to us his full address; we will then be able to send him the copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners," which he has ordered from us.

Mr. Geo. Stewart Bowles, M.P., has been asked to open the Grand United Metropolitan Show on November 23rd, at the Lambeth Baths, writes Mr. A. Watson, the secretary.

Mr. Sandiford is giving a gold centre medal, to be competed for amongst members, entry form to be marked (Sandiford), writes Mr. J. Irlam, hon. secretary of the Sale Open O.S.

The judges for Llanelly and Dis. C.B.S. Show, to be held January 18th, next, are Mr. S. Hadwin (Liverpool) and Mr. R. J. Howe (Wellingboro'), writes Mr. D. R. Jones, the chairman.

Entries for our show on November 25th, writes Mr. A. Roberts, hon. secretary of the Goole F.S., are very bad, not averaging one per class for five prizes. Hope fanciers will rally round.

Barnstaple Show report credits Mr. J. D. Horrill with winning the "Belgian Memorial Trophy" points special. The name of W. Baker should be substituted.—W. Baker (Barnstaple).

In mentioning Carlisle Show, Cage Birds gives the date as January 11th, whereas it should be January 1st, writes Mr. George Goulden, the secretary. Either I or the printer is to blame.

Entries for Inverness Show, if posted on Saturday November 20th, will be accepted, writes Mr. A. Urquhart, hon. secretary of the Inverness O.A. We have every promise of a record show.

The London and Counties O.A. will be holding their annual autumn show on December 3rd and 4th, at the Sessions House Hotel, Clerkenwell Road, E.C., writes Mr. W. Gilbert, the hon. secretary.

I was extra 3rd in unflighted buff class at Swansea, and not Tottle; also, I had 2 firsts and h.c. in the Norwich section. I received my prize money before the birds came home.—E. Thomas (Cardiff).

We hear that Mr. James A. Douglas has just landed in London from the far side of the United States, bringing his birds with him, which have stood the long and trying journey in good style.

The whole of the special prizes in the cage-bird section are for open competition, and not confined to members as stated in our schedule, writes Mr. G. W. Dutton, hon. secretary of the Crewe and Dis. F.A.

Will secretaries please note, writes Mr. F. Fallows (Birmingham), that through having to remove to Birmingham I have sold all my stock, so shall not, therefore, be going into the Fancy until next year.

Owing to a printer's error in our schedule, writes Mr. G. E. Spencer, secretary, Tamworth and Dis. C.B.S., classes 15 and 19 should read any other variety, instead of any variety. Also, 4th prize is a card.

Mr. G. Hawver, hon. secretary, Blaydon-on-Tyne C.B.S., sends us copies of many letters congratulating his society on the prompt payment of prize money at its recent show, and the excellent management.

Our entries at time of writing are very short, writes Mr. W. T. Hawes, hon. secretary of the Portsmouth Show; we will accept up to first post on Wednesday, November 24th. Prize money is to be paid in full.

The fourth annual open show of the Brandon Colliery C.B.S. is being held this Saturday (November 20th), at Mrs. Burrell's Colliery Inn, writes Mr. Geo. Reed, the hon. secretary. Mr. R. S. Bowick will judge cage birds.

The report credits Bickerstaffe with 1st in buff Border hens at Bo'ness, whereas I was 1st in that class; also at Brechin I won 1st and E.F.C. medal, with yellow cock, instead of Craig, writes Mr. H. Bennet (Kelso).

Last week my advertisement read "Goldfinches"; this should have been Greenfinches. Please note this, as I have had so many applications for Goldfinches, which I cannot possibly do at the price.—T. E. Wade (Chatham).

I was very surprised to see the grand report of our show in your last week's issue, writes Mr. J. Pearce Sampson, hon. secretary, Penzance and Dis. F.A. This is what I call very quick work, only two days after the show.

Mr. J. W. Ramsden (Brixton) asks us to state that he is taking a brief holiday after his recent indisposition, and he hopes that correspondents will overlook for the time being any delay in replying to their communications.

It was Mr. D. McMillan (Leeds), our treasurer, who won first in the £5 5s. Limit Yellow Norwich at Sheffield Show, and not Dr. McMillan, as stated in the Sheffield catalogue and report, writes Mr. J. Chambers, hon. secretary of the Leeds C.B.S.

Entries are coming in very slowly, writes Mr. W. Lightfoot, hon. secretary of Wandsworth and Dis. F.A.; will extend date of closing to November 25th. We have obtained a license from C.B.U., and have added two open novice classes for Yorkshires to the schedule, A.V. cock and A.V. hen. Prize money will be promptly paid as usual.

The following were the points each society scored in the "Inter-Society Cup Competition," writes Mr. J. E. Wood, hon. secretary, of the Leicester Hand-in-Hand C.B.S., viz.:—Leicester Hand-in-Hand Society 96 points, and Coventry O.S. 76. The destiny of the cup for the next twelve months will be settled at the Coventry Show on November 20th.

Kindly state, writes Mr. R. V. Raine (Cathcart), that the Chaffinch I am showing now (it was 2nd at Carlisle), is not my 2nd City of Glasgow bird, it having been claimed at catalogue price, £2 2s. 6d., by the party who claimed Mr. Alston's 4th Bramble. Your special number of C.B. crowns all. The plate of Hawfinches was perfection.

Irish fanciers should not overlook the annual exhibition of the Y.C.C. of Ireland (Dublin), which is being held on November 25th and 26th, and entries should be made immediately to Mr. J. R. Hyland, 53, Fitzroy Avenue, Dublin. Excellent prizes are offered, including many very valuable specials. A review of the schedule will be found in this issue.

Our entries close, not as stated in our advertisement, November 05, but November 15th. Seeing our entries do not average 1 per class at time of writing, we are forced to extend the date till Monday morning's post, November 22nd. Cage bird fanciers will, I feel sure, send us along some entries, and we will classify.—W. H. Manley, hon. sec., Bristol and Dis. C.B.S.

Cardiff Show, for which entries close on November 24th, writes Mr. W. Sampson, hon. secretary, I hope will not be overlooked. It is our 18th annual show, and exhibitors can testify to the generous manner in which they have always been treated. Prize money has always been paid in full when there has only been one entry in a class. Ours was the pioneer of cage bird shows in Wales, and is to-day also the premier show, and loyal Welshmen will show their appreciation by giving us a bumping entry.

On Order at all Newsagents.

THIS WEEK'S ISSUE OF "THE POULTRY WORLD"

is positively a record.—The finest number of any fanciers' paper ever produced at the price. It contains a full descriptive report of the Great Crystal Palace Poultry Show, three coloured plates, and an illustrated photographic art supplement. The strides this popular weekly has recently made have astonished everyone acquainted with it. Back Yard Fanciers specially catered for. Ask for the Palace Number of "THE POULTRY WORLD."

We are giving a large number of valuable specials, including one of the value of 30s., writes Mr. A. W. Lndlow, hon. secretary of the Stamford and Dis. F.A. Show, on November 25th, and we are hoping fanciers will give us a bumping entry.

We have received for inspection from Mr. W. Rudd, the well-known bird specialist, of Norwich, the original of a remarkable testimonial as to the merits and breeding performances of the birds he supplied to a gentleman in Rosario, South America.

The City and Suburban Society, we hear, is very proud of having broken all London records for a members' show, with their entry of close on 530 birds for the annual event this week-end (Friday and Saturday), an increase of over 100 on their own previous best.

We have received from Mr. A. E. Pickett, jun. (Wessex Aviaries, Dagmar Road, Dorchester), a photograph of the handsome stall of cages and birds which he had at the recent Dorchester Chrysanthemum Show; the latter he describes as having been a great success.

We had 582 entries at our recent show, writes Mr. G. M. Horsley, hon. secretary of the Malton, Norton, and Dis. F.S. We closed at 8 p.m., and by 10 p.m. every exhibit was in the hands of the railway company. Not a single mistake has been reported, and all prize money has already been sent out.

Kindly announce that I am compelled to leave London this day (November 13th), for the Continent, and do not anticipate returning for at least a week, writes Mr. J. S. Clarke, hon. secretary, Crested Canary Club. This in case any fancier should be writing me about C.C.C. matters, and not receiving prompt reply.

In the club report of the Grimsby and Dis. O.S., in your last issue (in the correspondence column), a printer's error occurred after my name at the foot thereof; the word "chairman" appeared. This post is filled by another gentleman, with much credit. I am the hon. treasurer of the society.—H. Harding, hon. treasurer.

We are without a single entry, and have extended to November 25th, writes Mr. N. H. Reed, secretary of Launceston Show, November 30th. We have gone to extra expense engaging the Drill Hall for cage bird exhibits. Now, can fanciers expect such classification if they do not support us? Good prize money and many specials are offered.

Your paper, Cage Birds, must have a very wide circulation, write Messrs. D. De Von and Co., Ltd., the noted bird importers of Bethnal Green Road, London, E. It has undoubtedly been perused in Smyrna, as we have received an order this week from this spot in far Asia Minor. Through Cage Birds we have executed orders in Africa, North and South America, and even as far as Australia; also in several Continental countries, proofs of which we can give, if necessary. Please accept our best wishes for Cage Birds.

Wolverhampton Show report credits Mr. Hall with winning fourth in the unflighted buff class, whereas I won that prize.—F. Dipple (Birmingham).

Leek (Staffordshire) Show report credits Dyke with v.h.c. in open yellow Yorkshire class, whereas, I won same.—W. Andrews (West Bromwich).

Dr. Rodgers (123, Radford Boulevard, Nottingham), sends for our inspection the original of a splendid testimonial to the merits of his "Bronchorine" (for colds, etc.). The writer, Mr. D. Jones (Crumlin), says: "The bird I gave it to is now singing as good as ever. I have tried a few things before, but your medicine is the best of all."

Kindly thank all exhibitors for their support, which enabled us to make such a grand display and turn the show out the great success it was, writes Mr. C. C. Irvine, hon. secretary of the Ayr and Dis. C.B.C. All prize money was paid out five days after show. We also thank you and your representative for the grand report you gave in your columns.

I have to thank you on behalf of the Larkhall C.B.A. for the very able report of our recent show published in Cage Birds on November 6th. We had a record show, nearly 250 birds being staged in the 26 classes provided. The publication of our club notices, too, have been the means of gaining a great many members for the society.—Jas. Pollock, secretary.

On opening my number of Cage Birds for November 6th, I was very pleased to see my Bramblefinch depicted in your special supplement. This bird I have had for several years, and he has won a lot of prizes every year. This season he has been to four shows. This is his record for this season:—City of Glasgow 3rd, Newcastle 1st and special, Clapham 1st and special, and Liverpool 1st and special—surely a good performance.—A. Coffey (Liverpool).

Many thanks for the grand drawing of my Blue-throated Warbler on the front page of your interesting paper, writes Mr. George G. Henderson (Glasgow). It is life-like of the bird, who was never beaten when in my possession. Only once was he debarred from competition, and that was at the Scottish National, under Mr. Fulljames, who could not recognise him, he not being on the club list. Still, he admitted he was the best he had ever seen staged.

Are you visiting the City and Suburban's 14th Annual Show to-day and to-morrow, Friday and Saturday, November 19th and 20th? for there you will see London's greatest club show, with a record entry of over 520 birds, including All England Champions of Champions—a veritable Palace Show in miniature. The Church Institute, 60, Paddington Street, Marylebone, is a few minutes' walk from Baker Street (Metropolitan), and Regent's Park (Bakerloo) Railway Stations, and all Baker Street 'buses pass the corner of the street.—(Advt.)

We are very pleased with the report of Lowestoft Show appearing in your last edition, writes Mr. E. L. A. Crow, the hon. secretary. Mr. H. Hart should be named as one of the stewards. Mr. Hart is a very keen and hard worker for our Fancy, and without his assistance it would be difficult to hold a cage-bird show here. I wish Cage Birds every success.

The prize money for common Canary should be 10s., 5s., and 2s. 6d., instead of 8s., 4s., and 2s., as printed in our schedule, writes Mr. R. Ballock, hon. secretary of the Lockeraig F.A. We are giving a good classification, and with popular judges, we hope fanciers will help to make our first venture a success. Schedules may be had on application to me at 63, North Glencraig, Lochgelly.

Entries are practically nil at Egremont (Cumberland)—only 12 in 25 classes; therefore I am compelled to extend to first post Tuesday, November 23rd. I appeal to cage bird fanciers to rally round and support this old established show, which is entirely under new management. Prize-money will be paid within seven days.—Wm. Lewthwaite, hon. secretary, Egremont, Cumberland.

One of the features of the recent Liverpool Show was the splendid stand of Messrs. Bunner and Sons (Blake Street, Copperas Hill, Liverpool), which held a choice assortment of the cages (both breeding, show, and stock), for which this firm is noted, together with wirefronts and every description of speciality required by fanciers in the bird-room. Messrs. Bunner and Sons' stand attracted a good deal of notice and favourable comment.

OBITUARY.

MRS. J. BROWN (Shoreditch).

We regret to learn of the painfully sudden death of Mrs. J. Brown (Sclater Street, Shoreditch), head of a firm of bird dealers known to every London fancier, we should think, and to very many provincial ones as well. With her late husband—and of recent years with her sons—Mrs. Brown had helped to build up a very large and flourishing bird business, and her always cheerful and kindly disposition ensured her the respect of all who knew her. The deceased lady had been ailing but a very brief period, when carried away by heart failure, on November 14th last.

Kindly allow me through your grand weekly Cage Birds, on behalf of myself and committee, to thank all who assisted at our show, especially the Rev. E. Collinson (Broughton), Messrs. E. Baker (Cowes), W. Hindman (Blackburn), H. Parkinson (Bolton), T. H. Cooper (Bolton), Messrs. Sherrington, Coventry and Coupe (Preston), writes Mr. R. Taylor, hon. secretary of the Preston O.S. I might also mention that Mr. W. Aitcheson (Edinburgh) won the half-guinea for most entries by a Scotch exhibitor, which he has given back to the club. This, considering he gave us a good special of half a dozen silk handerchiefs, only shows us once more what a kind-hearted chap this natural colour king is.

I am sorry to have to inform you that one of our best-known members, Mr. Ben Davies (Abercanaid), has been very unfortunate to lose his eye (through an accident at his work some years ago). An operation was performed last week (November 10th), by Dr. Creswell, of Cardiff Hospital. Being with Mr. Davies on November 15th, I asked him how he felt, and he told me he fancied his other eye was affected. It is to be hoped we, as a club, shall be able to keep him. It is a very serious loss to the Fancy locally to lose such a prominent member as Mr. Davies; he is so well-known as a Scotch Fancy exhibitor, and we all hope our friend will soon recover his health. I wish Cage Birds every success.—J. B. Rees (Abercanaid).

Merriment at Highgate.

The social and distribution of prizes won at the annual show of the Highgate and Hampstead C.B.S., will take place on Thursday, November 25th, at 8 p.m., in the Spencer Hall, Dartmouth Park Hill, N. There will be some good music and singing. All friends are cordially invited. Would all members kindly send in their ticket money at once, as I wish to close the show account before November 25th.—C. W. Law, hon. secretary.

At the Wrong Show.

A curious and unfortunate mishap occurred in London this week. The Great International Poultry, etc., Show is being held at the Crystal Palace, and one or two cases of birds which were intended for the Wimbledon Cage Bird Show, were wrongly delivered by the Railway Co., being landed at the "Great Glass House." This was hard lines for the exhibitor (or exhibitors) concerned for, of course, it was too late when the mistake was discovered to get them over to Wimbledon in time to be judged. We believe Mr. F. S. Matthes, the popular hon. secretary of the Southern Norwich Plainhead Club, was a sufferer.

The Wallsend Sensations.

With regard to the sensational happenings at the recent Wallsend Show (as reported in our columns this week), we have received the following letter from the judge concerned, Mr. J. W. Bruce:—"I have had notice from the Cage Bird Union (District No. 1) to the effect that two protests were laid against classes I judged at Wallsend Show: 1st, against the perches of Mr. H. Bennet and Messrs. Currah and Son, exhibitors in Border Fancy Classes; and 2nd, against Mr. McParlding's Clear Mules as being pure Canaries. I have written to the Union in reply, and await their decision. I also notify you, so that you can publish same if you care to. I may say I have a perfect answer for both cases."

OUR COLOURED PLATE.

Some Useful Hints Concerning the Birds Depicted.

With this week's issue every reader should receive a Coloured Plate. Upon this are arranged with charmingly artistic effect two paintings by that old and esteemed bird artist, Mr. J. G. Keulemans, and another from the talented brush of Miss L. M. Medland.

The Redstart.

The Redstart is one of the most popular of the smaller British insectivorous birds, his beautiful colouring making him a very desirable exhibit at the shows, while his dainty mannerisms and sweet song put him in the front rank as a pleasing cage pet. Concerning this bird, Mr. S. L. Cocks, the well-known Peterborough enthusiast, recently wrote: The Redstart is, of course, a migrant, the cocks of the species coming over about ten days or so before the hens, and appearing in my locality generally about the 20th of April. On the arrival of their mates they go straight to their business of the summer. They are double-brooded birds, and their first batch of youngsters is often ready to leave the nest by the first week in June.

The young cocks will not come into full colour at the first moult, the under-throat being very grey (looking as though dusted over with some flour), and the slate on the back tinged with brown. But the beauty of the two-year-old bird will quite repay you for the trouble of keeping them.

You can feed them on any good brand of insectivorous food, or, it you prefer it, you can mix your own as follows:—Biscuits ground up, three parts; ants' eggs, dried flies, and silk-worm pupæ, one part each; and preserved yolk of egg, half a part; using a little grated carrot to moisten it with when feeding. Gentles or mealworms must be given, but don't overdo the latter, or indigestion will soon step in.

The Blackcap.

The Blackcap (another of our small insectivorous birds), is a rival of the Nightingale in the estimation of many, so far as beauty of song is concerned. It is a gentle, attractive bird, not at all difficult to keep in captivity if properly fed. On the latter point, Mr. J. P. Carr, with whom the species is a great favourite, writes: My observation of the Blackcap in a wild state has taught me that it feeds as much, if not more, on fruit and berries than it does on insects. Therefore we should have no great difficulty in catering for and keeping it in good health and condition in confinement, now that we get a good supply of fruit from abroad nearly all the year round, and cheap, too.

If you obtain a fresh-caught Blackcap in the spring, place the cage in as quiet and light a place as possible, and cover the front of the cage with some light-coloured material. In the spring, when these birds arrive, there are very few berries about, so, of course, they are difficult to obtain. But we have fruit at our disposal; and that never-failing fruit, banana, Blackcaps will seldom refuse. For the first two days place half a banana in the feeder, and cut a few mealworms in half and stick them all over it. When you find they are eating the fruit as well as the mealworms, discontinue the latter and sprinkle a little of the dry insectivorous mixture you intend to keep them on over the banana. By degrees lessen the quantity of banana and increase the mixture, and slightly moisten the latter with cold water. You will find within a week the bird will be entirely on its food.

If you procure your bird in the autumn you must bear in mind that they are then feeding (in a wild state), chiefly on elderberries and blackberries, so it is advisable, if possible, to supply them with these in addition to the banana, and treat them the same as I recommend for spring-caught birds.

A good but plain insectivorous mixture suits them very well, composed of 2lb. crushed biscuit, 1½lbs. of best ants' eggs (not those at a few pence per lb.), and 1lb. dried flies. No preserved or hard-boiled egg is required. Feed as follows:—For the staple diet give about two teaspoonfuls of the mixture, made crumbly with cold water and a small piece of banana; then ring the changes with a little grated raw carrot or apple mixed with the dry food, a few candied dates put between the bars of the cage, strawberries, black and red currants, raspberries, elderberries, blackberries, green figs (if obtainable), "sleepy" pear, rotting apple, grapes, and ripe plums. The two last-named fruits should be skinned before being given.

As regards live insect food, they require very little. When moulting I give house flies, and a mealworm or two a day (but some of these birds don't care much for the latter); greenfly may be given when obtainable. Of course, when the birds are moulting, there is nothing better than fresh ants' eggs, wasp-grub, houseflies, and gentles. The gentles should be given with caution, for I have have found they scour the birds if given too freely.

The Maroon Tanager.

The Maroon Tanager is a very uncommon species. It was first imported alive to this country by Mr. E. W. Harper in 1905. One or two examples have of recent seasons made an appearance upon the show-bench. Its "native wilds" are Venezuela, Guiana, Peru, and neighbouring parts of South America.

The food for Tanagers, as described by our Mr. Wesley T. Page, is: Diet—Insects: I have found such species as I have kept eat any of the following (the birds, however, showed individual taste; some would not touch mealworms):—Mealworms, beetles, greenfly (aphidæ), smooth caterpillars, clothes moths and larvæ, earwigs, spiders, and plant bugs generally. Fruit: Grapes, banana, orange, pear, apple, strawberry, elderberry, soaked sultanas, and grocers' currants. The fruit must be ripe—overripe rather than otherwise. Insectile food: Some good make, purchased ready mixed, that will only require damping for use, or the following is very wholesome and reliable:—Game meal, dried pupæ, dried flies, ants' cocoons, and crushed Osborne biscuits; all the above will keep indefinitely in a dry state—the mixture consists of equal parts of each. It is best to keep a portion of the meal, pour over it as much boiling water as it will absorb; knead in the other items, and then add half its bulk of crumbled sponge cake.

Being large eaters, and from the nature of their diet their cages must be cleaned daily, or they would become offensive indoors; but with a daily cleaning-out, kept in a roomy box cage, they will thrive and do well in the temperature of an ordinary living room.

The British Roller C.C.

Members of the British Roller Canary Club are requested to note, that by special arrangement with the L.C.B.A., the judging will take place on Thursday, November 25th. Therefore the birds must be in the hall on Wednesday evening, November 24th. Country members must send their birds not later than Wednesday morning.—J. W. Norris, hon. secretary.

Roller Canaries at the Shows.

There was a class for Roller Canaries at the recent members' show of Highgate and Hampstead C.B.S., and a correspondent writes: "Judging Rollers is a difficult task for the ordinary cage bird judge, especially if he does not possess a musical ear. They should rather come under the ken of such as one of the visitors we saw at this show, and whose after-expression struck us as being significant of the usefulness of these birds to make a show complete. He stood listening with wrapt attention to the song of one of the Rollers. He was evidently a born musician, and he turned away with a face aglow, and thus expressed himself: "I have never before heard anything so sweet and beautiful!"

Under the White Rose.

BRADFORD West C.B.A. annual show, held last Saturday week, attracted its usual share of the plums of the exhibition world. Yorkshires were a grand lot, very level throughout, and the Norwich were the best lot seen in the West Riding for some considerable time. The Cinnamon Marked Novice Classes were again nicely filled, and contained some real good birds, as also did the Yorkshire Union Novice Classes, the Clear or Ticked Yellow Yorkshire class having 31 birds, and that for buffs contained no less than 42. Many really good birds had to go cardless. Norwich novice were a nice lot, too. The judge says they are mostly of a grand type and very neat in feather—without doubt on the correct road to securing some first-class birds.

THE Wibsey and Dis. C.B.S. had a most successful members' show on November 6th, no less than 139 birds being entered for competition, providing Messrs. Halliday and Chittenden, the judges, with a good evening's employment. Then to-day (Saturday) Mr. E. W. Johnson has arranged for Messrs. Dean and Jowett to give the lecture on "Faults we do not want in a Yorkshire," recently given at the headquarters of the Bradford East O.S. Mr. Jowett by means of sketches will show the faults to the audience.

LEEDS C.B.S. held a most successful members' show on Saturday last, having the grand total of 266 entries, which reads more as if it were an open show. Mr. H. E. Wilkinson, of Stocksbridge, had been engaged as judge, but in consequence of the very large entry, Mr. F. King, of Leeds, was asked to assist, in order that the show could be opened to visitors at the advertised time. The room during the whole of the time it was open to the public was crowded, and this show will doubtless rank as the most successful members' exhibition held by the society. A feature of the show was the exceptionally strong novice classes, a fact which speaks well for the enthusiasm of the members. This society has for this season issued a really splendid list of specials, and certainly deserves to get many new members.

YORKSHIRE County British Bird and Mule Club were well represented at Malton Show last week. The members entering in the seven classes provided no less than thirty-eight birds, a very encouraging item for this club, which is now making good progress. Three shows have been held up to the present, under the patronage of this club, and the competition for the specials is very keen, the four leading lights being only separated by 6 points.

GREAT HORTON O.S. have lost one of their oldest members, Mr. Lewis Bolton sailing for the land of the Stars and Stripes, on Tuesday last; and during last week-end a few of his old friends had a convivial gathering to wish him luck and Godspeed in his journeyings, and also to present him with a silver-mounted umbrella as memento of bygone days in the Fancy.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answered under the following Conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side only of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Children's Dinner Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc. of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Grecns, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his question for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

Not Moulting, etc.

Beaky.—As the two birds appear to be in perfect health I advise you not to endeavour to force them into moult, beyond changing their position to a little different temperature. If they are now in a warm part of the kitchen, move them to a cooler place, or to a room without a fire, being very careful not to put them in a draughty place, and vice versa. The hen might with great advantage be handwashed, if you can manage this operation with the requisite skill and care. Give the hen a pinch of Epsom salts in the water every second day for a week, and remove all inducements to nesting, including the cuttlefish, and if you can manage it, keep her out of sight and hearing of singing males. Do not allow her to nest again this season. Clip the over-grown beak back to a natural length with a sharp pair of nail scissors. If it is no worse than your sketch shows, this can be done without the least ill-effect. You can usually see a pink line running round near the margin of the mandible. Keep just clear of this line, and there will be neither soreness nor bleeding. I am afraid the bird is no longer a chick.

A Trio.

Rainbow.—(1) For singing birds, with no pretensions to exceptionally good looks, Rollers would suit you best. They are perfectly hardy, easy to manage, and free breeders. If you want to go in for a fancy breed right away, then either Borders, Norwich, or Yorkshires, would be good varieties to start with. The above remarks apply to them, with slightly decreasing force, in the order in which they are named. (2) This is rather a large question. Had you asked if it was advisable to buy a "pair matched for breeding," from a good breeder, I should have said, decidedly yes, because the breeder would know his birds' pedigree to a greater or less extent, and what the birds were likely to produce. But when buying the matched pairs from a shop, the case is different—case of matching by sight from external appearances only, and it requires a good deal of experience before one can do that with any good effect. Of course, if you were merely breeding singing birds, you could adopt this plan, provided you were assured of having birds not too closely related, or unrelated, in good sound health, and young. But in buying pure breds you would do better to go to a good breeder who knows something about his birds.

Crests and Crestbreds.

A Beginner (Plymouth).—The hen which shells the seeds and rejects the kernel is probably suffering from some digestive derangement. Give her a teaspoonful of bread and milk, sprinkled with a little soft sugar and maw seed daily, half a teaspoonful of summer rape, with just a sprinkling of canary, and a spray of green food, if you can get it in good condition, otherwise give a bit of banana as a substitute. Limit the diet solely to this for three days, and give in the drinking water six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a pinch of Epsom salts each day. Stick a cube of hard common table salt between the wires for it to peck at if it is so disposed, and leave it there for a week or two. After the first three days give in the water six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week, and gradually go back to your present staple diet, by slowly decreasing the bread and milk, and increasing the canary seed each day. See that it is not allowed to become constipated. Omit the millet and linseed from the mixture you give twice a week, and for the next few weeks give this hen a bit of bread and milk twice a week instead of egg food. Your present method of feeding will do very nicely for the birds that have not quite finished moulting if you omit the millet from the mixture, whilst for those that are now through the moult omit the millet and linseed, and reduce the egg food to once a week, and occasionally substitute a little bread and milk for the remaining portion of egg food. If any of your other birds reject the canary seed as this hen does, you should carefully examine the condition of the seed.

Plethoric.

W.T.G.—You would be best advised to look well into the condition under which the bird is kept to see if it is quite protected from draughts, damp, and sudden chills, as although it is quite possible for a kind of wheezy condition to arise from an overfed condition, the chances are far more likely to favour one of the above causes as the responsible agent. Having duly attended to these points, give the bird twenty drops of whisky, six each of oxymel of squills, and tincture of tolu, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, two days in every three for a week, and every second day for another week afterwards. You may, of course, limit the diet to delinite quantities, as you say, but you must be very careful not to forget giving his daily ration with the utmost regularity. Give a small teaspoonful of canary seed every morning—as staple diet. Twice a week reduce this quantity by about one-half, and add half a teaspoonful of summer rapo to the canary seed. On one other day give a piece of bread and milk, sprinkled with gold of pleasure seed, about the size of a hazel nut, in addition to the usual allowance of seed. Give a liberal supply of green food daily as long as it can be obtained in good condition. Continue this diet until you consider the bird is sufficiently reduced.

Breeding for Song, etc.

No Name (Hugglescote).—As your only object is to breed for song, you could, if you wish to cut down the necessary labour of cleaning seperate cages, very well attain your object by allowing the birds to fly loose, and arranging a good supply of nesting sites, bushes, etc, around the walls of the room when the breeding time comes round. Kept under these conditions, you could turn in six or eight hens and two or three cocks to start the season with. The room will really accommodate forty birds flying loose, but you will probably find it fully stocked by the end of the season if you start with the above numbers. If you breed in cages you might still run one cock with two hens alternately, but would probably not be able to run more than the above number altogether, although I cannot be exact on this point without seeing a rough plan of the room. For singing pure and simple, you could not do better than start with the Roller, or, to produce a better-looking bird, though not so good a singer, use Roller hens and Norwich cocks, and train the young cocks under a pure Roller. Either of these breeds would do well without heat if you procured good hardy stock to commence with, but much depends upon the locality of the room in giving a definite reply to this question. It would not harm the birds to paint the walls white inside, if you allowed the paint to become quite dry before the birds were introduced. I should, however, rather prefer to limewash the walls for sanitary reasons in such a place as this.

Norwich Moping and Crippled.

J.G.P.—There must be something wrong with your general management to account for their condition. Your feeding does not seem to be sufficiently nutritious, and you should certainly not give Epsom salts in the water once a week, as a regular practice, nor, indeed, at all when there is no real necessity for it. Keep the birds in fair-sized cages, nicely strewn with clean gritty sand, quite out of reach of draughts, and in a comfortable temperature, though not necessarily a very warm one. But see it is fairly equable. See all seeds are sound and sweet, and free from contamination of any kind. For the next month feed on a staple of plain Canary, and every second day give separately to each bird half a teaspoonful of summer rape seed, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of bread scalded in milk, pressed nearly dry, and sprinkled with soft sugar. As a variant omit the bread and milk once each week and give instead a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it. Twice a week give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, inga, teazle, and gold of pleasure, and on each of the remaining days either a spray of green food or a bit of ripe banana. In the drinking water give six drops each of syrup of rhubarb and tincture of gentian every second day for a week. Then miss a week, and give it again for another week. You had better leave the crippled foot severely alone. It is extremely doubtful if anything will do it the least good, and any interference must be very painful to the bird.

Another Trio.

Ill-Luck.—(1) The Crested hen is suffering badly from constipation. Give her six drops of syrup of buckthorn and a small pinch of Epsom salts in the water daily for three consecutive days, and every second day after for the remainder of the week, and on the alternate days in the latter period four drops of aromatic sulphuric acid in the water. For the first day give also one drop of lukewarm syrup of buckthorn direct into the beak. Also attend to the diet, and cut down any constipating items, such as hemp, to the miuimum for a time, and increase the supply of green food (2) If the fine dust-like particles of sawdust got mixed in the soft food and consumed to any extent, it must have a bad effect upon the digestive system, but I doubt whether it would, even in that case, cause wheeziness and lung trouble. If very dusty, so that the birds breathed dust-laden air most of the time, it might have some effect in that way, but if you employed coarse cut sawdust, which is the proper kind for ordinary use, the risk of this would be very small indeed. Also, if you gave the soft-food in egg drawers placed in the usual positions, there should be very little chance of its getting contaminated with the sawdust. I think you had better look about for draughts, damp, or extremes of heat and cold, as the cause. (3) It depends solely upon how these birds' parents were bred, and the parents themselves, what these birds will breed. If the cinnamon colour is only a chance introduction, the pair will most likely breed clears and ticked or lightly variegateds, in about equal numbers, with a chance of an occasional clear body, dark crest. Any of the young showing cinnamon colour will be practically certain to be hens.

"What is It?"

Newmarsh.—I cannot say definitely what is the nature of the "bleb" without seeing it. Had it not been for the colour you say it shows, I should have suspected it was an accumulation of air caused by the rupture of an air sac, but the colour is peculiarly suggestive of an accumulation of fat. If this is correct, you will also probably find similar deposits on the flanks, and round the base of the tail. Your staple diet does not appear to be responsible, so I can only surmise that you either give it some "extras," of which you make no mention, or that it was treated more liberally during its moult, and laid on the fat then. Try what a month of the following will do, and if not well in that time, write again, and refer to this reply. Keep it in a good-sized cage, where it can get a fair amount of exercise. As staple diet, give a small teaspoonful of plain Canary only each day. Twice a week reduce this quantity of Canary nearly one-half, and on these days add to it half a teaspoonful of summer rape. On one other day, each week, give a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with a pinch of gold of pleasure seed mixed in it, in addition to the spoonful of Canary seed. Give a liberal supply of green food daily, as long as you can get it in good condition. Limit the diet strictly to these items for a month, but be very careful not to forget the daily ration, as a lapse of memory for one day may end in a catastrophe. In the drinking water every second day in the first and third weeks give six drops of syrup of buckthorn, and a pinch of Epsom salts, and in the second and fourth weeks give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

Brevities.

Injured Foot (Rol).—If you had enclosed a rough sketch showing shape of foot, I might have told you whether it was remediable. However, these deformities of the feet are rarely very hopeful, and it is often the best plan to leave them severely alone. As you are not particular about breeding for profit, and this is a good bird, I should certainly advise you to give him a chance in the breeding cage next spring. It is quite likely he may fertilise a certain proportion of eggs, even if he does not fill them all, which some of these injured-footed birds will do.

Lancashire Cut of Condition (E.T.T.).—If it does not respond at once to the treatment, so as to be in good condition by the day prior to show, you will certainly do well to keep it at home. Should be recover in time, do not show him again for a month at least, and when he returns, keep him in a comfortable place, and in addition to the staple of plain Canary, give a small teaspoonful of summer rape every second day, and on the alternate days half a teaspoonful of equal parts hemp, inga, gold of pleasure, and teazle. Each day give a small piece of bread scalded with milk, and sprinkled with soft sugar, and also a small piece of ripe banana. In the drinking water give six drops tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel daily; continue treatment for a week. But it will be most advisable to give it a few week's rest.

Four in One (A.B.C. Boy).—(1) About 12 to 14 inches long, 8 deep, and 12 high, fitted with two perches in the upper region, is a very fair size for a Norwich singing cage. (2) Certainly, Norwich cocks require training just the same as any others, if they are expected to sing a fairly tolerable song. It is not essential for them to have a tutor in order to sing after a fashion of their own, as their own natural song will, to a very great extent, come, as you say, "natural to them." But this natural song is not tolerable to all ears, and is often more apt to irritate than "soothe the savage beast." (3) Undoubtedly the young of a Norwich cock and Roller hen would make better singers than the pure Norwich, especially if trained under a Roller cock; they would not be so good-looking. (4) As a staple a mixture of three parts Canary to one of summer rape. Twice a week a small teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, inga and teazle, and one a week a small piece of bread and milk, sprinkled with soft sugar, and now and again sprinkled with gold of pleasure or maw seed. A little green food four times a week, with sweet fruit as a substitute in winter when green-stuff is not obtainable in good condition

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

A Show Greenfinch.

F. Dodd.—1, The fact of a Greenfinch not being house-moulted will count in nowise against him in competition amongst house-moulted specimens, providing he is their equal in steadiness and condition, and the other essential points of the exhibition bird. It is not often one gets a Greenie (or other bird) in full plumage which carries quite the sheen, or which is quite so tight in feather as the bird moulted in a cage, nor, as a rule, do they show themselves so boldly and well. You may, however, have got hold of the exception that proves the rule. Give him a run at the shows, by all means. 2, My own ideal colour is a rich grass-green, with a tinge of rich yellow (or gold) showing on the abdomen and the wing butts, and in the outer wing and tail feathers; an extra good coloured bird shows the golden tone distinctly at the throat (under the lower mandible), also. I do not care over much for the bird which is pepper-fed to a reddish-green shade of colour—the trouble is that such are usually splendid birds in other respects—good birds spoiled, I term them.

Management of Hawfinch.

Teesdale.—Cages with canvas tops (false tops) are the best for Hawfinches which have not been "steadied down," otherwise they are apt to injure their heads or beaks. I like the Finch stock cage type (very large, of course) with two perches on a level with the seed drawer—not less than 20 inches long by 14 inches high by 10 inches wide, and the two perches should be ¾ in. and ½ in. respectively in width. The water-hole should, naturally, be a very large one. As regards the proper feeding, the principal food for a caged Hawfinch is sound, plump, white sunflower seed, or mixed sunflower and safflower. Sunflower seed which is black, or striped, however, is not bad, by any means. Give a mealworm or two every day; they are a great help in keeping (and getting) a bird steady. I do not mean that you are to feed entirely on sunflower, for the bird also appreciates canary, hemp, linseed, oats, small wheat, and sometimes a little buckwheat, summer rape, small Indian corn, etc. Their powerful beaks make short work of beechmast, suitable nuts (walnuts, etc.), plum and cherry stones, hawthorn, privet, etc., berries, and the like. They appreciate a little young lettuce, watercress, chickweed, shepherd's purse, also ripe apple, pear, etc., occasionally. Of tender green garden peas (in season), they are passionately fond, and these are especially good given in the pod. They are fond of a bath, so let them have one whenever the weather is suitable; daily, if possible. The free use of water is the finest possible thing to keep them in good condition.

Cornerake's Power of Flight.

R.W.—I can quite understand the argument arising over the Cornerake's power of flight. Nevertheless, notwithstanding the fact that the bird is seldom seen on the wing, and then flies only in so laboured a fashion as to be an easy prey for any average shot, it is unquestionable that the Cornerake when migrating exhibits exceptional powers of flight, for it covers long journeys. It winters largely in Africa, getting down as far even as the Cape. One writer, when dealing with this bird, says: "It seems to be really a great wanderer." A few examples are known to stay with us throughout the year, but almost all Cornerakes leave our shores in September, and make their re-appearance towards the end of April. If anyone doubted the Cornerake's ability to fly at all, he was quite wrong. I trust this information answers you fully.

Moulting Problems.

Novice.—1, "Soft moult" is a term used to denote a moult out of season. Thus, if a bird has moulted at the usual time (July to October, broadly speaking) and again commences to shed its plumage in December, or in February, or in May (i.e., at any period other than the afore-mentioned usual time) it is said to have gone into a "soft moult." 2, "Stuck in the moult" is a term denoting that a bird has commenced to lose its old feathers, and has then for some reason or other ceased to shed them, being left in a more or less partly moulted condition. Thus, it is "stuck"—i.e., unable to complete the process of feather removal. 3, The accepted sign of a house-moulted Linnet is the light colour (whiteness) of its legs. Broadly speaking, the more often a bird is cage-moulted, the whiter its legs become. A field-moulted (wild) Linnet has its legs quite dark in colour.

About a Nightingale.

J. W. Marsh.—There is no possible method by which a beginner can distinguish the cock from the hen Nightingale by their plumage; both are practically identical. The "expert" is often puzzled to decide. The cock has a boldness of carriage—a "checkiness"—combined with a flatter, longer-looking head when viewed in profile that bespeaks the male sex to the practised eye; further, he is, nine times out of ten, appreciably the larger bird, and of a ruddier tone of colour on the rump. If your bird was not steady when you had him, I don't think he could have been hand-reared. The "peculiar sound" it has once or twice made is its call-note. If the bird was really in song before you bought it, then the change of quarters would throw it off-song for a certainty, for a more or less lengthy period of time. To sum up, my own impression is that you will get little song from the bird before the spring-time approaches. If you get another bird, you will have to wait until it becomes used to its new place. Some 'Gales are more fickle than others, when caged, in the matter of song.

An Outdoor Birdroom.

Constant Reader.—Unfortunately, you do not give me enough particulars to assist me to give you a very helpful answer. You state the height of the place and the slope from front to back, but do not mention either the length or the width from front to back, which I must have before I can express an opinion as to the holding capacity of the place. As regards cages, however, this is limited only by the number of them which you can put upon the walls in suitable positions. The place will, of course, need to be quite snug and free from damp and draughts, if the birds are to successfully withstand the extremes of winter in it when caged up. With a mixed lot of birds (a goodly quantity), flying loose, the prospects of successful breeding results are never very rosy; the surest method is to pair up in cages. If the number of pairs be strictly limited, however, some young are almost certain to put in an appearance from the hen Canaries. Birds though, are very apt to interfere in each others domestic arrangements, and usually with disastrous results.

In a Greenhouse.

J.S.—A greenhouse in the position shown on your sketch ought not to be damp, or unduly cold. If you are keeping plants in it, however, it is sure to be more or less damp. The extremes of temperature met with in the average greenhouse (very hot when the sun is shining, and very cold at night, unless heated) renders such a place far from ideal for keeping birds in; damp, of course, makes matters much worse. 2, I don't think you can hope to come into the hobby and make it pay right away. You would not expect to do so in pigeons, I presume? I am afraid that with the possible exception of Border Fancies, there are no varieties of Canary which could be bought at £1 the pair and breed winners and young that would sell "at a fair price." Much depends, of course, on the class of show you would be satisfied with. You should join a society of good standing, and learn something of the breed you purpose investing in, before laying out money in birds to breed winners. It can't be done without some knowledge of breeding procedure. 3, You would be unlikely to have any appreciable result from the attempt to breed Blackbirds in cages, beyond the pleasure attaching to the making of the experiment. Pied (partly white) Blackbirds are very common in a state of Nature; many of them are recorded every year.

Fresh-caught Linnets.

C. Lee.—Given fair treatment, the death rate ought always to be small with Linnets and Goldfinches. Fresh-caught specimens should always be kept in cages with inside seed troughs and water vessels, so that their food is directly under their noses, so to speak. It is well to have the water inside; if this cannot be managed, then be absolutely certain they get at it. I prefer to give them a week or so in a cage resembling a catcher's store cage, with canvas top; such is very useful to get them well on to seed, and over the first stages of captivity. The great mistake most fanciers make when buying fresh-caught seedeaters, is to condemn them at once to a diet of dry, hard seed. The sudden and complete change upsets them. I have often dealt with this matter. Fresh-caught Linnets should have soaked seed of some kind (such as soaked rape). For their stock food mix one pint of each of best canary, and sound, ripe teazle, with half a pint each of genuine summer rape, linseed, and charlock seeds. In addition to the stock mixture, in a separate dish I give an unlimited supply of maw seed and niger, also lightly cracked hemp seed. These I gradually discontinue, arranging to drop them altogether after the birds have been in my possession twelve to fourteen days. As green food (or "soft-seed" food), I provide summer rape and sunflower seed soaked in cold water until just commencing to germinate (dabbing it dry in a towel before giving it to the birds), and seeding shepherd's purse, plantain, and chickweed and flowering groundsel tops, when obtainable. If I think my birds were caught during a wet spell, I soak the stock mixture for them at first (you should try the effect of doing this. I very seldom lose a bird on the above treatment.

Brevities.

A Question of Song (J. H. Novice).—A Siskin-Canary Mule has a pretty little song, and is very free with it, but is not so effective a vocalist as the Goldie or the Linnet Mule (the latter in particular), having a weaker voice and a more "squeaky" description of song.

What Bunting? (Brownie).—By your comparison with the Linnet as regards size, and by the general description given, I have little hesitation in saying that the bird you have is a hen Reed Bunting. A young cock (or cock out of colour) would be distinctly greyish while in the neighbourhood of the throat—the hen is brownish.

British Bird Queriists should purchase our "British Bird Manual," published in two parts, "Hardbills" and "Softbills," price 1/- each, or in cloth cover together, 2/3 post free.

A "Nightingale" (One in Doubt).—Your query has come along to me, though its proper place is the Foreign Bird department, for your bird is not really a "Nightingale," but a Pekin Robin, sometimes called the Pekin, or Japanese, Nightingale. Insectivorous food, minced green food, a few mealworms and suitable live insects, a little Canary seed now and again, with ripe fruits, should make up its menu. The cock has a loud, pleasant song. Give a good-sized cage. Write our Mr. Page for any further advice, if needed.

Two Sullie Hens (P. J. Jamieson).—Under the circumstances you will be well advised to let the two hens run with the cock Canaries right through the winter. A variegated Canary is an excellent one to use as a mate, especially if a jonque. Your cages are right enough in length and height (3 ft. by 15 ins.), but 9 ins. I consider hardly wide enough; my own are 16 to 18 ins. from front to back.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S. M.B.N.H.S., etc.

Three-coloured Mannikin.

A.B.T.—This species is a native of India; it requires a diet of Canary, white and spray millet seed, green-food, grit, and a piece of clean cuttlefish continuously in its cage. There is practically no distinction in the plumage of the sexes, but providing all the birds you compare are adults, if you pick one with very light lustrous plumage and a stubby beak, and another with a narrower and more pointed beak, with its plumage not quite so lustrous, you will be pretty safe to have a true pair, but the distinctions are very slight, and with immature birds do not apply. They can be kept in an outdoor aviary with British Finches, but must be turned out in the spring, and not at this season of the year. There is always a probability of this or any other species breeding in a cage (it is not a free breeding species in captivity), but they are much more likely to do so in the outdoor aviary.

Small Birds for a Cage.

"Rainbow."—(1) This differs almost with each individual; tastes are so varied. Any of the following you would find of much interest and easily catered for. Common and Green Avadavats, Grey and Green Singing Finches, Gouldian Finches, Rufous and Long-tailed Grassfinches; Grey, Orange-cheek, St. Helena and Zebra Waxbills; Diamond, Zebra, Ribbon, Crimson, and Cuban Finches, and many others. (2) If kept out of draught (at the same time, they must have light and air) the temperature of any ordinary living-room will suffice, the chief thing to avoid is extremes, or a rapidly changing temperature. (3) 24 Avadavats and Waxbills could be kept in a full-sized Crystal Palace pattern aviary cage. The other species named should have a cage 18 by 12 by 18 inches high for each pair. (4) Canary, white and spray millet, with green-food, grit, and water, for Avadavats and Waxbills; for the other species, oats, paddy rice, and a little ripe fruit, with an occasional insect, should also be given.

Java Sparrows Not Agreeing.

T.N.Z.—(1) I really cannot give you a reason, save that I assume you have got them in too small a cage; for, as a rule, when no hens are present, two cocks agree perfectly well together. If you compare the beaks of these two birds together in profile, if you have a female, one of them will be much narrower at the base and more tapering than the other. (2) This bird must be caged separately till it has recovered its plumage; it is evidently getting badly bullied. Give it one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in its drinking water on three or four occasions, with a three-days' interval between each occasion, and on the days you are not giving the magnesia, well colour the drinking water with Parrish's chemical food. Also rub in a little clean vaseline on the bald part, but not sufficient to make the plumage greasy. Your diet is satisfactory, providing you are giving green-food and grit. (3) Groats are quite wholesome if the birds will take them.

Combassous and Waxbills.

Blue Bird.—The species Combassou, when it is in full breeding plumage, is in colour a shining steel blue, with light beak and feet. The Pink-cheek and St. Helenas are very similar, the former being a lighter and smaller edition of the latter. The prevailing colour is earthy grey, lined with very fine transverse bars of a darker hue; the under parts are washed with rose colour, which becomes rich crimson on the centre of the abdomen; lores and eye streaks, bright crimson. I don't know of any other cheap seed-eater; besides, the Cordon Bleu, whose prevailing hue is blue. There is the Blue-breasted Waxbill, which is very similar, but they would cost you about 20/-, 25/-, or 30/- a pair. All the above would thrive on a diet of Canary, white and spray millet; green-food (grass in flower, when obtainable fresh and free from frost), and at other times a little lettuce or ripe apple. A little crumbled sponge is frequently appreciated by the Waxbills. The Combassou should get about half a dozen mealworms weekly, and also any occasional spider or beetle you can capture for him. Keep them out of draught, but they must also have light, sun and air.

Ailing Green Singing Finch.

Liman.—This African Serin is fairly hardy, but requires a roomy cage, as it is active and vivacious. The males are sweet and sustained singers, but the difference in plumage is so slight between the sexes that it is easy even for an expert to go astray in sexing them. Yours is certainly much out of condition, and this may account for its not singing. Take drinking water away overnight, and the next morning put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia to each ounce of it; give this every third day so long as the voidings are not watery. On the days you are not giving the magnesia, well colour the drinking water with Parrish's chemical food. A great help will be to let the bird have a fly round the room occasionally, when this can be safely done, but windows must be closed and fire protected; if cage door is left open, it will return when hungry. Diet: Equal parts of Canary and white millet seed; also spray millet. Should only give the Finch mixture as an extra, a teaspoonful, say, twice a week; it can have a leaf of fresh lettuce when this is available, also any ripe fruit it will eat. Get a few mealworms and give it two per diem, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. Instead of the soft food, try a little milk sop, if it will take it; a small quantity daily will certainly help while the indisposition lasts. Report progress in, say, a fortnight's time, please.

Brevities.

Naming a Flycatcher (E.D.P.).—Will supply name of this Flycatcher in our next issue.

Amazon Parrot (W. Pye).—I really cannot help you; you give me no data at all. Yellow shoulders are common to both sexes; there is scarcely any outward difference in the sexes. As in Genus Homo, the females are quite as loquacious as the males, if not more so; your bird should most certainly talk. Keep it where it will hear plenty of conversation, and also teach it by constant repetition.

An Ailing Grey (J.R.J.).—I cannot give you a satisfactory reply until you inform me how you have been dieting and treating the bird. In the meantime give it every third day one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia, and in between, that is, when not giving the magnesia, well colour the drinking water with Parrish's chemical food. Use a crock or glass drinker when giving drugs. When the bird has the periods of weakness, a few sips of very weak brandy and water (chilled) will be helpful. If you supply the information, I will try and help you further.

Foreigners with British (A. Boutell).—The principal diet for foreign seed-eaters is Canary, white and spray millet; they will take no hurt if they help themselves to your British bird seed mixture; lettuce and ripe apple are the best green-foods at this time of year. Java Sparrows, Spice Birds, Rufous and Long-tailed Grassfinches; Grey and Green Singing Finches; Zebra, Ribbon, and Red-headed Finches; Silverbills; Bronze, Magpie and Black-headed Maunikins; Common and Green Avadavats and Zebra Waxbills. The small and beautiful Diamond Doves, and also the Chinese Painted Quail, agree well with Finches, etc., in an outdoor aviary. Some of the above are fond of paddy rice and a few oats; Britishers also are very fond of these.

Parrot Queries (Mrs. B. S.).—You cannot well give too much Parrish's chemical food, though it will certainly be well to let it have a drink of clear water once or twice a week. Sprinkle the flowers of sulphur over the boiled maize daily till the bird is in good plumage again. In very cold weather it is safest with an ailing bird to take the chill off the water (not to make it warm). Use rice in the husk, if you can obtain it readily; if not, use ordinary rice, though some Parrots do not eat the latter very readily; use it as a staple portion of the seed mixture; it is very wholesome. A little lettuce whenever you have it to hand, not necessarily daily, will be good for the bird. It should have some ripe fruit daily. It will be quite safe to give the bird 6 or 9 nuts daily at intervals. Keep bird out of draught, but not in a vitiated atmosphere, and it should soon improve.

An Ailing Grey (J.R.J.).—No wonder you have difficulty with it, and I expect, as a consequence of the "bit of everything," the poor bird is quite dyspeptic. Continue for some time the treatment already given in our previous reply. I expect it will be a work of time getting the bird into condition again. Note: The Dinneford's will be better for her than castor oil. Stop all table scraps, tea, coffee, and milk sops, and all animal food, and confine your diet to the following items:—Seed mixture, ripe fruit, nuts, and plain biscuit, this will give you ample variety; keep a piece of clean cuttlefish hanging in the cage, and the sand-tray covered with gritty sand. This wholesome dietary, in connunction with the treatment already advised, should gradually bring your bird into condition again.

Sexing Bengalese (Beginner).—It is very difficult to sex these; in fact, it is almost impossible to sex an odd bird. But the following facts should help you, but only the training of the eye by experience will give you confidence. The bill of the female is narrow at the base, and more pointed than that of the male; this is most distinct when seen in profile. When picking from a crowd, the noisiest and most self assertive will generally be found to be males. With most Finches both sexes are equally energetic in carrying building material, though mostly it will be found the female does the greater part of the building, the mate keeping her well supplied with material. As regards the Spice-birds, practically the same conditions apply as to sexing. In the effort at song the throat of the male pulsates much more strongly and noticeably than that of the female. Spice Birds cross readily with the Bengalese.

PARK AND LAKE AVICULTURE.

Answered by FRANK FINN, B.A., F.Z.S.

A Winged Dotterel.

Sandpiper.—Yes, a broken-winged bird may readily recover, but will probably never be able to fly again. Clip the quills of the damaged wing to ease the strain on it. Give dried flies and ants' eggs (soaked) as well as the meat, and also egg and bread crumbs, and any minced green stuff you can get it to take, as well as worms and insects. You are lucky in getting so rare a bird at all.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 437, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Canary (F. Couzens).—Bird-fever.

Canary (E.S.).—Chronic disease of liver and rupture. It should have been killed, as no remedial treatment could be adopted.

Budgerigar (Torquay).—Softening of liver and rupture of blood vessel of that organ. It might have been frightened by other species of birds in same aviary, so it is suggested that the Budgerigars should have a space to themselves.

Canary (E. Liman).—Acute inflammation of liver, involving the lungs and ending with apoplexy.

Grey Crest (Mrs. Maconochy).—Disease of liver, spleen and lungs, all premonitory symptoms of septicemia.

GENERAL.

Answered by the Editor

A Plate (J. W. H.).—We will bear your remarks in mind. We have already published a plate of the Blackbird (in company with the Robin), and coloured plate of the Thrush appears in part 2 of the "British Bird Manual."

A Goldfinch Plate (A. E. Duffield).—The Birthday Number is published at threepence (three coloured plates, etc.). We have only a few copies left now, post free, packed flat, for sixpence.

A Plate (A.M.).—We have a coloured plate depicting the Yellow and Grey Wagtails; price 6d., post free.

Cutting (H. Smith).—Many thanks. Will use if we can possibly find space.

A Photo., Etc. (A. Brown).—We hope to use these in the near future.

As a Newspaper (A. M., Essex).—Yes; CAGE BIRDS is duly registered for transmission through the post as newspaper rates.

An Illustrated Idea (A. H. Nicholson).—Perhaps our artist has this in hand. They have to take their turn; we get such a great number sent in for consideration.

The Special for Best British (Disgusted).—It has always been our rule not to allow correspondence criticising a judge's awards. There would be no end to it, we are afraid, if we did. Many awards resolve themselves into a mere matter of opinion. And, anyway, the judge's opinion is the only one that materially counts; correspondence cannot alter it.

Cage Fronts (Constant Reader).—We cannot call to mind any previous complaints in that quarter. If you will conform to Rule 8 under "Queries and Answers" we shall be pleased to write the advertiser on your behalf.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given weekly for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be under sixteen years of age, and state whence stories are taken. Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

*Kindness to Birds.

My father has a lot of Norwich Canaries, and there is one we call Joey. It is a beautiful variegated yellow, and it is my mother's favourite. We often go in the room and talk to the birds, as my father tells us it helps to steady them for the show. Our birds are fed on the best seeds, with occasional tit-bits, and they repay us by taking prizes and charming us with their sweet songs.—Sent by Annie Mitchell, Knutsford Lane, Long Buckby.

*A Wandering Yellowhammer.

One morning last summer my brother brought a Yellowhammer home, which we hand-reared. It became so tame as to sit on our shoulders to be fed. It used to hop in and out of the door and pick up a worm or fly. It flew out on to the roof one day, afterwards, into a field at the back, where oats had been growing. We gave it up for lost, shutting the cage-door. About half an hour after it flew into the kitchen. It has gone away since. When we found it, it had been visiting a neighbour four doors further up.—A true story, sent by Mary Gilholm (age 11), 59, Twigell Avenue, Blaydon.

My Pet Redpoll.

I got a little Redpoll cock from a friend, and it became a pet. I had it for two years, and during that time it was my custom to let it fly about the house till its cage had been cleaned. At length it flew out of the door and was away three months. I observed it sitting on the garden gate one day, so I put its cage on the door step, and, behold, what turned out to be my little Redpoll hopped into the open cage, seeming very glad to be back again. I knew it was my Redpoll, as it had a crooked beak; and it knew me as well. So I let it fly about at its will out and in cage. A friend took a fancy to it, and I gave him it. However, he hadn't had it long before my friend got some more pet birds, and put them with it, which must have broken its heart. It came out of the cage and flew about the house by day, and roosted on top of the cage at nights, and at length he disappeared, and has not turned up yet. But I am looking out for it.—Sent by M. Smith (age 12), 3, Ramsay Place, Portobello.

EAST READING.

The members of the East Reading and Dis. F.S. held a six-miles-radius show in Cross Street Hall, on November 3rd, and the entry in all sections was a record one. The society is influentially supported. The hon. secretary (Mr. A. G. Lawson) is enthusiastic, painstaking, and competent, and had the arrangements well in hand. The committee (Messrs. J. Allen, A. E. Reeves, W. H. Allen, E. Fulbrook, T. Owen, J. Casburn, C. Hendy, J. Robinson, E. Few, J. W. Holmes, O. Sheppard, F. Few, W. Lukeman, and A Wise, laboured assiduously, and the attendance of visitors was a numerous one. The hall is spacious and well lighted, and everything possible was done for the comfort of the exhibits. Norwich were nice in quality, and a good class for members; British contained a few good specimens. The premier special for cage bird other than Canary was won by Mr. C. Cox, with a magnificent Lemon-crested Cockatoo. Special for best Canary fell to Mr. J. P. Lawrence. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

DUNS (Berwickshire).

Second club show held on 3rd Nov., when a grand collection was brought together, many of the classes being keenly contested. The Scotch Fancies were a hot lot. Norwich and Borders were keenly contested, some real outstanding birds being on view, and comprising the strains of all the noted breeders. Crests were a good collection, the winning Crest being a real high-class one. British and Mules were a sweet lot. The variegd. class contained two extra good Lizards. The show was held in the Masonic Hall, an ideal place, being free from draught and very comfortable. The committee were composed of the genuine fancier type. Mr. Pringle (Selkirk) judged, and his awards were well received. The show was well patronised.

GRANGEMOUTH.

Grangemouth and Dis. O.S. eleventh annual show was held in the Town Hall, on 13th November, and in every way it was a gratifying success. Entries totalled 560, and, as the show was confined to members within a six miles' radius, it speaks volumes for the enthusiasm in this district. The society are blessed with a very capable executive, headed by Mr. John Macpherson, president, Mr. Wm. Scaife, treasurer, and last but not least, Mr. George Smith, the hard-working secretary, who had everything in apple pie order. The judging was through, too, in good time. The exhibits were a good all-round lot. A handsome silver cup for best young Scotch Fancy, Crest, or Mule, was won by Mr. J. Maxwell with his clean yellow Scotch Fancy. The cup for best young Border Fancy or Norwich was captured by Mr. J. Aitken with a clear buff Nor.; the runner up being a smart little buff variegated Border hen, exhibited by J. Wilson; this bird also captured the B.F.C.C. medal. Cup for best British and Foreign went to the winning Linnet belonging to Messrs. Miller and Eadie, who succeeded in annexing all the first tickets in these sections. Borders Fancies, Mules, British and Foreign, were judged by Mr. C. Campbell (Glasgow), and his awards were well received, and Mr. J. Winter (Edinburgh) seemed also to please the exhibitors in the remaining sections.

TIDESWELL.

The Tideswell C.B.I.S. held their annual show on November 13th. Mr. W. S. Flint, chairman; Mr. W. Brightmore, vice; committee, Messrs. Robinson, Lomas, Flint, Gilbert, Longstone, Bradbury, Hall, Drabble, oven, Eaton, Swarbrick, etc. All these, along with the capable hon. secretaries, Messrs. Bagshaw and Flint, worked very hard for the success of the show, and we congratulate them on the way in which they looked after the wants of the exhibits, and also upon the way the birds were staged. We wish the society every success, and hope it will (as in the past), have the success it deserves. We never found such an enthusiastic lot of fanciers, and everybody gave them full praise for their conduct of the show. During the afternoon the rooms were packed with visitors, Mr. W. Mandell (Bradford), and Mr. Treugove (Rishton) judged, and appeared to give every satisfaction.

CLYDEBANK.

Clydebank and Dis. O. S. Show, held November 13th, and was a great success. There were some splendid Scotch Fancies staged, in excellent condition. There were 12 classes for young and four for old birds, and two for selling. Competition in all was very keen. A very handsome silver cup was presented by the society for best bird in show, and this was won by Mr. Joseph Bowman. The runner-up and second best bird in show, was a young yellow cock belonging to Mr. J. Wilson. Mr. A. Renfrew purchased this bird. President, Mr. D. Cameron; Vice-President, Mr. T. E. Dean; secretary, Mr. A. Kirkwood; treasurer, Mr. J. Hay. Judges, Messrs. A. Melrose (Galashiels), J. Dalgleish (Leith), A. Watson(Rutherglen, and R. Wright (Greenock). The secretary, Mr. A. Kirkwood, had a busy time of it, but was quite equal to the task. The arrangements were well planned, and everything went through to perfection. There was a grand turn-out of visitors. The placing of the awards met with general satisfaction.

HIGHGATE, HAMPSTEAD C.B.S.

Held at Spencer Hall, on November 12th and 13th. This was only the second annual event, but it was a splendid success, to accomplish which all the officers of the society worked with a will. The entry totalled about 360, figures which, considering the comparative youth of the society were considered highly creditable, and indicative of vitality and progress. Mr. C. H. Law, the present hon. secretary, has only held office for about three months, yet, by hard work, he has succeeded in achieving a record entry, and as to the quality, it excelled that seen at any previous show. The attendance of fanciers from other societies was large, especially on Saturday evening, when there was also a large influx of the non-exhibiting public, and a substantial addition to the membership roll. The champion section came up well, but the novices held the palm in regard to numbers, while the amateur section failed. The challenge cup for best 1909 Canary in show bred by a member, was won by Mr. H. T. Jones, with a rattling ticked buff Yorks. The show of British birds was a splendid one, Mrs. Weston and Mrs. Giddy making things "hum" in their respective sections. Each lady staged a team fit to compete in the keenest open competition. Foreign were few, but select, and the Rollers must not be forgotten, as they supplied the music, and were the delight of many visitors. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his steward was that old and esteemed fancier, Mr. J. Ohlaker. Too much praise cannot be accorded the committee for the willingness they showed to work. The manner in which the birds were put down by the various exhibitors elicited nothing but praise.

WIMBLEDON.

In the large Queen's Hall, Wimbledon, the Wimbledon and Dis. C.B.S. held their fifth annual show, Mr. H. Smith, the hon. sec., again managing the venture, with great credit to himself. The classification was good, the show being under the patronage of the S.Y.C.C., the S.N.C.C., and the N.B.B. and M.C.

The entries were considerably more than last year's, numbering over 600. The Norwich were much in advance of last year's, both in number and quality, the competition being very keen, in many cases condition alone turning the scale. As usual, there was a fine display of Yorkshires, the classes being well filled with birds of exceptional merit. The principal winners in this section were: Messrs. Rennie, Easterling, Mabey, etc., and in Norwich such champions as Messrs. Baker, Hodder, Young, and Gill and Co., fought out some stiff battles. The British section was rather below last year's in number many well-known birds being saved, probably for a bigger event.

The hall was well filled by enthusiastic visitors, in spite of inclement weather. Mr. H. Smith makes a champion show manager, and worked well during the day, being ably assisted by the chairman, Mr. Stoakley, also Messrs. Wright, Day, Priest, Warley, and others, on the committee. Mr. J. Robson judged open classes, and Mr. H. Norman the Hybrids, British and Members' Canaries.

DEANS.

First annual exhibition of the Deans and Dis. C.B.S., a newly-formed society, was held in the Workmen's Institute on November 13th. The hall is nicely situated, and is in every way suitable for the holding of such a show, being well lighted and free from draughts. The society confines its membership to a five-mile radius, but there was keen competition in all sections. The society are fortunate in having the liberal support of the gentry and merchants of the district. The president, Mr. J. Brown, a breeder of the "long 'uns," and Mr. J. Kay, the secretary, make two officials which any society would be proud of, and worked well to make the show a success. Entries totalled 150, the Borders taking premier place both in quality and numbers. The clear yellow of Mr. Thos. Peel's (medal winner at Uphall) gained two gold medals and special for best cock. Medal for best Nor. was won by a nat. col. yellow of Mr. A. Gordon's. The president gained the coveted honour in the Yorkshire section. Mr. Gordon's Budgerigar won medal for best bird in that section. The judges were Mr. G. Brown (Leith) for Norwich, Yorkshires and Borders, and Mr. J. Stracban (Bathgate) for British and Foreign, and their awards seemed to give entire satisfaction. The show was well patronised by the public.

LEEDS (Roller).

The Leeds Roller C.C. held their fourth annual singing contest on November 12th and 13th, in the Temperance Society's rooms, 16, New York-street, which is a nice room for a Roller contest. Entries came up very well—121, which is a record for the club, we believe. The B.R.C.C. young bird competition seems to have proved a success so far, as regards the two shows that have had it, as these classes have been well filled. No doubt some of the exhibitors will be disappointed, and the judges were also, as a lot of the birds would not do much, and some would not open at all. In the amateur class, No. 6, 9, 16, 17 did nothing at all; in the novice class, Nos. 4, 5, 11 did not sing, and 6 and 10 very little. In the young bird class competition is going to be keen. It was a pleasure to see that Mr. Foulds's bird was the winner. He is one of the best of Roller fanciers, and he entered 12 birds. Mr. Wilsdon will not be far off when the points are counted up, as his birds are very consistent. The Midland fanciers did well at Leeds, taking a fair share of the cards. We hope the show will have turned out a success. Messrs. F. A. Lester and F. Oldroyd judged.

SOUTH WEST LONDON C.B.S.

Twelfth annual autumn show, held November 6th, at Plough Hotel, Clapham Junction. Considering that it was only a members' show, and that there have been three or four all-England open shows in the district representing the various specialist clubs, the show may be considered a real success. It must also be borne in mind there are four other societies, two of them in the immediate locality. There was to be seen at this show some of the best Norwich and Yorkshire that have competed in the leading open shows; this, therefore, gave the amateur and novice members an exceptional opportunity of comparing their stock with high-class birds. The birds generally were well staged, and there was a fair attendance. Mr. Robsou judged. At the close of the show the birds that had to be dispatched for the country were sent off first. It rather strikes one that the Norwich champion and Yorkshire classes might be slightly curtailed without making any difference to the entries.

NOTTINGHAM.

The Nottingham O.S. held their 28th annual exhibition on November 13th and 15th, in the Mechanics' Lecture Hall, an ideal place, having capital light (electric by night), being very spacious and lofty, and nicely heated by hot-water apparatus, also absolutely free from draughts. The schedule issued was very good, with specials and extra specials galore, and prize money 22s. per class (2ds. per class in Foreign section), for the usual entry fee. The managing committee comprises Messrs. R. Rhodes (chairman), C. E. Ley (vice-chairman), and others so well known throughout the Fancy as keen enthusiasts and workers, and Messrs. G. Alton, G. Hill, T. Barker, J. Bertie, L. Burrows, A. Cooper, J. Goode, W. Cottingham, J. H. Northage, J. Onion, E. Wolfe, and G. A. White. With such a list of practical fanciers as this, can one wonder at the success attained, year after year, at Nottingham? Words almost fail one to praise deservedly Mr. G. E. Wilkinson, the hon. sec. The grip he gets of the secretarial duties is thoroughly businesslike, and he is, without doubt, an expert in the art of running an open show, and ensuring its working smoothly. Beyond this, he is always most courteous and obliging. Much of the success attained is certainly due to this most valuable official.

For once in a way the entry fell somewhat short, being under last year's total by a matter of 50, the falling off being more noticeable in the British and Foreign than in any of the other sections. Nevertheless, the total of 686 was a good one, and considering that so many shows were held on the same date, this is fairly satisfactory. The staging was of an excellent description, and every bird could be seen to comfort, and the show-room was very tastefully decorated by Mr. Ley (vice-chairman) and the like. Another item that caught one's eye was the large glass case filled with very valuable plate and many other items, offered as "specials," and which would be claimed by the successful exhibitors ere the show closed. The Notts Society deserves a good entry for their enterprise in this direction. Mr. E. Pass (of Hucknall) had a fine display of aviaries, show and breeding cages and other appliances on view in the room. Mr. Wm. Cottingham (secretary of the Foreign Section) attended to the feeding, etc., of the Foreigners, and great praise is due to him for the manner in which he discharged his duties.

Warriors All!

Mr. Geo. C. Ley acted as "receiving and dispatch clerk," assisted nobly by Mr. G. A. White. By the manner in which they went about their work, both as regards unpacking and repacking, there was no hitch whatever, a result which stamps them as experts in this direction. The stewards were Messrs. J. H. Northage and G. Hill (Crest section), L. Burrows and J. Goode (Norwich), A. Cooper and E. Barker (Brit.). All are to be highly complimented, for they worked like Trojans from first to last. Mr. R. Rhodes, the worthy chairman, enthusiastic and full of energy, retained every virtue for losing matters to a successful issue. A better chairman no society could possess. He is most popular and appreciated, without a doubt.

Turning to the exhibits, first on the programme were the Plainheads; and a nice collection, certainly, though we think we have seen more "corpers" here on past dates. The marked yell. cock owned by Mr. E. Fox, the yell. hen by Mr. W. Whetstone, and the buff hen by Messrs. Beardall and Walker, are a grand trio, and a credit to their owners. The amateur Norwich contained a few capable of running those in the "upper circles" closely. Next came the cream of the whole show, the Crests and Crest-breds. One is accustomed to find a fine class of Crests at the best birds in the country, and on this occasion it was not in the least quality was even higher than at many past events. Many champion "cribbles" were represented by extremely meritorious specimens, notably by Messrs. T. Taylor, J. Bertie, A. C. Ley (Notts.), Mr. Drake (Norwich), Norwood Bros. (Sutton-in-Ashfield), Mrs. E. L. A. Crow (Lowestoft), L. Burrows (Basford), and R. Rhodes (Nottingham). The buff mkd. wings Dark Crest shown by Mr. L. Burrows is a grand bird, while the Grey Crest owned by Mr. T. Taylor is a real stormer, and takes the cake in the entire "Crest world" as unbeatable; it was looking as well as ever. Mr. Geo. C. Ley had on view a slashing buff, clear body grizzled Crested hen, also a lovely variegated Dark Crest, 1909 bred, which took the 21s. special for best variegated Crest in C.B. A brace of more charming birds would be hard to locate. The young bird, with luck, has a future. The Crest-bred classes contained some "hot stuff." The first four buff hens, owned respectively by Messrs. T. Taylor, H. Lazarus, Norwood Bros. and R. Rhodes were stated by Mr. T. Heath (the judge) to be the finest quartette he had ever seen in any one class in all his career. The Lancashires and Lizards provided a treat. Mr. R. Turner won with his noted yell. grizzle coppy (Manchester and Rochdale winner, we presume), and Mr. W. Adams stood ahead in the buffs (also the Manchester and Rochdale winner). In the yell. P.H., Mr. W. Hardy captured with a giant, full of true character; the same owner did the trick also with a massively built cl. buff P.H. Amongst the Lizards, Mr. J. Rukin held whip hand, claiming three firsts out of a possible four, Mr. J. Hampshire gaining the prize for second in the Silver broken cap with a beautifully-spangled specimen. Normans put up a fine lot, although not over numerous. Yorkshires numbered 18 in the only class set apart for them, and were a choice assortment.

A Mule Problem.

The British birds were a great disappointment this year at Nottingham. It is true that the classes had been "pruned down," and it is very probable that team owners, and even smaller exhibitors, kept their birds at home on account of not receiving the usual extended consideration. It seems a certainty that the commoner species of British birds are more numerous at shows where separate classes are provided for them. Where a man has a team, and half of his birds have to go into about two variety classes, he will not send, particularly when he finds other shows giving them separate classes. Taking the Goldfinch class, it seems quite impossible to believe that only two entries turned up. Again, only four Bullfinches were in the class. Surely the Midland fanciers and exhibitors generally do not at once ceased to keep Goldfinches and Bullfinches? It is a reflection on fanciers to have to record such meagre support in these classes. The remainder of the British section did not create a better entry, but not by any means what it deserved, and the writer of these notes will not be surprised to find the Nottingham Society striking the British section out of their schedule, or curtailing the classes still more. When good classification and specials are given exhibitors should see to it that they give their support in return. It is enough to make Committees give up making classes for species which are treated like the Goldfinch and Bullfinch at this show. The Hybrids were a good all round lot. It was a pity that two or three lightly variegated Goldfinch-Can. Hybrids were entered in the heavily variegated class. They were very good birds, and would have had a good chance in their proper class. When a bird has a clear saddle (or back), and a clear breast, and all underneath clear, it is more than half light, and any bird more than half light in its plumage is a lightly variegated bird. The old grand cl. Goldfinch-Canary turned up once more, and a splendid Can.-Bullfinch won the special for best in the Hybrid section. A grand Thrush won the special for the best in the British Bird section. The Foreign birds were a treat, and some of the most exquisite rarities of the day, in grand plumage, were shown. They attracted a great deal of attention from the public and visitors generally.

The judges were Messrs. W. Vardy (Nor. and Liz.), T. Heath (Crests, Lancs., Cinn., and Yorks.), and C. Houlton (Brit. and For.). Their awards appeared to give general satisfaction, very little grumbling being heard.

The Plainheads.

HASTINGS.

The eleventh annual open show of the Hastings United C.B.S. was held under Cage Bird Union rules on November 9th and 10th, when it proved a great success. The venue was the Parish Hall, Priory-street, a place in every way suited to the occasion. The number as well as the quality of the exhibits constituted a record for the society. No fewer than 400 Norwich were on view, among them being some of the very best in the South of England. The birds in the members' Norwich class were also very hot, and some of the owners here could have held their own in the open. The Yorkshires were hardly up to the standard, perhaps, but the Goldfinches were a fine lot, as were also the Linnets and the Foreign birds. Mr. A. E. Godden, with a very creditable secretarial experience at the back of him, had the arrangement of matters in hand again this year, and the committee, consisting of Messrs. J. Stevens (chairman), R. Cragg, A. George, G. Stubberfield, J. H. Bellamy, H. Pennells, G. Brooke, G. Barham, W. Button, A. R. May, W. Upton, T. G. Coombs, C. Randell, M. Wilson, J. Dawson, H. Morris, H. L. Harris, H. Bond, and C. Cave, with Mr. H. Godden as hon. treasurer, and Mr. H. L. Harris as the assistant secretary, worked hard and shared the credit of a very successful show. Mr. J. Robson judged.

BANBRIDGE.

Annual show held in Town Hall, Nov. 11th and 12th. The room is lofty, well lighted, free from draughts, and very comfortable for an exhibition. Entries totalled about 876, and we are pleased to note a large increase on last year. The show was held under the rules of the Norwich F.C.C. of Ireland and the Y.C.B.S. of Ireland. The quality was of a very high order. In the champion classes several of last season's novices came out well. The coveted and valuable cup was won by Mr. Neill, of Belfast, for best Canary in show, with his noted Scotch Fancy. The silver cup for best British bird in show, was won hands down by Mr. J. Barclay, of Belfast, and the silver cup for best Mule in local classes, bred by exhibitor, was won by Mr. D. Fry, of Banbridge, with his Goldie-Canary Hybrid. Specials in the various classes went to following: Messrs. J. Neill, Graham, Tate, Bird, McCagherty, Carson, Laith, Barclay, Thompson, Connell, Fleming, Devins, Woods, Lareing, Holley, Hayes, Harvey, Morrow, and Fry. Mr. Hamilton, the energetic and obliging secretary, and his many assistants, worked hard, and had matters well in hand. The gate was good, and we noticed many prominent exhibitors present, who were well satisfied with the awards made by Mr. H. W. Battye.

LIMAVADY.

Third annual exhibition of the Limavady and Dis. F. and I. A., was held in the Alexandra Memorial Hall, on Nov. 10th. The room is a capital one for the purpose, free from draughts, and well lighted. The birds were staged on the three-tier principle, and had their wants well attended to by the energetic and obliging secretary, Mr. Wilson, and Messrs. Gault and Moore, stewards. These gentlemen worked hard in true fancier spirit, taking a delight in their work, and had matters well in hand; they had a good and useful committee to back them up. The quantity and quality of exhibits were very fair. Entries were small, 120 in about 16 classes, but this was expected, owing to another show being held on the Thursday in the North, which had the patronage of specialist clubs. The Scotch Fancy, British birds and Mules were a nice lot, and worthy of mention. In the Selling Classes sales were brisk. The Yorkshire Section had three classes cancelled for want of entries. The cards were placed by Mr. J. Neill, and his awards were well received. The gate was good, and, on the whole, we predict a great financial success for the show.

Class 17: 1, Holroyd Bros.; 2, Suggitt; 3, Dennison.

WHITEHAVEN.

Invariably a well-managed and nicely-arranged show, the eleventh exhibition of the Whitehaven C.B.S., held on November 12th and 13th, lost nothing by comparison with previous efforts. The only regrettable feature was the sparse attendance of the general public, as, without any question whatever, the efforts of the committee, headed by the hard-working and energetic secretary, Mr. W. J. Douglas, deserved a better attendance. As at other Cumberland shows, the Norwich were small classes—21 entries in five classes standing. Yorkshires and Borders were better supported locally, and filled better, as also did the British. All prize money was forwarded, and paid out to exhibitors pro cut, and this ought to be a telling inducement to fanciers to exhibit at any future show. The show was held in the Oddfellows' Hall, in every way a suitable venue. The committee, consisting of Messrs. J. Ellwood (chairman), J. Ferguson, T. Brown, J. Kelly, E. Douglas, H. Levason, D. B. Ellwood, W. Irwin, T. Waddington, and W. M. Quirk, are all good fanciers, and looked well after the exhibits. Judges, Mr. J. S. Wilson (Workington) for Canaries, and T. Kearton (Padstow) for British and Foreign. Their awards on the whole appeared to meet with every satisfaction.

GILLINGHAM.

Held in the Public Hall on November 11th and 12th. Owing to the clashing with other events in and around Kent, the entry was poor, but the quality of the exhibits was excellent. It is, we hear, the intention of the committee to revise the arrangement as to the various points in connection with the show another year, when, possibly, with less clashing of shows, Gillingham may do better. Mr. Cotterell, the hon. sec., worked well, and did justice to his office. The committee one and all worked assiduously, and while it was theirs to deserve greater success, the odds were so much against them that they could not command it. Mr. Lancaster, the cage bird steward, was most attentive to the wants of the birds. The challenge bowl best British went to a grand Linnet exhibited by Mr. Wickham. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

Nests of birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

FROME.

The Frome and Dis. C.B.S. held their second grand open show on November 11th, in The Mart, Vicarage-street, a splendid place for an exhibition and on a glorious day. The show was ably managed by Mr. Jas. Tottle, and Mr. W. Minty, the secretary, who were well backed by a hard-working committee, consisting of the following gentlemen: Messrs. Bailey, Pickford, Dodge, Boddinott, Moore, Pope, Welsh, Palmer, and Miss H. Walker; with Mr A. E. Boddinott as assistant-secretary. The judge was Mr. T. RAMSGATE.

Second annual show of the Ramsgate and Dis. F. and F.S. was held on November 10th and 11th, in the Royal Victoria Pavilion. It is a large hall, and afforded ample accommodation for all the sections of the show. Messrs. Allen and Tucker are the joint hon. secretaries, supported by an influential committee of hard-working and painstaking fanciers. The cage bird section was held under the rules of the Cage Bird Union, but even this did not fill the classes, for many were cancelled, and others but poorly supported. Mr. North was enabled to commence judging in good time; he had a full morning's work, and we heard no complaints as to his awards. Catalogues, with printed awards in the margins, were on sale in good time, and the weather being fine on both days, we hope the venture was rewarded by ample receipts at the gates. The hon. secretaries, Mr. A. E. Allen and Mr. Tucker, are deserving of great praise for the most able manner in which they carried out the arrangements.

HUDDERSFIELD.

Huddersfield held their Annual Open Show, on November 13th, in Primitive Methodist Schools, Northumberland Road, under the rules of the Yorkshire Union, and the patronage of the Y.C.C., C.M.Y.C.C., O.N.P.C.C. and the gentry of Huddersfield The room is a nice size, and very convenient, being within two minutes' walk of the Station, and quite handy for the trams. Mr. R. Carr was the judge appointed by the Yorkshire Union, he taking all the Yorkshire Classes, Mr. W. Booth (Hyde) being engaged to take all Norwich and Selling classes, the awards of both gentlemen meeting with the approval of all fanciers. A good schedule of 31 classes, with a good special list, had been provided, an entry of 462 being received in response, averaging over 15 per class throughout. The one class for British birds was declared void, and one class of Norwich had half prize money; otherwise entries were fairly good. Mr. J. Bailey secured special for most points in the Yorkshire Classes, with Mr. H. Charlesworth second. In cinnamon marks, Messrs. Ogden Bros. came out on top, Mr. A. Cooper taking second position. The Novice Section points special was secured by Mr. J. Thomas, with Mr. W. H. Ball second. Sandiford's medal for hottest fed bird was given to Mr. Snowden's Norwich exhibit. Messrs. Greensmith and Clegg, as secretary and assistant, had charge of affairs, and they were well backed up by Messrs. Cartwright, President, Stead, Fearnley, Whitehead, Gledhill, A. Haigh, and others, everything passing off well, exhibits all being packed off in good time.

LUTON.

The newly formed Luton F.S. held their first show in the Plait Hall on November 11th. We were sorry that the blue pencil had to be used rather extensively on the schedule, and that some classes had to be amalgamated. The management was all that could be desired. Mr. A. C. Pilbeam makes an ideal secretary—courteous, obliging, and a "terror" for work, having everything well in hand. He was ably assisted by his committee, including his brother, Mr. J. W. Pilbeam, and Mr. Frank Webb, who makes a capital cage bird steward. If the committee could see their way clear to make a more liberal classification for cage birds, we see no reason why they should not get a more liberal response. Mr. G. H. Billett judged.

NOR. (old and young classes amalgamated) (15): 1, Wilmot, very fine large buff, of excellent type, closely run by 2nd; 2, Litchfield and Sons, lovely cl. yell., excels in col., has nice wings and tail, correct type; 3, F. Webb, variegated, yell., excellent quality, good head, nice sweep of chest; 4, F. J. Webb, smart cl. yell., good quality; cx. 4, Brewer, fine exhibit; vhc, Horwood, Rhodes, Spall, Webb; hc, Rayner, Spall, Webb. YORKS., OLD (11): 1, Mrs. Ballard, very long reaohy yell., good legs, full of nerve; 2, Hawes Bros., grand yell., straight as a ruler, nice quality; 3, Brown, yellow mkd. on neck, very smart, but not quite the length of winners; 4, Hawes Bros., very fine typical buff, put up in excellent condition; vhc, hc, Mole; vhc, Ballard; hc, Codd, Webb. YOUNG (11): 1, 3, Hawes Bros., very fine rich-coloured buff, typical Yorks., teeming with quality; 3rd, yellow, tkd. on wing, nice length, very straight, hardly so reachy perhaps as first two; 2, Cherry, very long reaohy yell. of excellent quality, grand pair of legs, full of nerve; 4, Codd, nice yell., tkd. on head, a trifle too heavy in tail; vhc, Mole (2), Webb; hc, Brown, Webb. CRESTS, MULES, AND FOR.: All cancelled. BRIT. (three classes amalgamated, which made it rather hard lines for the smaller birds). BRIT. (10): 1, Cherry, very fine large Hawfinch, good carriage, nice bib, excellent condition, Bedford winner, with a bit more polish would take some stopping; 2, Wilmot, lovely Goldfinch, Bedford and Yarmouth winner, full of bloom; 3, Smith and Sons, very smart little Blackcap, in nice plumage; 4, Wilmot, good Linnet, nicely pencilled; ex. 4, Poole, rich-coloured Hawfinch, very steady; vhc, Meadows, very nice Ring Ouzel; vhc, Miss Coulson, nicely spotted Thrush, would look much better in a proper show cage; hc, Child.

DEWSBURY O.F.S.

First Old Bird show held recently at headquarters, the Little Saddle Inn, where Mr. S. Wilcock, of Eccleshill, placed the awards, which seemed to give general satisfaction. He also showed the novice members the various points they wanted to attain in order to become successful exhibitors.

CONSETT.

The Consett, Blackhill and Dis. O.S. held their 13th annual exhibition on Nov. 13th. The cage bird section occupied the whole of the Masonic Hall, this being a very suitable place for the purpose. The total number of entries amounted to about 270, this not being quite up to the average, the reason being that the society were not affiliated to the C.B.U. It is with regret to have to announce that several of the classes had to be cancelled. The Norwich section made quite a show in themselves. The whole of the birds were staged in good time, and the cards all on soon after the opening. Mr. W. H. Hutchinson, junr., the hon. secretary, had the arrangements well in hand, and with practical fanciers such as the stewards, and the assistant secretary, every item was up-to-date, and by the appearance of the public, it is hoped that the bird section may have a balance to carry forward. Mr. W. P. Barnes (Grantham) placed the cards, and his awards appeared to give every satisfaction. The members' cup went to Messrs. Colling and Turnbull. The second best was Mr. Mason's ticked yellow Nor.

QUEENS PARK (London).

Held on November 13th in Emmanuel Hall, Harrow-road. The entries were about 40 in excess of last year's total, and the quality was excellent. Mr. J. C. Birch, the courteous and kindly hon. secretary, aided by Mr. G. B. Lewis, assistant-secretary, had the arrangements well in hand, and judging was over in good time, cards being up promptly. Mr. J. Robson judged. One of the features of the show was the Yorkshire section, and here the challenge cup for best unflighted bird was awarded to Mr. Thornton for a bird exhibited in the novice section. The same gentleman also won the Yorkshire (Novice) Subscription Bowl, and the cup for bird shown by a novice who has not won outside the association. Mr. C. J. Roberts won the Norwich Plainhead cup. The quality was excellent throughout. The following gentlemen, members of the council, rendered assistance during the time the show remained open:—Messrs. Bassett, Battison, Buckman, Churchard, Clark, Creamer, Eaton, Holmes, Menhennet, Monger, Morse, and Rogers. The attendance of fanciers and the general public was very numerous in the evening, and the association continues on the up grade.

DARWEN.

The Darwen and Dis. C.B.S. held their first show on November 13, in the rooms next the old Post Office, Railway Road, and it was a huge success. Messrs. Till and Brunskill are to be complimented upon the efficient manner in which they erected the staging, whilst Messrs. Gorick, Greenwood, G. Davison, Shorrock, Smith, Fairhurst, Trevor, and others worked in splendid harmony. Mr. Sandiford, of Preston, judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction. It was indeed a splendid initial attempt, and will undoubtedly create more unity amongst our local fanciers. We are looking ahead for better things, and in the near future we hope to make our show one of the most popular in the country.

BOURNEMOUTH.

Bournemouth C.B.A., Eighteenth Annual Exhibition was held in the Winter Gardens, on November 16th and 17th. The Hall is most suitable for a show of this description, light and nicely warmed. The entries were ten down on last year's in the open classes, due, no doubt, to the society withdrawing from the C.B.U. The committee is not a large one, but all are workers, and had everything well in hand.

Aldermnn Webber opened the exhibition with a few suitable remarks of encouragement, and a promise of nnother challenge cup for 1910. The Norwich were not large classes, but Mr. Baker and Mr. Lowe, of Cowes, put down some nice specimens. Crests were cancelled. Crest-breds were good, the local fancier, Mr. H. Neal, winning with a really good specimen; this gentleman must be having a term of winning—many prizes every year; it must be three or four challenge cups he has won outright, and this year he has scored again towards another. He holds one of the best collections of Crests in the West. Yorkshires made a good show, but it fell to British birds to make the best display of all, and the winning Goldie will take a lot of beating. Foreign birds came up well, too, and some very fine specimens were put down in the "small" class.

Mr. Bastock, of Birmingham, judged, and we heard no grumbling. The catalogue, with awards in the margins were on sale shortly after two o'clock—sharp work. The schedule opened with clear buff Nor., the yellow class being cancelled. The committee consists of Messrs. G. W. Jones (chairman), H. T. Neale, F. House, M. Cook, G. Gerrey, E. Leech, H. Harris, Davis, and H. Sandell (hon. treasurer). The committee were led by Mr. Montague, E. Feltham, who, as the hon. secretary, is one of the best it has been our privilege to meet; he is in every way qualified to carry through a show of the proportions and importance of this, which proved such a success.

WREXHAM.

Wrexham and Dis. C.B.S. held their first old show November 13th, in the Masonic Hall, which is compact and well lighted. The show was a great success, upwards of 200 birds putting in an appearance, which speaks volumes for the future of the society, considering, too, it was only initiated some twelve months ago. They are a go-ahead lot, these Welshmen, and there are more unlikely things than an open show in Wrexham before long. The committee consists of Messrs. W. Jones, Morris, B. Bennett, Buckley, Pickup, Hodges, Sharmnn, Hooson, Dawson, and J. Roberts. They were admirably led by the chairman, Mr. F. Bennett. Unfortunately, the secretary, Mr. F. Hampson, was taken ill on the morning of the show, but things were soon put in order by the committee. Mr. B. Bennett took the secretarial reins, and with the help of Mr. Parry and Mr. Salisbury, everything was ready by eleven o'clock. A good number of people visited the show, including many ladies, who took a great interest in the exhibits. We heard Mr. Ellis Edwards (treasurer) had everything ready to pay out at close of show. Mr. J. W. Metcalf (Liverpool) judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

SOUTHEND.

A really fine display of birds was on view at the show held in the Clarence Hall, on November 10th and 11th. It would be impossible to find a more suitable hall, it being well lighted and free from draughts. The birds were tastefully staged, with here and there a large fern or palm, which lent to the beauty of the show. Some choice Yorkies and Norwich were on view; in fact, the quality all through was quite above the average. Mr. Robson judged. The secretary, Mr. W. D. Franks, had everything well in hand for the success of the show, and he was ably assisted by a good committee.

LEITH (Jubilee).

The 22nd annual show of the Leith Jubilee O.S. was held on Nov. 6th in Kinnaird's Hall, Kirkgate. Entries were much the same as last year's, and the quality was well maintained. The Yellow cock, belonging to Mr. Magnus Petrie, which carried off the Calder Cup, is a bird of exceptional merit. The runner-up belonged to that veteran breeder, Mr. John Begg, whom we were pleased to see to the front again. Mr. Donald McEachern, the president, ably assisted by Mr. James Sinclair, the genial and hard-working secretary, had everything in the best of order when the judges commenced, and spared no pains to please members and visitors alike. The judges, Messrs. Joseph Higgins and James Hogg, both well-known in the Fancy, soon had the cards up, and their awards seemed to give general satisfaction. In the evening Provost Smith presented the special prizes to the respective winners.

CANNOT BE WON

without good birds, and what is more important, without the proper knowledge of BREEDING, MANAGING, AND PREPARING THEM FOR THE SHOW BENCH.

YOU CAN WIN

If you have this knowledge, and the best and cheapest way for all Norwich Canary Fanciers to obtain this most valuable information is to purchase at once a copy of "Cage Birds" latest handbook, entitled:

NORWICH CANARIES

By C. A. HOUSE.

Price - - 1s. 1d. post free.

This Handbook, complete and comprehensive in every detail, supplies in a concise manner all the information that it is necessary to know to become a successful breeder and exhibitor of Norwich Canaries.

FROM THE EGG TO THE SHOW BENCH.

It explains fully the best methods of pairing up the stock birds; how to feed and treat when the young are hatched; the art of colour feeding, and the best methods of washing and preparing for show. It contains a coloured plate and numerous illustrations of the different varieties, and is a veritable encyclopædia on the Norwich Canary, which no breeder, whether novice or old hand, can afford to be without.

How to Promote Your Hobby.

"CAGE BIRDS,"

Nov. 27th, 1909.

Three coupons of the same date entitle you to a free advertisement of 12 words in our "Sale and Exchange." All coupons of this date to be sent in by 1st post Friday, Dec. 3rd (latest).

"SALE AND EXCHANGE" ADVERTISEMENTS FOR READERS WHO DISTRIBUTE TWO COPIES OF "CAGE BIRDS."

Novel Scheme to Benefit Our Readers and Ourselves.

Everyone at some time or another wants to sell some article for which he has no further use, or to exchange it for something he wants. Amongst the 50,000 other readers of "CAGE BIRDS" there must be some who are ready to buy from, or exchange with you.

To enable our readers to dispose of, purchase, or exchange various articles, we have decided to insert private advertisements free of charge for those who are willing to promote the circulation of "CAGE BIRDS." All you have to do is to get two extra copies of this week's issue, and give them to two friends who you know would be interested, tell them what your opinion of the paper is, and how much they too can benefit by the articles and advice contained in each issue. Send the coupon which appears on this page, from the two extra copies and your own—three coupons in all—together with the advertisement you want inserted. For three coupons sent bearing the same date, we will insert twelve words free of charge. Every additional word will be charged at ½d. per word. Not more than three coupons can be accepted for any single advertisement.

This plan benefits you by finding a market for anything you wish to dispose of, at a cost of only three-pence, including postage, and benefits us by bringing "CAGE BIRDS" before new readers. We are helping you in return for your help towards the increase of our circulation.

If you have anything to Sell or Exchange fill in and post this Form, sending three coupons of the same date, for free insertion of twelve words, and stamps to cover additional words (½d. per word).

can catch birds equally as well as the expert catcher providing he has the proper appliances, but let me tell you that nets which are only 3 feet deep are practically useless, as birds have time to fly out before you can pull nets over. All my clap nets are guaranteed 5½ feet deep, and to fly 4 feet high, this allows 18 inches of "kill," which is most essential part of nets, as all experienced catchers will tell you. This fact alone is sufficient to prove that my nets are by far the best on the market, but as they are the only nets on the market which are properly "geared," or "armed" all round, it naturally follows that for practical use they stand supreme. Clap nets, made from real thread netting, ½ inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/-, 4 yards 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards, 11/- per pair; all guaranteed full measurement, and to be 5½ feet deep and 4 feet fly. Clap nets consist of 2 nets to the pair, and are fitted complete, with hemp lines, ash pegs, beech poles, and everything ready for immediate use. Hundreds of other sizes in stock. Send stamp for full list. Self-acting spring net traps, 18 inches long, 9d. each; ditto 24 inches long, 18 inches wide, 1/- each. These net traps are by far the largest and most effective traps on the market. Will catch and hold any bird, from Wren to Rook; are entirely different to any others on the market, can be baited for Hard or Softbills at same time, and call-bird can be used inside them, if required. (See testimonials below.) Bat folding Sparrow nets, fitted on 15 feet bamboo poles, 5/6 pair; ditto, on 17 feet poles, 6/- pair; ditto, on 19 feet poles, 6/6 pair, complete. Single trap cages, 6d. each; double ditto, 1/- each; treble ditto, 1/3 each; patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, guaranteed to automatically reset immediately each bird is caught, requiring no attention whatever, 1/6 each; round-topped call cages, 3d. each, 2/6 dozen; ditto, square-topped, 4d. each, 3/- dozen; all wire tops and wood bottoms. Real Japanese bird lime, ¼ lb. 6d., ½ lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/6; sample, 3d., all post free. This lime is the original Japanese lime, guaranteed the strongest lime made, and will hold any Hawk or Rook that flies. It will leave birds' feathers clean, and will stand any quantity of frost and rain. Real Italian hemp pull-lines, specially spun, without snarl or back twist, 68 yards long, 1/4 each, post free; Russian hemp lines, 80 yards long, 1/- each, post free, but not recommended for hard wear. Loose netting, specially knitted from fine thread, for bird netting, ¾ inch mesh, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard; ditto, 9 feet deep, 4d. yard; ditto, 12 feet deep, 5d. yard. Lark netting, 1½ inch mesh, 10 feet deep, 4d. yard, carriage paid. Full printed lists of all catching appliances and hints on net making, send one stamp. See following letters, which prove my statements for me:—Gillyburn Cottage, Banff, November 13th. Sir,—Received trap cage and net trap safely, and am highly delighted with them both. Please send following. Yours, T. Raffan." "393, Grosvenor Road, Belfast, November 10th. Sir,—Please send clap nets as follows. I had some nets, etc., from you last year which pleased me, and all who saw them. Yours, S. Hill." "17, Grove Street, Norton Malton, November 9th. Sir,—Please send ½ lb. lime. I have tried all the other dealers, and I fail to find the right lime like I had from Mr. Markham two years ago. I had it set 14 days in frost and snow, and then I caught two Hawfinches with it. He told me to-day that he got that lime from you, so I am sending for some. Yours, M. Burgess." "Windmill Row, Carlton, November 4th. Sir,—I am very pleased with the netting. Please send another 8 yards. Yours, S. Armstrong." "Meal Bank, Kendal, October 26th. Sir,—I duly received net trap, and am delighted with results. It is a marvel, every time I or my boys have set it we have made a capture, and have already caught two birds which we had previously tried to catch by various means many times. Wishing you a large sale for your marvellous spring net traps. Yours, Thos. Crossley." "9, Harbour-rd., Larne Harbour, Ireland, October 29th. Sir,—Have tried clap nets this morning, and they work all right. Yours, J. Harte." "30, Cambridge Street, Doncaster, October 29th. Sir, I am delighted with spring net trap, it is a marvel, cheap at double the price. Thanks for straightforward manner you despatched it. Yours, F. Rimington." Please note, I do not talk of thousands of testimonials and never publish one as proof. I publish more testimonials than all others together. Everything is sent on approval at my risk, on receipt of cash, or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and I ask all intending purchasers to try my appliances against those from elsewhere at higher prices, and keep those that suit the best. All my men are bird catchers as well as net makers, and so know exactly what is required for successful catching. All the leading professional catchers throughout the world are using nets, etc., supplied by me, so if I can suit them, I know I can suit you. See British Bird and Roller Canary Columns for other advertisements.

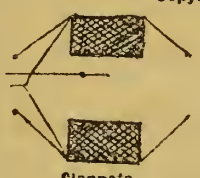
GLASS. GLASS.

Drinkers and feeders, all patterns, in opal and crystal glass; also blue tops and fish globes, aqua tiums and stands; Illustrated list sent free for 4d. stamp.—Dean's Glass Works, Hook-st., Liverpool (Trade only).

MY CLAP NETS

Are made from the finest and strongest thread obtainable, and to convince you that they are put together better than any net advertised, I will send them carriage paid, 4yds. 5/-, 5yds. 6/-, 6yds. 7/-, 7yds. 8/-, 8yds. 9/-, 9yds. 10/-, 10yds. 11/-, all 5ft. deep, two nets to each pair, with pegs, poles, and pull lines; loose netting, 3in. mesh, 7ft. deep 5d. yard, 2in. mesh, 7ft. deep, 3d.; 10ft. deep, 4d. yard; bird brace swivels 2d., all post free.—Morris, 112, Cape-hill, Birmingham.



MY SELF-ACTING SPRING NET TRAPS

catch birds of every description without any attention, price 1/6; larger size, 2/-, carriage paid. I have received hundreds of testimonials stating they are worth double the money of any trap advertised. Read two, and beware of cheaper imitations that are not worth the cost of carriage: "Sir,—I received the net trap; it is honestly worth a dozen of some of the nets advertised. I tried it this afternoon and caught more birds in two hours than I have caught in other traps in two months.—George Matthews, Bird Catcher, 2, Lucas-street, Stockport." "Sir,—Trap arrived. It is far superior to all others. I have to-day caught fifteen Linnets, six Redpolls, four Chaffinches, three Greenfinches.—J. Scragg, The Old Brewery, Armitage-road, Rugeley." Entirely self-acting and self-setting trap cages, warranted to catch birds and rest without attention, 1/6.—Henry Morris, 112, Cape-hill, Birmingham.

BIRD CATCHERS.

What next. One of these wise heads now says that nets 3ft. wide are useless for catching birds. No doubt that is correct, with the cheap, sheddy kind, but with down-to-date improvements, they eclipse all others for the lightning speed they come over. Escape of a bird is impossible. We leave the readers of "Cage Birds" to judge our word for that. Our motto is: Live and Let Live—and we respect all the little men. There is, and always will be, a great demand for high-class catching appliances, at a fair price. We never puzzle our brains about supplying the biggest trap at the lowest price. Our greatest aim is to invent something that can be packed in a small compass, not forgetting that it shall be the most effective on the market, and we claim that in our new illustrated Catalogue, ready next month, that nets and traps therein will be the best ever placed on the market, and, above all, they are our own inventions.

WHERE'S TA GOING, BILL?

I'm going to Harry Allen's for a 3/- lot, the old sport stands alone. Why, that's just where I'm going. It's the best 3/- worth in the world. I do this because I am the original, and to encourage the Fancy. Now, who would be without a bird and cage at this price. My Book alone is honestly worth the money. Linnets singing grand, with a beautiful polished cage, and my book of secrets, and a packet of my special mixture, 3/- the lot. They are fit for any drawing-room. Look! fierce singing cock Linnets, with blood-red breasts, and extra loud voices, with cage and my book of secrets, right for catching or contest singing, only 2/-. Linnets taught by the world's champion will sing anywhere, only 1/6; a few specials, 2/-. These are wonderful value, and in the pink of condition. I have reduced my A1 specials to encourage the Fancy. These birds can beat the world for steadiness, size, colour and markings, price 1/5; a few extra picked, 2/-. This class of bird got 1st and 3rd prize see testimonial. Also hack numbers of CAGE BIRDS. Goldfinches, Goldfinches, real English Pear-tree cock Goldfinches, the largest in England, with grand broad heads and beautiful square-cut scarlet blaze, with splendid wing bars and richly tanned on breasts, and beautifully buttoned; these prize winners, 4/5; other grand Goldfinches, same size, full colour, 3/6; very large Greypates, will make sure winners, 2/6 each; a few large Goldfinches, being used for catching, 2/6 each. I have over 200 of the largest and finest cock Bullfinches in England, with a beautiful black cap and bib, with double rich colour on breasts, ready at once for the show bench; these prize winners 3/6 each; other grand Bullfinches, 2/6 and 3/-; beautiful hen Bullfinch, 1/6 and 2/-; they are in good condition. Beautiful Greenfinches, like paint, and in show condition, 1/-; red-breasted Redpolls, 1/-. I have some lovely cock Chaffinches, 1/-. Larks. I have the finest cock Larks in England, singing daylight and gaslight, in show condition, and as steady as a rock, and as straight as an arrow, 1/- and 1/6; a few extra specials, 2/6. This class of bird got 2nd prize at Rotherham show. Splendid British show cages, 2/- each; my book of secrets, 9d.; stone of my special Linnet mixture, 4/-; quarter of a stone 1/-. For proof of the above read what others say: "4, Office-row, Barrington Colliery, Bedlington.—Dear Sir,—I received the Goldfinch alright. He is a grand bird, also the Linnet. The Linnet was shown by my companion, William Woodlett; he has shown the Linnet three times—he got commended at Morpeth, 3rd at Newcastle, and 1st prize at Newsham, so I think I did very well with him. Wishing you every success, Robert Harrison. "To H. Allen, 11, Gladstone-street, Hawick.—Dear Sir,—Received bird in perfect health and condition, and I am well pleased with it. If I know anybody wanting good value, prompt and straightforward dealing, I will, with the greatest pleasure, refer them to you.—W. Borthwick to H. Allen." All my birds are on seven days' approval, cash or deposit, so write at once to the largest British bird dealer in the world, Harry Allen, Bird Specialist and Judge, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett-street, Leeds.

This is not what you saw last week.

"8, Alexandra Terrace, Troon, November 20th, 1909. The Goldfinch arrived all right, and am well pleased with it. T. Cowan to W. Rudd."

"11, St. John Street, Bridlington, November 20th, 1909. I have had four Goldfinches from you, and have been so pleased with them that I now enclose P.O. for 3/3 for another good cock. J. G. Davenport to W. Rudd."

I have several white-legged and genuine proved mulers and Goldfinches and Linnets, that will give every satisfaction, besides others, including some good Siberian Goldfinch cocks, at 4/6, 5/6, 6/6, 8/6, upwards. Cages 3d. extra. Now for other Bullfinches, Goldfinches, Siskins, or Linnets you are wanting? I have some of the best seen this season, and respectfully ask you to allow me to submit you my illustrated price list; but, if you want fresh-caught rubbish at absurd prices, do not waste your time and mine, by sending to me.

W. RUDD, THE BIRD Specialist NORWICH.

What will he do in the future? It is the best Goldfinch we have ever seen at a show here. You will have all orders from me and my friends round this district, as I can honestly recommend you as a honest, straightforward dealer. Please accept my thanks. My friend, Mr. Parker, Longsight, also won 3rd with one he bought in an exceedingly large class, and he is certain will soon be at the front, as he is such a giant, teeming with quality, and shines like satin; he says you are the only man he knows who gives such value for such small amount. Wishing you every success, to Matthews. From Francis Haford, Swansea.—Goldfinch arrived safe; he is a grand bird, very proud of him.—To Matthews, London Road, Luwestott.—The Goldfinch arrived safe; he is a beauty; send me another one like this at once.—From Salmon to Matthews. The Linnets arrive safe; highly pleased with them; I don't think any approval is required with your birds.—From Bakewell, Chars-street, Whitwick. Gentlemen, does this speak satisfaction? Special book of secrets, 1/- each.—Send at once to Matthews, Bird Specialist, 24, Avenue-st., Portwood, Stockport, Cheshire.

LET ME ASK

you this. Are you satisfied with the man you are at present dealing with, is price right, quality everything to be desired, and, above all, do you have birds on approval, with the alternative of getting the whole of your money back if not thoroughly satisfied? If you cannot answer all the above questions satisfactorily to yourself, then you have cause to change your dealer. I ask all dissatisfied persons to just give me one trial. I care not how hard a man is to please, or how small the order, I guarantee to give entire satisfaction, or refund money in full. My terms are these: Everything I sell is sent on approval on receipt of cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, on the distinct understanding that if anything fails to give every satisfaction, it only has to be returned, and back comes the whole of your money. No underhand dodging or quibbling about me, my only terms stated above. I make no idle boasts or false statements when I say that at present time I have more British birds on my premises than all other dealers in Midland Counties together, and have more Worcestershire birds through my hands in one season than all other dealers in United Kingdom. (Copyists please note.) I have grand lot of Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, in perfect health and feather, all netted birds, properly on hard seed at 1/6 each, three 4/-, six 7/-, twelve 12/-; specially selected, large cocks, in full colour, guaranteed in song, 2/- and 2/6 each; few specially selected cocks, very large, fit for keenest competition, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; Hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-, twenty-four 12/-; twenty grand cage-moulted cock Goldfinches, all large, picked birds, and guaranteed full song, day and gaslight, 5/- each; these are finger-tame, and will make ideal mulers. Splendid lot cock Bullfinches, in perfect health and feather, 1/6 and 2/-; each. Specially selected cocks, fit for keenest competition, 2/6 and 3/- each. Splendid lot of hen Bullfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/6, twelve 8/-; few very large, rich-coloured hens for hybridising, 1/6 each; fifty aviary-moulted hen Bullfinches, in perfect trim, all picked, large birds, been flying in aviary with Goldfinches and Canaries since first week in September, 2/6 each; these hens will be worth treble in the spring for breeding. Grand lot cock brown Linnets, in pink of health and condition, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially selected larger cocks, for muling and contest singing, guaranteed now in song, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 3/6, twelve 6/-; few large, well-pencilled cocks, with the nutty-brown chests so hard to get, fit for keenest competition, 2/- each, three 5/-. Cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each.—Cock Siskins, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-; exhibition yellow cocks, with clear-cut caps, full bibs, and correctly laced thighs, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; hen Siskins, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-. Yellowhammers, 1/- pair. Very handsome Cinnamon House Sparrow (male), probably best Cinnamon ever caught, caged one month, and every feather perfect, highest offer accepted. Cock Woodlarks, coming in song, 2/6 each; hens, 9d. each. Splendid talking Amazon Parrot, four years old, talks, whistles, sings, laughs, cries, etc., 50/-; another ditto, but freer talker, 70/-, cages included. Goldfinch, Linnet and Bullfinch cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen; Lark cages, 6d., 8d., 10d. and 1/- each; singing box cages, 1/-, 1/2, 1/4, 1/9 and 2/- each. Dealers please send stamp for wholesale cage list. Please note following letters:—"3, Damers Road, Dorchester, November 15th. Sir,—Thanks for so promptly sending another bird (free of cost) to replace the one which died. That is what I like with your dealings, there is no quibble about such accidents. Yours, H. Batche'or." "466, Knutsford road, Warrington, October 28th. Sir,—Thanks for Siskin, safely to hand. This is first time I have ever had a bird replaced. Yours, S. Nelson." "Golden Cross, Cirencester, November 11th. Sir,—I beg to thank you for the Siskin which you kindly sent to replace the one I lost. It arrived quite safe. Yours, A. Ireland." "Pool Carn Brae, November 1st. Sir,—Bird safely arrived on Saturday. I feel I cannot thank you enough for sending this one free of charge, in place of the one which died. I think it most generous of you. This bird seems in good health. I shall feel it a great pleasure to recommend you at all times. Yours, J. Cudlip." (I have published above letters to show that I really do carry out my advertisements, and I can safely say that the only similar letters ever seen in CAGE BIRDS are those I have myself published. To those who can put two and two together, this fact should speak volumes.—W. Gore.) "Victoria Avenue, Draycott, November 12th. Sir,—Received Goldfinches safe, and am quite satisfied with them, and the prompt manner of dispatch. Yours, E. Statham." "28, Newbridge Street, Old Whittington, November 12th. Sir,—Bird and cage arrived in splendid condition, and I am also pleased with prompt dispatch. I have been dealing with others, but from now all orders are yours, as some of them have not dealt fair with me. Yours, W. Riggott." "Meadowbank Lodge, Dumbarton, November 11th. Sir,—Birds arrived all safe, many thanks for prompt dispatch. Yours, J. Pearson." "21, Pearson Street, Workington, November 11th, Sir,—Received bird, and as very pleased with it. Thanks for prompt dispatch. It arrived in good condition. I like the way you pack them. Yours, S. Butcher." Thousands more letters similar to above, but lack of space prevents me publishing them. Have you ever noticed that nearly all letters mention "prompt dispatch" of orders. This means that I have the birds actually in stock, ready for dispatch, not having to wait until I get purchasers' cash before I myself can purchase them. As several advertisers are copying the wording of my advertisements, I beg to say that I have no connection whatever with any other persons in the trade, and that the only name and address of "prompt hack" man is as under. See Appliances and also Roller Canary columns for undisputed facts which "touch the spot."

THE HUMAN LINNET.

Gentlemen,—I am not a self-made Linnet king, but get my title from "Cage Birds." There is not a dealer in England who can teach you more about a Linnet than I. I have sat judge at hundreds of contests, and won more prizes than any three dealers put together. I take interest in my birds—hence my title. Beautiful cock Linnets, singing hard, 1/- each; a few, will sing anywhere, 1/6; cock Linnets, in back cage, used to catching, guaranteed, only 2/-. I have a few to clear, taught under my champion Linnet, on quality song, 2/6 each, cannot be beat if you gave 7/6 elsewhere; big, fine exhibition cock Linnets, with feathers like silk, well pencilled, finger tame, 1/6 each. I have sent out hundreds of winners in this class. Look! I have a splendid Chaffinch, in good feather, grand colour, can win; a gem, only 2/6; cock Goldfinches, splendid, deep, square cut blaze, cannot be beat, 2/6 and 3/- each; St. Andreasberg Rollers, singing night and day, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6; Schoolmasters, 12/6; cock Larks, singing, 1/- each, write for price list of Foreign birds, cages, medicines, etc. Please note, all my birds are on 7 full days approval; cash or deposit; no waiting. I have a large hen Bullfinch, British, splendid bird, 2/-; a real gem. If your birds are ill, send to me, and I will cure them for you. A trial order will never be regretted. Thanking you all for patronage.—Fred. Allen, Bird Specialist and Judge, Porter-st. Aviaries, Hull.

5/6 A Positive Fact. 5/6

A genuine, well-bred Crestbred Cock, sent for the above absurd price. Of course, as with everything else that I offer in such special value, there is a reason. Here also follow more bargains—and bargains I mean, for everyone is such, whatever the price:—Crested cocks, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/-, 80/-, 100/- upwards. Crested hens, 5/6, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- to 60/- upwards. Crested-bred cocks, clear yellow, 15/-, 20/-; clear buff, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 20/-, 30/-; ticked or variegated, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-. Crested-bred, hens, ticked or variegated, 4/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- upwards; clear, 8/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-; green, 5/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-; pairs, matched for Crest breeding, one Crested and one Crested-bred, 12/6, 15/-, 23/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/-, 100/- per pair. Cages 3d. extra. The above are simply marvels at the price, and no other person—dealer, so-called private breeder, or firm, can possibly give it.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

What Others Say and Think :

2, Harcourt Avenue, Scarborough. Nov. 18, 1909.—Mrs. Freeman has safely received the Hartz Mountain Roller, and it is quite satisfactory.

A 5/6 Bargain.

14, Compton Street, Hanley, Staffs. Nov. 15, 1909.—I received Hartz Roller safely. Considering it only cost me 5/6, it sings splendidly. I am highly pleased with it, and can safely say that I could not have got better value for money elsewhere. I had a cheap Roller from a dealer a few weeks ago. It arrived half dead, and died a week later from the dreaded bird fever, necessitating the disinfecting of the whole of my cages and bird room. I have seen some good bargains from you before, and have often made up my mind to purchase from you. This will not be the last.—A. Baker to W. Rudd.

7, Simpson Street, Burnley. Nov. 21, 1909.—Bird arrived quite safe last night, and I am very pleased with same. It started to sing soon after it was removed from its travelling cage. It has a splendid length of song, and very sweet, and I am very satisfied with it. It is singing now, a treat. Thanking you for sending me such a good bird.—H. Hargreaves.

Sergeants' Mess, Winchester. Nov. 16, 1909.—The Roller arrived alright, safe, and sound, and am pleased with it.—J. Banks to W. Rudd.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

HUMMEL ROLLERS.

Finest Rollers imported. To speak well of the Hummel is to gild refined gold. Testimonials from customers who say the Hummel is still singing as sweetly as when purchased four, five, six, and seven years ago. All Hummels have delightful, deep, delicate bow roll, hollow roll, hollow bow roll, du pipe, hollow bell roll, grand round bass roll vibrating hollow roll, and charming water bubble roll; one price only, 12/6; no fancy prices; Hummel hens, 3/- each; a beautiful pair of Hummels for 15/-. St. Andreasberg Rollers, 5/- and 7/6 each. Hummel Schoolmasters, 20/- each, better than can be obtained elsewhere at treble the price. Thousands of testimonials have been published by me in CAGE BIRDS from satisfied customers. I guarantee strictly honourable trading and satisfaction to all.—Varney, sole proprietor and importer of this remarkable Roller Canary. Twenty years' advertiser.—Varney, Stratford, London.

£10 FOR YOU

or anyone else that can prove that the testimonials given below are not thoroughly genuine, and entirely unsolicited. These letters prove without shadow of doubt which is really the best singing Roller on the market. I have an enormous stock of pure Leipzig Rollers, direct from Hans Weber, of Leipzig, all in full song, day and gaslight, with long, hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water-bubble runs, soft roulades, piccalo trills, bell, harp, flute and gong notes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or chopping notes whatever, price 6/- and 7/- each. Special Schoolmasters, which are very soft, melodious singers, and excel in the deep bass, and hollow bell rolls, 10/-, and 12/6 each. Leipzig Roller hens, 2/- each, 3/6 couple; also a few genuine Seifert contest masters, fit to win ecutests immediately, 15/-, 17/6, and 21/- each; pure Seifert hens, 2/6 each, two 4/6; these contest birds are guaranteed of the original Seifert blood (not merely Seifert in name only), and among them are birds which have actually won contests in Germany. I also have an enormous collection of loud, free singing Hartz cocks, all in full, free vigorous song, price 4/6 each, seven for 28/-; Hartz hens, 2/6 couple. These Hartz cocks are real ceiling-lifters, and just the thing where plenty of noisy song is required. Roller box cages, 1/-, 1/2, 1/4, 1/9, and 2/- each; special Roller cabinet cages, with folding doors, 2/6 each. Please notice name and address, with date given with each letter below:—"10, Grayson Street, Bradford, Manchester, November 15th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller on Friday, and am proud of him, he is a splendid songster, with nice, soft rolls, etc. I have paid 20/- for one not half as good as him. Yours, W. Tovy." "11, Wade Avenue, Larklands, Ilkeston, November 9th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig Roller. The one I had from you two years ago is still singing as well as ever. He is one of the best I ever heard or had, and I have had a few from different firms. The Hartz cock I had few weeks ago is turning out a champion. Yours, E. Aldred." On November 12th Mr. Aldred again writes: "Sir, Leipzig Roller to hand. Thanks kindly for prompt attention, and also for selection. He is a grand bird, and sings most beautifully. I shall do my best to recommend you." "52, Skipton Road, Earby, via Colne, November 12th. Sir,—Leipzig Roller is a splendid bird, it commenced singing directly I unpacked it. I have several other birds here which cost much more money, but I wouldn't exchange him for the lot of them. Yours, P. Watson." "106, West Street, Glasgow, November 15th. Sir, Roller arrived in very pink of condition, and gives entire satisfaction in every way. Thanks for prompt attention. Yours, W. Collins." "35, Orford Street, Buttermarket Street, Warrington, November 15th. Sir,—Many thanks for bird. It is a good one. It is ringing all day, and as soon as gas is lighted it starts again, and is doing splendid. I also thank you for prompt dispatch and cheapness of bird. It is a beauty at price. Yours, T. Miller." "Globe Hotel, Blaina, Mon., November 12th. Sir,—Roller arrived safe, and started singing as soon as unpacked. Yours, J. Jones." "2, London Road, Tooting Junction, November 11th. Sir,—Roller to hand. It has been singing all day. I am thoroughly satisfied and must compliment you on the clean way you send birds out. Some send them with feet all clogged with excrement. I must admit I have paid more for inferior birds. Yours, A. Sammons." "Broomhill, Honiton, Devon, November 11th. Sir,—I am most pleased with Leipzig Roller cock. He is a real marvel, singing morning till night; I shall be most pleased to recommend anyone wanting a good Roller to you. I must thank you for prompt dispatch. Yours W. Criddeford." "The Station, Fordingbridge, Hants, November 5th. Sir,—Leipzig Roller received safe, and singing beautifully. Many thanks for manner you treated me. Please send following. Yours, P. Bartlett." "44, Loughboro' Park, Brixton, November 8th. Sir,—Have decided to keep bird you kindly sent for trial. I am very pleased with it, and shall certainly order again shortly. Yours, W. Greenwood." "Cwmgarw Road, Brynamman, November 8th. Sir,—Rollers to hand. Thanks for your selection and proper packing. They give me very great satisfaction. I shall send for more shortly. Yours, Johnny Evans." "242, Price Street, Birkenhead, November 6th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller in best of condition. It is a marvellous singer; you cannot get such value round here for 9/-, let alone 6/-. Thanking you very much. Yours, C. Ellis." "53, Scolefield Lane, Wigan, November 4th. Sir,—Many thanks for sending such nice bird. The cock sings nicely. I should think you are the man everyone is looking for who wants a bird good and cheap. It is not the first time I have proved your offers to be genuine. Thanking you for favours past and present. Yours J. Simms." "Bermuda Cottage, Warren Road, Guildford, November 3rd. Sir,—Seven Hartz cocks received safely, and am very pleased with them, they sing lovely. Many thanks for sending such good songsters. Yours, T. Moore." I could fill this page with similar letters to above, and all unsolicited. I only ask all intending purchasers to have a Leipzig Roller from me, and a Roller from elsewhere, at any higher price, test them side by side for a week, and keep one which suits the best. I am the sole importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, and no other dealer can sell you one feather of this strain unless he has purchased it from me. All are stamped on wing "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and are safely and warmly packed, with seed and water to last 48 hours, free of extra charge, and sent on full week's trial, entirely at my own risk during whole time, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money freely and fully refunded if entire satisfaction not given. Remember this, when dealing with me you are dealing with a man that has been a continuous advertiser for past 18 years, with a reputation second to none for straightforward and honest transactions. No connection whatever with any other advertiser. See British Bird and Appliance Columns for further interesting items.

TURN OVER.

If you will carefully turn over the question of where to get the best possible value at the lowest possible prices, you will give this small announcement your most careful attention. Singing Canaries are my speciality. I have bred, trained and imported direct many thousands, and know exactly what you require. It is quite possible to get the same quality birds at much higher prices, but it is utterly impossible to get such good quality at lower prices. My stock of St. Andreasburg, Trute, and Seifert Rollers are second to none. The quality of my birds defy competition. Genuine trained birds free from harsh or choppy notes. Cocks in full song, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6; pure Roller hens, 2/6, 3/- each. If you want a high-class loud songster my Hartz cocks will delight you. The best loud free, day and gaslight songsters in the world; cocks, 5/3, 5/9, 6/3 each; matched pairs, 7/6, 8/6. Send stamp for my illustrated price list of Rollers, Yorkshires, Norwich, Border fancies, etc. Neat travelling cages, 3d. each extra, and make a special note of the fact that I send all my Canaries carriage paid on seven clear days' approval at my risk, and guarantee every customer satisfaction.—Miss E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

St. Andreasberg Rollers.

First arrival of these famous musical-boxes, specially trained under Nightingale, Woodlark, and bell notes with those long, wonderful trills; fit for any mansion, price 6/6, 7/6, 8/6; real Schoolmasters, 10/6 and 12/-; hens, 2/-; proper Roller singing cages, 2/-, with shutters, 2/9; also not common Belgian, guaranteed pure Hartz, price 5/- each, two 9/6, seven 30/-; hens, 1/6, two 2/6. These are imported direct from the Hartz Mountains, and properly trained. Note—We have thousands of testimonials, and are patronised by all the Crystal Palace Judges, including Judges Bexson, Payne, Battye, Roe, Barnes, Vardy, etc., etc. Send for new catalogue and testimonials for proof.

Just read these testimonials. All come over 200 and 300 miles away, and £20 given anyone if not real. Can be seen any time. "Mr. Patterson, Cork, Ireland.—Sir,—Glad to tell you Roller you sent me won the All-Ireland Roller singing contest here." "Mr. W. Burl, London, October 25th.—Sir, Hartz cock arrived safe, and started singing directly unpacked, and sang ever since." "Mr. Bagot, Glenny, Dublin.—Sir,—I am well pleased with Roller. He has sang continually ever since he came, day and night." "Mr. J. Campbell, Dublin,—Thanks for promptitude ing sending Roller and cage within a couple of days from sending you the order. The bird was in Dublin singing for all he was worth." "Mr. D. McCorquadall, Greenock, Scotland.—Received Roller and cage all safe. He was singing half an hour after he arrived, and best singer I ever had, cage is a suitable one, and cheap." "Mr. Knight, Kilmarnock, October,—Hartz cock arrived all right, and a beautiful bird, and a champion singer. I got a Goldfinch from you which lived 11 years." These are only a few I have picked from long-distances; have thousands others. I guarantee to give you every satisfaction; so order at once.

If you want some testimonials, send to me, and I will send you some just as received this week.

are this season better than ever, which is saying a great deal, seeing the large number of prizes these Rollers have won of late years, and the hundreds of testimonials we have received for their excellence of song. Many and varied changes with their long runs, and real musical notes. The price is still the same to all, 15/- each, and they cannot be beaten at double the money.

We send them on 14 day's trial at Our Risk.

DEPOSIT YOUR MONEY WITH EDITOR,

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES.

My new season's stock (about 250) high-class Yorkshires in every variety now ready and fit; my 30 years' practical experience in keeping and breeding Yorkshire varieties only enables me to again offer specimens for show or stock, purely bred, up-to-date style and quality, and real sterling value compared with regular professional exhibitors or general dealers in all and every kind of cage birds purchased for re-sale. Not exhibiting. Every bird is for sale, excepting own breeders. All cold-room bred, reared and kept; all approval, three clear days after receipt; cash or deposit; suitably matched unrelated pairs, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- upwards; single birds proportionately; few exhibition specimens, cocks and hens, 20/- upwards; season's price list free on receipt stamp for reply. Old 50 years' address—Jonas Knight, Copy-st., Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire.

J. ROBERTSHAW

has still a few pairs of high-class Yorkshires to dispose of, bred from, or related to, his winners. See last week's advt., also Sunderland Show report for this week; from 12/6 per pair, upwards.—27, Ryburn Buildings, Sowerby Bridge.

ARTHUR HARRIS,

West Haddon, Rugby, is selling his entire stock of Yorkshires, including all his noted winners at Southall, Hanley, Bristol, Wolverhampton, Cambridge, etc.; cocks, 5/-, 10/-, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-; hens, 5/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-; matched pairs, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-; all on approval; cash or deposit with "Cage Birds."

CLEAR, ticked, variegated, foul or Green Yorkshires; cocks from 5/-; hens from 4/6 upwards; some splendid birds in stock; seven days' approval.—6, Ash-mount, Great Horton, Bradford, Yorkshire.

SAMUEL DEAN.

As I am not competing for the Yorkshire Challenge Cup this season, I have for sale some real clinkers, none reserved except those required solely for stock. My strain needs no puff, and this is undoubtedly the chance of a lifetime to secure the cream of the Fancy. Properly matched pairs from 16/- per pair upwards; winners in keenest competition at prices according to quality; stamp for particulars.—W. H. Shackleton, Melrose House, Lytton-rd., Girlington, Bradford.

DYKES' Yorkshires.

6 Firsts, 2 Seconds, 1 Third, 1 Fourth, 3 Specials. With 15 entries last week at West Bromwich, Greenwich and Deptford, and Million. I won, in addition to above, 2 vhc, 1 hc, 1 c. Only one out of the cards. And all separate teams, not rushed from one show to another. See reports. I am also still continuing to supply winners, and where we lead others follow.

Hen arrived safe, and won 1st at Boness. So writes Mr. Heggie, Elliott Street, Glasgow.

Read this from Port Arthur, Canada.—Received here Nov. 22, 1909. Birds arrived in splendid condition, and are far beyond my expectations; and to say they have travelled over 4,000 miles by land and sea reflects great credit on you for the way you packed them. I thank you very much for splendid selection, and hope to send you another order shortly. You can make use of this letter if you wish, and if I know of anyone requiring choice stock, shall certainly recommend you.—T. Blakey to L. Dykes.

For others see my advts. in past issues.

Further comment unnecessary; but if you want to come to the front, I have exhibition cocks or hens that can win at local or small shows, at 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Or some that have won recently, and can win in the keenest competition, from 30/- upwards.

Or, if you want to breed own winners, try my matched pairs, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- pair. Single birds in proportion. State requirements. Bred from, and related to my winners at all leading shows. Come and see what you are buying, as I have absolutely the best collection of high-class birds ever seen in one man's rooms; and all colours, Clear, Ticked, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, and Even Marked. Also some large, cobby Norwich, for show or stock, at same prices as Yorkshires. All sent on approval, at my risk. Either for cash, or deposit with Editor; and I pay carriage back, if not approved. Travelling cages, with proper food for journey, 3d. extra; and safe delivery guaranteed, any distance. Send stamp for price list, and full particulars. And remember, there is only one Dykes exhibiting, so I am not advertising with other people's winnings, and have won thousands of prizes and cups, gold and silver medals during the last 18 years. Place your orders with the old "reliable" Breeder, Exhibitor, and Judge. You will then be sure of satisfaction.

L. DYKES, The Reliable Aviaries, 70, Bolton Hall Road, BOLTON WOODS, BRADFORD.

Direct from "Mr. Bates, Stoke," strain, which won for him thousands of prizes. I have sold from this strain to Mr. Blackhurst some toppers, and he won 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 1908, Crystal Palace; also 1sts, 2nds, 3rds at Bolton, Morecambe, etc., this season; also Mr. Banks, Cardiff, won 1sts, 2nds, etc., with this strain supplied by me. Some grand youngsters, same strain and models; cocks, Yellows or Buffs, from 6/-, 7s., 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-; hens, Yellows or Buffs, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/-; matched pairs, to breed winners, 12/-, 14/-, 16/-, 18/-, 20/- pair. Any 1 send on approval and guaranteed to please you, as I don't exhibit these myself. Order at once; breeder 25 years.—Sandiford, Canary Breeder and Judge, Preston, Lancashire.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Important Notice.—If you want long, slim, straight, upstanding Yorkshires, with feather like silk and in the prime of condition, write or call and see the finest and largest stock in London; every cock bird in full song, and on six days' approval. I have them in all colours. Yellow cocks, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/6; buff cocks, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6; Yellow hens, 4/6, 5/-, 5/6, 6/-; buff hens, 4/-, 4/6, 5/-, 5/6.—Note the address, Wm. Shaw, 97, Essex-rd., Islington, London, N. Five doors from Cross-street. All cars stop at Cross-street.

JUBILEE CRYSTAL PALACE STRAIN

Those requiring the right stuff, write us, or come and select for yourself, as we have undoubtedly the finest stock that was ever in one room, real clinkers, for sale. This year, Crystal Palace, more firsts than any other exhibitor, including championship diploma for best-bird; special for most points in show, City of Bradford, Shipley, Laisterdyke, Bradford West. Note.—These are all Yorkshire Union shows, where the keenest competition is; not these small shows away where there is no competition. See this week's issue; birds direct from the above, from 15/- to 60s. per pair, sure to breed winners. All birds sent on approval; deposit with editor.—Dudley Hill, Bradford.

OGDEN BROS.

AMBLERS CHAMPION

Yorkshires are again bang at the top. For 30 years we have bred, sold, and exhibited some of the biggest champions that have ever graced the show bench; the most reliable strain in the world for length, type, quality, and that bit of breed so much admired in a Yorkshire; see reports Dulwich, Newcastle, and Gloucester, where we won special for best Yorkshire in show. We offer for sale a few clinkers, just the sort to breed champions, long racy cocks, straight as a rush, grand feather and position; slim, stylish hens, perfect type and feathered like wax; also a few real toppers than can win in any company; approval; satisfaction guaranteed.—Messrs. Amblers, late of Bradford, 138, West minster-rd., Morecambe.

None Reserved.

All my stock is absolutely for sale. I bred about 120 young last season, which, with my stock birds, made over 150 of the highest class Yorkshires, to be disposed of. I have still about 100 left, and must clear quickly, as I have not the time to feed and attend to them. Many who answered my last advertisement are delighted with their birds. I can please you also. At Sunderland, in Novice Section, 7 out of the 14 birds in the tickets, were from my rooms. I have supplied birds to Dix, Tindale, Johnson, Atkinson, Curry, and others, who are winning with them.

Birds that can win, cocks or hens, 20/- to 40/-. Stock birds 5/- to 20/- each. Write stating wants; enclose stamped envelope for reply.

T. C. Crawhall, Hon. Sec., N.Y.C.C., 121, St. George's Terrace, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Over 50 Prizes and Cards.

Won by me in the last three weeks; see reports at Hartlepool, York, Laisterdyke, Bradford West, Stockton, West Bromwich, Wallsend, Tideswell, Consett, St. Helens, Salford, Sunderland, Huddersfield and Manningham. All the above winners for sale; also good stock birds Pink-eyed a speciality; also a few dark-eyed. I AM NOT A DEALER. Come and see me any day but Saturday and Sunday, or write; state wants, price you are prepared to give; stamp for reply. — W. RICHMOND, 16, Mayfield Grove, Harrogate.

MY TEST IS

Have on Approval, then, Make a Comparison, for only Quality can be the true test of Cheapness.

All the following are in prime breeding condition, with the Cocks in song, properly and judiciously matched by me personally; it is impossible to get better value, and the chances are a thousand to one they cannot be approached at the respective prices quoted.

Here are really reliable Bargains.

My special matched pairs of prize-bred Norwich Plainheads at 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, and 20/-; Crested ditto, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, and 30/-; Yorkshires, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, and 20/-; Lancashires, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-; Cinnamons, 8/6, 9/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-; Lizards, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-; Border Fancies, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6.

To Beginners.

If you cannot afford a big price, send for a pair of my correctly matched Norwich at 8/6 or 9/6; and now note this.—In most cases where you send for pairs at this price, you are sent two buffs, often both marked birds—this is where you do not get what is required—well, I send you one marked, and one clear, one buff, and the other yellow. Travelling cage 3d. extra. Then for 3/6 I will send you a Double Breeding Cage, fitted with everything complete, for an immediate start. Total for Birds and Cage 12/3 for 8/6 birds, or 13/3 for 9/6 birds. But I would strongly recommend you to have my Cage No. 100; it has sand drawers, and is fitted with sanitary furniture throughout, and the price is only 5/-.

Songsters.

Thousands now on hand, specially selected, not haphazard birds; quality sent to each, according to price sent, and in all cases, the best I can do, and what I cannot do in this line, no other man (or fictitious trader) can in the world. Norwich, Yorkshires. Note prices—8/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-.

BOOKLET FREE.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all time to send my Parrots on four week's trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among Grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard.

ILFORD F. AND F.S.

General meeting held Nov. 16, at 4, Cranbrook Road, Mr. J. Smith in the chair. It was decided to amalgamate the annual show with that of Stratford Society (two days) to be held Jan. 11 and 12, 1910, at the Workman's Hall, Stratford. Will members kindly note? Young stock show prizemoney was paid, which, after a vote of thanks to the Chairman, brought the meeting to a close.—A. Webb, Hon. Sec.

Club Reports.

LOANHEAD AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual financial meeting held in Mason's Arms on Nov. 13th, Mr. A. Jardine in the chair. The Secretary read the balance-sheet, which the members considered very good. It showed a balance of 18s. 7d., after paying 6s. per class. All the officebearers were re-elected for 1910.—W. B. Smart, secretary, 13, High Street, Loanhead.

LANCS. AND LIZARD F.A.

The following is a list of the points for the Lancs. and Lizard cups and medals up to and including Pendleton and Salford, Nov. 19th and 20th. Lancashires: Champions: W. Adams, 93 points; W. Lee 67, J. Vickers 40, J. Oldham 33; Liz. champions, J. Dewsnap 119 points, J. Rukin 105, J. Hampshire 83, and W. P. Barnes 54. Novices, Lancs.: A. Hordern 27, W. Ridgard 11; Novice Liz., W. Dewsnap 34 points, A. Martin 31, A. Bosworth 3, W. Bacon 2, B. Salway 2.—John Rukin, Hon. Sec.

BINGLEY AND DIST. O.S.

Very instructive and interesting judging competition from sketches was held recently. The sketches were judged by Mr. J. Hartley, and the members judged in rotation afterwards. The winner proved to be Mr. W. J. Hartley, he having placed four birds correct, making in all 18 points. There was a tie for 2nd and 3rd places, with R. Wade and H. Longbottom, 10 points each. Some very interesting discussion and comparisons followed. The meeting proved in all to have been very educational.—A. Livesey, Hon. Sec.

LARKHALL C.B.A.

Very successful social held in the Miners' Hall on Nov. 20. A company to the number of 40 members and friends sat down to an excellent tea, presided over by Mr. Rundell, president. He referred to the rapid growth and prosperity of the Association. Prize money and specials won at the recent show having been paid out, the musical part of the programme was proceeded with. Songs were well rendered by Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Thackeray, Messrs. Cootes and Murphy; violin soles by Master Gibson. Votes of thanks to the artistes and Chairman, and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.—Jas. Pollock, Sec.

NORTHERN CREST CLUB.

Annual show held at Sunderland on Nov. 19th and 20th. Judge, Mr. T. Heath (London). There were some exceptionally good birds shown, but in numbers they were but moderate. Mr. R. Armstrong's "King of Kings," won special for best bird in show; his grey Crest, "Suggested Model," won the A.V. class, and with the best yellow green I have seen he won the yellow Crest class. I have no hesitation in saying they are three of the best crested cocks living. Mr. T. Taylor turned out a splendid team, and succeeded in winning both the silver challenge cups for the best young Crest and Crest-bred. Mr. R. S. Bewick, with "The Duchess," won first honours in the Crest-bred hen class. Winners of medals:—Messrs. Armstrong, Taylor, Bewick, Almond, Swan, Richardson, Mole, and Hutchinson.—J. G. Hutchinson, Hon. Sec.

ENGLISH AND WELSH B.F.C.C.

Annual general meeting will be held in connection with the international contest at Altrincham, Dec. 4th, time and place on winning clear yellow cock. It is to be hoped a good muster of members will turn up, as there are several items of importance to bring forward. Any member having anything to bring forward at the meeting will please notify the Secretary in writing by Dec. 1st, when the same will be given every attention. Members will please do their best to give a bumping entry, and so do justice to the good things provided by the Altrincham Executive. Altrincham is only a few minutes' run from Manchester, and is easily "getatable" from any part of the country. From most places Saturday excursions are run to Manchester, from which return tickets may be had to Altrincham for about sevenpence. Now, members, show you are alive, and that you have some sympathy with the good work the club is doing.—S. Hadwin, Sec.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

The principal members' prize at the recent open show, a salad bowl for the member making most points at the pair show, the young bird show, and the open show, was won by Mr. E. J. Whittome with 52 points, Mr. W. Francis being close up with 50 points to his credit, and Mr. H. Dixon with 46. Mr. Newley's special for the best bird shown in one of his own cages was won by Mr. J. Wheeler; Mr. Newley's special for best bird shown by a lady was won by Mrs. H. Smith; special for best shown by a lady novice, Mrs. Lee; the Sloper Watch by Mr. A. W. Warr; special for best foreign bird by Mr. W. H. Stoakley, as was also the special for the most points made by a novice Canary exhibitor who had never won a first prize, and another for the best Yorks. shown under similar conditions; the S.Y.C.C. diplomas for best cock and hen in the open Yorks. classes were won by Mr. C. Mabey, diploma for best cock in the Yorks. novice classes by Mr. H. W. Cook; for best hen, Mr. E. G. Atkins. The three special prizes for members selling most tickets were won by Mr. W. H. Stoakley, Mrs. Lee, and Mr. Baker respectively. The S.N.P.C. Novice specials for best 4th and vhc were won by Messrs. Berry and Mitchell.—H. Smith, hon. sec.

LONDON AND COUNTIES O.A.

Monthly meeting held at headquarters, the Sessions House Hotel, Clerkenwell Road, E.C., on November 15th. The chair was occupied by Mr. Thorpe (president). Mr. Shakespeare gave us a washing exhibition, he being watched closely by the members and visitors. There was a good number of visitors, most of whom became members. Mr. Shakespeare explained, during the course of his exhibition, how essential it was to use three bowls of warm water, a teaspoonful of borax, white curd soap, a piece of Turkish sponge, and two soft cloths. He said that some fanciers believed in the use of a shaving brush. Mr. Shakespeare undertook to wash a bird blindfolded, and when he finished he was vociferously applauded. While the birds were drying the competition for washing was proceeded with by the members and visitors. Mr. J. Hall, of Highgate, Hampstead and Dist. Society, being announced the winner; but unfortunately, he not being a member of the above society at the time, the competition prize fell to Mr. Gilbert, who handed it over to the society as a special for the coming annual show. The Chairman, in a few well spoken words, called for special prizes for the annual show, which was well responded to, especially Mr. G. Thurland (who became a member that night), who kindly gave a very suitable present. The Chairman proposed, and Mr. E. T. White seconded a vote of thanks to Mr. Shakespeare, who thanked the members and visitors for their attention, and said how delighted he was to see such a large muster. He then himself rejoined the society. A vote of thanks to the Chairman concluded the meeting.—W. Gilbert, Hon. Sec.

YORKS. C.B.S. OF IRELAND.

Committee meeting held at 17, Hamilton Street, on Nov. 16th, Mr. T. R. Fry in the chair. Present: Messrs. Rooney, Sheridan, Dowling, McDonnell, Lynch, Holley, Stewart, Gillen, Birse, Lea, and the Hon. Secretary. The patronage of the society was granted to the Ulster O.A. show, to be held on the 3rd and 4th Dec. With regard to our show, held on Nov. 4th and 5th, the Secretary and Treasurer intimated that the society is in a good financial condition, having a nice balance over from show. Considering that the society purchased five new cups this year for competition, it augurs well for the future of the society. The Secretary begs respectfully to draw the attention of members to Rule 18 in schedule sent out, re proper nomination of birds for rung cup. It is absolutely necessary to enter number of ring on entry forms. The Secretary also wishes to state that all prize money has been paid out, and would be glad to hear of anyone who has been overlooked. No complaints have been reported with regard to the return of birds.—D. Carroll, Hon. Sec., 17, Hamilton Street.

The Young Naturalist.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given weekly for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be under sixteen years of age, and state whence stories are taken. Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

*A Little Doctor.

One day as I was walking
O'er the green fields bright,
I saw a little birdie,
Whose wing was not quite right.
I took him home and fed him,
And set his wing in joint,
And now he is quite happy,
And sings both day and night.

Homely Nuthatches.

A lady amused herself in winter by throwing seeds against the door for the birds. She put hemp seeds and cracked nuts for her favourites, the Blue Tits. One day two Nuthatches came to have their share of food. They were so pleased that they did not go away in the spring, but built their nest near the house, in a hollow tree. It was amusing to see the two young ones which they reared hang or climb on the blinds. When the Sparrows were driven away, the Nuthatches did not fly away, but seemed to know it was done to protect them. They remained near the house all the summer, till one day, upon hearing the report of a gun, they disappeared, and were never seen again.—Taken from "British Songsters," and sent by William Parnham (age 15), 120, Bromfield Place, Park Lane, Old Basford, Nottingham.

*A Home of Swallows.

On September 1st, I went with my mother to see my uncle at the Beggan Farm, near Cardiff. In the cowshed I saw a Swallow's nest. It was built of mud and stuck on a beam close to the roof. I climbed up and felt gently for the young. They were five in number, and only five or six days old, being not properly feathered. The old birds came in quite boldly and flew around till we went out, but they did not feed while we were there. My father thought the young ones would be late for migration, as winter seemed close on us.—Sent by William Thos. Paull (age 12½), 79, Milford Street, Splot, Cardiff.

Singing Contests.

SHEFFIELD.

Usual Linnet contest held at Fitzwilliam Hotel, Milford Street, Carbrook, Nov. 21st, when 17 birds were entered. 1, Booker, 62; 2, Cole, 52; 3, Wilson, 47. Contest will be held at same hotel Nov. 28th, when three good prizes will be given.—Brown, Sec.

LEEDS.

Usual contests of quality Linnet singing restarted at the Skinners' Arms, Buslingthorpe Lane, on Nov. 21st, when we had our opening match, 12 of the best birds in Leeds singing before a crowded house. 1 and 2, Ward; 3, Conner. Judges, Messrs. J. Renton and S. Peas.

Usual contest held at King's Head, Shannon Street, Nov. 20th, when 15 birds sang. 1, Hardcastle; 2, Johnson; 3, Stead. Judges, Messrs. Naylor and Whittaker. Also on Nov. 21st, when 20 birds sang: 1, Hardcastle; 2, Whelan; 3, Johnson. Judges, Messrs. Jennings and Naylor.—Wilson Naylor, Hon. Sec.

BACUP (Lancs.)

Roller singing contest took place at Bacup, Nov. 20th, in connection with the annual show, which was a success, and every praise is given to Mr. R. Coe, the secretary, and his hard-working staff for the way they arranged things for this variety. Some nice birds were staged. The chief winners were:—1, spl, Kilshaw; 2, spl, Hargreaves; 3, 4, vhc, Johnson and Johnson; hc, Pilling; c, Kilshaw. Judge, Mr. L. Watkins (Bolton).

A LEEDS CHALLENGE.

Seeing Mr. Soloman has issued another letter saying he wants to sing contest time, I will sing him if we can find our own spring bird, and then the best bird would not be stopped, and it will give both birds a chance. We should then soon settle the matter. We will pick one judge each, and send for one neutral judge out of town. If Mr. Soloman will not accept, please stop correspondence.—S. Hardcastle.

The Handsome but Persecuted Bullfinch.

Hand-reared Bullfinches, at least in some districts, often moult out black. Hemp seed and mineral water have each been blamed for this. But I think there must be a tendency to melanism in the species. A friend of mine reared two. Both moulted out black with certain white wing lacings. Another friend in the same district also hand-reared one, and this, too, moulted out black, with the same white wing lacings. But the handsomest Bullfinch I have seen was one that I caught adult in the same district. He was very tame, and I used a long rod tipped with birdlime to catch him by. He lost a number of his breast feathers; later on these came out black, so that his breast was variegated most beautifully, crimson and black. Some time ago a white Bullfinch was taken from a nest near Crondall, in Hants, and in 1907 a white one was shown at the Crystal Palace. So there seems no limit to the possibilities to a clever and keen aviarist in regard to this beautiful bird.

There are some grand Bullies imported yearly from Russia and Siberia, generally much larger than ours. Now, as no other bird produces such grand Mules or Hybrids as the Bullfinch, largo healthy hens are in great demand; the prices are rising, and these fine birds are getting scarce. Might I then suggest to aviarists that they breed Bullies for their own use, or for the market? A few first-class Siberian cocks could bo kept in an out-door aviary, almost in a state of nature, and in this state Bullfinches are certainly very prolific.

Then large, strong, hand-reared, English hens should be kept tame in cages till April, when the end of a room or aviary could be fitted off with large, suitable pens from four to six feet long, and two or three feet high, with ½in. wire-netting front, and a piece of board slanted across each top corner as a shelter and hiding-place for the wilder partner when introduced. Twenty inches is deep enough. In such a pen I have bred Linnets, and the breeders sat, hatched, and reared their young with less trouble than many Canaries take.

The Best Food for Bullies.

The staple food should be sound Canary seed, with a little each of sunflower, teazel, thistle and hemp, and a packet mixed seed for a change. But always give plenty of good Canary seed as a relish. Give also groundsel, dandelion, shepherd's purse, chickweed, lettuce, watercress, or young mustard and cress. But in wet or damp weather be careful to dry these foods and give very sparingly. Fresh fruit is also much appreciated, and this, too, must be carefully and sparingly given. A few hawthorn twigs with the buds on may be given in season, but every green morsel should bo removed before it gets stale.

Bullfinches find and eat many wild seeds that escape our notice. They are fond of cherries, currants and rowan berries. Bullies used to be very plentiful, and several of our friends have called them "nature's own pruners," because of the habit they have of nipping buds to pieces. But owing to the prejudices of many country people, and especially gardeners, in many places they are very scarce. In one cottager's allotment on the borders of Sussex, several of those heartless people who see no beauty in anything but money, laid wait for the Bullies with their guns, and in one season slaughtered no less than sixty-seven of these beautiful birds. Now, the few that are left are wild and very rarely seen.

Where are the Protection Acts?

What a shame that such beautiful and affectionate birds should have no real protection, but that every petty individual who owns or hires a few roods of ground, can steal out and shoot any Bullies that come within their reach, even while the birds are feeding their young!

Surely the 1907 season ought to have been an eye-opener to those persons who were so prejudiced against the Bullfinch for his bud-nipping propensities. The fruit gardeners in particular ought to have learned a lesson. Thousands of plum trees have been completely ruined this season for want of these much-persecuted pruners, and in some cases seven years will elapse before the broken boughs and branches (through over-production), can be properly replaced. In an attempt to save the branches of a little plum tree in my own garden, I have thinned the green plums by basketfuls, taking three and four while leaving one; but in spite of all, the branches are broken to such an extent that the appearance of the tree is ruined. Other years I have watched a pair of Bullies nipping and scattering the buds in all directions off my one little tree, but even then I had a good crop, and was forced to thin the plums. Last year there were no Bullies, and the tree is now destroyed. Surely any sensible person ought to know that if three buds had been cut off, and one left on every branch on the tree, there would still have been more fruit than the tree could properly bear, and the fruit would have been larger and heavier than if the whole of the buds and blossoms had been left to grow. Any practical gardener will confirm this; it is the regular thing to thin the fruit by hand for this purpose. Then why be so prejudiced against the Bullfinch for doing what may be a power for good, and cannot possibly do any harm? Bird-lovers, let us unite to protect these beautiful, talented, affectionate and useful birds.

LOUGHBOROUGH C.B.A.

Annual show held at Temperance Hall, on Nov. 20th. There was a considerable increase in the number of entries, and the Yorkshire section alone was a grand show, many fine birds being staged. THE HYGIENE OF BIRD-KEEPING, 1/1. By Geo. Creswell, M.D. Thoroughly treats of modern hygiene (the science of health) in bird-keeping.

SEPTIC FEVER OR CANARY PLAGUE, 7d.—By R. H. Clarke, M.D. The only booklet published concerning this dread disease, which Dr. Clarke has given very special study.

THE NORWICH PLAINHEAD CANARY, 1½d.—By J. H. Payne. Pronounced by all experts to be a most valuable pamphlet concerning the breeding of the variety; written by one of our leading judges.

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

MEATING-OFF AND FEEDING SOFTBILLS, 6½d.—By John Frostick. No fancier of Insectivorous Birds who wishes to succeed in his hobby can afford to be without a copy. It also contains notes on Bird Trapping, Cages, etc.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2.—By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. T. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockateels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. This eminent authority gives very full details upon how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds. Replete with useful hints.

Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds; full of extremely valuable hints.

COLOUR FEEDING OF CANARIES AND OTHER BIRDS, 3½d.—By J. W. Ramsden. Tells you how to mix the colour-food, and how to moult the birds to get the richest possible colour.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages, and many invaluable "Hints for Emergencies."

AVIARIES, BIRD-ROOMS, AND CAGES, 2/3 (cloth gilt).—By H. Norman. Contains ten lovely full-page photographic plates. A practical guide which deals thoroughly with the proper Building, Fitting, and Management of Aviaries and Bird-rooms, and the making of Cages.

YORKSHIRE CANARIES, 1/1½.—By H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union). Absolutely the very best Handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instructions upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, and successful Exhibiting, also how to treat in both health and disease.

NORWICH CANARIES, 1/1.—By C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder, and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book many times over.

BIRDS OF THE COUNTRYSIDE, 5/4.—By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. A handbook to the wild life of all our familiar British birds: their appearance and habits accurately described. With 12 beautiful coloured plates, and 113 photographic illustrations. A charming gift book.

The Shows.

EDINBURGH N.C. & M.B.S.

The Edinburgh N.C. and M.B.S. held their tenth annual show in the Buccleuch Parish Hall, Buccleuch Street, on Nov. 20th. Office bearers:—President, Mr. R. Craig; vice-president, Mr. W. Anderson; secretary and treasurer, Mr. Wm. Holton; committee, Messrs. R. Martin, S. Buglass, and A. Watson; auditors, Messrs. J. Charlton and J. Stormont. There were 40 classes. The entries were much the same in number as last year's. The competition in the Norwich section was strong. Borders were an exceptional lot, some grand birds being staged. Mr. J. Smeaton won the Bruce-Lindsay cup for best young bird in show, also silver cup in Norwich section, as well as Hyde's special. Mr. Smeaton's success was very popular. Mr. G. Brown won the Border silver cup and silver medal. For the best Mule or Hybrid, Mr. Bankier won the silver cup, also being runner up for Bruce-Lindsay cup. Hon. President Councillor Bruce-Lindsay, who was present, with his lady, at the close of the show made a few appropriate remarks, and Mrs. Bruce-Lindsay presented the prizes to the winners, with some encouraging remarks. The hall is splendidly adapted for show purposes, having splendid light and accommodation. There was a large turn-out of visitors, ladies being present in force. Mr. Holton makes an ideal secretary, courteous and most obliging. The success was largely due to him and his committee, who ably supported him, along with President Craig. The judges were Messrs. A. G. Cameron (Kelso), W. McAdam (Lasswade), and J. F. Dewar (Edinburgh). Their awards were generally speaking well received.

HEYWOOD AND DISTRICT O.S.

Third annual back-end show held Nov. 13th, when 94 birds were judged by Mr. R. Barrass (Rochdale), who, as usual, gave every satisfaction. The show was well patronised during the afternoon and evening by the public, all of one opinion, that it was the best the society had held. Special for best bird in show went to Mr. R. Schofield's clear yellow Yorkshire.

BRIGHTON.

The Brighton F. and F.A. held their eighth annual show in the Lecture Hall, North Road, on November 2nd and 3rd. The cage bird section was held in a large hall adjoining, which was well suited for the purpose. The number of exhibits here was larger than for a good many years. Mr. Foxall, the secretary, and his assistants, backed up by a good working committee had everything well in hand for the judge to commence his duties. Mr. F. Easterling judged, and gave every satisfaction. The most difficult part was in allotting the specials.

Twitterings.

At the time of writing we have not a single entry, writes Mr. A. G. Jones, hon. secretary of the Sutton Coldfield Show.

Splendid classification at Altrincham. You should see a schedule, from T. HARRISON, 4, Shaws Lane. (Advt.)

All prize money was paid on November 22nd, writes Mr. J. B. Y. Murdoch, hon. secretary of the Kilmarnock O.C.B.S.

Am sorry to say I must clear my birds out, but hope to start again when I can.—T. E. NICHOLS (Pillmoor, Yorks).

The usual meeting for November 29th of the Pendleton and Salford O.S. will not take place, writes Mr. H. Clayton, secretary.

I have been a reader of your paper, CAGE BIRDS, for over three years, and I find there is none to equal it, writes Mr. Lawton (Pendleton).

Class 3 in our schedule, writes Mr. J. Rowlands, hon. secretary of the Pwllheli F.S., should read: Norwich A.O.V., and not Norwich Plainhead.

The young birds competition of the British Roller C.C. will take place at our contest, writes Mr. H. Jameson, secretary of the Bury and Dis. C.B.S.

The smoking concert announced in members' rule cards for December 2nd, will not be held, writes Mr. F. W. Hamer, hon. secretary, of the Greenwich and Deptford C.B.S.

We have secured a few extra specials (too late to appear in our schedule) for the Cage Bird Section, writes Mr. W. Ruddiman, hon. secretary of the Cupar and Dis. F.S.

I beg to congratulate you on the grand plates in CAGE BIRDS during the last few weeks. They quite make one wish to have one of each species of bird.—A. H. GRIMSBY (Kent).

Our entries have had to be extended to November 27th, writes Mr. N. H. Reed, hon. secretary of the Launceston Show. Will fanciers kindly assist us with their entries?

Entries are dreadfully short in the cage bird section of the forthcoming Wandsworth show, on Nov. 30th and Dec. 1, writes Mr. Lightfoot, the hon. sec. Entries will be accepted up to Nov. 27.

All exhibits were packed ready for removal and the staging taken down by 8.30 p.m. on the closing day of our show, writes Mr. H. Clayton, secretary of the Pendleton and Salford O.S.

Concerning my Redpoll-Greenfinch Hybrid (2nd at Wimbledon), the report says: "possibly a hen." It is a cock bird, and was bred last season; it is, too, a very fine songster.—A. A. TUTTY (Wimbledon).

All prize money was paid within 24 hours as promised in our schedule and advertisements, and all exhibits were in the railway company's hands by 7 o'clock, writes E. R. Ridley, hon. secretary, Hull C.B.S.

The cage bird classes in the schedule of the Llanelly and County F.A. are only open for a radius of seven miles. The omission to state this is an error on the part of our printers.—S. H. GASCOIGNE AND D. JOHN, secs.

At present I have not a single entry for our show on December 2nd, writes Mr. C. I. Young, hon. secretary of the Frome and Dis. Show. The show is being held under C.B.U. rules, and we are hoping to receive the support of fanciers.

Our show, on December 8th and 9th, is open to Kent, Surrey, and Sussex only, writes Mr. J. W. Sargeant, hon. secretary of the Canterbury F.S., and there will be no amalgamation. We hope fanciers will give us a "bumper" of an entry.

The prize-cards being specially issued by the Bristol F.A. are exceptionally artistic and pleasing, judging by the specimen forwarded us by the hon. secretary, Mr. G. T. H. Maggs. No fewer than 1,440 are to be sent out to successful exhibitors.

The Hyson Green (Nottingham) C.B.S. Annual Members' Show will be held on December 11th. Judges, Messrs. R. Rhodes and J. Bertie. The committee will be pleased if every member will give a bird in the gift class.—WM. CORTINGHAM, secretary.

Correspondence in connection with the South and North Shields C.B.S., writes Mr. W. J. Howden, the assistant secretary, should, for the time being, and until further notice, be addressed to me at 63, Victoria Road, South Shields, Durham.

I have changed my address, and it is now 2, Aire Street, Thackley, near Bradford, writes Mr. A. Price. My new house has splendid accommodation for the breeding, etc., of cage birds, and I am getting a very good stock for the coming season.

We have received from Mr. W. Wilson, of the Glasgow Aviaries and Aquariums, 247, Argyle Street, Glasgow, a catalogue and price list of the birds and animals supplied by him. The list also contains interesting notes on some of the birds and animals referred to.

Entries for our show on December 4, writes Mr. R. Binks, hon. secretary of the Ferryhill and Dis. C.B.S., are very bad, not averaging one per class. We have a good classification, and specials for most points in each class. Hope fanciers will rally round and give us a bumping entry.

Class 2 in our schedule, writes Mr. W. J. Edwards, hon. secretary of the Six Bells (Abertillery and Dis. F.S., should read "Clear Buff Cock"; Classes 4 and 5, "Clear, ticked, or unevenly marked Yellow and Buff Hen" and Classes 11 and 12, "Clear, ticked, or unevenly marked Yellow and Buff Hen."

Wimbledon report in the novices class, buff hen, says, 3, Bellington; this should be Billington. Also in the novices unflighted at Southend the report says, 3, Bellington, and omits my name as 4 in class 21, clear or ticked yellow cock. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—J. T. BILLINGTON (Twickenham).

At the time of writing we have only 22 entries in 17 open classes, writes Mr. J. Medlin, hon. secretary, Falmouth Show. Now, Cornish fanciers, please help us; we are the only show confined to the county. We have two cups and numerous specials to be won outright. Entries will be accepted up to first post November 29th.

Please draw the attention of your readers to my advertisement of the Border Fancies of the late David Young, writes Mr. J. Patterson (Chirnside). The widow wishes them all disposed of, except one pair each for her boys, and buyers will have no cause to regret putting this strain into their marked blood; it is bound to improve it.

Forfar Show, we hear, will be held on January 1st and 3rd. The following are the judges appointed: Mr. W. Hampton (Brechin), for Norwich; Mr. W. Mossie (Annbank), for Border Fancies; and Mr. J. Robertson (Perth), for British and foreign birds. The classification remains the same as last year, there being thirty-one classes.

Owing to a breakdown of our printer the schedules of the Luton C.B.S. Show were delayed a few days, but have now been sent out to exhibitors. There is also a printer's error: Classes 6 to 10 should read Yorkshires. Shall be glad to send schedules to anybody applying for same.—E. CHERRY, hon. secretary, 14, Peel Street, Luton, Beds.

Kindly thank all exhibitors for their support, which enabled us to make such a grand display, and helped to make the show such a success—financially and otherwise, writes Mr. D. Carrall, hon. secretary of the Y.C.B.S. of Ireland. All prize money was paid out seven days after show, as guaranteed. We thank CAGE BIRDS also for the splendid report in its columns.

All open prize money won at our recent show, writes Mr. F. Hamer, hon. secretary of the Greenwich and Deptford C.B.S., was dispatched on November 20th, the day following the close of show. Special prizes will be dispatched at the earliest possible moment. I have received many cards of congratulation on the conduct of the show, and the prompt payment of prize money.

I have one side of my birdroom covered with CAGE BIRDS plates, and grand pictures they are. Besides "A Blaze of Colour," and "A Bundle of Feathers" (which, paired, make a beautiful picture, fit for a mansion), I have "Four Favourite Buntings," "Four Favourite Softbills," and "The Stars of the Season," and many others (27 altogether), all framed or else ready to frame—a perfect little picture gallery.—F. J. CHILD (Leeds).

Visitors to Birmingham Cattle Show are invited to call and inspect the stock of W. Gore, the Birmingham bird dealer, 131, Gooch Street, Birmingham. Over three thousand birds on view, including nearly 1,000 Roller canaries in full song. Callers will then see that Gore's advertisements contain no flights of imagination, but only solid facts. Eight minutes' walk from New Street Station. Trams pass door. Open till 11 p.m. daily. (Advt.)

Fanciers are reminded that the annual show of the Sligo C.B.S. takes place on December 15th and 16th, with Mr. H. Norman as judge. Mr. E. J. Tighe, the show manager, has made arrangements with the L. and N.W. Railway, so that all birds sent to the show will be specially looked after, providing exhibitors let him know what station the birds will arrive at. The classification is a very liberal one, and entries close on December 8th.

Entries at present, writes Mr. W. Driver, hon. secretary of the Cambs. O.S., dribble in very slowly, and exhibitors will save us a good deal of anxiety and all-night work if they will send along as near closing date as possible (November 30). We have put up a good classification, with a most exceptional array of specials (including two challenge cups "winable" outright). Cambridge always does its best for the fancy, and good management and prompt payment may be relied upon.

"Bird Notes"—the journal of the Foreign Bird Club—for November, is prefaced by a very charming coloured picture (by Mr. H. Goodchild), of Flame-breasted Flower-peckers. Mr. Wesley T. Page writes on the species. The Golden Eagle is the subject of an article from the pen of Mr. C. H. Donald, F.Z.S. The breeding of Passerine Parrakeets and Black-checked Lovebirds, and the Rearing and Nesting of Pied Wagtails form other subjects dealt with, besides many interesting notes.

The following points have been gained in our bowls and cup competition at Deal Show, writes Mr. G. Sanderson, hon. secretary of the Kent County C.B.A.:—Norwich Plainheads, H. E. Taylor 9, Gibbs 13; Crests and Crestbreds, Broad 13; Yorkshires, Eade 2, Gibbs 4, Lockett 10, Reene 5; Borders, cancelled; Lizards, E. J. Wood 13; British birds, Brett 8, Austen 4, F. J. Wickham 12; Mules, H. E. Taylor 7. This competition will be continued at Canterbury, and lastly at Plumstead.

Fanciers and friends will be heartily welcomed at our annual smoking concert and distribution of prizes on December 2nd, writes Mr. W. Hodson, hon. secretary of the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S. A splendid array of talent has been provided, many of the leading local concert artistes having promised to sing. The concert will be held in the large hall attached to headquarters, the Montpelier, Choumert Road, Peckham. Through the good efforts of Mr. Tomsett, a well-known operatic party have kindly promised to appear. Ladies are specially invited.

Will fanciers kindly support our show on December 1st and 2nd, writes Mr. J. H. de Maillet, hon. secretary of the City of Birmingham C.B.S. Although we have fifty-six open classes, we have only nine entries so far. Our hall is in the centre of the city, quite close to L. and N.W. and Midland Railway stations, and is a first-class room for a show. I have kept back four days of my holiday on purpose to give every attention to show matters next week, and I trust fanciers will not neglect such a well-arranged show. Points gained by novice members of N.G.M.Y.C.C. will count for club specials. This we omitted from schedule.

OBITUARY.

I deeply regret to have to notify you of the sudden death of the wife of Mr. Andrew Sinclair, of Rosewell, writes Mr. W. B. Smart, hon. secretary, Loanhead and Dis. C.B.S. She was taken ill early on the morning of November 18th, and passed away at noon. I am sure fanciers who know Mr. Sinclair will extend their heartfelt sympathy to him in his early sad bereavement, as it was only last New Year's holiday they were married.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. Brown (for about fifty years of 69 and 71, Selater Street, Bethnal Green), whose death, at the age of 67, was announced in our last issue, took place amidst every manifestation of sympathy on Monday last, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and private and trade friends, at Manor Park Cemetery. There was a large number of floral tributes, a special landau having to be requisitioned, and to the senders the bereaved family tender their grateful thanks.

The last double number of CAGE BIRDS, November 20th, is particularly good, and I think the article on the "Bullfinch" specially interesting.—MISS M. D. RANKIN (Greenock).

I received a parcel of books from Mr. C. Hall (Weston-super-Mare) about three months back on approval, writes Mr. E. H. Williams (Llanelly), but as they were not as represented by him, I returned them same day and advised him by postcard. Imagine my surprise when I received a posteard from the G.W.R. parcels office last week, asking for instructions re the disposal of same, as they had not been called for, although they had advised the person three times. I asked the clerk to write and ask them at Weston to try again. Since then I have had them delivered back to me. I have lost Mr. C. Hall's address, so should be glad if he will through this note let me know what to do. I have had to pay 4s. 3d. carriage in all.

Rudge-Whitworth, in pursuant of their usual custom, are not showing, we hear, at the Stanley Show this week, but they have a fine show of 1910 Rudge-Whitworth's on view at their show rooms, at 230, Tottenham Court Road, W.C. The 1910 Rudge-Whitworths are absolutely wonderful machines. One or two altogether new models are included, and they are also making a new tyre for the Rudge-Whitworth Special. The tyres are aptly named—"The Oni." "Oni" is the Japanese god of strength, and "Oni" tyres are the strongest thing ever put out in the way of tyres—they are almost unpuncturable. For 1910 Rudge-Whitworth are issuing a 76-page catalogue—eight pages larger even than last year's. It is a sumptuous affair, and is sent free to everyone applying to Messrs. Rudge-Whitworth, Ltd., Coventry, and mentioning CAGE BIRDS when doing so.

I have just one dozen of your beautiful plates nicely framed, and am still wanting more.—J. W. HUBBARD (Vauxhall).

We hear that Mr. J. D. Hamlyn, the noted East-end naturalist, is contesting an L.C.C. bye-election in the Moderate interest.

"Study in Canaries" is a really beautiful plate, and I have had it framed, writes a correspondent, who signs himself "Redpoll."

Brechin Show report credits Hampton with being 2nd in the buff hen class, whereas I have that honour.—WM. HAMILTON (Hamilton).

Mr. W. Thompson (Llanelly) writes as to the good results he has had from the use of "Maryeline," a bird medicine advertised in our columns.

I think CAGE BIRDS is splendid for the money. I also take in CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL. I think your plates are splendid, too.—JOSEPH SYKES (Halifax).

Morriston C.B.S. specials were, we hear, won as follows:—Canary Cup, for most points in Canary section, Mr. E. M. Evans; Members' Yorkshire Cup, Messrs. Morgan and Wilcox; British Bird Cup, for most points, Mr. D. A. S. Longden, who retains it.

The secretary of Whitehaven Show, Mr. W. J. Douglas, forwards for our perusal a very large number of letters, postcards, etc., sent him by exhibitors congratulating the officials upon the management and prompt payment of prize money at the recent show.

Messrs. Witherby and Co. announce that Her Majesty the Queen has been graciously pleased to accept a copy of Mr. H. B. Macpherson's book "Home Life of a Golden Eagle," and has expressed her astonishment that it has been found possible to take the photographs of these birds.

I would not be without CAGE BIRDS for three times its cost, as I get more reliable information from it than from any three other papers published. I have no complaints to make as to its delivery, as it comes out 3,000 miles as regularly as Monday mornings come each week. I wish CAGE BIRDS and its staff every success.—W. H. NAYLOR (Toronto, Canada).

Litigation, we hear, has just been commenced in the High Court of Justice, which raises a curious point of law touching the legality of the use of the word "Dreadnought" as a trade-mark by those well-known mail order advertisers, J. G. Graves, Ltd., of Sheffield, for their "Dreadnought" overcoat, which enjoys such a wide reputation for style and value.

Allow me to congratulate you on that splendid production, your coloured plate in CAGE BIRDS' issue of November 6th. It is a magnificent picture of the different varieties of Canaries. You are little aware of the work you are finding for persons like myself, who wish to select birds of the correct type as portrayed in pictures like this. With best wishes for the success of your paper.—JOE THOMAS (Halifax).

Please accept my sincere thanks for the splendid portrayal given of my unflighted yellow in a recent Double Number of CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. E. Baker (Cowes). I am sure every fancier must have been delighted with such a splendid production as this double number. There is a charm about CAGE BIRDS that makes one long for the week-end to come. The perusal of its many columns must convince every fancier that never were the Fancy so well catered for as they are with CAGE BIRDS. May it have that continuation of success it so richly deserves.

Allow me to thank all fanciers who exhibited at our show, writes Mr. W. H. Lewis, hon. secretary of the Morriston and Dis. C.B.S. All prize money will have reached them before this note appears in print, I hope, and if anyone is left out will be kindly let me know at once? I sent a bird to Mr. E. Griffiths, 37, Alexandra Road, Llandudno, thinking it was his, but, thanks to Mr. Griffiths, he has sent it back, stating that the bird (a Norwich Buff, ticked head and wing, Class 5) is not his. I think it is a bird entered at Maesteg. I hope this note will catch the owner's eye.

Rare Bird of Prey.

A Rough-legged Buzzard in beautiful plumage has been picked up in an exhausted condition at Margaretting, Essex, it is reported.

A Hint to Others.

At the recent Winchester Members' Show the funds of the society were augmented by an interesting cage bird judging competition, organised and carried out by Mr. F. Cavo Baker, who also got together three valuable serviceable articles as prizes. The three "amateurs" who filled in their card nearest took the prizes. All the cards were sold, so that the competition proved a source of income to the society's funds. The result was as follows: 1st prize, Mr. Beaur; 2nd, Mr. Schneider; 3rd, Miss Whitmore Smith.

Friendly Rivalry.

The Coventry Ornithological and Leicester Hand-in-Hand Societies' Challenge Cup competition resulted as follows: Coventry's points at the two shows 231, and Leicester's 146; Coventry therefore won by 85. Mr. Walton, of Leicester, in handing the cup over to Mr. F. W. Harris, the president of the Coventry O.S., said he did so with pleasure, because there was nothing but good and brotherly feeling in the competition, but he regretted that the Leicester Hand-in-Hand Society had not won it, all the same, and hoped and believed they would do so next year, and, if they did so, the cup would be handed over to them in the same fancier-like spirit as the Hand-in-Hand had evinced towards Coventry. Mr Fox also spoke on the kindly spirit shown by bird fanciers in all their dealings. Mr. Harris, in acknowledging the complimentary remarks, said he reciprocated, on behalf of the Coventry O.S., the kindly, fancier-like, and spirited feeling shown by the Leicester Society.—GEO. PETERS, hon. secretary, Coventry O.S.

At Glasgow and West of Scotland [illegible] Show, notwithstanding our third successive failure, full prize money (open members), £88 10s., was paid out last post Saturday, November 20th, seven days after show, writes Mr. F. Bowman, the show secretary. Fanciers cannot hope for the great show to continue without a greater measure of support in the future; £100 loss in three years is a heavy strain on a body of working-men fanciers.

Very many thanks for the excellent report of Wimbledon Show, writes Mr. H. Smith, the hon. secretary. So many entries being late makes a rush of it, and one is not able to arrange as he otherwise would. However, up till time of writing not a single complaint is to hand. We closed the show at 8.45, and had cleared the hall by 10.30, and birds had gone to the stations. I don't think that was so bad.

I was an interested onlooker at Nottingham Show, writes "C.B.U. Representative," and on the Monday was there before 10 a.m., and surprised to find so many men at work, each with a duty to perform, every bird in the show being well looked after. What a large variety of grapes, bananas, and other fruits were supplied the foreign, etc., birds. I saw Mr. W. Cottingham (the fancier in charge of the foreigners) rushing off in a hurry. "Is something amiss, William?" I asked. "Well," came the reply, "we have a parrot here we cannot get to drink out of anything we have, and I am going to buy a cup" (the cup had the desired effect!). The committee moved to and fro with eyes opened wide. It appeared to me they did not intend any bird being missing, and then to have to ask the Police to assist them in finding out who had it. This proved to be one of my most interesting days in a more than twenty years' experience amongst birds. I am quite certain exhibitors can enter their birds at Nottingham with every confidence.

Under the White Rose.

MANNINGHAM C.B.S. held a very successful show on November 20th. The entries came up well, and the financial side of the show should come out all right. Some grand birds were on view, but in regard to number of entries, the selling classes were an easy first, the three classes containing not far short of 100 birds. Novice classes also came up well, buff Yorkshire hens being 32 in number with the yellows in close attendance, this class containing 30 birds, as also did the unlighted yellows, three very strong classes, not only for quantity but for quality.

HULL C.B.S. also held their annual open show last week-end, it taking place on Friday and Saturday, and no doubt it will rank as one of the most successful ever held by the society, they having the magnificent total of 645 entries. Quality was there in abundance, and there was an exceptionally good gate, a very large number of tickets for the show having been sold beforehand. In a mixed show there is much to interest those outside the Fancy, and certainly none could complain at Hull, there being something for everybody. The committee had provided a liberal classification for British, etc., and met with their just reward, there being a very good entry in this section, which was under the patronage of the Yorkshire County B.B. and M.C., the members of which secured no less than 7 first prizes. It is quite evident the society is making good headway, the competition is so keen for their specials.

BY the way, the Y.C.B.B. and M.C. have still two or three shows open, where they could give their patronage, and any society that is providing five British, etc., classes will do well to write the secretary.

EXHIBITORS who are running and counting points for the specials of the various clubs, will do well to take particular care that they mark their entry forms properly, and also see that same appears in catalogues, and if not to acquaint the respective secretaries of the same to have them rectified; non-compliance with rules will lose points.

"STRAIGHT 'UN."

Notes from Erin.

DUNDALK C.B. and P. Association held their annual show on November 17th and 18th last, and had a record entry. The show was held under the rules of the three specialists' clubs, and there were some lovely birds put down, especially amongst the Yorkshires.

NORWICH fanciers should try and assist the show committees by sending out a better entry, otherwise I fear that the classes for this popular bird will be decreased, as it is discouraging to see two or three classes in this section cancelled at each show for want of entries. I would therefore, ask our Norwich friends to come forward, and not be keeping their birds at home.

BRITISH birds are coming on well this season, and no doubt there are some gems being benched, especially in Goldfinch and Linnet classes. I am sure we all feel sorry that one of Mr. Fortune's best birds was found to be dead when it arrived at Dundalk Show. However, it is pleasing to hear that this gentleman has others to take its place on the show bench. Miss Perrin (who is best known in the Foreign Bird Section) has also lost one of her Love Birds. When away from home at a show, it became ill suddenly, and although the stewards did everything possible to revive it their efforts were of no avail.

AT Dundalk on Thursday the Best Yorkshire Hen in the show was claimed by a Dundalk fancier, and we expect to see it exhibited at Dublin this week in the novices' section. We trust that this bird will do well for its new owner, both on the show bench and in his bird room.

I HAVE heard that our new Specialist Club, the Yorkshire C. and C.B.S., has a good balance in the bank to their credit from their first show, held a few weeks ago. It is to be hoped that all societies will be successful with their enterprise this season.

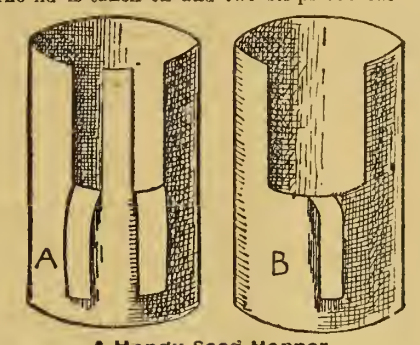
Novel Cage Door Fastener.

Sent by Mr. R. Harrison, jun., 83, Ashton Road West, Failsworth, nr. Manchester.

I enclose a sketch of a novel fastener for cage doors, which prevents birds from damaging themselves, there being no wire projecting inside the cage. First measure the thickness of the wire in cage, and then get two pieces of wire the same thickness, which we will name A and B. Hold A in the left hand, and b gin to wrap B round it with right, as per sketch

A Novel Door Fastener.



(Fig. 1), so forming a kind of spring, and leaving about 1½ inches over. Then bend the piece left over to an angle of 90 degrees, and you will then have it as in Fig. 1. Then measure from the bottom of the spring on the horizontal piece half the thickness of the cage door, and bend the wire here to another angle of 90 degrees. It will then look like Fig. 2, when the fastener is finished. To attach same on the cage (as shown in Fig. 3), first loosen a wire exactly above the cage door, and slide your spring on; replace the loosened wire, and the fastener is complete.—R. HARRISON, jun.

No. 365.

Sent by Mr. C. Williams, 26, Desborough Street, Oak Mead, High Wycombe, Bucks.

This sketch shows how to make a seed or water-hopper for fixing on an ordinary cage. This is made from a mustard tin (the 1d. size). The lid is taken off and two strips are cut out of the tin, as shown in Fig. A. The strip left standing is then doubled over to catch in the cage, as shown in B, and if necessary the lid may be replaced. All rough edges should be filed or sandpapered down, and the hopper is then complete.—C. WILLIAMS.

In the Courts.

A Warning from Cupar.

For taking a Linnet on a Sunday on the south bank of the N.B. Railway line between Buckhaven and Methil, in contravention of the Wild Birds Protection Order, Robert Seath, miner, Victoria Place, was on November 16th, brought before Sheriff Armour at Cupar. The Fiscal stated it was the first case of the kind in the district, and proceedings had been taken simply as a warning to others. His Lordship allowed Seath to go on the footing that he paid 5s. expenses.

Being a visitor to the Swansea and Dis. C.B.S. Show on November 11th, I wish to heartily congratulate the secretary, Mr. Hitchings, also the show managers and committee, on the splendid success that crowned their efforts, writes Mr. D. R. Jones (Llanelly). Everything worked smoothly owing to the thorough understanding that existed between them. I would also like to congratulate the staff of CAGE BIRDS on their very smart piece of work in reporting the show, the judging not being over until the Wednesday evening, yet CAGE BIRDS is in my hands mid-day Friday over 200 miles away. I wish it every success.

A Venerable Cockatoo.

Cockatoos are known to live to a great age, but it is not often, says a contemporary, that their age can be stated with such definiteness and authenticity as in the case of one belonging to a Mr. W. Richardson, of Leeds. This bird, which died recently, has been under Mr. Richardson's care for 45 years, and prior to that was for 60 years under the care of Mr. Richardson's relatives, so that the Cockatoo was known to be some 105 years of age, a venerable bird indeed—and one well known to the residents in the district, who would exchange chaff with him as they passed his outdoor perch.

CANARY QUERIES.

Diet for Moulting.

Red—With healthy, vigorous birds it should not really be necessary to make any alteration in the diet to enable them to get through the moult all right and retain their good condition, so that a proper diet for moulting is rather a misnomer. The diet you are giving is certainly not "of the best." The millet, teazle, and hemp, are rather out of place in the staple diet. Omit these; and give a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape, as a staple. In addition you may keep separately a mixture of one part each of hemp, millet, teazle, inga, and a half part each of maw, gold of pleasure, and linseed, and give a half teaspoonful of this twice a week until the moult is over, then reduce it to once a week. Unless the bird is being colour fed there is no necessity to give egg food more than once or twice a week—about half a teaspoonful each time; and even this may be replaced with a little bread and milk, or a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake, or madeira cake. Neither should there be any necessity to add citrate of iron to the water. A little may be given twice or thrice a week for two or three weeks at the end of the moult, but do not make a practice of giving it regularly. Keep the bird free from draughts, and snaps of severe cold, and see that the cage is strewn with clean, gritty sand, regularly, and nothing more should be required.

Cough and Hardihood.

E.E.M. (Wimbledon).—Without being fully acquainted with all the circumstances, I could not venture to express any opinion as to whether the birds were unhealthy when you purchased them. It is quite possible your treatment differs sufficiently from what they had previously been accustomed to, to affect them adversely. For the next month, in addition to the staple diet of plain canary seed, give half a teaspoonful of summer rape twice a week, on two other days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts maw, inga, sesame, and gold of pleasure seeds, and on two other days a small piece of bread and milk, sprinkled with soft sugar. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb, and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence daily for three days, and after this give ten drops of glycerine, and six each of oxymel of squills, tincture of lobelia, and ipecacuanha wine every second day for a fortnight. I doubt if there is any hardiest breed of Canary. It is purely a question of strain, and depends upon how the birds have been bred. In a general way the Norwich is almost as hardy, if not quite so, as any breed we have. The Border Fancy and Common German are about the only breeds that could beat it in hardihood. The little hardy birds you refer to are probably German. You must not imagine, however, that because one bird survives so many years under unfavourable conditions that all of the same breed will do likewise.

To Force a Moult, etc.

Kelly.—As the bird appears so bright and healthy there cannot be anything seriously amiss with it, and I would advise you to give up the idea of trying to force it to moult. These things are best left to Nature. Its grimy condition is very easily remedied by hand-washing the bird, and providing you are quite up to this business or could get a friend who is quite competent to perform the task, for you, there is no reason why you should not do this, and it is just possible that the simple process of washing will cause him to drop into moult very quickly if he is really in a condition to want anything to give the moult a start. Whether you wash him or not, keep him in a fairly warm place, but quite free from all draughts; allow him to bathe freely; feed on a staple of plain canary seed only, and every second day give half a teaspoonful of summer rape, and on the alternate days the same quantity of crushed biscuit or sponge cake, with a pinch of red feed, and a quarter teaspoonful of maw seed mixed in it. Twice a week you may give half a teaspoonful of the mixed seed instead of the rape seed, and three or four times a week a little green food as long as you can get it in good condition. It is quite possible to pair a Norwich cock with a Roller hen, and the young cross-breds, if trained under a pure Roller, will make very nice songsters that should be readily salenble.

A Yorkshire Unwell.

T.A.—The bird is evidently in a very critical condition, due to its failure to drop into moult at the proper time, and I should not be surprised if this reply comes too late to be of service. If this is not the case, at once give the bird a good vapour bath, by putting its cage on a table near the fire, or upon the hearth in front of the fire, cover it all over thoroughly with a small blanket, rug, or woollen shawl, and place underneath this cover, just in front of the cage, a pint mug of boiling water, arranging the cover over all, so that the steam is kept within the cage. Let it remain thus for twenty or thirty minutes, then remove the mug of water, and leave the cover over cage for another hour or so. Keep the cage afterwards in a warm position, quite free from draughts, and covered over for a few days. In the drinking water give twenty drops of whisky, six of sweet spirits of nitre, and a few blades of saffron, two days in every three for a week, and every second day for a week give a small piece of bread and milk, slightly dusted with a mixture of two parts flowers of sulphur to one part chlorate of potash, and sprinkled with soft sugar, and on the alternate days give a quarter teaspoonful of maw seed and a small pinch of inga. You might report progress at end of fortnight, referring to this reply.

Songster Gone Wrong.

A. G., Kent.—As far as I can gather from your rather varied description, I fear the bird has not been treated very judiciously. Keep it in a comfortably warm place, not too much so, but in a pure atmosphere, and where the warmth is regular, not very warm one day and correspondingly cold the next, and, above all, see that it is not again exposed to draughts from open windows. Put it on a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape, and once or twice a week give a small teaspoonful of the mixture you now use as staple as an extra, and three or four times a week a little green food or ripe fruit. Use the latter when greenstuff is over or nipped by frost. Every second day for a week give a half-teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod-liver oil emulsion, well mixed in it, and covered with a pinch of gold of pleasure seed. If it will not touch this, then soak a small piece of bread in hot milk, sprinkle with soft sugar, and strew a pinch of the seed over it, and stick it between the wires at the end of a perch. In the drinking water give twenty drops of whisky, ten of oxymel of squills, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, two days in every three for a week. If the bird is constipated, add a few drops of honey to the above mixture once or twice until the desired effect is obtained. You might also put a bit of fat boiled bacon between the wires for it to peck at for a time.

Various.

T.N.Z.—1, If you sow a little summer rape seed in pots or boxes, and keep in a fairly warm place indoors, you will very soon have a supply of excellent green food. The waste seed out of the cages may also be utilised for this purpose, as well as any kind of seeds of the cabbage tribe, or lettuce. (2) In minute doses, turpentine is not poisonous, but to force a drop or two down the throat of a small bird, is, if not poisonous, almost or quite as bad. It is often used to moisten a feather with which to remove gapeworm from the throats of fowls, but I doubt whether small cage birds can endure such treatment without winking. 3, Neither maw seed nor warm water is essential for the well-being of birds during winter, but if you don't mind the trouble of giving water lukewarm now and again they might appreciate your good intention, and it could do no harm. 4, Certainly, the age of a hen for breeding matters to a considerable extent. You cannot expect them to retain their youth perpetually any more than other live stock. Young hens are the best to breed with—say up to three years old. Then they gradually become more and more sterile year by year, though some hens retain their vitality much longer than others. 5, If you will look in a few back numbers you will find fully detailed replies for dealing with red mites, repeated over and over again. Look in issue of November 6th, for example, where, I think, you will find full details. What causes the red mites to come? Well, to quote the words of Dr. Watts concerning little dogs, they come because "'tis their nature to."

Quiet and A Puffy Chest.

Puzzled.—Am afraid this hen is in a rather bad way, and may perhaps be troubled with some internal displacement; but I cannot be sure of this from your description. Keep her rather on the warm side in temperature, but don't overdo it; and see that she is in a fairly equable place, and where the air is pure and fresh. Let her have a fair-sized cage in which she can exercise freely when disposed, and supply the bath freely in mild weather, provided it does not seem to affect her badly afterwards. In the latter event only give it in bright, mild weather occasionally, and take the chill off the water when putting the bath on the cage. As staple diet, limit her to plain canary seed only for a week, with a very small piece of bread and milk every second day, and on the alternate days a bit of ripe banana or a spray of green food. In the drinking water during this time give six drops of syrup of rhubarb, and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence two days in every three. After the first week add to the diet half a teaspoonful of summer rape every second day, a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts maw, inga, and gold of pleasure, once a week, and twice a week a half-teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod-liver oil emulsion well mixed in it. Give a spray of watercress, or chickweed if obtainable in good condition, four times a week. Restrict the diet to this for another three or four weeks, of course, omitting the bread and milk mentioned above, during this latter period, and in the drinking water give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a fortnight. If not quite well in, say, a month, write again, and mention this reply.

Yorkshire Hen Unwell.

A. Taylor.—You do not say whether the hen has just begun to moult for the first time this season, or whether she has already moulted, and has commenced dropping feathers again. I imagine you are keeping her in an unsuitable place, and perhaps also treating her generally different from what she has been accustomed to prior to coming into your possession. If she has not moulted before this season you must keep her now in a fairly warm place in order to encourage the speedy progress of the moult. Allow her to bathe freely, provided she does not appear to collapse afterwards, but avoid extreme variations of temperature and draughts in particular. As a staple diet give a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape, and give separately every second day a third of a teaspoonful of maw, and twice a week on the alternate days give a small piece of bread scalded with milk, pressed nearly dry, and sprinkled with a little soft food, sugar and on two other days a small pinch of a mixture of inga and gold of pleasure. Give a little green food, if obtainable in good condition, three or four times a week; at other times substitute a bit of ripe banana. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a pinch of Epsom salts for two consecutive days, and afterwards give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week. But if the bird is now dropping feathers for a second time this season, make the following exceptions to the above treatment. Omit the maw seed, and give in its place a few grains of hemp; and instead of the bread and milk, give a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod-liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and give a mealworm a day for a week or two if available. Give the same medicines in the drinking water, with the addition of twenty drops of chemical food on the alternate days when giving the gentian and acid. See that all your seeds are clean and sound.

Brevities.

Bird Dead (E.S.).—Very sorry to hear of your loss; but judging from post mortem report, it is better so, as no treatment could have done more than given slight and quite temporary relief. Thanks for sending report.

Enamel on Cage (W.L.).—You need not have the slightest fear about keeping your bird in the cage which you have painted all over, in and out, with enamel paint. Provided the enamel is allowed to dry hard before the birds are introduced, cages done in this way are perfectly harmless to the birds, so you need not be afraid because someone has told you the contrary.

Colour of Show Cage (Spangles).—A medium shade of blue. If my memory serves me rightly, the Lizard show cage is standardised, so to speak, by the club fostering the variety. Doubtless a polite request accompanied by a stamped address to the Hon. Secretary of the L. and L.F.A. would bring you a specimen of the exact shade of colour approved of by the club.

Another Sample (G. Dear).—Only one of your samples reached me, so one has either been lost in transit, or you failed to enclose both. The sample I received is the one marked No. 2, Canary. It is very small and thin, and altogether quite a low grade sample, although it is quite sweet, and appears nice and clean. It is not a sample I would recommend for feeding valuable stock. Thanks for good wishes. Glad to hear birds are now doing "pretty well."

Swelling near Eye (E.D.P.).—Sorry I cannot give you more helpful advice, but I feel you cannot be better advised than by showing the bird to a veterinary surgeon, whose advice will be the more valuable for the advantage of a personal examination. I have very little doubt but that the swelling is due to the growth of a small tumour, and the only treatment that would be of any avail would be a small surgical operation for its removal. This may be a very easy matter, but I would not advise any interference by an unskilled person, as it is very easy to do far more harm than good. You might slightly anoint the part with a little pure vaseline to relieve the irritation.

Breathes Heavily (C.H.T.).—It is not unlikely the heavy breathing may be due to overfeeding. Try the effect of twenty drops whisky, ten oxymel of squills, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, in its drinking water for a few days, and if this does not relieve the symptoms, say, within a week, put the bird on a diet of plain canary, with a fairly liberal supply of green food daily, and a half-teaspoonful of summer rape twice a week. In the drinking water give, instead of the above, six drops of syrup of rhubarb, and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and in the following week give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

German Paste (G.N.A.).—This compound is not a suitable food for any variety of Canary, neither for daily, or occasional use, nor during the moulting or breeding season. It used to be commonly employed for feeding soft-billed birds, but has been almost entirely displaced by more suitable and wholesome foods. Our British bird expert would tell you what kind of birds it might be used for, and how to use it.

Seed Samples (Esk).—The sample marked 11/- is only just moderately fair in quality. The Spanish at 19/- (not 11/- as you say in letter) is much better, and of very fair quality. The Spanish at 22/-, though much superior to either of the others in size, is, in my opinion, rather damp, and inclined to mustiness, and therefore the least desirable of the batch. The other sample which is what you say you received is not the same as the one marked 22/-, but it is considerably better in quality than that sample, although smaller in size, and not so plump. It is practically the same as the 19/- sample.

Bare Round Neck (Miss Collins).—I do not suppose the air has anything to do with it, as it is quite common, especially among aged birds, and is not peculiar to any district. Neither is it always amenable to treatment, as a good deal depends upon feeding and management. First, see the food is as nearly as possible the same as frequently advised in these columns for singing birds. Keep bird in a comfortably warm place—not too warm, to be enervating, but just away from the cold or chilly side—and guard strictly against all draughts. Allow it to bathe freely, and see there are no red mites in cage. For the next two or three weeks give twice a week a small piece of bread scalded with milk, pressed nearly dry, then slightly dusted with a mixture of two parts flowers of sulphur to one part chlorate of potash, and finally sprinkled with soft sugar. Give twenty drops chemical food in drinking water every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days in the first week six drops tincture of gentian, and four of aromatic sulphuric acid.

A Broken Flight (E.P.).—Yes, certainly you may remove the broken flight. Draw it out with a firm, gentle pull, without any jerking, at once, and it will be re-grown to its full length in six weeks' time. As the bird is non-fed, there will be no necessity to give any colour whilst the new feather is growing. You must not exhibit the bird whilst the feather is absent, but might do so in a month from time of removing the feather, as by that time the new feather will be well forward, so that its character can be easily observed.

Hoarse Voice (B.S.M.).—It is not uncommon for some birds to be a trifle hoarse for a week of two after they first resume singing after moulting. Provided you take due care to prevent exposure to cold and draughts, all you need do is to add a few drops of glycerine and a piece of gum arabic the size of a small pea to its drinking water for a few days, and give a piece of bread and milk sprinkled with gold of pleasure seed and soft sugar every second day for a week or so. If this does not soon have the desired effect, mix as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence in half a teaspoonful of honey, make into a soft paste with hard-boiled yolk of egg, and give a piece the size of a pea on the end of a perch daily for a short time.

Wild Seeds (Torquay).—I cannot undertake to name the species to which any mixed seed belongs. I doubt if a professed botanist would do so. The only way to get at such identification would be to plant some seeds and obtain specimens of the plant and flower, and seed heads. As a mere opinion, I should say the seed in No. 1 packet is that of the ox-eye daisy, or a closely related species. No. 2, is probably the real charlock. No. 3, which you say is locally called charlock or ragwort, is probably the latter, which is a species of the genus Senice, closely related to groundsel, and quite distinct from charlock. This last is often locally termed kedlock, or ketlock, by farmers, and bears a flower closely resembling the cabbage of our gardens. It is the yellow blossom you sometimes see flourishing abundantly in fields of young oats, wheat, or barley.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S. M.B.N.H.S., etc.

What Birds?

E.D.P.—Re the Flycatcher, I shall have to ask your forbearance till our next issue, before giving you the species of this bird. The other bird, whose description you send is certainly a Mesia, very probably an immature Silver-eared, but this also I will look up and give you a definite reply in next issue, or probably earlier by post. If taken in time, a few chillies mixed with the seed mixture checks sneezing. I have also found a little eucalyptus oil underneath the sand tray very helpful in obstinate cases, and I also promptly give, if the sneezing does not promptly yield to treatment, the following mixture:—Ipecacuanha wine, oxymel of squills, and glycerine, in equal parts; one teaspoonful of the mixture to each ounce of the drinking water till the cold yields. I hope there will be no need for you to use the prescription; there should not be if you keep the Pionus out of draught and avoid a variable temperature as far as possible.

A Suitable Cage Pet.

M.D.R.—The Conures I am afraid are all too noisy, beautiful as most of them are, and I cannot advise you to procure one as a room pet. The Yellow-Collar is a handsome species, and not at all noisy, but its whistle is often repeated, and becomes very monotonous. The Barnard's Parrakeet is very handsome, and quieter than most, there was one advertised in our columns last week, which I happen to know is very tame, and would make a nice pet. The genus Brotogerys as a rule make nice pets, they are small in size, not noisy, and though somewhat fragile when first imported, once over the hardships of importance, are not difficult to keep in condition with ordinary care. These birds are not very often on the market, but are not very costly either; they are larger than a Budgerigar, but smaller than a Cockatoil. The Canary-winged, Tovi, Golden-fronted, and Tui Parrakeets, are all Brotogerys, and all make nice pets when once properly tamed; with a little care they soon become finger tame and attached to their owner.

Naming a Parrot.

Canary Breeder.—(1) It is a Blue-fronted Amazon, a native of South America, usually robust and vigorous; most individuals make good talkers and mimics, but their articulation is not usually so clear as that of the Grey Parrot. (2) Seed mixture:—Canary, white millet, hemp, oats, dari, small maize, paddy rice, and sunflower seeds, in equal parts; well mix and keep a supply continuously in the cage; also supply ripe fruit, plain biscuit, nuts, green food, and keep a piece of clean cuttlefish in the cage. The above is a wholesome and varied dietary, and should suffice to keep your bird in condition. (3) The most effective way to keep it where it will hear plenty of conversation, and also talk to and pet it, also try the constant repetition of words and short sentences when it is quiet and restful. (4) I strongly suspect the bird has been wrongly dieted before coming into your possession; birds that get a bit of everything usually, sooner or later, turn out feather pluckers. All you can do is to give it a cooling aperient—Dinneford's magnesia (one teaspoonful to each ounce of the drinking water) is about the best; give this every third day so long as the voidings are not watery. Diet strictly as above, and the bird will gradually lose its present heated condition. If you suspect parasites, spray it on sunny, genial days with quassia solution; carefully guard against draught till day. At this season of the year I should not offer a bath, but spray it with tepid water occasionally, when the weather is mild and sunny.

A Sick Grey.

Mrs. W. W.—I much fear it is now almost too late, and that the complaint has now reached an acute stage. After draining all moisture away from the boiled maize, well dust same with flowers of sulphur, and continue this for some time, also keep a tin of the following seed mixture in its cage: Canary, white millet, hemp, oats, sunflower and paddy rice in equal parts. Also give ripe fruit, plain biscuit, nuts and cuttlefish. Do not on any account give tea, coffee or milksops, table scraps or any kind of animal food. Give, say, three doses of Dinneford's Magnesia, with three days between each dose—one teaspoonful of the magnesia to each ounce of the drinking water. Also will colour the drinking water with Parrish's Chemical Food, when not giving the magnesia. At periods of collapse or weakness, give it a few sips of weak brandy and water (chilled) from a spoon. Get a box of honey and borax from your chemist, and once or twice a day, put a little in bird's mouth with a feather or camel hair brush, well cleansing the brush after each occasion. Use a crock or glass drinker when giving drugs. Persevere with the above treatment if the bird still lives, and there should soon be some improvement.

Brevities.

What Parrot? ("Torrap"). It is the Indian Ring-necked Parrakeet, and your kitchen is certainly too warm for it, and the temperature too variable. I should say it would do well in your sitting room, providing you can give it some position free from draught. If your rooms open into one another, it would be an advantage to leave the door open when convenient, and the air from the kitchen would materially increase the temperature of the sitting-room—or an ordinary lamp stood on the floor at night with the room closed for an hour or two would make it comfortably warm; but unless the cold is very acute it should need no artificial heat. If kept in the kitchen, it must have the coolest and airiest corner that is free from draught.

Breeding Budgerigars in Cage (Funcier).—You would find "Budgerigars and Cockatiels," 7d. post free from this office, very helpful. I think your better plan would be to put two pairs of Budgerigars into the cage that is 4ft. long, hanging up four husks at top of cage, well to the back, but with the husk opening towards the light. Your 30-inch cage would answer well for a flight for young birds as soon as they can fend for themselves, previous to their being disposed of. Procure the largest and best coloured stock you can obtain, see them before purchase—you can procure them any time—and they will then become accustomed to their quarters before the spring breeding commences. They are a hardy species, and need no artificial heat; but even the hardiest of birds cannot endure draught for any length of time, but soon "shuffle off" if subjected to it. Diet: Canary, white or spray millet; green food, oats and grit.

Foreign Bird Queriists will find in our handbook, "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1/1, and "Budgerigars and Cockatiels," 6d. post free, a mine of information of use and interest.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Linnet Ailing.

G. Clayton.—As the bird is "all of a lump," the chance of a cure does not look rosy. Perhaps you upset it with a change of diet. Give in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water 12 drops of syrup of buckthorn. This for 24 hours; then allow a day's interval on plain water, when repeat the dose at half strength. Pity you did not tell me how you are feeding the bird. Let it have some maw, lettuce, and dandelion seeds, in addition to its usual mixture, which should consist of the following: Canary and teazle two parts each, charlock and summer rape one part each, by measure. At any good seed shop you will be able to get this mixed for you.

About a Goldfinch.

Smith of Kennington.—If by "funny noises" you mean the bird sort of sneezes, then I should say you are right in suspecting that it has caught a cold. Is it hung in the window in a draught? Get a chemist to mix you one ounce each of glycerine, oxymel of squills, and ipecacuhana wine, and stir a small teaspoonful into each two tablespoonfuls of drinking water. Keep this up for a few days, and see what improvement is made by the bird. You are feeding it badly (in my opinion). The stock mixture should be: Canary, teazle, and hemp equal parts, with just a tiny sprinkling of charlock, linseed, and summer rape. A little niger, maw, thistle, and dandelion should be appreciated daily whilst ailing, and help to pull the bird round.

Three Birds.

Marchpane.—Yes; you will find the song of the Blackcap improve wonderfully. It is always more or less disjointed at first after the moult. This applies to most other Softbills, too. The "gasping" Redstart is in all probability too fat, or with a touch of indigestion. Stir a teaspoonful of fluid magnesia into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water.

British Bird Queriists should purchase our "British Bird Manual," published in two parts, "Hardbills" and "Softbills," price 1/- each, or in cloth cover together, 2/8 post free.

Leave in for 24 hours, then give one more dose after a day's interval upon plain water. Don't give too many mealworms. The probability is that the plumage of the Linnet will not come right until he moults once again. You could try the effect of giving for 12 or 14 days a small teaspoonful of Parrish's Chemical Food in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water. Does the bird bathe at all? If not, this may account for any roughness.

Only Disaster.

A. B. C.—It is a complete puzzle to me why some people apparently cannot keep Goldfinches and Linnets alive. It is very seldom I lose one myself. I advise you, as soon as you see a bird look in the slightest degree "puffy," to cage it up singly (if not already by itself), and give it the stock mixture lightly crushed, with a change to wild seed mixture, or maw, niger, thistle, dandelion, lettuce, etc. A change of food often works wonders. As medicine, give as much crushed Glauber salts as will cover a shilling, dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water, with half a teaspoonful of brandy added. Leave on for 24 hours, and repeat once or twice if it seems necessary, but with a day's interval between each dose. The great thing is to give it in time. It should be given occasionally to all newly-caught birds, as it wards off stomach trouble.

Brevities.

What Bird? (Larkie).—The birds you describe are Reed Buntings, cock and hen. A common name for this species is Reed Sparrow. They are of little monetary value (as a reference to our advertisement columns will show you). Canary seed they live upon, chiefly, with a little insectivorous mixture and live foods.

Young Bullfinches (C.E.B.).—At their first moult (in the autumn of the year in which they are born), Bullfinches, both cock and hen, acquire the black poll, and the cock comes a salmon-pink on the breast. Your bird must be very late in moulting; else it is a freak. Even in the hen the nestling feathers can easily be distinguished from the new feathers which appear at the moult. I cannot say more without seeing the bird. The chances, however, are that it is a hen.

A Goldfinch (J. Lamburn).—For seed mixture see reply given "Smith of Kennington" this week. It is much the better plan to hang a bath in the cage in the morning, and let the bird please himself whether he bathes or not; spraying should be resorted to only where a bird persists in declining to take a dip of its own accord. As a general rule, Goldies will only eat seed; some like a little soft-food and others a tiny mealworm or the grubs out of thistle-heads.

Identity of Birds? (W. Barker).—The birds you describe as having been "netted by a catcher near St. Albans," are Crossbills. Are you sure he did not get them from a London (or other) importer? They are quite common in the trade, large numbers frequently being sent over from the Continent.

[Owing to temporary indisposition, Mr. Weston has reluctantly had to leave a number of questions unanswered this week.—Editor.]

POST MORTEM.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Shama (Indian).—Chronic softening of liver and apoplexy. Body disposed of as requested.

GENERAL.

Answered by the Editor.

Illustrated Ideas (A. H. Wilkes).—This perch is already the subject of a patent, so the device (or a colourable imitation), cannot be reproduced.—(T. K. Durnford).—How do you clean the cage bottom without removing the bird from the cage?

Lancaster Show (A Member).—Thanks for your kindness, but we had already arranged to receive a report.

A Crest (J. G. H.).—Thanks for the suggestion, which we will endeavour to give effect to.

A Report (H. Schneider).—Thanks for your thoughtfulness; we had arranged to have a report sent us.

Correspondence.

A Bird that has a Tooth.

Sir,—A friend asked me the other day if I had ever seen a bird with a tooth. I said I had not; but my friend told me he had. One day while out with his father (catching) his father showed him one bird he called a "Bunting Lark," and showed him the tooth in the middle of the top beak. After this he put the bird in the store cage with the other birds, but on arriving home found (to his horror) the "Bunting Lark," as he called it, had killed quite half the other birds. I should be pleased if any of your readers would tell me what the bird in question was.

F. J. Child.

Cuckoos in Captivity.

Sir,—You will be sorry to hear that my young Cuckoo died on November 20. Somehow or the other he got a cankered mouth about six weeks ago. I thought often I should pull him through. The inflammation would set in time after time and prevent his breathing till I had bathed his head in warm water, and put vaseline, zinc, or boracic ointment on it, and given him alum or borax and honey. I also tried salts in his drinking water and afterwards Cage Birds' tonic. He was moulting, too, his feathers all coming off the head and neck. Notwithstanding this, he was intelligent and lively at times when his breathing was easy, and called my attention to every sound. Cuckoos are wonderfully quick at hearing. I suppose all birds of passage are. The last thing he noticed was the little Robin on the rails outside, and I carried him to the window to see it, as I generally did. I should like to know if Mr. Shaddock has been successful with his, as he said he should write from time to time in Cage Birds concerning its progress. My old bird is moulting, too (and will be a much lighter grey), but is keeping very well up to the present, and does not appear to be affected by the cold, as he was last winter. The bird I have lost was unmistakably the male bird. He had a noble carriage, standing much higher than the other one, and had a broader chest, a larger head and a kind of bag or craw on the right side of his neck, which he puffed out and filled with wind when he was going to call out, which he always did if I had been out. He never forgot to welcome me when I came in, and became quite friendly with all the other birds, except the other Cuckoo. I could never have them out together, they would fight so. I miss the little chap dreadfully at present. He would sit and watch me sewing, with his head on one side, just like the old one, and as soon as I looked up he would snap his beak and shake his head. I called it "throwing a kiss," and he knew what I meant when I asked him to do it. So does the old one. I am afraid he suffered a great deal at times, but he was a patient bird and grateful, too, in his way, for what was done for him. He was strong and would dash his piece of beef on the bottom of his cage till it was a pulp before he tossed it up and swallowed it. He would "tackle" half a pound if he was on the table where it was before I cut it up. I really believe if he had not had the bad mouth, he would have weathered the winter, providing I took the precaution to keep the room warm at night, which, of course, I do for the other Cuckoo. I was pleased that the photo looked so well in Cage Birds. I hope by and bye my bird will be looking quite fit to sit for a better one.

(Mrs.) E. M. Sargeant.

Nailed to the Counter.

Sir,—Having been accused of not breeding my unlighted Yellow Yorkshire Cock, 1st Blaydon and 1st Wallsend, in novice classes, I beg to contradict the statement that I bought it, as I both bred the bird and the parents of it. I hope this letter will end the false statements being circulated.

The Proposed New Society at Falkirk.

Sir,—Kindly grant me space to express my views anent a new society forming in Falkirk and district. This is the ultimatum of a member who finds himself in the minority, and who cannot at all times be ruled by the majority. There are already two societies in Falkirk holding members' shows. Falkirk is located on the main line between Glasgow and Edinburgh and has a good train service from all parts of Scotland. It is well situated for an open show. I hope one or other of the societies already formed (who are both of good standing) will give this their consideration at an early date and do for other fanciers what the latter are doing for them, namely, hold open shows.

Well Wisher.

Mules as Foster Parents.

Sir,—Would some kind reader, who has had experience in using hen Mules as foster mothers kindly instruct the ignorant (through your valuable columns) in regard to the best way to proceed? I am keeping two hen Mules this year in the hope that they will feed some of next season's young birds, but I hardly know how to make the best use of them. I have thought of placing a cock with them, and when they have been driven to nest to transfer other birds' eggs to their nests for incubation, etc, When the netter to whom "Amateur" appeals, answers his question, possibly he will not mind adding instructions as to the way to repair a rent in a square-meshed net.

The Late-Entry Nuisance.

Sir,—In looking through Cage Birds week by week, I notice a large number of show officials are compelled to extend their date of entry. Now I feel very strongly—from a secretary's point of view—on this matter. Last year you published a letter from me on the same subject, but it received no practical response. Year by year the late-entry nuisance gets worse and worse. What is the meaning of it, when old-established and well-managed shows have to extend their dates and almost pray for entries? I am of the opinion that it is largely due to want of thought on the part of the intending exhibitor. Most shows advertise their closing date about a week before their show. Now it is just as easy for exhibitors to send off their entries on a Wednesday as it is on a Sunday. Take our late show as an example. The night the entries closed we only had 12 in, out of a total of over 600. On the Monday, two days before the show, over 100 came in, and some of those by the last (8 o'clock) post. Of course, we had to have the usual whip-up advertisements and postcards, and I know that a number of the entries that came in late were in response to these, and our thanks are due to those who helped make our show the success it was. But my contention is, that there should be no need for all the extra bother and worry. May I, in conclusion, ask for some consideration on the part of exhibitors towards show secretaries and managers, who have quite enough to worry them without the late-entry nuisance?

Alleged "Rough Treatment" at Bodmin Show.

Sir,—Kindly allow me a little space to let the Fancy in general know of my very rough treatment at Bodmin Show. I entered a bird in the class for clear buff Yorkshires, and the Western Morning News reported her as 1st prize winner. The bird returned later in the day minus the prize card, so I wrote the secretary for it, and he informed me that the Western Morning News was in error, and that my bird did not get a card. Meantime my Cage Birds had arrived, and I saw that also gave me first prize, and the description of my bird was true to life. So I wrote the judge, and he gave me the numbers of the winners, which corresponded, of course, with the secretary's statement. But there was this difference in the letters. The sec. said that the paper was in error, and the judge said that the mistake was in making out the cards, and that it was not rectified until after the notes for Cage Birds were taken. Now, sir, this would be very laughable if it were not a serious matter for exhibitors. For instance, the judge says practically that the card was put up to 784 instead of 785, and only because it happened to have the card when notes were taken, was a glowing account given in the Press while the bird which should have had 1st, according to sec., got not even a word of sympathy. But the most serious part to the Fancy is this: The judge admits that the mistake was not rectified until the reports were taken. Now is it honest and just that any alteration in awards should be made after the catalogues are issued to anyone outside the secretaries? If so, it would be a very easy matter for any judge to discover, even after notes are taken, that he has awarded the prize to the wrong "exhibitor," and the mistake can be "rectified" without any suspicion. I don't say there is in my case, but I am writing you on principle. I have not been furnished with name of the owner of 785, nor have I seen any claim made in your paper to the prize, but I note that the Cornish and Devon Post of Friday last, more than a week after the show, still credits me with the win. In conclusion, let me say that bird fanciers are indignant at my treatment, and the majority are of the opinion that I can claim the prize. I should like to have your opinion on this latter matter.

W. T. Collins.

It seems to us that the error arose through a mistake on the part of the person who made out the prize cards from the judge's slip, a by no means uncommon mistake at shows during the great pressure of work at the moment. Of course, if the judge's original slip gave No. 784 first place, then our correspondent is entitled to the prize; but not otherwise.—Editor.

The Welsh C.B.C. Patronage and Swansea Show.

Sir,—Kindly allow me a small space in our worthy Cage Birds to reply to an unworthy contribution in last week's issue, re the W.C.B.C., and the late Swansea Show. As he who runs may read, the aim of the writer was a contemptible underaction towards a club which has done and is still doing much to raise the Fancy to a better footing, and ultimately an ideal elevation—our object being to improve the classification and prize-money in Wales. Mr. Hitchings has yet to learn—"Semper il mal non vieue per nuscere." I may say that the members of the W.C.B.C. are one in unity, in harmony, and in action, and need "no enlightenment" (to quote Mr. H.'s words) regarding the withdrawal of our patronage from Swansea Show; there is none in our club as ignorant of the facts as he will have the readers of Cage Birds believe. You state, Mr. H., that a copy of rules was forwarded to you. I say you yourself (as well as other secretaries) received a book containing classification and rules (besides, this was not the first time for you to receive such) which other secretaries and societies were capable of comprehending and readily complied with—it is not our fault that your understanding respecting the said classification and rules evidently spelt vacuum. I must contradict your statement re your classification of 1907. You will find you had two classes for Crest and Crest-bred and two for Scotch Fancy. So do no injustice to your own society by denying the truth. Do not mislead readers by misrepresentations—the W.C.B.C. do not require 7 or 8 classes in each variety, but we believe in being fair to all our members and giving each a chance to compete for the medals and specials, whereas, according to your classification, some of our members would have been left out in the cold (so to speak), being debarred from competing at all, and I am pleased to say that the brotherly feeling which exists in our club resented it, and we preferred not competing under such circumstances. Supposing there were only two exhibitors in each variety in Wales, I take it that the Swansea Society did not confine their show to Wales only, and that other exhibitors from different parts of the country would have entered their exhibits in those classes. I may here say that so far we have been able to transact our business without seeking your aid, and it is quite unnecessary for you to proffer your assistance to other secretaries by warning them to swallow our rules and classification. We take it for granted these gentlemen are able to read, and being able to do this, they will doubtless understand our clearly-written rules and classification without impairing their digestive organs with stray encyclopædia, even if you failed to grasp the situation by doing so. In answer to your question whether our rules and classification are complied with by other societies in Wales? that is a matter which we have the option of agreeing or disagreeing with, as we have shown you.

An Inexpensive Lark Food.

SIR,—Looking through our last grand double number of CAGE BIRDS, I see a brother fancier, "Redpoll," gives us an inexpensive Lark food, viz., peaneal, oatmeal and dripping. I should like to know if he would tell us how to mix it—wet or dry—and what quantity. I wish the birdieman's book of knowledge, CAGE BIRDS, great success.

One Pound Reward.

SIR,—Thanks for putting the notice in CAGE BIRDS last week, though I have heard no word of the missing bird yet. Would you please this week give notice that £1 reward will be paid to any person who will give information that will lead to the recovery of the buff Norwich cock that was stolen at the Glasgow and West of Scotland Show?

Bristol F.A. Show and the C.B.U.

SIR,—Mr. Wasley devotes one-half of his last letter to irrelevances, and in conclusion asks me to confine my remarks to the point at issue. He tries to hit me, and asks me not to hit back! I think I need only deal with one or two of his complaints. It is true I have not sent this year's schedule to, or canvassed for entries, directly or indirectly, from any cage bird fancier in Gloucester, but am surprised that Mr. Wasley should complain on that account. He asks me to explain why in our final advertisement I omitted the words "affiliated to the C.B.U." Let me remind him I also omitted, "Crested Canary Club patronage," judges' names, prize-money, etc., and I am sorry Mr. Wasley finds it necessary to have it explained that the omission was from considerations of space. I also omitted my own initials, but the fact did not alter my name. As to his description of my letter as "another of Mr. Maggs' cheap advertisements," let me say I have to thank him for it. I did not seek it. As to the real issue, he commences by stating that I persist that the B.F.A. Show was licensed to be held under C.B.U. rules. I have said nothing of the kind. My position is that in the case of an affiliated society no license is necessary, and that the only objection against our date under the new rule giving first choice of dates to purely C.B. societies was withdrawn. The C.B.U. rules were, of course, inserted in our schedules.

Rebellion in the North.

Newcastle Society Reported as Defying the C.B.U.

SIR,—I hear on good authority that the committee of the Newcastle-upon-Tyne C.B.S. are up in arms against a decision of the Executive Committee of the Cage Bird Union. It appears that two years ago, at the 1907 show, through an error on the judge's part, a valuable set of carvers was awarded to Mr. Lister's Crest, whilst Mr. Taylor's Crest, "King Edward," which was entitled to compete, was not brought forward for this special, so that according to the judge's slip and catalogue, the special was won by Mr. Lister. However, in the Northern Crest Club Competition, where the same birds competed, the medal was awarded to Mr. Taylor's bird. Knowing this, the Secretaries wrote Mr. Heath, who judged, and his reply was that when judging he was unaware that Mr. Taylor's young bird was entitled to compete for the former special, but, if he was, then the special ought to be given to him, as this bird was undoubtedly the best in the section. According to the wording of the schedule, the carvers were to be given for the "best Crest or Crest-bred," so that the Newcastle Committee, before whom the case came, decided that: "owing to the judge's error, the carvers were wrongly awarded to Mr. Lister, and as Mr. Taylor was justly entitled to them, his bird, according to the judge being the best in the show, they be awarded to Mr. Taylor." This decision was appealed against by Mr. Lister, who took his stand that once a judge's slip is handed in it is unalterable. The No. 1 district committee of the C.B.U. requested the Executive Council to give their decision on the question, and after delays lasting over these two years, that slow-moving body decided in favour of Mr. Lister. The decision, which I believe was not sent from headquarters, but through the Newcastle C.B.S. representatives, was given shortly before the recent show, so that the committee had not had an opportunity to consider it until last week. I am told that the meeting was very stormy, many of the committee considering that the Executive Council instead of supporting the right, have taken a wrong course, and as the decision to give the special to Mr. Taylor was absolutely unanimous both of the committee and afterwards of the society at their monthly meeting, they (the executive) are flouting the wishes of one of the strongest and most progressive societies in existence at the present time and supporting an old and discredited rule that a judge's decision given in error cannot be reversed, even by the judge himself. It was freely said that the Union has not upheld one of the chief principles for which it was formed, viz., to uphold the right. The final decision arrived at was to inform the Union that morally Mr. Taylor was entitled to the carvers, and that they were prepared to support moral right against unjust wrong. What the result will be only time can reveal. Possibly in another two years' time the Executive may again communicate their long-thought-out decisions. And the tussle may be endless. Who knows?

The Wrong-Classed Yorkie at Hucknall Show.

SIR,—Your reporter seems to have his doubts as to the bird in question not being a good coloured yellow hen. I do not wish to argue the matter with either "Your Reporter" or Mr. Vardy, but I would ask them to kindly refer to the report of Bolton Show, Yellow Hen Class, 3rd prize winner. They will then see the opinion of someone who understands a Yorkie.

Even-marked Borders at Biggar Show.

A Curious Point.

SIR,—In the Evenly-marked Border class at Biggar Show, the judge awarded the premier honours to a specimen, marked eyes, wings, and on either side of rump. The judge said the exhibit was a six-pointed specimen. Many present, including myself, thought this bird was foul, and ought to have been in the variegated class. Mr. Gardner, however, gave us all to understand, and left no doubt either, by awarding it first prize, that when a bird has distinct markings on rump (Mr. Gardner is very particular about the word distinct), it is six-pointed. Now, I was not exhibiting in the even-marked class, but am very sweet on trying to breed these beautiful birds, and as a member of the Border Fancy Club, I ask the secretary if a rump-marked bird is allowed in even-marked classes? The judge also informed me he would be glad of some information on this point, and I trust exhibitors and breeders will contribute their opinions. I write this (as Mr. Gardner knows) through no ill-feeling but rather as a searcher after knowledge, and I trust we shall get some enlightenment on this disputed question.

U. M. J.

SIR,—Kindly permit me a small space in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, concerning the judging of Even-marked Borders at Biggar Show on November 20th by Mr. Gardner (Bathgate), who by the way seems to hold that the following is an Even-mark, viz.:—Both eyes, both wings, and a complete ring (not underflue, mind, but a complete visible surface mark) round root of tail, at vent. This Mr. Gardner awarded first prize in a class of perfect Even-marks including I may say Mr. Aitchison's young Even-mark Buff hen, 2nd at the last City of Glasgow Show, also the Even-mark Buff cock, 3rd at the last Scottish National. On behalf of others as well as myself, I ask the question: What is an Even-mark, and what a variegated bird? I myself thought this bird should have been in the Yellow Uneven class, and this seemed the general opinion.

CRITIQUE.

Some Questions for Catchers and Net Makers.

SIR,—I assure "Amateur" that his kind remarks were much appreciated by myself. Answering his queries in order, I myself do not aspire to net making, but I venture to say that the top arming is "cast on" to his net proper, and a very good arming is made by using "sea fishing line." Some more experienced net maker may probably answer his question more to his satisfaction. Respecting those Goldies, have they been sharped? I should think they have, by reading the letter, as they seem such an intelligent lot. But if you have plenty of time on your hands, pay plenty of attention to the spot. Then, after the Goldies have got over their shyness somewhat, put into action the "furrowing" method, and in the place of the flirt line, bobber, and braced bird, get some hen Finches brace them, and use as "runners"; that method was fully explained in my recent lecture. If you cannot afford all hen Goldies use some very bright cock Greenies. I would also advise (if the task is not too much) to clear those thistles away, just leaving a few near the spot which you intend laying out upon. If your spot is not more than a good cycle ride from my home in London I would delight in having a "go" at them one week end; anything under 30 miles I wouldn't mind. I trust my humble opinion is of some service, and that you may yet bag those Finches, and get some "toppers." Keep under cover as much as possible when catching the Goldies.

Red String and Show-Cage Labels.

SIR,—At Bournemouth Show last week I noticed a fancier who exhibited in a large number of classes and and I saw all these birds had their labels tied on with red string. Can any fancier tell me if the use of red string is just?

Two Birds Missing.

SIR,—I am pleased to say I received my birds quite safe from Hucknall Show on the Monday night after, and I followed my letter up to CAGE BIRDS with a post-card asking the editor to stop the insertion of my letter; but this must have miscarried. I am very thankful to the Hucknall secretary for the way in which he looked after my birds, and I hope my letter will not prove the slightest detriment to Hucknall Torkard Show.

A New Society for Selston and District.

SIR,—I am pleased to inform you that a meeting was held by the fanciers in Selston and District to form a society for the improvement of the breeding of cage birds, etc., by holding meetings and shows. Twenty-eight names were given in for membership, which augurs well, and we consider this a good beginning and one which, I am sure, should lead to making the society a good one. It was decided to name the society the Selston and District Society. The membership is restricted to a radius of 5 miles. The next general meeting was arranged to take place in the schoolroom (Selston) at 7 p.m. on December 4th, when we hope to enrol several new names for membership. Any one residing in the district who has not been communicated with, and who is interested in the Fancy, I shall be pleased to give any information to, if he (or she) will send me name and address.

Is the Yorkshire Advancing?

SIR,—The sketches in your last issue of the heads of Yorkshires now winning in the South come at an opportune moment. It is very seldom that I take the trouble to "rush into print" in your correspondence columns, but I should like to say that I believe there are a number of exhibitors (including myself) down South who are (what shall I say?) often taken back and discouraged with the uncertainties in exhibiting, owing to the different tastes of those who are appointed judges. I may be placed in the category of "disappointed exhibitors," but the facts do not justify such an assumption. I am one of the first to praise and admire a good Yorkie, and am quite ready to admit when I am beaten. Unfortunately at some recent shows in going through the wards, one cannot understand what points the judge has been going for. In some classes the smaller ones are favoured, and in others the larger specimens, which is not consistent. Then, again, all the heads sketched by your artist seem to be in the prize money. How can this be justified? We also hear it said, and it is quite true, "You had better send that bird under So and So; it is just his style." Now where does the "Standard" of the "gentleman" of the Canary world come in? If there is, as there should be, only one standard for type, quality and position, why is it that this standard is not followed and adhered to throughout? A Yorkie, as I understand him, should be slim and alert; but how many plump ones, more like long Norwich, get into the cards? My motto is: "Let the best bird win"; but let us understand clearly which is to be considered the best, or correct, type to breed for. I should be glad if other exhibitors would kindly give their views on the subject, as I think it is a matter that requires the careful consideration of exhibitors, so that a remedy may be found, if possible, for the evil.

H. E. PARROTT.

The Modern Norwich Plainhead.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. Jowett, I should advise you not to give up in despair, but to try again, and you will find a judge that will take to your birds. Now to be a successful exhibitor you have to find out your man. We have a standard to go by, but the judges don't go by the standard. I have seen birds put up that were not worthy of the name of Norwich Plainhead. If they had colour, that was enough; up they went to the top, and good birds paler in colour were put down. But I don't say there are no good birds knocking about; far from it. There are, and a good many. So don't be discouraged, Mr. J., but have another go with your birds. I have seen my birds put down when I thought they should have been higher, and I have seen it the other way. But I take my wins and losses like a man. The path of a breeder and exhibitor of Canaries is not a path of roses by a long way. I am always willing to do what I can to further advance our hobby. I shall be glad to give my opinion on anything you send to our esteemed paper.

R. E. WORTHINGTON.

SIR,—I am sorry, Mr. Bertie, I had to speak so roughly about your birds at Accrington. But what else could I do after reading your letters on the present-day Norwich, and after seeing the "Modern" Norwich Plainheads exhibited by you? Now, the Green was far and away the best bird of the four, and he should have been "wrong classed." Mr. Cook's "champion" was not there, but only a stock bird. There were only six entries in the class. I am not "talking through my hat," as I don't wear one. But let us have a different bird from what I saw there for our ideal. Now the present-day Norwich are as good as I have seen for years, both in England and Scotland. What about the variegated now shown by Mr. T. Sandiford (formerly Mr. Watson's), and also Messrs. Aitchison and Winter's birds (a credit to Scotland), and a host of others? Again, I say, be careful what you write about other people's birds. You say that you supplied those winners, but you don't say who bred them; they surely did not come off those birds that I saw. Whether I know what a Norwich bird is, I will leave readers who know me to judge.

R. E. WORTHINGTON.

SIR,—I have been waiting for some abler pen than mine to take up this controversy. It seems to me there should be a model adopted to breed to. Messrs. Key, Williams and Moss are perfectly right in what they say about some of the winning Norwich. Now the Norwich Plainhead Club should say what we must breed to; it does not matter to me whether Wagtail, Duckfronted, Bullfinch, Robin or Greenfinch, or any other type they may suggest. Then, above all, they should see that our judges put the best typical birds to the front. I should like to suggest Bullfinch or Greenfinch type. Look at the compactness of a Greenfinch; short wings and tail, just what we want, and what some of our noted Norwich fanciers would like to lay hold of. I hope some other fanciers will suggest something. Now is the time to open your minds and express your opinions. Don't go to the club and show rooms and start grumbling, because you may disgust some young fancier who intends taking up the Norwich Plainhead.

JOSEPH ROUND.

[Our correspondent would seem to be unaware of the fact that the Norwich Plainhead Club adopted a model some eighteen months or two years ago.—EDITOR.]

Proposed Cage Bird Society for the Shildons and District.

SIR,—A meeting of cage bird fanciers will be held at the Masons' Arms Hotel, New Shildon, on Monday night, November 29th, at 8 o'clock, to try and form a new society for the Shildons and District. A good attendance of fanciers is earnestly requested.

Suggested Open Cage Bird Show for Brighton.

SIR,—Kindly allow me to give my opinion as to the suggested open show for Brighton. It is close on two years now since I heard it suggested for the first time. I should very much like to see a cage bird society formed for the south coast. Therefore, let the "Queen of Watering Places"—Brighton—be the centre. Also, let the society have a radius, say, from Hastings to Portsmouth for its membership. Also, let its committeemen be, say, two from each town. There are some good fanciers in and between the above-named towns, and also some shows, which would, of course, have the society's support. I hope some abler pen than mine will get these fanciers together to form a South Coast Cage Bird Society, distinct from any other association. As to the other part of "Visitor's" letter, i.e., as to the classes not filling, my opinion is, that two classes for each variety of Canary are enough. I also think that the entrance fee is quite enough for the small prize money, which is on the sliding scale. I think, too, that the schedules should be in the hands of exhibitors four days before the date on which the entries close. I received my schedule late one day, and the entries I found closed the next; this is sharp work. I well know the work that has to be got through, if societies are to come out on the right side of shows. The failure to send out schedules earlier was, I believe, why the classes did not fill.

ALBERT BURTENSHAW (exhibitor).

P.S.—It was suggested to me by a few well-known exhibitors that a cage bird society was about to be formed, and I take it, now is the time to get about it. "Visitor" would then no doubt see that a good open show would be supported by its south coast members.—A.B.

My Experiences with Norwich Canaries.

By G. GWILLIAM, GLOUCESTER.

I will try and give an account of my experience in the breeding and exhibiting of the Norwich Plainhead Canary. From the time when I was quite a little boy I have been very fond of birds, and many times have I broken the rules by robbing wild ones of their nests of young, when I little knew how to rear them. I have climbed many high trees at the risk of breaking my legs in order to get them. Having got them, I have had to ask my mother if I could keep them in the house. If she said yes, I was as pleased as a King. I did not forget to give instructions as to how they were to be fed, although I know very little about it myself. And many times I have taken them up in my bedroom at night so that I might be able to give them an early feed. I could keep them alive for a day or two; then the trouble would commence. When I came home from school, my mother would tell me one of the birds was dead, and that it was the best bird that had gone. Then in the morning I would find one or two more dead, and so on till all were gone.

But that did not daunt me. I would go on again until I was successful in rearing one or two. Of course, I had no proper place in which to keep them. After leaving school, having a little pocket money, I decided to go in for racing pigeons, and was very successful, winning many races with them; but I found them a very expensive hobby, and the time came when I decided to give them up. I knew, too, that when I became the proud possessor of a wife and a home of my own I should be able to have a room in which to keep whatever variety of cage birds I intended to take up with.

The Norwich has it.

I was always very fond of the Canary, so I thought it would be best for me to purchase two pairs of common ones, in order that I might gain a little experience in the feeding and rearing of the young. I might say we did not get such valuable information 15 years ago as we do now, thanks to our splendid paper, CAGE BIRDS. In my first year I bred seven young from two pairs. I thought I had done wonderfully well. Then, of course, more cages were wanted. I mated up six pairs the next year, when I thought I was a full-fledged fancier. I had a most successful season, breeding in all 45 youngsters. I could not go wrong it seemed. I began to think Canary breeding quite an easy task. I therefore made up my mind to clear out the whole lot of Common Canaries and go in for some good ones. I attended one or two shows, and was taken very much with the Norwich Plainhead, so I decided on that variety for myself.

The next thing then was where had I best get them? I knew there were some good Norwich Plainheads in Gloucester, so I went to our old fancier friend, Teddy Stephenson, and placed myself in his hands. I told him just what I wanted, and the price I was prepared to pay, and I am pleased to say that he suited me well. I paid him £2 7s. 6d. for two pairs. Of course, I would have had better birds, but everyone knows that when such are wanted they are not to be had.

A Successful Start.

I started my long and careful study with the two pairs, and in my first year I bred nine youngsters. I might say that I was not one of those lucky novices who are able to breed a winner in the first year, but I bred some good stock birds. The next year found me with five pairs up. Of course I had to purchase several more birds to work in with them. I got them from our old friend, as I don't believe in going from one fancier to another, that being where a lot of novices make great mistakes to-day. I had a very good season in my second year, and am proud to say that I bred a winner which I exhibited at Gloucester, being awarded 1st and 3rd prizes in the open classes, and 2nd prize in the novice class. My readers can imagine my feelings when, before getting to the show, I was told how I had got on. It was not long before I was there you may depend, and as proud was I as a lord. Now I decided to become a member of the Gloucester Society, and remained in that society until 1906, when we formed a Cage Bird Society there, which I am pleased to say is progressing well.

My next season found me nearer the leading exhibitors, and I have had the pleasure of beating some toppers with birds which I bred myself. I might say that I have won 70 firsts and numerous specials for best Norwich Plainhead in show. One feat I accomplished was the winning of the open Norwich Plainhead Club challenge bowl and medal, value £6 6s., also the challenge cup, value £5, and gold medals three years in succession. I have never exhibited my own property at the Palace, but have had the honour of having been the breeder of winners in the champion section there.

Some Useful Hints.

I will now give the novice a few hints that may prove of some benefit. If you have some fanciers living in your town who keep the variety you intend to take up with, just take a note of what winning they are doing; then see the fancier whom you select personally, and ask him if he has any birds for sale. If he has he will invite you to have a look round the room, but before you do any business with him make sure he is one of those who breed their own winners, as there are many who buy winners and get a name for themselves, and then look out poor novices to buy off them. If you apply to them for stock they will only be too glad to supply you with something, and if you are the unfortunate purchaser you will be able to warn some other novices some day.

I should advise you to purchase two pairs if your pocket will allow, but I would rather have one good pair than a dozen bad ones. We will suppose then that you are suited with your stock; you would do well to have a pair of feeders, as some birds are very bad feeders, and I have found it always well to have a pair or two for the purpose.

My breeding cages are in a stack—four breeders; or will make eight moulting cages. They are 3ft. long, 16ins. deep, and 11ins. from back to front, with loose fronts. I should advise having the door to open towards you, as sliding doors are very noisy, and are therefore apt to disturb your hens when they are sitting. I also prefer paint (a pale green I use myself); you can then clean them much better. You can also scrub them occasionally. Look out for our friends the red mite. I use a bicycle feeder, filling it with paraffin; you will, if you use this, be able to fill any small crevice you like. I also use nest-boxes with perforated bottoms and seed-boxes, glasses for water, and white earthenware egg-drawers, which last I find keeps the egg-food nice and cool. I supply course sawdust in the bottom of the cage, with a good supply of sand.

Getting the Birds into Condition.

We will assume that you are fixed up with birds and cages, and we will now consider the condition of birds for breeding purposes. I like my hen to fly in a large flight cage during the winter, as I think it very beneficial to them. I commence feeding up my birds at about the middle of February, and I pair up the first week in April. Before pairing up you should see that your hens have got plenty of "go" in them, flying from perch to perch and looking out for a husband. Your cock birds, too, must be in good song.

I give very little egg-food to my birds when getting them into condition, as I think a sound bird wants little feeding up. I like to get some young dandelion leaves and a little mixed seed of the following:—Maw, hemp, niger, and gold of pleasure, which give twice a week. I think that will condition the birds as well as a lot of egg-food, as they are with the latter liable to get fat, and that will mean trouble. I always like to have the hens in the breeding cages about ten days before drawing the slides, as I think that by that time they will have made up their minds as to what they are going to do in the way of housekeeping.

Another important point to consider is the mating up of your birds. It is of no use your thinking that you are alright because you are going to put up, say, four pairs this season. Are they mated up right? That is a very important question. It is no use your putting them together anyhow; you should watch the bad points in both birds, and try if possible to mate the cock to a hen that has not the same bad points as he has himself, and vice versa. I like to have my hens as stylish as I can get them; I am not struck with great big hens. Of course we all like good big ones, but they are few and far between. I like the hen to be of nice quality of feather, good head, and short tail and flights; you will find the offspring of such will follow the hen more than the cock.

I like to have in the cock bird plenty of size and colour, with nice head and substance; I think the head is an important thing worth watching. If you put a Norwich Plainhead with a good body and small head in the show cage, what does he look like? To my mind, just awful. I like to see plenty of head on the shoulders of the birds. Of course, we cannot make them to order, or there would be plenty of winners about to-day. As to what colour hen I prefer, yellow or buff, it does not matter to me which, providing she is a good one. Now, if you are fortunate enough to breed a good yellow green cock bird, or a hen, you will do well to keep it, as you will then be able to maintain the colour, and secure quality of feather.

Author of "The World's Birds."

A Coming Cage Bird!

I am very glad to see that the Red or Hooded Siskin (Chrysomitris cucullata), about which I was writing in CAGE BIRDS some time back, seems to be getting into the trade at last in rather greater numbers. It cannot, as yet, however, be called either common or cheap, but I believe if once people begin breeding it, it will have a better chance of entering as a competitor with the Canary for the favour of the "man in the street" than any small cage bird I know. The cock has the unusual and handsome colour of black and red, and he is not a "soft-bill" like the Scarlet Tanager, nor does he lose his bright plumage for half the year, like the Bishops; while he has the indispensable attribute of song, and is of a conveniently small size for a cage.

Conjugal Amenities.

One advantage of the species is that cocks and hens are very easily known apart, and though the plain grey plumage of the latter sex is not striking, it is redeemed from insignificance by a touch of red on the breast and wings. I remember a pleasing little scene I once witnessed at the Zoo with a pair they had there. The hen actually started to feed the cock, though I must admit that after delivering him the half-digested mouthful, she changed her mind, and succeeded in reclaiming some of the delicacy! At this time the Zoo's Red Siskins comprised "a husband, a wife, and a tertium quid," the third party being the first bird they ever received; a very tame and healthy little bird, which, however, was not of the full scarlet colour, but of a reddish-orange. No doubt a little colour-feeding would often be advisable to keep these birds up to standard. The hen, it is interesting to note, did not desert the mate along with whom she arrived at the gardens, though he was not strong. Perhaps his bright colour was the attraction; it is strange that the Zoo's old bird did not persecute him so far as I saw, though he would occasionally so far forget himself as to hustle the little hen a bit.

Mouse-birds in the Trade.

The Colies, or Mouse-birds, of Africa, are not common in the bird trade at the best of times, and I do not remember ever before seeing what I saw the other day—two species of this curious family on sale together. One was the Red-cheeked Coly (Colius erythromelon), a greenish-drab bird with red bill, eye-ceres, and feet; the other species appeared to me to be the Speckled Coly (C. striatus), which has the bill, eye-ceres and feet dark. The specimens I saw seemed wilder than the red-faced kind, and they did not sit down on the perches as these often did, confining themselves to acrobatic performances on the wires. These crawling tricks are very characteristic of the Colies, which do not stand up and hop like other birds, but climb about the boughs like mice. Hence their long wiry tails are apt to get very dirty in a cage if great care is not taken. Even when perching, the Red cheeked Coly sits down, like a bird with sore feet, and it turns the outer toe backwards to secure a grip of the perch. The first toe, which should be the hind one, is small, and apparently cannot be turned more than half way to the rear.

The Question of Quids.

The point as to whether birds cast pellets or not is not only of scientific interest, but has some bearing on practical aviculture; but so far very few observations have been published on this subject, although it has long been known that some birds habitually throw up the hard parts of their food—Owls and Kingfishers for example. The practical interest of the question is this: If a bird casts "quids," it is not wise to supply it with food which can be completely assimilated, but some substance of a natural character which will form the pellets should be mixed with the diet. Thus, if you have to feed a Kingfisher long on meat or the cut-up flesh of large fish, it would be advisable to chop this finely and mix therewith some dried flies or ant's eggs, so as to form a bolus, which will cleanse the stomach. Our ancestors were well acquainted with the importance of giving artificial "castings" to their trained Hawks when using food which did not supply such matter naturally.

Wild Bird Life.

November Notes.

The woodlands are thinning, and the hedgerows are becoming bare, the early frosts, the wind and heavy rains have caused the leaves to fall, and summer signs are passing all too quickly. Of autumn beauties we have had our share, and even now many stretches of country show golden tints in the hazy-purplish distance. The thinning of the woods assists the bird lover in his search for subjects; to get a glimpse of the elusive Woodpecker is not so difficult now, the large Green bird and the Greater Spotted species are both fairly plentiful, and are to be seen working on the trunks of the larger trees. But the Lesser Spotted Woodpecker must be searched for among the branches. He is much smaller and more active than his congeners, and I have seen him almost as acrobatic as a Tit, frequently hanging head downwards in his search for food. Woodpigeons, again, are numerous. Whole flocks of them can be seen flitting among the tops of trees; occasionally one may be fortunate enough to get quite close to them while they are feeding under the beeches. They are greedy, voracious birds, and soon clear the ground of the beech nuts, leaving few for the flocks of Chaffinches, which are again fairly plentiful this year. But insect life must abound among the carpet of leaves under the trees, for many birds are to be seen busy here, birds which we know care nothing for the beech masts. Blackbirds, Thrushes, Robins, Tits and Finches may often be found half-buried among the rubbish.

The companies of Tits are becoming interesting. They have not yet taken up a permanent residence in the gardens, but one may see them along the hedgerows of every by-road—the Blue Tit, the Greater Tit, sometimes one or two Cole Tits, and frequently, in this district, a family of Long-tailed Tits. The latter are not at all shy, and will hunt the bushes quite close to one, if the observer will only remain still and quiet. By doing so, I have several times watched them go to roost. They flit about the chosen spot in a restless manner some time before settling; one or two will remain quiet, and the others in turn join the circle, until all are settled, the early birds being apparently fast asleep before the late arrivals have gone through their last wakeful "listen" for danger.

Scarcity of Redshanks.

In many districts the noisy Redshank has not been seen in its accustomed haunts this summer. It is most difficult to find a satisfactory

A Little Known Hawk.

Montagu's Harrier nests regularly with us in the southern counties. It haunts the low-lying fens and marshes, nesting among the reeds. It feeds upon frogs, lizards, and other reptiles, besides all kinds of large insects, and appears to be harmless to birdlife.

A Fierce Owl.

The Tawny or Wood Owl is always ready to protect its young or nest, and it is no uncommon thing for would-be robbers to be attacked by the fierce birds. It is said that a man once lost the use of an eye, through the old bird striking him when he was looking down a hollow tree into the nest.

BRISTOL.

Third annual show of the Bristol C.B.S. held on Nov. 24th and 25th in the Engineer's Drill Hall, a large and well-lighted building, free from draughts. The entries did not total quite so many as last year, but the average was much better. The quality in the majority of the classes was excellent, the competition in the Norwich and Yorks. being very keen. In the former Messrs. Tristem and Tayler put down a superb team, and annexed the majority of the first prizes. They won members' challenge cup with their unflighted Buff, and were also the runners-up with their grand young Yellow. The members' challenge cup for best Yorkshire was won by Mr. Lovell. This bird (an unflighted Buff) secured the challenge cup at the recent Bristol F. Show. As usual, the members' classes contained some good birds, and the competition in many classes was keen. The exhibits were nicely staged, and well looked after by a good body of fanciers, and we must not forget to mention how hard the three ladies, Mrs. Manley, wife of the hon. secretary, Mrs. Roberts, and Mrs. Tristem, worked. They were quite busy right up to the finish. Mr. Manley again filled the office of hon. secretary, and, as usual, was right on top of his work, having everything running as smoothly and as regularly as clockwork. Mr. J. H. Payne judged Canaries, and Mr. R. J. Howe the Mules, British, and Foreign.

SOUTH LONDON.

South London Columbarian and F.A. members' show, held in the spacious Public Baths, Old Kent Road, S.E., when a capital collection of birds were on view. The Canary section was particularly strong in the total, although the individual classes were small. The champion Norwich and Yorkshires contained some exceptionally good birds in the pink of condition. The hall is well lighted, the temperature agreeable, and the arrangement of the birds well attended to by the able hon. secretary, Mr. G. A. Jeffreys, and his hard-working committee. The challenge cup for the best cage bird bred in 1909, and Travers' special were won by Mr. H. Lee, while the silver medal for best old cage bird fell to Mr. A. J. Kilby. The novice section was also well represented, and contained some good birds, special for best bird in the section falling to Mr. J. E. Tarrant. The remaining sections were not very numerous, and Mrs. Tarrant secured special for best British bird, with a typical Goldie. Mr. J. Robson judged.

TONBRIDGE.

Third annual show of the Tonbridge and Dis. F.A. took place in the Public Hall, on November 24th and 25th, and was a great success. This hall is commodious and well lighted, and the cage birds, as usual, attracted a great deal of attention from the visitors. Mr. Stonestreet had the work well in hand, ably assisted by some of his committee, and the prize cards were up in good time. Mr. R. P. Daish is the enthusiastic chairman, and amongst his many other good works, entertained his colleagues and the judges to a hot luncheon. Mr. North judged.

ROCHDALE (Good Intent) C.B.S.

The first of a series of four table shows, held Nov. 20th. In addition to prize-money, we have a splendid list of specials for most points gained at the four shows, as follows:—1st, value 30/-; 2nd, 10/-; 3rd, 5/-; 4th, 2/6; also one or two not yet specified. This soon proved a great success, as the members were not afraid of bringing their birds out to a table show, and several have won in good classes in open competition. The judges were Messrs. G. Adams (Lancs., Lizards, and Crests), H. Smith (Littlehorough) the remainder.

LANCS: 1, 2, Adams; 3, Collinge. GOLD. LIZ.: 1, hc, Holt; 2, vhc, Nuttall; 3, Haytock. CREST: 1, Collinge. YORKS.: 1, 2, Schofield; 3, vhc, Faulkner; 4, Leach; hc, c, Lord. NOR.: 1, 2, Lees; 3, Leach.—W. ADAMS, Hon. Sec.

GOVANHILL.

Govanhill and Dis. (Continued) O.S. held their fourth annual show and competition of Scotch Fancy and Norwich Canaries, in the Dixon Halls, Cathcart Road, on Nov. 6th. President, Mr. Wm. Tennant, Vice-President, Mr. Allan Wilson; sec. and treasurer, Mr. Charles C. Watson. The association has made rapid progress during its short existence, and is adding each season to its membership. Both the president and secretary have worked hard to make the association a success, and have met with a hearty response from breeders. The present show was a marked success, and an improvement on last year's, entries being in advance, and the quality much improved. Dr. Garcy distributed the prizes to the successful winners in his usual racy style. There was a large turn-out of fanciers and friends. Judges, Messrs. James Carlaw (Falkirk), G. Smart (Carmyle), A. Paterson (Edinburgh), and A. Clark. The awards gave every satisfaction. Mr. A. Clark (Rutherglen), was the successful winner of the club's silver cup.

SITTINGBOURNE.

The tenth annual show was held in the Town Hall on November 24th and 25th. All the arrangements were very carefully carried out by the capable and courteous secretaries, Messrs. E. Coupland and G. Arnold, and their large staff of committee. The hall is a charming building for an exhibition of this kind. The committee deserve all the support they got, for they made good classes in all sections, as well as classes for local members, but in the open classes the entries were very meagre, owing, no doubt to the clashing with other shows. Mr. F. J. Gibbs (Canterbury), judged, and gave general satisfaction.

FAVERSHAM.

Faversham and Dis. C.B.S. held their show in the Lecture Hall on Nov. 24 and 25, under distinguished patronage and opened by the Mayor of Faversham. This show was not the numerical success in the matter of entries that could have been desired, seeing the efforts of the committee, but the quality year by year shows decided improvement. The hon. secretary, Mr. Bray, had perfected every arrangement. The birds were conveniently placed on the platform, and the room was beautifully decorated. The committee one and all, from the president downwards, worked earnestly and well, and the attendance of the public was large on each evening. Cup for best bird in the show was won by Mr. A. Jones, with a beautiful Amazon Parrot, and there was a liberal list of other specials. Mr. Geo. Gardiner judged.

(4): 2, cup, spl, Jones, Amazon in fine feather and col.; 3, res, Keen, very fine Budgerigar; vhc, Allen.

WHITBY.

The 24th annual show of the Whitby P.S. took place on Nov. 24th. The Market Hall in which the exhibits were staged is good in every way. Entries did not turn up quite as well as one would like to have seen. Various reasons were given for this falling off, one being that the cage bird section had not been advertised sufficiently (Whitby is a mixed show), and another that the mention of cage birds had been omitted from the front of the schedule. And again, they were not affiliated to the C.B. Union. The cage bird secretary was Mr. J. P. Stamp, a good fancier, a hard worker, and a most capable official. Councillor W. J. Jackson acted as head steward, and others who were capital helpers, and did what was asked of them in fine style, were Messrs. Calam, Dickenson, Watmough, Porritt and Harland. Mr. J. G. Tomlinson, the general hon. secretary, is the right man in the right place. He knows the correct workings of an open fixture, and plays his part judiciously. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) adjudicated. Solid silver cup, presented by Dr. G. B. Mitchell, for best current year bird (members) to be won three times, fell to Mr. J. M. Fletcher.

BUCKHAVEN.

Annual show held on November 20th, and, taking into consideration the various shows held in Scotland on that date, the executive got a fair share of entries. Scotch Fancies were a disappointment, many of the classes having to be cancelled. But the Norwich, taken on the whole, were very good, many of the birds being fit for keen competition. The classes were carefully judged by Mr. Kean, and he left very little to be desired. Borders were a grand collection, and competition was keen, and the medal was won by Mr. Arnott, the runner up being Mr. Hamilton. All the classes were good, some really nice ones having to stand down. British were a nice collection, although they might have been stronger in numbers. The winning Siskin, shown by Mr. Frazer, looks like the bird that was passed at the City of Glasgow. The judge tested same, and found it correct in bib and cap, and awarded it first prize. It is a really good one. Mr. J. W. Bruce judged these classes.

OAKHAM.

The ninth annual show was held in the Poultry Hall on November 18th. The entry was a disappointing one, and several classes had unfortunately to be cancelled. The quality of the exhibits was very good considering the limit, 43. Mr. J. N. Harrison judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction. Mr. T. J. Walker makes an excellent secretary, and had everything well in hand.

WOKING.

The second show of the Woking Society was held in the Public Hall on November 23rd and 24th, and considering the united classification, small prize money (6/- for first), and short radius, the entry was fairly good. The committee had all the arrangements well in hand, and Mr. L. C. B. Hockin made a most obliging and energetic secretary. Mr. C. A. House judged.

FALKIRK AND DIS. C.B.S.

The 21st annual show of cage birds was held in the Oddfellows' Hall, Grahamston, on October 30th. There was a large turn-out of exhibits, 418 in all. The judges were: Mr. McLay (Kirkintilloch), Norwich and Crests; Mr. R. Lambie (Whitburn), Borders; and Mr. D. G. Gardner (Bathgate), British and Foreign; and their awards gave every satisfaction. Cup for best young Norwich was won by Mr. D. Smart; that for best young Border Fancy by Messrs. Jeffrey and Stevenson; and that for best Crest or Crest-bred, Mule or Hybrid by Mr. J. McNaughton with a clinking Crest. Medal winners were Messrs. T. Sharp, Millar and Eadie, and Hamilton and Wallace.

BACKWORTH.

First open show of the Backworth P.S. was held on Nov. 20th in the Long Room of the Backworth Hotel, which makes a very comfortable and in every way suitable place for a show, the cage bird section receiving every care and attention from an able body of fanciers. The secretary, Mr. Henry Elliott, and his assistant, Mr. J. Young, especially are deserving of every praise for their successful management. Mr. T. Foggett (Seaton Delaval) judged the cage birds.

GRAND UNITED METROPOLITAN.

This united show was held at Lambeth Baths on November 23rd, in conjunction with the South Metropolitan F.A. and the Civil Service F.A. The Cage Bird section was somewhat of a failure, in spite of a nice classification. We learned from the courteous show secretary, Mr. Watson, that the classification on an extended scale was given on the promise of good support, but the result was anything but encouraging. There were, however, some good birds in the Canary and Mule sections, but the Britishers were not prominent in numbers or quality. Mr. J. Robson judged.

CHAPEL-EN-LE-FRITH.

The cage bird section of this show held Nov. 20th, was comfortably housed in a separate room of the Drill Hall, heated to a comfortable degree. Mr. Vernon was "told off" specially to care for the exhibits, which he did admirably. The classification was not a large one, but entries came in well. This show is worthy of all the support exhibitors may give it. Mr. S. R. Compston judged.

MANNINGHAM.

The Manningham and Dis. C.B.A. held its annual show on Nov. 20th, in the Council School, Drummond Road, under the rules of the Y.U., and the patronage of the N.G.M.Y.C.C. The room is a good one, very lofty and well lighted, with plenty of space for visitors. Mr. R. Halliday (Shipley) was the judge elect, with Mr. J. Bailey (Allerton), as assistant, the latter taking the three selling classes, which contained over 90 birds. The awards of both were well received. The management was in excellent hands, Mr. W. Holroyd, secretary, being in charge, and he being well backed up by an energetic committee, amongst whom were Messrs. Grange (president), Huddlestone and Denison (vice-presidents), Dent (treasurer), Kemp (assistant secretary), and Smith, Robinson, and Varley (stewards). All cards were up directly after judging, and all specials and prize money ready for paying out by 4 o'clock, a feat that speaks well for the management. The winners of the sectional specials were Messrs. W. H. Shackleton, J. Bailey, Ogden Bros., E. Tomlinson, T. Elsegood, E. Dinsdale, H. Graham, and J. Thomas. The total entries were 447, an average of nearly eighteen per class.

BELFAST N., C., & Y.C.C.

Annual young bird show, held on November 20th in the Avenue Hall, a good room for a bird show. The staging was three tiers high round the room, the body of the room being clear for visitors. The membership is open to Ireland, subscription 10s. a year, which entitles fanciers to show two birds in each class (to be bred and exhibited by the owner). Mr. A. Hirst (Accrington) judged. Mr. Bamford, the secretary, had all arrangements well in hand. Mr. Adams (President) was hard at work all day; Mr. South is the assistant secretary, and Messrs. Fleming and Teasey the stewards, assisted by an influential committee, who together got through the work well.

ST. HELENS.

The St. Helen's and Dist. O.S. held their grand open show in the Windle Pilkington Hall on November 19th and 20th. The entries throughout were not quite up to the average, but there were so many shows held on this date (no less than 24 in the various counties). Although the entry did not exceed 250, some grand specimens were on view. The selling classes were the best filled, the entries here numbering 52 in the four classes. We hear that the management intend another year to fix their show for the second week in January, their old date. Mr. R. Gibbie, the secretary, had the birds staged in good time, assisted by such practical fanciers as Messrs. Lloyd, Lomax, Scott, Sherlock, Myers, Jackson, Goodall, and Bardsley. Everyone did his best to make the show a success. The judging commenced at nine o'clock, and was done in good time. Mr. W. P. Barnes (Grantham) placed the cards, and seemed to give every satisfaction.

BIGGAR.

The Biggar and District P.A. held their third annual show of cage birds in the Municipal Hall on November 20. The hall is a very suitable one for the purpose, being well lighted and remarkably free from draughts, and the excellent secretary, Mr. G. Mitchell, and committee had evidently put "their best foot" foremost, as everything was in perfect order, and the function passed off very satisfactorily. There was a record entry over the show, and some splendid classes in Borders and British, and these may be augmented in future. The Scotch Fancy classes did not fill so well, and Mr. Forrest had no difficulty in winning the chief awards here. Mr. Thompson, who judged, had also a fairly hard task over the Norwich classes, which were more numerous than formerly and of grand quality. In the Border section, Mr. Gardner had a big job on hand, as every class had a bumper entry and mostly of first-rate quality, but he succeeded in placing his awards to the apparent satisfaction of all. Mr. Kerr won special for best in section with a good Green, and Messrs. Walker, Aitken, Lawson, and Aitchison. The British averaged 15 per class, and were a centre of attraction. Mr. Forrest also won special for best bird in show.

BERWICK.

The 21st annual show of the Berwick and Dis. C.C., held in the Berwick Corn Exchange on Oct. 30th, when nearly 200 birds were staged. Special prizes were won, as follows:—Challenge cup for best Can. or Mule, Mr. J. Smart; gold centre silver medal (Sandiford's), T. Renwick; and others, by Messrs. A. and W. Hay, C. Makins, T. Walker, J. Smart, T. Renwick, R. Purves, W. Grey, W. Craigs, T. McDonald, R. Blackhall, and T. Meston. Mr. H. Bennet (Kelso) judged, and his awards gave satisfaction. Mr. Anthony Hay, the hon. sec., had the arrangements well in hand, and everything passed off satisfactorily.

HAYLE.

The Hayle F.A. held their sixth open show in the Public Hall on Nov. 17th and 18th, in good weather. We were sorry to find that several classes had to be cancelled. But the quality throughout was good, and many noted winners were staged. The Yorkshire classes were well filled, and the quality very good. The Mule and British Bird section made a beautiful display, both in number and quality—the best seen in Cornwall for a long time. The £5 5s. Challenge Cup for most points was won by Mr. F. Collins (Camborne), with 86 points; it thus becomes his own property, he having won it three years in succession. Special for best bird bred by a local member was won by Mr. J. Angwin, with a grand Non-lighted Yorkshire, which will be heard of again. The hall is a very suitable place, being large and well lighted; also it is in close proximity to the station, thus making the show easy of access. The management was everything that could be desired, not the slightest detail being omitted. The society is certainly to be congratulated upon possessing two such capable secretaries as Messrs. Ware and Cock; the manner in which they performed their duties merits the highest praise. They were ably assisted by a good, hard-working committee, consisting of Messrs. P. Oatey, G. Pool, W. Veal, H. King, F. Hill, S. Maddern, J. Kemp, T. Rowe, R. T. Hancock, J. Angwin, J. Hooper, A. W. Thompson, W. Symons, W. Ellis, W. Glanville, L. C. Mabbett, H. Bigglestone, and E. Tredinnick, and in every way the show was a success. Mr. W. Vardy judged, and gave general satisfaction.

STIRLING.

Held 30th November, Lesser Public Hall, Albert Place. Scotch Fancies, formerly in force here, were weak numerically. Norwich excelled in quality, and turned up in good numbers. The Border Fancies were strong in quality and quantity. The management, under the able direction of Mr. Summers, the president, and Mr. Hislop, the hon. secretary, was all that could be wished for. The judges were Mr. Buchan (Falkirk), and Mr. Craig (Brechin).

MORRISTON.

The Morriston and Dis. C.B.S. held their third annual show in the Forward Movement Hall, a fine building, kindly lent at the disposal of the society. It is a grand, square hall, with good light and plenty of room for both birds and visitors. The entries numbered about the same as at last year's exhibition; but if this pushing set of fanciers get what they deserve, another two or three hundred entries should face the judges next season. The centres of attraction were the baize-covered stands containing the Borders, and the far side of the hall where the British birds were staged. The latter were a very hot lot, especially the Goldies and Linnets. As an example of the quality of the former, we may mention that last season's Crystal Palace winner failed to get in the money. Welsh Goldfinches are well known by fanciers everywhere, and a few noted birds were seen here. Swansea fanciers are enthusiastic Border admirers, and we heard a good deal of gossip respecting this natty variety. A few exceptionally grand mules were staged, Messrs. Locke, Longden and Lees sending some beauties. Good darks were well in evidence. Mr. Edward's Linnet, and Mr. Gough's Goldie came in for a good deal of notice. The management was of the best and the arrangements so perfect that birds were all handed to the railway company within an hour of the closing of the show. Among the chief workers we noticed Messrs. Evans, Harding, Williams, Hopkins, Longden, Kirby, Wilcox, East, Bancroft, the chairman and vice (Messrs. Stamp and Morgan), and the show managers (Messrs. David Jeremy and W. H. Lewis), the efforts of the latter being especially praiseworthy. The judges were Mr. W. Mundell, Canaries, and Mr. H. Norman the remainder.

The Canary section was fine, and we must congratulate the local fanciers upon the way in which the exhibits were benched. Some very fine specimens were staged, the buff Norwich of Mr. Jones's being a topper; also Mr. Sheldon's exhibits, which were in fine fettle. Some typical Yorkshires were here. The Borders were a fine lot, Messrs. Hammacott and Card's buff tick. being a gem, and will take some stopping in the best of company.

MAESTEG.

Annual Show of the Maesteg and Dis. C.B.S., held in the Town Hall, on November 17th. The building is in every way suited to the purpose, being lofty and having plenty of light. The cuttles numbered about 600, making a fine collection. The Norwich were exceptionally good, some fine bold birds being staged by Messrs. Harber, Sheldon, Davies, Pritchard and others. The Yorkshires were a nice collection, some of the leaders being exceptionally stylish and racy. Some good Mules and British birds made up a very attractive collection. Messrs. Longdon and Bancroft staging a few of their well-known winners. A couple of good classes of Borders and a few Scotch Fancies gave variety to the show. The Secretary, Mr. W. Jenkins, worked hard for the success of the venture, as did also the show managers, Messrs. Miles and Thomas, ably assisted by the committee and a few well-known fanciers. Mr. J. H. Roe judged Canaries, and Mr. H. Norman the Hybrids, British and Foreign birds.

GALASHIELS, N.B.

A splendid show was that held by the Galashiels O.S. in the Volunteer Hall on November 20th. The aggregate entry was larger than last year, owing to an improvement in the Norwich section. Scots Fancies were hardly so strong as last year, but the quality right through the section was remarkably good, birds of grand style, with great length of side, being well to the front in all the classes. Many of the birds, however, were too near the Belgian for our liking, and not a few of them, if put into small cages with a single perch, could win as Belgian; indeed, one of the Scots Fancy judges with whom we discussed the matter said quite unreservedly that it was well-known that some birds had won one week as Scots and another as Belgians. When this is so, what becomes of type and purity of breed? The Borders were not so numerous as we expected to see them, but they were a very high quality lot. Slimly built, as nervy and stylish as a tip-top Yorkshire, and feathered like glass, they were indeed beautiful. Mr. Smillie handled them well, so well as to make one regret he had so little scope for his abilities. In Norwich some very nice, typical, short-feathered birds were shown. Birds in which depth and richness of colour were well combined with nice chubby bodies and neat tails and wings. The arrangements were splendid, everything being in readiness for the judges shortly after nine o'clock, the cards affixed as each class was judged, so that those interested, and who watched the judging from the gallery, could see at once how the verdict had gone. The committee worked hard and well, and were ably led by Mr. Archibald Tod, the chairman, Mr. Lugden, an old friend, whom we knew over twenty years ago, when he lived at Wooler, was secretary, and by his energy, his courtesy and very evident desire to do all he could for the society and exhibitors, proved himself a worthy successor of the many good secretaries the G.O.S. has had. He received invaluable assistance from Mr. Brown, the treasurer, and in these three officials the G.O.S. have a grand set of leaders. The judges were: Scots, Messrs. A. Paterson, J. Lowe; Borders, Mr. Smillie; Norwich, etc., Mr. Mason, and their awards were well received

The Critique.

BROUGHTY FERRY C.B.S.

Annual club show held in the Good Templar Hall on November 6th. Entries came well up, and the birds were of good quality. Mr. W. Mitchell judged Scotch Fancies, and Mr. D. A. Craig, Arbroath, all other varieties, and their decisions gave entire satisfaction. Mr. W. Keill won special for best young bird in Hall, Mr. Whitton being runner-up.

KINGS LYNN.

First Annual Show held in Rechabites Hall on November 3rd, and it was a great success; over 200 birds were staged, and Mr. J. Howard, of Norwich, judged, and gave every satisfaction. He said he had been connected with cage bird breeding for nearly forty years, and he was greatly surprised at the large number, and the good quality of the birds shown; the quality of the Norwich especially, was a credit to the members. The birds were well up in type, and it was an excellent exhibition, considering the society has only been in existence for two years.

PENDLETON & SALFORD.

The 17th annual show of the Pendleton and Salford O.S. took place on November 19 and 20. The Caxton Hall, Blackfriars, Salford, in which the exhibits were housed, commends itself very highly; it is spacious, lofty, and light, free from draughts, and within easy distance of most of the stations. The rules of the C.B.U. were in evidence. Entries turned up excellently, there being over 200 more than was the case last year. This year's grand total was 688. The following specialist clubs granted their patronage: N.P.C., Y.C.C., and L. and L.F.A. The president is Mr. G. W. F. Lythgoe. He worked like a Trojan (acting practically as assistant show manager), and everything appeared to go on smoothly and well. Vice-presidents Messrs. B. Clegg, W. A. Bladon, J. Rudd, and Knupper—a quartette of excellent officials. The committee are a band of well-known practical fanciers, who helped materially to bring about the success of the function. Mr. S. Cook acts as treasurer, and a truer fancier we do not know. The secretary and show manager, Mr. H. Clayton, is the right man in the right place. He is hard working, courteous, and obliging (nothing being too much for him to do). Pendleton are truly lucky in having such an enthusiast amongst them. The most prominent section of the show certainly were the Norwich Plainheads. This being a cup competition affair, all the crackn were on view, providing a blaze of glorious colour, and a study for those who swear by the "short and thick" variety. Gold medal presented by the N.P.C. and spl. for best specimen in champion classes were captured by a storming marked yell., owned by Messrs. Clemiason and Taylor (Preston). Toronto C.B.S. medal, for best, opposite colour, went to Mr. Sandiford. Second best, Mr. J. E. Davies (Stockport); third, Mr. H. F. Marsh; fourth best, Mr. S. Cook. Yorkshires included many meritorious creatures, some gems being staged. Norwich and Yorkshire Greens were a grand lot. Lizards were pleasing, and Borders provided Mr. W. Bayley with a "day out," he gaining all 3 firsts and 3 seconds possible. British were nice, and in most instances beautifully staged. The members' classes contained a goodly number of exhibits that would run well in the "upper circles." The stewards were Messrs. S. Cook, J. Savage, W. E. Espley, J. W. Parkinson, and E. Bruce, all of whom officiated in a most prompt and practical manner. Prize slips were affixed quickly as each class was adjudicated upon. Staging was 3 tier high, and considering the huge entry and accommodation, was neatly set out. Judges: Messrs. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield), and A. Wellings (Prescot), and both appeared happy in their selections, the awards giving general satisfaction. Hyde's spl, Mr. S. Cook; Sandiford's, Mr. W. E. Espley; Ramsden's, Mr. J. Dewsnap.

DONCASTER AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

First members' show of this newly-formed society was held in the Albany Hotel on November 10th. The secretary, Mr. Bescoby, and his committee had the birds nicely staged, and some very fine specimens were shown, especially in the three British bird classes. Mr. A. Spencer, of Doncaster, judged, and gave every satisfaction.

PATHHEAD (Kirkcaldy).

The eleventh annual show of the Pathhead C.B.S. was held in the Public Hall on Nov. 20th. The entries were not up to previous years; this, no doubt, is accounted for by the clashing of show dates. Scotch fancies made a good show, and some grand birds were on view. The bright little Border fancies were all there for type and quality. Mules and British made up the show, and some grand specimens put in an appearance. The winning Yellowhammer was the City of Glasgow winner. It also won special for best Hardbill. Special for best Softbill was won by Mr. Comrie's Mavel Thrush. The hall is most suitable for such an exhibition, being free from draughts, and affording excellent light. Mr. W. R. Gibson makes an ideal secretary, being kind, courteous and obliging, and is quite the right man in the right place. Judging was got through in good time, and the awards all round were well received. The following gentlemen made the awards:— Scotch Fancy, Mr. A. Kerr (Dysart); Norwich and Border, Mr. G. Arnott (Sinclairtown); Mules, British and Foreign, Mr. J. H. Adair (Glasgow).

KILMARNOCK.

Annual show of the Kilmarnock O.C.B.S. was held on November 19th and 20th, in the Art Gallery Halls, London-road, when the executive were rewarded with an entry reaching considerably over 500, which compares very favourably with last year's. The hall is one which is admirably suited for such an exhibition, being well lighted from the roof and entirely free from draughts. The temperature is also regulated by hot pipes, with the result that all the exhibits were in the best of condition, and the judges' tasks accordingly made lighter. In Mr. J. B. Y. Murdoch the Society have an ideal Secretary, who seemed to have everything at his finger ends, and carried out his onerous duties as if to the manner born, being ably assisted by an experienced band of well-known fanciers, amongst whom were Mr. J. Noble (president), Messrs. W. Watson and J. Cram (Vice-Presidents), C. F. Adamson, C. Breadon, W. G. Muir, A. Mackie, J. Smillie, G. Blair, H. Train, J. Johnstone, R. McCallum, R. McCaw, J. Calderwood, J. Jamieson, W. Guthrie, W. Strathearn, R. Findlay, G. Alston, R. McDowill, and A. Gardner (Committee). The Scotch Fancy section contained some birds of real merit. The cup for the best young one was won by Mr. J. Kennedy, jun. Crests were not over numerous, but what was lacking in numbers was well made up for in quality. Mr. Noble had a grand team forward, as also had Messrs. McLay, Adamson, and Cram. Mr. C. F. Adamson was awarded the S.C.C. medal. Norwich made a grand show and were of a very high standard of quality. The S.P.C. medal for best cock was captured by J. Sneaton. The medal for best hen went to the clear yellow exhibited by Mr. Hutchison. Mr. Watson also won cup for best young bird in Plainhead or Crest section. Border Fancies were not in great numbers, and the judge had something to do to pick out the winners. Pride of place fell to Mr. J. Craig, who succeeded in annexing the B.F.C.C. medal; the novice medal went to Mr. Murdoch, the Secretary. Yorkshires were also a good all-round lot. The judges were: Scotch Fancy, Messrs. Patterson and Dalgleish (Edinburgh), Crests and Norwich, Mr. J. Winter (Edinburgh); Border Fancies, Mr. W. Shearer (Hamilton), Yorkshires, British, and Foreign, Mr. A. Cochrane (Edinburgh). Ramsden's special won by A. Cooper, Sandiford's by A. Watson.

GREENWICH AND DEPTFORD.

Annual show of the Greenwich and Deptford C.B.S. held in the Amersham Hall, New Cross, on Nov. 18th and 19th. The entry was considerably in excess of last year's, and the quality of the birds staged compared favourably with anything met with at most other shows this season. The staging was well arranged, giving ample room for visitors to move about freely and see the exhibits to advantage. The entry numbered 320. Pot plants and ferns here and there gave colour to the arrangements. Mr. F. W. Hamer, the capable hon. secretary, worked really admirably, and was ably assisted by the chairman, Mr. E. Meades, the vice-chairman, Mr. W. Cook, and the following gentlemen of the committee:—Messrs. W. Allison, S. Pack, W. Pawley, F. Putner, A. Roxburgh, and E. Simants. Specials were numerous, and the competition for them was keen. Norwich and Yorkshires came up well, and the open novice classes in these two varieties alone totalled 68 in 4 classes. Open British, too, were banging classes; and the members' section was well patronised. Altogether the show may be pronounced a decided success. Mr. J. Robson judged.

SUNDERLAND.

The Sunderland C.B.S. held their annual show on Nov. 19th and 20th, and entries came up well all over. The Yorkshires were the feature of the show, some really outstanding birds being on view, and many of the classes were keenly contested. The Yorkies were closely followed by Borders, which made a grand show. Here, also, a mere margin separated the winners. British birds, on the whole, were good, and if given even better classification would no doubt prove a success. Goldfinches and Linnets were the best classes, the same winners either winning or turning the scales as has been done since the season commenced.

Taken all over the show was a grand turn-out, and everything was splendidly conducted. The singing was of a grand height, and well arranged. The management was all that could be desired, and was under the careful guidance of Mr. Reid, who makes a really ideal secretary. He was very ably assisted by an enthusiastic committee, consisting of the president, Mr. C. E. Thomson; vice-presidents, Messrs. W. Hall, C. Grimshaw, G. Bell, J. Cobb, and Dr. O'Neal; the chairman, Mr. J. Farrar; vice-chairman, Mr. W. F. Swan; treasurer, Mr. J. Riseborough; trustees, Messrs. W. Ogleby and R. Armstrong; committee, Messrs. W. F. Swan, A. Elliott, H. Gordon, Dr. O'Neal, C. Waters, H. Fenwick, G. Davidson, J. Copeland and A. Walker, and the assistant secretary, Mr. A. Walker. Everything passed off without a hitch. Mr. Stanger judged all but the Norwich, Crests and C.-B.'s. Cinnamons, and Yorks., and his awards seemed to be well received.

The Norwich, as usual at this show, made a fine display, the quality of the exhibits being of the very best. The section averaged just 10 per class in seven classes, the Open Norwich Plainhead Club competition bringing forth many birds of the highest quality, staged by Messrs. A. H. Waters, Alf. Grey, J. Haigh and Son, and Pickering and Wright. Messrs. T. Irons and J. Wilcock also staged some grand exhibits. The Crest section, although under the patronage of both the Northern Crest Club (who held their club show here), and the Crested Canary Club, was very moderate, as far as numbers were concerned, although, as usual here, the quality was the best in the country, the great attraction being Mr. R. Armstrong's Dark Crest, "King of Kings," the same owner's clear body grey Crest, "Suggested Model," Mr. T. Taylor's variegated Crest, "King Edward," and young Dark Crest, "Emperor," and Mr. R. S. Bewick's green Crest-bred, "Duchess." The Southern exhibitors, although they gave their patronage here, failed to send a single entry, with the result that only the two young bird classes contained more than six entries, the remaining eight classes containing entries of six and less, the whole section averaging under six per class in 10 classes—poor support for any society who are willing to cater so liberally for a section that seldom pays. Cinnamons averaged over eight per class in five classes, birds of superlative excellence, all the champions being present, Mrs. Deacon, the Liverpool lady exhibitor, accounting for three out of the five possible firsts. Mr. R. Armstrong's Dark Crest, "King of Kings," secured the special for best bird in show. Special for most points in open show went to Mr. T. Taylor with a total of 96 points; second most points, E. Godley, 61, and third most points, A. Grey, 46. Other special prize winners were: Northern Crest Club silver challenge cup and gold medal, best young Crest, Mr. T. Taylor; silver challenge cup and gold medal, best young Crest-bred, T. Taylor; silver medal winners are: T. Taylor, R. S. Bewick, R. Armstrong, T. Almond, W. F. Swan, J. G. Hutchinson, and R. W. Mole. The Northern Yorkshire C.C. medal for best novice Yorkshire went to Mr. T. E. Dix, the Border Fancy Canary Club medal being secured by Mr. W. Pennington; while Messrs. Dobson and Son secured the Crested Canary Club 21s. special. Mr. T. Heath judged the Norwich, Crests, Cinnamons and Yorkshires, and his awards appeared to give every satisfaction.

Nests of birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

CROOK.

Fifth annual show of the Crook C.B.S. was held in the Temperance Hall on November 20th. The building is very suitable for the purpose, being of good height and well lighted. The secretary and committee were rewarded with a capital entry, and the hall was so packed with visitors all the afternoon that it was difficult at times to move about. The Yorkshire classes, as is now usual at shows in this district, filled well, and some very nice birds were staged. British birds were a very fine collection, and the Foreigners were much admired. Messrs. Wild-smith and Hawkins won cup for most points for members. Messrs. Bird and Siddle carried out the secretarial duties most efficiently and creditably. Mr. A. Brown judged, and appeared to give general satisfaction.

HULL.

The Hull C.B.S. held their 15th annual exhibition in the new Corn Exchange, on Nov. 19th and 20th. The hall is a splendid place in every respect, being lofty, well lighted, and entirely free from draught. Entries came up wonderfully well, totalling 645, this number being a record for the society, and over 100 more than they had ever had. And what a magnificent display of birds! The management is excellent. Every little detail receives its due attention. A huge staff of helpers worked splendidly under Mr. E. Ridley's guidance, and not a single hitch occurred. The popular and kindly Mr. G. Harland once again gave valuable help. Others who put in long hours in unpacking and re-packing the exhibits were Messrs. Barwick, Bunby, King, Pepper, Porter Stanford and Stones. In Mr. E. R. Ridley the society possesses a splendid secretary, hard-working, courteous, and most obliging to all, besides having a thorough knowledge of everything one requires to know in running such a large show. There was a capital entry in Norwich. We were struck with the splendid condition of nearly the whole of the exhibits. Cup for champion Nor. was won by Mr. G. Harland's "Queen of Queens," which, we heard, stood in the same position at Blaydon-on-Tyne and Newcastle. The Yorkshires were a grand display, most of the good ones being on view. The British birds were capital, a very fine entry being obtained. The management, staging and care of the birds were all that could be desired.

The show was opened by T. R. Fernes, Esq., M.P. for East Hull, after which the energetic secretary's charming little daughter, Miss Jessie Ridley, presented him, in a most graceful manner, with a beautiful bird and cage, which was suitably acknowledged. Grand weather favoured the event, and we were pleased to see such a large attendance at the opening, the show room (which was nicely decorated) being quite crowded. Mr. W. Vardy judged Norwich and Foreign, and Mr. E. Brunskill the remainder. Specials were won by: (Members' Novice Cup), Mr. Oliff, (Hyde's Special), Mr. Geo. Harland, 'Sandiford's, Mr. W. H. Moore, and others.

MILLOM.

The sixth annual exhibition of the Millom and Dis. F.A. was held on November 20th and 21st. Out of 24 classes scheduled, no fewer than ten were unfortunately cancelled. The Norwich and Brit. birds suffered most. Doubtless this was owing to the committee cancelling all classes that contained less than six entries, and only undertaking to pay full prize money on classes containing nine entries. We understand from the officials that this was an oversight in schedule, and in the interests of exhibitors will be altered another year, when we trust to see a better entry all round. The Central Hall, in which the show was held, is roomy, well lighted, apparently in every respect exceedingly suitable. The Committee who are all true fanciers, comprise Messrs. W. Park (chairman), F. Coulson, F. W. Bradley, H. Hewitson, T. Stone, W. J. Park, P. Davies, with Mr. W. J. Thomas, an obliging and courteous secretary. Judge, Mr. J. H. Roe. The members' cup for most points with three nominated birds was won by Mr. P. Davies.

MONTROSE.

The Montrose C.B.S. held their annual competition and exhibition on 20th November, in the Corn Exchange, Hume Street, one of the best halls for the purpose in the east of Scotland, it being commodious and comfortable, and well lighted from the top and sides, and absolutely free from draughts. All the exhibits could be viewed with comfort, which was to be appreciated. But it was to be regretted the entries were less than last year, there being nearly 200 birds, however. The committee comprise such well-known fanciers as (president) Mr. A. Mitchell, (vice-president) Mr. W. Turnbull, (treasurer) Mr. R. D. Wilkie, and Messrs. J. Dorward, J. Murray, A. Harris, and E. Harris. The secretary, Mr. John Clark, is a model official, whose tact and courtesy earned for him the respect and admiration of all who came in contact with him, and we congratulate the management on the business-like way in which they fulfilled their several tasks. There were 15 classes for Norwich, and there was an average of a little over 8 per class, many noted winners being amongst them. We noticed a well-known winner, a non-colour-fed buff cock, sitting today without a ticket. The judges were Messrs. A. Thomson and A. Steele (Aberdeen), and they had in several classes a very difficult job, but their awards seemed to give general satisfaction. The show was fairly well patronised by the public, and we hope to hear it was a financial success.

CAGE BIRDS, 151, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

COVENTRY.

Coventry O.S. held their 29th annual show at their headquarters, the Sydenham Palace, Ford Street, a room acknowledged by fanciers to be one of the best in the kingdom for a cage bird show. The entries came up exceedingly well, being 110 in advance of the previous year's. The quality was also above the average, especially in the Crested section. The classes for Norwich were exceptionally well filled; the entries numbered 427. A challenge cup was competed for between the Coventry O.S. and the Leicester Hand in Hand C.B.S., which caused a great amount of interest. The cup was competed for at Leicester, where the Leicester fanciers made twenty more points than Coventry, but on the present occasion the Coventry fanciers easily wiped off their deficiency of 20, and won with a good number of points in hand, and therefore hold the cup for 12 months. The president, Mr. Harris, made a short but interesting speech, explaining the nature of the cup competition, and saying how pleased he was that Coventry had won the cup for the first time. Mr. Walton, of Leicester, in handing over the cup, said he hoped it would be the means of creating friendship and rivalry between the two clubs; he was sorry they had lost, but he would do his best to see that it did not occur again. Mr. E. Fox (Long Eaton) then made a very interesting speech on behalf of the visitors. A letter of apology was received from Alderman A. H. Drinkwater, who was unable to be present to open the show. Mr. J. Corrall won the silver medal given by J. W. Ramsden for the best Norwich bird that has been moulted on Ramsden's pure pepper: J. R. Houghton won silver medal for best fed bird other than Norwich. The whole of the arrangements were well carried out by the energetic secretary, Mr. Geo. Peters, assisted by a committee (all well-known exhibitors) consisting of Messrs. J. Corrall, G. Lawrance, J. Shaddock, A. J. Barratt, W. Davis, T. Chillingsworth, and H. Aston, G. Clarke (hon. treasurer), A. J. Lucas and T. E. Waring (auditors), and the show stewards:—Messrs. J. Tipping, G. Coates, H. Wilkes, J. Hadley, E. Reasby, A. Paddock, J. Calcott, W. J. Rowley, H. Butler, W. Lissaman, F. Swift, W. Lucas, J. Symonds, T. Judd, G. Edwards, T. Symonds, G. Dickenson. Mr. J. H. Roe judged.

WINSFORD (Cheshire).

Fifth annual show, held in the Town Hall, November 20th. The cage bird section was nicely staged on the platform, where every exhibit could be seen without the necessity of handling, a practice, by the way, which is strictly forbidden at this show. As usual, British turned up in strong force, a large number being kept in this district. They were, without doubt, the feature of the show. Goldfinches were a grand lot, and the Linnets were also splendid. The Norwich and Yorks. were a little below the usual standard, both for quality and numbers. Mr. Oliver again held the secretarial reins, and right well did he handle them, having everything in apple-pie order, and being kind and obliging to all. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe judged.

DUNDALK.

The Dundalk C.B.S. achieved a great success with their third annual show, held in the Town Hall on Nov. 17th and 18th. This was a record show in every way, 546 exhibits, close on 200 entries increase on last year's. There was a good "gate" on the first day, and prospects appeared to be high for the balance sheet. With the new secretary, Mr. Gaskin, and Mr. Keating, new life has been infused into this society, with the result that this society so far holds the record for the largest number of entries this season. The president, Mr. Rowe, vice-president, Dr. Lavery, with a hard-working committee, had all ready in good time for the judge. The staging was on the three-tier principle, at a very convenient height, and the room is very cosy and comfortable. The awards were made by Mr. Willcock, and he was well served by a capable lot of stewards, headed by the vice-president, Dr. J. P. Lavery. They were kept fully employed until well into the afternoon. The show was held under the patronage of the Y.C.C., the Y.C.B.S., and the N.P.C.C. of Ireland. The valuable challenge cups, medals and specials were contested for. Yorkshires led the way, and some choice specimens were staged. The winner in Class 4 (Clear Buff Hen) was a ticked bird, and should surely have been wrong classed. Also in Class 2 (clear yellow hen), the winner (No. 19a) delighted us with a beautiful song while we were making our notes. Norwich were a very nice lot, although not quite up to last year's as regards numbers. Mules and Britishers were a grand lot, and the Foreign contained some very interesting specimens.

BARNSLEY.

Barnsley and Dist. C.B.S. held their annual exhibition on Nov. 20th. The large club room attached to the Clarence Hotel provided nice accommodation for the exhibits, being well lighted and of a very cosy description. The entries turned up surprisingly well, Yorkshires averaging over 20 per class, with a nice show of Norwich and a very fine assortment of British. The staging was neatness itself, and every bird could be seen at a glance. Those responsible are to be highly complimented, as every inch of room was utilised to the very best advantage. We were informed that the Y.S.C.A. had arranged to let the society hold the show in their building, but eight days previous to the function, countermanded the arrangement. The Barnsley officials are at a loss to know why this latch cropped up. Barnsley have, on past occasions, had to tide over rough times, but now, we are fully convinced, right men are at the helm, and the "sailings" will be far more smooth. They pull well together, and the future appears to be of the most rosy character. Every praise is due to the following workers: Messrs. T. Owen, M. E. Hinchcliffe, E. Thorpe, W. Allerton, and R. Jackson. All did their level best to help things along. The result attained must have been very gratifying to them. Mr. E. Carlisle, the worthy secretary, and Mr. J. Taylor (assistant) proved themselves a brace of most competent officials. By the manner in which they controlled the event, they proved they are true sportsmen, and the right men in the right places. The stewards were Messrs. J. Eyre and F. Race, and both executed their duties in a practical and straightforward manner. Instantly the classes were adjudicated upon, prize slips were affixed, and the exhibits carefully returned to the benches. Every detail was attended to quickly, and the show was opened prompt to time. The following are the special winners: Best Yorks., Messrs. Thornton and Bower; best Nor., Mr. A. Lloyd; best Novice York., Mr. W. Hudson; best Novice Nor., Mr. E. Robinson; best Brit., Mr. J. Milne; Ramsden's, Mr. A. Waters; Sandiford's, Mr. A. Haigh. Mr. J. C. Barnes judged, and his awards were well received.

How to Promote Your Hobby.

"CAGE BIRDS,"

Dec. 4th, 1909.

Three coupons of the same date entitle you to a free advertisement of 12 words in our "Sale and Exchange." All coupons of this date to be sent in by 1st post Friday, Dec. 10th (latest).

"SALE AND EXCHANGE" ADVERTISEMENTS FOR READERS WHO DISTRIBUTE TWO COPIES OF "CAGE BIRDS."

Novel Scheme to Benefit Our Readers and Ourselves.

Everyone at some time or another wants to sell some article for which he has no further use, or to exchange it for something he wants. Amongst the 50,000 other readers of "CAGE BIRDS" there must be some who are ready to buy from, or exchange with you.

To enable our readers to dispose of, purchase, or exchange various articles, we have decided to insert private advertisements free of charge for those who are willing to promote the circulation of "CAGE BIRDS." All you have to do is to get two extra copies of this week's issue, and give them to two friends who you know would be interested, tell them what your opinion of the paper is, and how much they too can benefit by the articles and advice contained in each issue. Send the coupon which appears on this page, from the two extra copies and your own—three coupons in all—together with the advertisement you want inserted. For three coupons sent bearing the same date, we will insert twelve words free of charge. Every additional word will be charged at ½d. per word. Not more than three coupons can be accepted for any single advertisement.

This plan benefits you by finding a market for anything you wish to dispose of, at a cost of only threepence, including postage, and benefits us by bringing "CAGE BIRDS" before new readers. We are helping you in return for your help towards the increase of our circulation.

If you have anything to Sell or Exchange fill in and post this Form, sending three coupons of the same date, for free insertion of twelve words, and stamps to cover additional words (½d. per word).

Please insert the following Advertisement in your next issue.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or, if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

UNDISPLAYED.—Three Words a Penny up to eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. MINIMUM, 12 words, 4d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Fourpence.

Headlines or Footlines 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6 according to size.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the Advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

MY CLAP NETS

Are made from the finest and strongest thread obtainable, and to convince you that they are put together better than any net advertised, I will send them carriage paid, 4yds. 5/-, 5yds. 6/-, 6yds. 7/-, 7yds. 8/-, 8yds. 9/-, 9yds. 10/-, 10yds. 11/-, all 6ft. deep, two nets to each pair, with pegs, poles, and pull lines; loose netting, ¾in. mesh, 7ft. deep 5d. yard, ¾in. mesh, 7ft. deep, 3d.; 10ft. deep, 4d. yard; bird brace swivels 2d., all post free.—Morris, 112, Cape-hill, Birmingham.

MY SELF-ACTING SPRING NET TRAPS

catch birds of every description without any attention, price 1/6; larger size, 2/-, carriage paid. I have received hundreds of testimonials stating they are worth double the money of any trap advertised. Read two, and beware of cheaper imitations that are not worth the cost of carriage: "Sir,—I received the net trap; it is honestly worth a dozen of some of the nets advertised. I tried it this afternoon and caught more birds in two hours than I have caught in other traps in two months.—George Matthews, Bird Catcher, 2, Lucas-street, Stockport." "Sir,—Trap arrived. It is far superior to all others. I have to-day caught fifteen Linnets, six Redpolls, four Chaffinches, three Greenfinches.—J. Scragg, The Old Brewery, Armitage-road, Rugeley." Entirely self-acting and self setting trap cages, warranted to catch birds and reset without attention, 1/6.—Henry Morris, 112, Cape-hill, Birmingham.

BOARDS BEAUTIFULLY PLANED.

can catch birds equally as well as the expert catcher providing he has the proper appliances, but let me tell you that nets which are only 3 feet deep are practically useless, as birds have time to fly out before you can pull nets over. All my clap nets are guaranteed 5½ feet deep, and to fly 4 feet high, this allows 18 inches of "kill," which is most essential part of nets, as all experienced catchers will tell you. This fact alone is sufficient to prove that my nets are by far the best on the market, but as they are the only nets on the market which are properly "geared," or "armed" all round, it naturally follows that for practical use they stand supreme. Clap nets, made from real thread netting, ¾ inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/-, 4 yards 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards, 11/- per pair; all guaranteed full measurement, and to be 5½ feet deep and 4 feet fly. Clap nets consist of 2 nets to the pair, and are fitted complete, with hemp lines, ash pegs, beech poles, and everything ready for immediate use. Hundreds of other sizes in stock. Send stamp for full list. Self-acting spring net traps, 18 inches long, 9d. each; ditto 24 inches long, 18 inches wide, 1/- each. These net traps are by far the largest and most effective traps on the market. Will catch and hold any bird, from Wren to Rook; are entirely different to any others on the market, can be baited for Hard or Softbills at same time, and call-bird can be used inside them, if required. (See testimonials below.) Bat folding Sparrow nets, fitted on 15 feet bamboo poles, 5/6 pair; ditto, on 17 feet poles, 6/- pair; ditto, on 19 feet poles, 6/6 pair, complete. Single trap cages, 6d. each; double ditto, 1/- each; treble ditto, 1/3 each; patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, guaranteed to automatically reset immediately each bird is caught, requiring no attention whatever, 1/6 each; round-topped call cages, 3d. each, 2/6 dozen; ditto, square-topped, 4d. each, 3/- dozen; all wire tops and wood bottoms. Real Japanese bird lime, ½ lb. 6d., ¼ lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/6; sample, 3d., all post free. This lime is the original Japanese lime, guaranteed the strongest lime made, and will hold any Hawk or Rook that flies. It will leave birds' feathers clean, and will stand any quantity of frost and rain. Real Italian hemp pull-lines, specially spun, without snarl or back twist, 68 yards long, 1/4 each, post free; Russian hemp lines, 80 yards long, 1/- each, post free, but not recommended for hard wear. Loose netting, specially knitted from fine thread, for bird netting, ¾ inch mesh, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard; ditto, 9 feet deep, 4d. yard; ditto, 12 feet deep, 5d. yard. Lark netting, 1½ inch mesh, 10 feet deep, 4d. yard, carriage paid. Full printed lists of all catching appliances and hints on net making, send one stamp. See following letters, which prove my statements for me:—Gillyburn Cottage, Banff, November 13th. Sir,—Received trap cage and net trap safely, and am highly delighted with them both. Please send following. Yours, T. Raffan." "303, Grosvenor Road, Belfast, November 10th. Sir,—Please send clap nets as follows. I had some nets, etc., from you last year which pleased me, and all who saw them. Yours, S. Hill." "17, Grove Street, Norton Malton, November 9th. Sir,—Please send ½ lb. lime. I have tried all the other dealers, and I fail to find the right lime like I had from Mr. Markham two years ago. I had it set 14 days in frost and snow, and then I caught two Hawfinches with it. He told me to-day that he got that lime from you, so I am sending for some. Yours, M. Burgess." "Windmill Row, Carlton, November 4th. Sir,—I am very pleased with the netting. Please send another 8 yards. Yours, S. Armstrong." "Meal Bank, Kendal, October 26th. Sir,—I duly received net trap, and am delighted with results. It is a marvel, every time I or my boys have set it we have made a capture, and have already caught two birds which we had previously tried to catch by various means many times. Wishing you a large sale for your marvellous spring net traps. Yours, Thos. Crossley." "9, Harbour-rd., Larne Harbour, Ireland, October 29th. Sir,—Have tried clap nets this morning, and they work all right. Yours, J. Harte." "30, Cambridge Street, Doncaster, October 29th. Sir, I am delighted with spring net trap, it is a marvel, cheap at double the price. Thanks for straightforward manner you despatched it. Yours, F. Rimington." Please note, I do not talk of thousands of testimonials and never publish one as proof. I publish more testimonials than all others together. Everything is sent on approval at my risk, on receipt of cash, or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and I ask all intending purchasers to try my appliances against those from elsewhere at higher prices, and keep those that suit the best. All my men are bird catchers as well as net makers, and so know exactly what is required for successful catching. All the leading professional catchers throughout the world are using nets, etc., supplied by me, so if I can suit them, I know I can suit you. See British Bird and Roller Canary Columns for other advertisements.

What You See Here

Fresh specimen opinions taken from many others. Please note dates.

"29, Chilham Road, Walkden, near Manchester, November 26th, 1909. The Goldfinch and Canary hen arrived safely this morning. I am highly pleased with them. They are a pair of beauties, and no mistake. Thanking you for promptness. G. Cheetham to W. Rudd.

"Ashdell," St. John Street, Bridlington, November, 28th, 1909.—I received the cock Siskin yesterday, and thank you for prompt attention to my small orders. J. G. Davenport to W. Rudd.

Kilker, Co. Clare, Ireland, November 25th, 1909.—Goldfinch arrived here last evening in splendid condition. I am highly pleased with my purchase, and your selection. He only came to hand last evening, and this morning was perched on my hand picking seeds out of a thistle head held between my fingers. I would not take £1 from anyone for him. E. Southwood to W. Rudd.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, November 29th, 1909.—Dr. —— acknowledges with thanks the arrival of Cheveril and Siberian Goldfinches, both in good condition, and giving every satisfaction. To W. Rudd.

I have several white-legged and genuine proved mulers and Goldfinches and Linnets, that will give every satisfaction, besides others, including some good Siberian Goldfinch cocks, at 4/6, 5/6, 6/6, 8/6, upwards. Cages 3d. extra. Now for other Bullfinches, Goldfinches, Siskins, or Linnets you are wanting? I have some of the best seen this season, and respectfully ask you to allow me to submit you my illustrated price list.

THE HUMAN LINNET.

Gentlemen,—I am not a self-made Linnet king, but get my title from "Cage Birds." There is not a dealer in England can teach you more about a Linnet than I. I have sat judge at hundreds of contests, and won more prizes than any British dealer in the world. I am constantly sending winners out. I take an interest in my birds, hence my title. Beautiful cock Linnets, singing hard, 1/- each; a few, will sing anywhere, 1/6; cock Linnets, with cage, been used to catching, and my secret of making them mad in song, 2/-; bargains. Cock Linnets, taught under my well-known champion on quality song, 2/6; cannot be beaten if you gave 7/6 elsewhere. Big exhibition cock Linnets, Norwich type, with feathers like silk, finger tame, 1/- each; specials 1/6 each. My specials are winning all before them. Yorkshire specimen Pear Tree cock Goldfinches, beautiful win bars, deep square cut blaze, only 2/6 and 3/- each; a few extra gems at 3/6; cost 7/6 elsewhere, and then cannot be beaten. Cock Bullfinches, in splendid condition, real pictures for shape, size and colour, 2/6; a real gem only 3/-. Real massive hens, 1/- each. Greenfinches, like paint, 1/- each. Chaffinches, real gems, impossible to beat at double the money, only 1/- and 1/6 each. St. Andreasberg Rollers, singing day and gaslight, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each. Look! Grand shop attraction. Cock Lark, singing beautifully, 1/6, with beautiful bow front Lark cage, only 4/6. "Cleveragh, Sligo, Ireland,—Sir,—Enclosed P.O. for Linnet; the one you sent me before gave every satisfaction, and won several prizes.—Mr. W. Ross, to Fred Allen." Mr. Ross received Linnet, and writes: "The Linnet is a good bird, and I like him well." I could fill a page with testimonials. All my birds are on seven full days' approval, cash or deposit. Please give me a trial order, and I guarantee you will never regret it, no matter how hard you are to please. I am no imitation. Thanking you all for patronage.—Fred Allen, Bird Specialist and Judge, Porter-st. Aviaries, Hull.

BIRD CATCHERS.

What next. One of these wise heads now says that nets 3ft. wide are useless for catching birds. No doubt that is correct, with the cheap, shoddy kind, but with down-to-date improvements, they eclipse all others for the lightning speed they come over. Escape of a bird is impossible. We leave the readers of "Cage Birds" to judge our word for that. Our motto is: Live and Let Live—and we respect all the little men. There is, and always will be, a great demand for high-class catching appliances, at a fair price. We never puzzle our brains about supplying the biggest trap at the lowest price. Our greatest aim is to invent something that can be packed in a small compass, not forgetting that it shall be the most effective on the market, and we claim that in our new illustrated Catalogue, ready next month, that nets and traps therein will be the best ever placed on the market, and, above all, they are our own inventions. Copyists get ready.

Whittaker's Contest Rollers

During the past three years I won three silver cups, 18 B.R.C.C. medals, and over 100 other prizes, yet I do not pose as the pioneer of the fancy, nor say my Rollers are the highest excellence. One win in open and then such bounce is not my game. I am not showing this year, but I have already sold more winners than these bouncers have had in all their life, I have for sale some of the best hens in the world, birds that I have bred and used for my own breeding, 1907, 1908, and 1909 rung, Birds, from 3/- to 5/6; singing cocks from 8/6; stock cocks from 15/-; contest birds to 50/-. I am not asking fancy prices, and it is impossible to get better blood; send stamp for particulars.—Whittaker, Rose-st., Moses-gate, near Bolton.

£10 FOR YOU

or anyone else that can prove that the testimonials given below are not thoroughly genuine, and entirely unsolicited. These letters prove without shadow of doubt which is really the best singing Roller on the market. I have an enormous stock of pure Leipzig Rollers, direct from Hans Weber, of Leipzig, all in full song, day and gaslight, with long, hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water-bubble runs, soft roulades, piccalo trills, bell, harp, flute and gong notes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or chopping notes whatever, price 6/- and 7/- each. Special Schoolmasters, which are very soft, melodious singers, and excel in the deep bass, and hollow bell rolls, 10/-, and 12/6 each. Leipzig Roller hens, 2/- each, 3/6 couple; also a few genuine Seifert contest masters, fit to win contests immediately, 15/-, 17/6, and 21/- each; pure Seifert hens, 2/6 each, two 4/6; these contest birds are guaranteed of the original Seifert blood (not merely Seifert in name only), and among them are birds which have actually won contests in Germany. I also have an enormous collection of loud, free singing Hartz cocks, all in full, free vigorous song, price 4/6 each, seven for 28/-; Hartz hens, 2/6 couple. These Hartz cocks are real ceiling-lifters, and just the thing where plenty of noisy song is required. Roller box cages, 1/-, 1/2, 1/4, 1/9, and 2/- each; special Roller cabinet cages, with folding doors, 2/6 each. Please notice name and address, with date given with each letter below:—"10, Grayson Street, Bradford, Manchester, November 15th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller on Friday, and am proud of him, he is a splendid songster, with nice, soft rolls, etc. I have paid 20/- for one not half as good as him. Yours, W. Tovy." "11, Wade Avenue, Larklands, Ilkeston, November 9th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig Roller. The one I had from you two years ago is still singing as well as ever. He is one of the best I ever heard or had, and I have had a few from different firms. The Hartz cock I had few weeks ago is turning out a champion. Yours, E. Aldred." On November 12th Mr. Aldred again writes: "Sir, Leipzig Roller to hand. Thanks kindly for prompt attention, and also for selection. He is a grand bird, and sings most beautifully. I shall do my best to recommend you." "52, Skipton Road, Earby, via Colne, November 12th. Sir.—Leipzig Roller is a splendid bird, it commenced singing directly I unpacked it. I have several other birds here which cost much more money, but I wouldn't exchange him for the lot of them. Yours, P. Watson." "106, West Street, Glasgow, November 15th. Sir, Roller arrived in very pink of condition, and gives entire satisfaction in every way. Thanks for prompt attention. Yours, W. Collins." "35, Orford Street, Buttermarket Street, Warrington, November 13th. Sir,—Many thanks for bird. It is a good one. It is singing all day, and as soon as gas is lighted it starts again, and is doing splendid. I also thank you for prompt dispatch and cheapness of bird. It is a beauty at price. Yours, T. Miller." "Globe Hotel, Blaina, Mon., November 12th. Sir,—Roller arrived safe, and started singing as soon as unpacked. Yours, J. Jones." "2, London Road, Tooting Junction, November 11th. Sir,—Roller to hand. It has been singing all day. I am thoroughly satisfied and must compliment you on the clean way you send birds out. Some send them with feet all clogged with excrement. I must admit I have paid more for inferior birds. Yours, A. Sammons." "Broomhill, Honiton, Devon, November 11th. Sir,—I am most pleased with Leipzig Roller cock. He is a real marvel, singing morning till night; I shall be most pleased to recommend anyone wanting a good Roller to you. I must thank you for prompt dispatch. Yours W. Criddeford." "The Station, Fordingbridge, Hants, November 5th. Sir,—Leipzig Roller received safe, and singing beautifully. Many thanks for manner you treated me. Please send following. Yours, P. Bartlett." "44, Loughboro' Park, Brixton, November 8th. Sir,—Have decided to keep bird you kindly sent for trial. I am very pleased with it, and shall certainly order again shortly. Yours, W. Greenwood." "Cwmgarw Road, Brynamman, November 8th. Sir,—Rollers to hand. Thanks for your selection and proper packing. They give me very great satisfaction. I shall send for more shortly. Yours, Johnny Evans." "242, Price Street, Birkenhead, November 6th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller in best of condition. It is a marvellous singer; you cannot get such value round here for 9/-, let alone 6/-. Thanking you very much. Yours, C. Ellis." "53, Scolefield Lane, Wigan, November 4th. Sir,—Many thanks for sending such nice bird. The cock sings nicely. I should think you are the man everyone is looking for who wants a bird good and cheap. It is not the first time I have proved your offers to be genuine. Thanking you for favours past and present. Yours J. Simms." "Bermuda Cottage, Warren Road, Guildford, November 3rd. Sir,—Seven Hartz cocks received safely, and am very pleased with them, they sing lovely. Many thanks for sending such good songsters. Yours, T. Moore." I could fill this page with similar letters to above, and all unsolicited. I only ask all intending purchasers to have a Leipzig Roller from me, and a Roller from elsewhere, at any higher price, test them side by side for a week, and keep one which suits the best. I am the sole importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, and no other dealer can sell you one feather of this strain unless he has purchased it from me. All are stamped on wing "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and are safely and warmly packed, with seed and water to last 48 hours, free of extra charge, and sent on full week's trial, entirely at my own risk during whole time, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money freely and fully refunded if entire satisfaction not given. Remember this, when dealing with me you are dealing with a man that has been a continuous advertiser for past 18 years, with a reputation second to none for straightforward and honest transactions. No connection whatever with any other advertiser. See British Bird and Appliance Columns for further interesting items.

SONGSTERS.

Thousands now on hand, specially selected, not haphazard birds; quality sent to each, according to price sent, and in all cases, the best I can do, and what I cannot do in this line, no other man (or fictitious trader) can in the world. Norwich, Yorkshires. Note prices—6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-. I also have good free songsters at the low price of 4/- (four shillings), and 4/6 each. Cages 3d. extra, and all sent on one week's approval to any part of Great Britain. I pay all carriage back, and either refund your money in full, or exchange the bird, whichever you prefer. This seems to me straight sailing enough for any reasonable person to be satisfied with. See my advertisement on page 471.

Cwm, Mon., November 26th, 1909.—Bird safe to hand. I am quite satisfied with it, as it commenced to sing as soon as opened. G. White to W. Rudd.

Black Park, Chirk, Ruabon, November 22, 1909.—Thanks for prompt attention, the bird arrived in excellent condition, and started to sing at once. He is singing like a Briton, as I am writing this. I am very pleased with him. I shall recommend you as a straightforward gentleman. I have had a few listening to him, and they say he is a beauty. W. A. Dunn to W. Rudd.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

HARTZ MOUNTAIN ROLLERS,

not common Belgian, guaranteed pure Hartz, price 5/- each, two 9/6, seven 30/-; hens, 1/6, two 2/6. These are imported direct from the Hartz Mountains, and properly trained. Note—We have thousands of testimonials, and are patronised by all the Crystal Palace Judges, including Judges Bexson, Payne, Battye, Roe, Barnes, Vardy, etc., etc. Send for new catalogue and testimonials for proof.

Just read these testimonials. All come over 200 and 300 miles away, and £20 given anyone if not real. Can be seen any time. "Mr. Patterson, Cork, Ireland.—Sir,—Glad to tell you Roller you sent me won the All-Ireland Roller singing contest here." "Mr. W. Burl, London, October 25th. Sir, Hartz cock arrived safe, and started singing directly unpacked, and sang ever since." "Mr. Bagot, Glenny, Dublin.—Sir,—I am well pleased with Roller. He has sang continually ever since he came, day and night." "Mr. J. Campbell, Dublin,—Thanks for promptitude ing sending Roller and cage within a couple of days from sending you the order. The bird was in Dublin singing for all he was worth." "Mr. D. McCorquadall, Greenock, Scotland.—Received Roller and cage all safe. He was singing half an hour after he arrived, and best singer I ever had, cage is a suitable one, and cheap." "Mr. Knight, Kilmarnock, October,—Hartz cock arrived all right, and a beautiful bird, and a champion singer. I got a Goldfinch from you which lived 11 years." These are only a few I have picked from long-distances, have thousands others. I guarantee to give you every satisfaction; so order at once.

If you want some testimonials, send to me, and I will send you some just as received this week.

All kinds of singing cages, song boxes, etc., in stock.

Just two examples given as specimens of what my this season's Rollers are like:—

South Shields, November 29th, 1909,—Following my acknowledgement of receipt of Roller, should like to say that the bird is eminently satisfactory in every respect, in spite of his long, cold journey. R. W. Vanderhen to W. Rudd.

Duntocker, November 29th, 1909,—Received Hartz Roller in good conditon. It started singing at once. It has a splendid song, and sweet. I am highly delighted with it. D. Ramsey to W. Rudd.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

TURN OVER.

If you will carefully turn over the question of where to get the best possible value at the lowest possible prices, you will give this small announcement your most careful attention. Singing Canaries are my speciality. I have bred, trained and imported direct many thousands, and know exactly what you require. It is quite possible to get the same quality birds at much higher prices, but it is utterly impossible to get such good quality at lower prices. My stock of St. Andreasburg, Trute, and Seifert Rollers are second to none. The quality of my birds defy competition. Genuine trained birds free from harsh or choppy notes. Cocks in full song, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6; pure Roller hens, 2/6, 3/- each. If you want a high-class loud songster my Hartz cocks will delight you. The best loud free, day and gaslight songsters in the world: cocks, 5/3, 5/9, 6/3 each; matched pairs, 7/6, 8/6. Send stamp for my illustrated price list of Rollers, Yorkshires, Norwich, Border fancies, etc. Neat travelling cages, 3d. each extra, and make a special note of the fact that I send all my Canaries carriage paid on seven clear days' approval at my risk, and guarantee every customer satisfaction.—Miss E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

THE CELEBRATED PRESTON

are this season better than ever, which is saying a great deal, seeing the large number of prizes these Rollers have won of late years, and the hundreds of testimonials we have received for their excellence of song. Many and varied changes with their long runs, and real musical notes. The price is still the same to all, 15/- each, and they cannot be beaten at double the money.

We send them on 14 day's trial at Our Risk.

DEPOSIT YOUR MONEY WITH EDITOR, and don't buy Rollers on any other terms from anyone, then you can't be imposed on.

Try one of these Contest Rollers alongside of one costing double the money from any other dealer, and we shall get the order. COMPARISON INVITED. Real St. Andreasberg Schoolmasters are only 10/6 and 12/6 each; Hartz Mountain cock Canaries, in full song, 4/6 and 6/8 each, all on approval.

Trade supplied; we are the largest dealers in the North of England. Send for catalogue, post free. Anything alive bought, sold, or exchanged. Patronised by Royalty.

Write—
GEORGE TAYLOR, The Bird Specialist, 3, Thornton-rd., Bradford
For Prize-bred Yorkshires and Norwich.

Those fanciers desirous of obtaining good class Yorkshires, should remember my stock is large, varied and choice. I have recently added four large stocks, being the entire birdroom contents of four of our best-known local breeders. My aviaries contain no artificial heat, and are lighted throughout by electricity. Customers, therefore, can rest assured that only healthy, hardy, and robust specimens are sent out. I have some clinking specimens, just the sort to breed champions, perfect type, and feathered like wax, including some grand Yorkshire cocks, that can win at local or members' shows, at 12/6, 15/-, 20/- and 25/-, colour-fed to perfection; Buff Yorkshire cocks, at 4/9, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- upwards; yellow Yorkshire cocks, at 5/6, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6 upwards; buff and yellow hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, in clears, cinnamon ticked, pure cinnamons, and greens, and a few evenly marked. Properly matched pairs, matched to breed your own winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- and 21/- upwards.

Plainhead Norwich, colour-fed or natural colour, at the same prices as Yorkshires, including many that have won, and that can win again, in good company.

CRESTED and CREST-BRED NORWICH.—Cocks and hens, at 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- and 25/-; matched pairs, cock and hen, 12/6, 15/-, 21/-, 25/-.

Lancashires, Coppies, and Plainheads, grand birds at right prices; see current price list. Specially selected Yorkshire and Norwich songsters, at 6/-, 7/6 and 10/- each.

In addition to the above, Scotch Fancies, Lizards, Border Fancies, Cinnamons, Dutch Frills, cage-moulted Linnets and Goldfinches, and Sib-bred hens. Further large arrivals of Hartz Mountain Rollers, Siberian Goldfinches, etc. Remember, full week's approval with every bird sent out. Travelling cages, 3d. extra.

My 52 page Descriptive Catalogue, which fully describes and illustrated cages, aviaries, etc., printed in colours, and has been described by fanciers and the Press to be the most complete and compact birdy catalogue published gratis and post free, or current price list of birds only, post free.—

If You Don't Want Them

They are dear, but if you do
THEY ARE THE

ever offered in this paper. I have an extra large stock, mind you.

The Largest Collection in the World, and from this present collection, which can be seen alive, and not merely on paper, I am prepared to send such value as I have never been able to do before, and that is saying a good deal; in fact, it spells a wonderful deal. The prices are not new, it is the superlative quality.

My special matched pairs of prize-bred Norwich Plainheads at 18/6, 12/6, 15/-, and 20/-; Crested ditto, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, and 30/-; Yorkshires, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, and 20/-; Lancashires, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-; Cinnamons, 8/6, 9/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-; Lizards, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-; Border Fancies, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6.

To Beginners.

If you cannot afford a big price, send for a pair of my correctly matched Norwich at 8/6 or 9/6; and now note this.—In most cases where you send for pairs at this price, you are sent two buffs, often both marked birds—this is where you do not get what is required—well, I send you one marked, and one clear, one buff, and the other yellow. Travelling cage 3d. extra. Then for 3/6 I will send you a Double Breeding Cage, fitted with everything complete, for an immediate start. Total for Birds and Cage 12/3 for 8/6 birds, or 13/3 for 9/6 birds. But I would strongly recommend you to have my Cage No. 169; it has sand drawers, and is fitted with sanitary furniture throughout, and the price is only 5/-.

Unsolicited, up-to-date opinions, just taken, as usual, from many others at random, but the full dates are given, and all originals with official post marks, at all times open for inspection, with thousands of others.

North Road, Hatfield, November 26th, 1909.—The buff Norwich cock to hand, safe and sound. Very pleased with same. Thanking you for your prompt attention. F. Harradine to W. Rudd.

Ivy Dene Cottages, Hutshill, Atherstone, November, 22nd, 1909.—I received the bird safe. It was all right, and as lively as could be. I am quite delighted with it. I really think I got my money's worth this time. I have been taken in by others, but not in this one. I shall be pleased to recommend you to any of my friends. J. Barnard to W. Rudd.

Piper Lane, Thirsk, November 27th, 1909.—Received bird in grand condition; am highly satisfied with it. I think it a beauty. Thanking you for prompt attention. E. Hagley to W. Rudd.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, November 25th, 1909.—Many thanks for birds. I am very pleased with them indeed. They are excellent value for the money. Y. A. C., to W. Rudd.

22, Grange Avenue, Stockton-on-Tees, November 27th, 1909.—Bird arrived safely this morning. Thanking you for your good choice. W. Wheeler to W. Rudd.

15, Whitby Street, Wisbech, November 21st, 1909.—I am pleased to say received birds safe, and am very pleased with same. If at any time I am wanting any more I shall certainly deal with you. F. Charity to W. Rudd.

7, Blythswood Road, Goodmayes, November 26th, 1909. The seven days' approval being over, I must say I am very satisfied with the Norwich Canary bought from you. It sings beautifully. E. Blake to W. Rudd.

Warden's Lodge, Homes of St. Barnabas, near East Grinstead, November 26th, 1909.—The birds have arrived safely, and I am very pleased with them. I shall certainly recommend you to my friends. S. Clements to W. Rudd.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all time to send my Parrots on four week's trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among Grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard.
